RADIO'S MEGA-TRENDS

This year could be a breakout one for terrestrial radio, when innovative thinking yields new and surprising plans for holding onto listeners and advertisers. To that end, Billboard Radio Monitor offers this food for thought.

FM TALK, NEWS/TALK PROLIFERATE

The migration of news and talk to FM is the trend to watch in 2006. CBS Radio's launch of "Free FM" is one variation on the theme. The other is the switchover of all-news, news/talk and sports talk to the younger-skewing FM band.

Two other aspects to this trend are the rise of sports talk on FM and the move to bring more talk programming into some of the key dayparts of music-intensive radio.

Ultimately, these changes are terrestrial radio's direct challenge to the increased competition from wireless entertainment alternatives.

All of this is designed to give listeners something they cannot get anywhere else; something local, perhaps, or, if not local, at least something unique.

Another variation on FM talk is what Billboard Radio Monitor has dubbed "modern talk."

In Seattle, Entercom developed KQBZ (the Buzz), which has the tag line "radio for guys." The Buzz is one of several modern talk stations without Howard Stern, powered by a mix of local fare and such syndicated hosts as Tom Leykis and John & Jeff.

Entercom VP of news, talk and sports programming Ken Beck sees modern talk as "a format unto itself."

"Traditional talk, hot talk, sports talk—whatever type, basically the format is migrating to where the audience is," Beck says. FM talk continues to grow because "we're kind of running out of flavors" for music-intensive radio.

ROCK FLAVORS BLEND

As this story was written, New York's last full-time current rock station was in its death throes. Infinity's WXRK will be "Free FM" by the time you read this, and such bands as System of a Down, the White Stripes and Korn will not be heard regularly in the Big Apple for the foreseeable future. As rock and modern rock stations alike disappear, the line between active and modern has become increasingly blurred.

With fewer rock stations overall, many of these are trending mass appeal and mainstream. Regent simulcast WQBK/WQBJ Albany, N.Y., just flipped from active rock to mainstream following Howard Stern's departure. Saga's active rock mainstay WLZR Milwaukee flipped to a classic-based library as WHQG (the Hog) in 2005 as well. "I think we're going to see more 'middle of the rock' stations, just because few markets are going to support an entire rock wall now," Edison Media Research VP of music and programming Sean Ross says.

Being mainstream is not necessarily a bad thing. Ross calls Clear Channel modern rock WWDC (DC101) Washington, D.C., a good example of a station that can play Gorillaz, Breaking Benjamin and AC/DC. "I also think there are opportunities in some markets for modern rock to double as the pop CHR/hot AC, which DC101 does, and some markets where the pop CHR is going to end up being the one that plays Weezer," he adds.

STATION TRADING

Media Venture Partners is one of several brokerage firms with longstanding ties to radio. One trend that MVP co-founder and managing director Elliot Evers sees is "the general rotation of the industry from a growth play to a value play. We're seeing slower top-line revenue growth for all the reasons that are discussed every day, but radio is still a good business with a fair amount of free cash flow."

In other words, even if advertising revenue growth slows to 2% per year, the percentage of that revenue translated into operating profits is still significantly high, especially when compared with other industries. It is that sustained, higher profit margin that continues to bring new investors to radio.

New investors and lenders means more competition, effectively pushing some of the traditional lenders off to the side.

Ultimately, this stepped-up competition means there is more money available to fund acquisitions. More money means more deals. One area where this has already proved true is with Hispanic radio groups. Aside from major companies like Entravision, Univision and Spanish Broadcasting System, smaller groups are arriving on the scene.

Peter Davidson's Davidson Media is one example. The group formed in 2005 and started its portfolio with six stations. As of late 2005, Davidson owned and operated 22 stations in 18 markets.

Frank Kalil, founder of media brokerage Kalil & Co., says that he expects to see "some of the public companies go private," suggesting that the low cost and the inherent value of the underlying assets will take those companies off the public stock exchanges. Kalil also expects to see "big, non-broadcast companies getting into radio and TV ownership."

THE PUSH TO PODCAST

Rush Limbaugh is doing it. Al Franken is doing it. NPR is doing it, and so is Citadel country KIIM Tucson, Ariz. Sirius Satellite Radio has a show dedicated to it, and CBS Radio has a whole station—KYCY San Francisco (KYOU Radio)—devoted to it. What is it? Podcasting.

This new content delivery platform debuted in 2004, but the word podcasting moved quickly into the vernacular last year.

The truth is that podcasting is a double-edged sword. While it allows listeners to hear a show or a segment they might have missed on your station, it also offers an alternative to listening to your station. The trick will be to use podcasting to brand your station, build loyalty and make a buck, while retaining listenership.

Among advertisers, the talk about podcasting is getting louder, even though it is not a line item in media plans. And many agencies see media companies as the key beneficiaries.

In the end, the ability for stations and their parent companies to develop new revenue streams using the medium will determine whether it will be seen as friend or foe.

Holland Cooke, news talk specialist for consultancy McVay Media, says the way in which Limbaugh approaches his podcasts might make radio stations think twice about where his loyalties lie. Cooke believes Limbaugh is exhorting listeners to purchase his podcasts, which contain all three hours of his daily show, and to bypass local radio. In addition, his "Morning Update," a daily 90-second feature, is now available to subscribers as a video podcast the night before it is available to affiliates.

HERE COMES HD2

Close to 300 new digital radio stations will sign on during the first quarter as the most important radio development since the Telecommunications Act of 1996 takes flight. Roughly 70 HD2 channels are now up and running, and an average of eight to 12 more per market are expected in 28 markets this quarter, including most of the top 25.

"The whole idea of the HD2 selection process is to end up with an additional array of formats that are unique, diverse and non-duplicative, based on what is or isn't available in the market today," says Peter Ferrara, president/CEO of the High Definition Radio Alliance, which formed in 2005. Look for brand extensions and formats that have nothing to do with the mothership station.

While coalition channels will be "locally driven and managed," Ferrara says "companies will look to their internal resources to help amortize some of their costs." That means Infinity could use Westwood One for talent and services, should it launch an HD2 format in multiple markets. Some networks, such as Premiere or Jones, will emerge as "content providers," Ferrara adds. "But the majority of operators will be programming [HD2] themselves, just like they do their own radio stations."

Stations selected to launch HD2 first will be the ones with the best signals and the highest ratings. This blowtorches-first strategy is predicated on stations with the widest coverage areas and largest audiences being best-equipped to market and promote the new service.

—PAUL HEINE

ACCOUNTABILITY

Blame it on Eliot Spitzer, but the new watchword for 2006 is "accountability."

The New York state attorney general's probe into payola, and the settlements he struck last year with Sony BMG and Warner Music Group, are affecting all of the music business. Programmers and label reps alike say that among the key differences in the way they do business is more paperwork, as businesses endeavor to leave a paper trail proving all of their dealings are aboveboard.

One PD says the result of the Spitzer probe is "a lot of cover-your-ass paperwork."

A country consultant agrees, saying the result has been "more red tape," which makes it "harder for honest people to do business."

Another PD says that while the "process of getting a promotion done has become more tedious, on the positive side it has taught us more accountability." Yet another says he has noticed "more structure" in the label/radio promotion process, but he calls that a good thing.

Many broadcasters agree. In Billboard Radio Monitor's 2005 year-end programmers poll, 44% of those surveyed said they thought the Spitzer probe has been good for the radio industry, and 54% said it has been good for the record business.

LABEL

LEADERS

In a business where label executives come and go, Billboard Radio Monitor takes a look at six veterans who continue to innovate the way that record companies do business—with their artists, the public and radio.

CHARLIE WALK, PRESIDENT, EPIC RECORDS

When Epic president Charlie Walk stepped into the music industry 17 years ago, the business dogma was pretty straightforward: get records on the radio and music videos on TV.

That was then.

The former senior VP of promotion for Sony sister Columbia Records, who was promoted to head Epic in October, recognizes that the ball game is more like juggling today.

“More than ever, we have to find the kids and people that love music and get in front of their faces,” Walk says. “With technology as the driving force, it’s about cell phones, Blackberries, text messaging and the Internet. Consumers go online and suss out for themselves what they like. There are so many places to find out about music that it takes longer to get the masses to buy into any particular brand. There are literally hundreds of outlets now. And kids are hunting and discovering things for themselves. Word-of-mouth is more powerful than anything else. Radio still plays an important part, but the art of discovery is very different now; it’s very fragmented.”

Epic was founded in 1953 as part of what was then CBS Records. Walk is braced by the label’s robust history.

“Epic is blessed with great artists. We’re seeing true artist development with Modest Yahoo, which is on the verge of breaking into the mainstream. There’s Chayanne, whom I think could be one of the most important artists of our generation.”

Walk’s vision is to foster further innovation. “I want to make Epic a diversified label and build upon the incredible base and artist development structure that the company has had over the years. We need to embrace more urban music and be able to be a full-service label for all genres of music.”

He also promises to protect such staples as Celine Dion, who was the Grammy Award-grabbing premiere artist on the now-closed Sony imprint 550 Records fewer than five years ago.

In a more universal sense, he vows to up Epic’s ante on delivering top-notch product, and making it available to multiple platforms.

“The most important thing I have to do is to be in charge of quality control. Good isn’t good enough. I want to be in the great business,” Walk says. “If it takes a little longer to break what’s great, it’s worth it. How many times these days do you hear a pop record and within 10 seconds you get goose bumps? That’s what great is.” —CHUCK TAYLOR

SKIP BISHOP, VP OF NATIONAL PROMOTION, ARISTA NASHVILLE

A veteran record promoter with a long and successful track record, Skip Bishop was largely unknown to country radio when he replaced Bobby Kraig as VP of national promotion at Arista Nashville last October.

His background included a stint as senior VP of promotion at MCA Records in Los Angeles and 10 years with RCA Records in New York, where he rose through the ranks from regional to VP to interim senior VP.

Prior to joining Arista Nashville, Bishop briefly worked at Christian music company Provident Label Group, where he was VP of mainstream promotion and marketing. Before that, he spent eight years as CEO of the independent radio promotion firm Bishop Bait & Tackle.

But Bishop insists his career history “isn’t as all over the place as it appears. They’re all music gigs,” he says. “I’ve always been on the front line in the army of God’s universal language.”

When asked what skills he brings to Arista, Bishop says, “The best thing I can bring is my unwavering love for music. I’ve believed for years that if you’ve come here to make money, go sell shoes or trade on Wall Street. Come with us to create, grow and believe in music. If we do it well, tons of money will be a byproduct.”

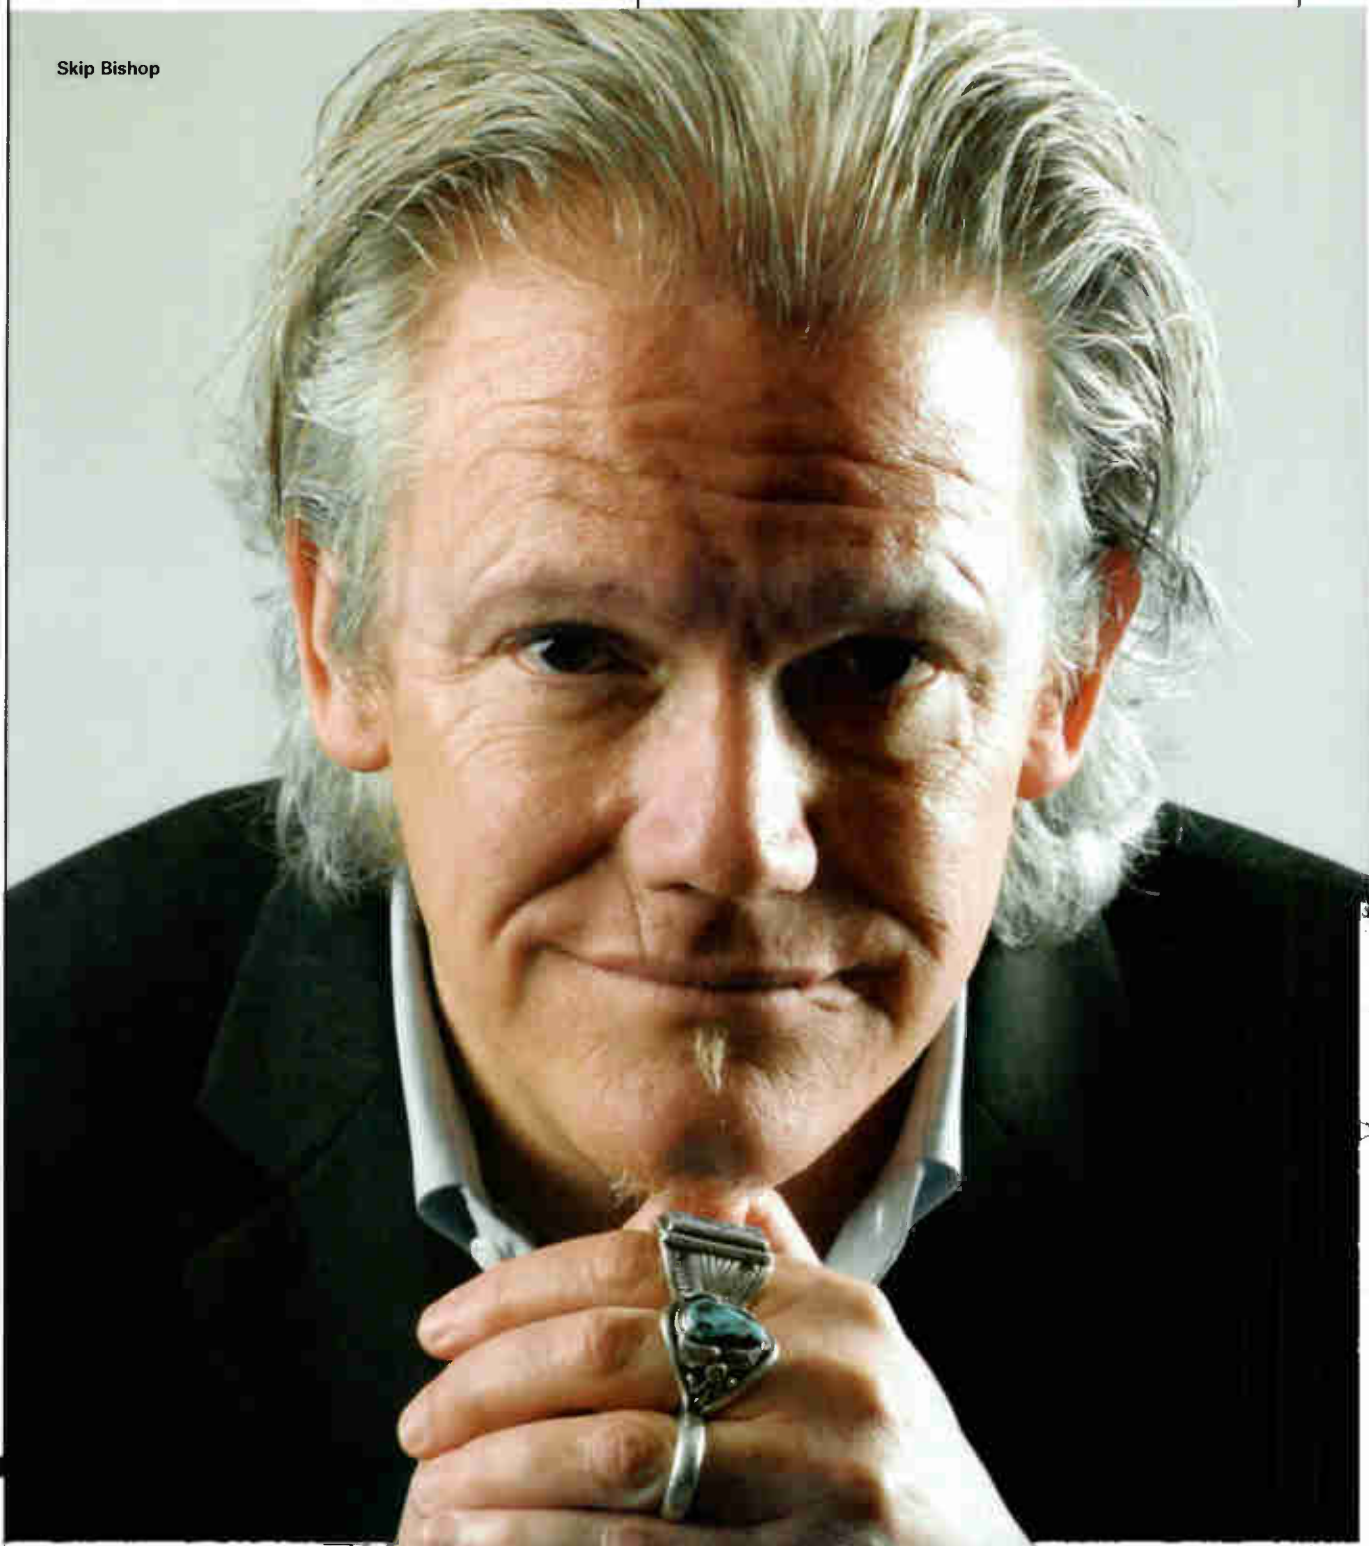

Bishop says taking the job at Arista was “a no-brainer.” Butch Waugh, executive VP of Arista Nashville parent RCA Label

Group, is his best friend, and Bishop says the two “have always had a Lerner & Loewe, Mick & Keith, Lewis & Clark, Simon & Garfunkel, Tom & Jerry kind of working groove going.”

With his long background in pop promotion, Bishop immediately noticed some key differences in the country world. People who work in country music, he says, “are who they are. No pretense. Good, solid people who love their jobs and respect the folks who are sailing in the same boats.”

At Arista, he says he has “challenged this brilliant staff” to “rewrite the promotion guidebook. We are all on the eve of a critical evolution,” he says. “Instead of receiving the memo on the ‘new promotion,’ we are writing it. Our goal is to protect the Arista legacy through the most creative, cutting-edge ideas conceivable.” —PHYLLIS STARK

Skip Bishop

RICK SACKHEIN, SENIOR VP OF PROMOTION, ISLAND/DEF JAM MUSIC GROUP

When Rick Sackhein arrived at Island Def Jam Music Group as senior VP of promotion less than two months ago, he came with a mandate: to remove labels, so to speak.

The former head of rhythmic promotion for Zomba says that in today's radio landscape, what is pop is often R&B is often rhythmic. No longer is it appropriate to consider working a record a single format at a time.

"Formats today bleed into one another; all three formats share a lot of the same artists now," he says. "I would prefer to take a record to the right station in a particular market, instead of an overall format. If the urban station is great in one place and the pop station makes sense in another, it's all about matching the songs to the forces in a market. The color lines are changing."

Sackhein got his start in the record business at the beginning of the last decade, working for Scotti Brothers. But things have changed a lot since then. "Everything is changing, between computers and chat rooms and iPods and Gameboys. Music is now intertwined with all forms of entertainment," he notes. "With that, record companies need to change. The appetite for music, especially new music, is bigger than ever, but we need to be aware of how we are marketing artists and their music more than ever before."

As he steps forward, Sackhein says he wants to ensure that IDJMG maintains its identity as "a place where artists want to sign, a home where they know they will be looked after."

—CHUCK TAYLOR

ANDY ALLEN, PRESIDENT, ALTERNATIVE DISTRIBUTION ALLIANCE

One of 2005's biggest buzz bands was New York's Clap Your Hands Say Yeah. It was pretty much impossible to click on a music blog without reading accolades draped over it, and the band's debut album has sold almost 40,000 copies.

Yet the act has resisted making a jump to a major or even an independent label, choosing instead to release its self-titled album on its own and have it distributed nationwide by Alternative Distribution Alliance.

While it is an unconventional move to sign a distribution deal with a developing band, ADA president Andy Allen says "this was more of a friends and family situation. We knew them, we were friendly with the band through their manager, and a number of people at ADA had been fans and seen [the band's] shows. And their attorney was somebody that we work with on a regular basis."

The band members came to ADA saying that there was a huge demand for their album, but they knew that it was beyond their ability to administer the record themselves. Still, they were not ready to make a decision on a label partner.

"It was as simple as that," Allen says. "It's not something we would prefer to do, and the way the deals are structured from a distribution standpoint don't reflect working with a band directly. It's not something we see ourselves doing on a regular or ongoing basis, so this is just something temporary until they decide they want to do something else." —BRAM TEITELMAN

FRANK MURRAY, VP OF PROMOTION, ROBBINS ENTERTAINMENT

Robbins Entertainment has long been the little label that could, particularly in the dance community, where it has achieved major success with such artists as DJ Sammy and Reina.

But 2005 thrust the New York label into the mainstream spotlight with D.H.T.'s "Listen to Your Heart," an uptempo remix of the 1989 Roxette hit, which finished the year in the top 40 of Billboard's Hot Digital Songs, Hot 100 Songs, Hot 100 Singles Airplay and Pop 100 Songs year-end charts. The track also was the No. 1 Hot Dance Airplay song, earning Robbins the title of top Hot Dance Airplay Imprint.

"This year brought us our first No. 1 pop record with 'Listen to Your Heart,' which was no small feat," VP of promotion Frank Murray says.

But Murray is certain that momentum is just getting started for a label that is no doubt at odds with current top 40 trends, which, for the better part of this decade, tend to poo-poo radiant pop music for novelty cliché-ridden hip-hop. He has his dance card optimistically stacked for 2006.

"Cascada's 'Everytime We Touch' is turning into a phenomenon; it's already in power rotation at [mainstream top 40 WHITZ] Z100 New York and spreading like wildfire," Murray says. "It looks like it has a shot to be the first pure dance hit at pop radio in quite some time, with no candlelight or unplugged versions."

"I think Cascada will be the true test," he says. "It's a pure pop-dance record with no ballad versions. It is not a cover of a massive pop hit. If this record is given a shot and works in the markets where dance supposedly does not work, it will really be saying something and hopefully open the door to a different sound."

Robbins is also working a striking cover of Journey's "Faithfully" from freestyle queen Judy Torres, a new track from Reina and "Waterman" from Olav Basoski featuring Michi One, which he deems "a strong track that should fare very well at top 40 and also bring Robbins back to rhythm radio."

—CHUCK TAYLOR

DAVID HALEY, VP OF PROMOTION, EQUITY MUSIC GROUP

As a veteran promotion man, David Haley has been involved in the careers of some of the biggest stars in country music, including Reba McEntire, George Strait, Faith Hill, Vince Gill and Trisha Yearwood. Yet after working for parts of three decades at major labels MCA Nashville and Warner Bros. Nashville, he joined independent Equity Music Group as VP of promotion last July.

And although the label has struggled with funding, frequent turnover on the promotion team and the other challenges that indies face, including smaller staffs and lack of major-label leverage, Haley is happy to be where he is. "It's fun. I can truly say that I'm having a lot of fun doing this," he says.

Perhaps more importantly, Haley says he has been pleasantly surprised at how receptive radio has been to music from Equity and other independents. "I feel like radio has accepted this new business model," he says. "While not every independent can compete at the level we're at, there are half a dozen or so that are very serious in the game," he says, citing Nashville-based indies Broken Bow Records, Show Dog and Big Machine.

Haley says that after years working at major labels, it is nice to be able to talk directly to his boss. "When I need a decision, or help with a decision, it's literally a 15-foot walk to the guy in charge," Haley says. "We generally have a two- or three-minute conversation and then we're on to the next step."

As for the smaller staff, Haley says that "we have to be pretty self-sufficient . . . everyone chips in and does their part."

Despite the challenges, Equity has scored its highest-charting single to date with Little Big Town's "Boondocks," which is currently No. 9 on Billboard Radio Monitor's Country Airplay chart. What is even more important to the continued health of the label, the group has scanned more than 220,000 copies of its album since its October release.

PEOPLE POWER: THE PERSONALITIES

ONE OF THE THINGS THAT MAKES RADIO SO compelling is the diverse array of personalities available on the airwaves. Here, Billboard Radio Monitor offers its picks for six you will want to watch in 2006.

Some are radio veterans, some newcomers. Two are music superstars trying their hand at a new career in radio. One is a popular comedian who is spicing up R&B morning shows all over the country. Another is a country radio legend who has been rejuvenated by a fresh start with a brand-new show. And out of the six, three have been charged with the seemingly impossible task of replacing another radio legend: Howard Stern.

THE STERN REPLACEMENTS

The most-watched ratings this year will be those of CBS Radio's three new morning hosts. Chairman/CEO Joel Hollander says it could take one to two years before the ultimate impact of David Lee Roth, Adam Carolla and Rover—as well as the other Howard Stern replacements—is fully known.

Of all the talent recruited or upgraded to carve up Stern's 27-station CBS Radio empire, the biggest gamble is Roth. Handing over four top 10 market stations to a radio neophyte is a bold move.

Roth began broadcasting from CBS Radio-owned WFNY

New York Jan. 3, simulcast on KLLI Dallas, WYSP Philadelphia, WBCN Boston, WRKZ Pittsburgh, WNCX Cleveland and WPBZ West Palm Beach, Fla. His initial show drew poor reviews from radio critics.

But CBS Radio president of programming Rob Barnett calls Roth "one of the smartest, most competitive guys I've ever worked with. He's fearless. He has more energy than I've ever seen. He's committed to the medium. The guy has a very sharp mind."

After Stern's explosive announcement in October 2004 about his move to satellite, a group of CBS Radio programmers met regularly to "game out the great radio riddle called 'replace Howard Stern,'" Barnett says. After compiling a list of qualities required for the gig, they began on-air auditions with candidates ranging from Drew Carey to Roth. The latter auditioned for a week on classic rock WZLX Boston last spring.

Though Carolla has already tasted radio success via the syndicated "Lovelines," hosting a daily four-hour talk show is a different story. Carolla's program originates at KLSX Los Angeles and is beamed to CBS Radio sisters KIFR San Francisco; KSCJ San Diego; KZON Phoenix; KUFO Portland, Ore.; and KXTE Las Vegas. Entercom modern rock signals KNDD Seattle and KWOD Sacramento, Calif., and Wilks Broadcasting's similarly formatted KFRR Fresno, Calif., and KRQZ Reno, Nev., have also inked Carolla, via CBS Radio-managed Westwood One.

That gives Carolla a total of 10 affiliates. He is the only one of the Stern replacements to have picked up affiliates outside of CBS Radio.

Based at WCKG Chicago, Rover airs on WXTM Cleveland; WAZU Columbus, Ohio; WKRK Detroit; WAQZ Cincinnati; WMP5 Memphis; and WZNE Rochester, N.Y.

Barnett believes most of Stern's listeners will not follow him to Sirius. "Most people will stay listening to the same radios they listened to all these years," he says. "We believe we have hired on- and off-air talent that will be able to become the dominant morning shows in their markets."

How fast can it happen? In a culture where TV shows are judged by one night's ratings and movies by one weekend of box-office receipts, Barnett says, "The question is, How long will people listen before judging whether or not the radio shows chosen to replace Howard Stern are winners?"

Keep in mind: It took Stern nearly four years to beat John DeBella in Philadelphia. —PAUL HEINE

KIX BROOKS

While he acknowledges his first and foremost job is that of "hill-billy singer," Kix Brooks of superstar country duo Brooks & Dunn is wading into unfamiliar waters this month with his new job as host of ABC Radio Networks' venerable syndicated show "American Country Countdown." He replaces Bob Kingsley in that role. (More on Kingsley below.)

And while Brooks says he had "no desire" to compete with Kingsley, whom he describes as "a dear friend," ABC made it clear Kingsley was being replaced, whether it was with Brooks or someone else.

"ABC told me they were wanting to do something different, and they wanted to try an artist's perspective on the business, [focusing on] how the music is made and what goes on on the road."

After finishing a yearlong stint as the volunteer chairman of the board for the Country Music Assn. in November, Brooks quips that he found himself with "all this free time on my hands" and turned his attention to radio. Actually, the offer from ABC took him by surprise, and with U.S. sales of nearly 20 million albums to date, he hardly needed the gig. But after consulting his musical partner Ronnie Dunn, Brooks decided to accept the challenge.

"I'll be the first to say I'm not a DJ and I don't have a great radio voice or impeccable timing," he says. But in listening to Kingsley and other countdown show hosts through the years, he has often realized he had a great story to tell about the writer or artist of a song being featured. "Most artists on that [countdown] list I know something about that's interesting." He says he has often also thought to himself, "I heard that song before it got recorded and passed on it, and I'd love to tell [the audience] why."

On the weekly four-hour program, Brooks promises a healthy dose of that kind of behind-the-scenes peek. This will include a look at his own life on the road.

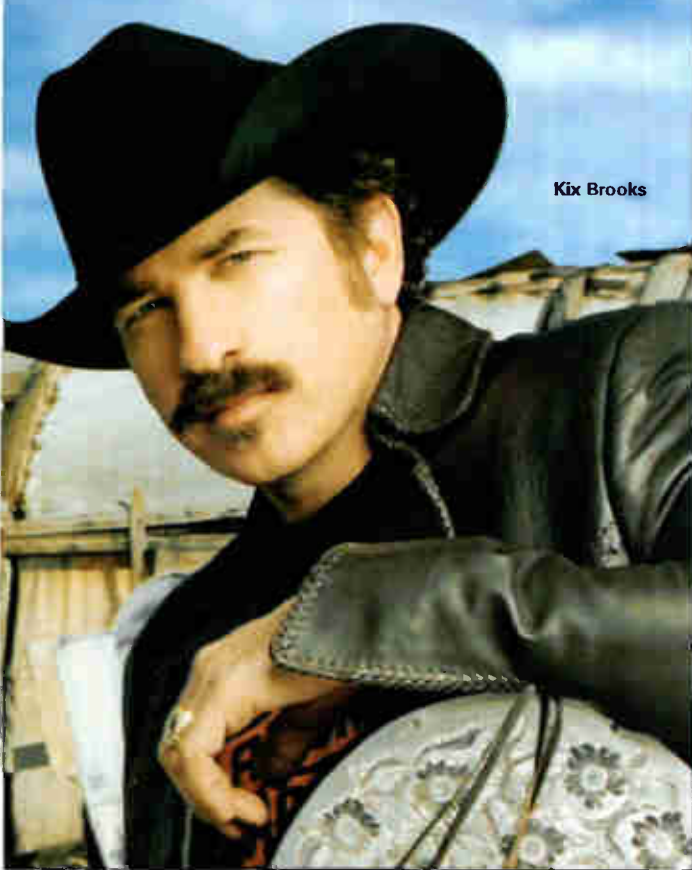

"That's the kind of stuff I want to bring to the show—what's going on now," he says. "If I was retired, this opportunity

So the decision was made by Kingsley and his staff to launch a new show on their own. They chose Jones as a partner because Kingsley says he had the sense that everyone at that company "was into it."

And Kingsley says he and his staff feel rejuvenated by the fresh start. "Everyone is so pumped by it," he says. "There's a freshness to it."

They have already picked up some impressive new affiliates, including CBS Radio's WUSN Chicago and Susquehanna's KPLX (the Wolf) Dallas. Neither station carried his previous show.

As part of the new agreement, Jones will also distribute "Bob Kingsley With Today's Hit Makers," a two-minute daily feature similar to one he did for ABC. Radio Express is distributing Kingsley's new countdown show internationally.

As for the rocky ending with ABC, Kingsley now says, "I'm not sure it wasn't all a good thing." —PHYLLIS STARK

STEVE HARVEY

Comedian/actor Steve Harvey returned to the adult R&B radio airwaves last September, thanks to a national syndication deal with Clear Channel Communications and Inner City Media's ICBC Broadcast Holdings.

Harvey hosted the top-rated "Steve Harvey Morning Show" on Radio One's KKBT (the Beat) Los Angeles for five years until the show came to an end last May.

"The Steve Harvey Show" returned to the air Sept. 19, originating from Inner City's WBLS New York. Harvey's morning show now airs on 12 stations owned by nine different broadcasters, according to his Web site, including such major-market outlets as Clear Channel's WDAS Philadelphia and WMXD Detroit and Crawford Broadcasting's WSRB/WYRB Chicago.

Clear Channel has said it plans to bring the show to stations in other major markets, including Atlanta and Washington, D.C. —TONY SANDERS wouldn't be near as exciting to me. It's not like I'm talking about the good old days. We're right in the middle of it."

He also will not be shy about putting on the air his celebrity friends who, he says, range from "former presidents to Dr. Phil," as well as "a lot of sports star buddies," including Terry Bradshaw and Karl Malone. "I want to interact a lot with this incredible world that I've had access to," he says.

Meanwhile, he is not forgetting about the importance of exposure elsewhere for the artist side of his career. Brooks' contract with ABC stipulates that he is free to appear as a guest on all the rival countdown shows, including Kingsley's.

While Brooks & Dunn are usually referred to in the same breath, only Brooks was asked to host "American Country Countdown," something he says was just fine with Dunn. "Ronnie loves to write songs and loves the studio and . . . performing. I don't think week after week getting geared up for doing a radio show is something he'll enjoy very much."

Brooks says Dunn "thought I'd be good at it and wished me luck."

The Brooks-hosted version of "American Country Countdown" debuts the weekend of Jan. 21. He will do the show from the studio building of "American Country Countdown" affiliate Cumulus Media near Music Row. He opted not to have a studio built in his home, saying that doing the show from there might make him "lazy. I need to be upright."

On the handful of dates on which tour plans conflict with the show's Tuesday taping days, Brooks says he will find an affiliate on the road and record the show from their studios.

"It's going to be fun work," he says, "but it will be work."

Calling ABC "a great network," Brooks says, "For them to gamble on me gives me a tremendous amount of confidence. They know a lot more about radio than I do, and they have a lot more at stake than I do. I already have a job." —PHYLLIS STARK

BOB KINGSLEY

After being ousted late last year from his job as host of ABC Radio Networks' "American Country Countdown"—a job he had held for 27 years—Bob Kingsley has returned in a big way.

On Jan. 1 the Country Radio DJ Hall of Famer debuted his new show, "Bob Kingsley's Country Top 40," on an impressive 304 affiliates.

The four-hour weekly countdown is produced by Kingsley's own company, KCCS Productions, and he has inked a sales and distribution agreement with Jones Media Group.

After the initial shock of being fired wore off, Kingsley says he realized "an awful lot of folks really wanted us to carry on, and I decidedly wanted to do that. I didn't want it to end [that] way."

BATTLES

The days of funeral processions, sending black roses and other celebrations of one station's domination over another are long gone, largely thanks to the deregulation act of 1996. (Who, after all, wants to dance on the grave of someone who could be your next boss?) But radio battles still get the blood flowing. Whether it is the thrill of the chase or the rush of being pursued, a good-old-fashioned dust-up still raises the adrenaline levels of the combatants.

With that in mind, here are six battles that are sure to make for an interesting 2006.

TALK, TALK, TALK IN TWIN CITIES

Minneapolis has just about every kind of talk station you can imagine—news, sports, liberal, conservative and even female-targeted talk. No less than six such stations scored a 1.0 share or better 12-plus in the summer 2005 Arbitron survey. "If there's a listener in this market that wants to hear news/talk from every angle you can think of, they're certainly going to find it here," says Wendy Paulson, PD of CBS Radio news/talk/sports WCCO. "It's all about variety."

And the field just got more crowded. On Jan. 2, Clear Channel launched KTLK, an FM talk station with a lineup that includes Rush Limbaugh plus a number of well-known local personalities. Sean Hannity will join the station when his contract expires with Hubbard talk KSTP-AM, just as Limbaugh did.

The station squarely in KTLK's cross hairs is WCCO, which has been a dominant force in the market since it went on the air in 1924. It is consistently ranked No. 1 and is one of only a few stations nationally that can claim listenership that is passed down through generations. In addition to its 24/7 local (yes, local) talk and sports talk programming, WCCO is also the longtime home of MLB's Minnesota Twins, the NHL's Minnesota Wild and the University of Minnesota's football, basketball and hockey teams. It also boasts a news department larger than that of some TV stations, complete with a reporter at the state capitol.

From 30,000 feet, it appears that Clear Channel is attempting to surround WCCO. On the sports front, Clear Channel has ESPN Radio affiliate KFAN (the Fan), which is also the home of the NFL's Minnesota Vikings and the NBA's Minnesota Timberwolves, and Fox Sports Radio affiliate KFXN (the Score). Now, with KTLK, it has a talk station with local news department augmented by national coverage from Fox News Radio.

Both WCCO and KTLK have an in-house meteorologist, an important element in a listening area that regularly experiences prolonged sub-zero temperatures in the winter and tornados in the summer.

Meanwhile, KSTP-AM is also in the mix. Like WCCO, it is a heritage station with deep roots in the Twin Cities and has been serving the community since the 1920s. Its loss of Limbaugh and Hannity is a tough blow, but the station has taken a page out of WCCO's book and beefed up its local presence by replacing the two syndicated talkers with in-house talent.

Ultimately, this battle will come down to the importance of heritage and the power of syndicated hosts like Limbaugh and Hannity versus local programming.

For her part, Paulson says change is OK. "We welcome the competition," she says. "It's interesting for us because new competition always keeps us on our toes."

Midwestern politeness aside, they are playing for keeps here.

GOTHAM'S DANCE PARTY

When WKTU returned to the New York airwaves in 1996, the one-time disco radio station, under the leadership of veteran programmer Frankie Blue, blended classic hits by Donna Summer and Gloria Gaynor with a contemporary dance playlist that took full advantage of a top 40 era where acts like Real McCoy, Amber and Ace of Base were gaining traction in the mainstream.

The station quickly became the stuff of legend, when it auspiciously jumped from worst to first in the nation's No. 1 radio market, prompting a fruitful period of uptempo music so pervasive that it moved the entire nation (Amber, Gina G, anyone?).

But by the turn of the century, WKTU, now owned by Clear Channel, had moved with the hip-hop nation and redefined what rhythmic music meant to New York. Today, the station holds a 3.0 share after the summer 2005 book.

Fast-forward to 2006 and witness the umpteenth persona of CBS Radio's WNEW New York, which, for the past couple years, has fashioned itself as the reincarnation of the reincarnation of WKTU. The classic dance station even hired Blue as PD for a short time. It has been a long road, but the station has held steady and is beginning to gain traction in Gotham, prompting a formidable war for the city's vast Latin and gay populations.

WNEW sputtered with a 1.4 share in fall 2004, but rose to 2.3 during summer 2005. That might not spell triumph yet, but it has certainly created a rivalry to watch.

We will see who is truly able to turn the beat around.

TWICE THE JOCK TALK IN PHILLY

Given the nationally known passion of Philadelphia's sports fans—and the talk that the Philadelphia Eagles' Terrell Owens generates—it is curious that until last October, CBS Radio sports WIP was the only game in town. (Nassau Broadcasting WPHY is licensed to Trenton, N.J., and targets Philadelphia, but rarely makes an impact in the Arbitron ratings.)

While sports radio has grown exponentially during the last few years, WIP flipped to the format in late 1987, making it only the second all-sports station in the country behind Emmis' WFAN New York. In the summer 2005 Arbitron survey, WIP was No. 16 in the market 12-plus, but predictably scored much better with men 18-49, where its 5.0 placed it No. 4 in the demo.

But Greater Media believes there is room for more than one sports outlet in town. On Oct. 3 the company flipped oldies WPEN to sports talk. Interestingly, WPEN took a different tack than most stations that flip. Greater Media announced the station's move from oldies to sports in August—weeks before the actual change took place. Station manager Bob DeBlois says it was a calculated move. "We spent 40 days getting the buzz out and building the radio station out in the public, so on Oct. 3, we were off and running quicker than a normal startup."

While WIP has a local lineup that includes longtime hosts and local icons Angelo Cataldi in mornings and Howard Eskin in afternoons, WPEN will rely largely on syndicated hosts including Premiere Radio Network's Jim Rome and Sporting News Radio's Tony Bruno, who has a long history in the market.

Bruno started his career there at 17 and later helped launch WIP before he moved on to syndication at ESPN Radio, Fox Sports Radio and now Sporting News Radio.

Afternoons on WPEN are handled locally by Jody McDonald, a veteran of WIP and WFAN.

DeBlois says WPEN is offering an alternative to Philadelphia's sports fans. Unlike WIP, WPEN is "an interview-driven sports talk station," he says, citing Rome as an example. "Jim Rome does incredible interviews," DeBlois says. "That's why we have him on our station."

Although none are currently available, Greater Media eventually hopes to pick up the play-by-play rights for major Philly teams. WPEN has already signed the Arena Football League's Philadelphia Soul.

CBS Radio has a lock on all of the majors: WIP is home to the NHL's Philadelphia Flyers and the NBA's Philadelphia 76ers, while WYSP (94.1 Free FM) is the flagship for the NFL's Philadelphia Eagles. Talk WPHT holds the rights for Major League Baseball's Philadelphia Phillies. —KEN TUCKER

REAL COUNTRY COMPETITION IN TAMPA

As country market battles go, Tampa, Fla., has been one of the more fascinating to watch during the last 10 months. Before that time, CBS Radio owned the country market share, splitting it between its mainstream country outlet, WQYK, and its more eclectic flanker, WYUU (Outlaw 92.5).

Then things started to get interesting.

In April Clear Channel signed on a direct competitor to WQYK in the form of WFUS (US 103.5). Four months later, CBS Radio gave up on WYUU and its "kick-ass country" positioner, flipping it to Spanish as "La Nueva FM 92.5" with the new slogan "the Latin sound of Tampa Bay." The flip was not terribly surprising since WYUU had been tied for 19th place in the market 12-plus in the spring Arbitron book, but it was still a blow to the Nashville music community because WYUU had championed so much new music.

Meanwhile, the new WFUS had emerged as a real contender out of the gate by luring away WQYK morning man and three-time Country Music Assn. broadcast personality award winner Skip Mahaffey, along with two members of his team. Mahaffey first had to sit out a six-month non-compete, which prevented him from bowing on WFUS until Oct. 14.

WQYK OM Mike Culotta shot back in August by naming country artists Cledus T. Judd and Chad Brock as his station's new morning team and signing them to a multiyear deal.

Also in August, former country KCYY Colorado Springs, Colo., PD Travis Daily joined WFUS as its first PD. Earlier in the summer Jason Moore joined the station as its promotions director from the same position at crosstown CBS Radio oldies WRBQ.

Between the winter 2005 and summer 2005 Arbitron books, WQYK fell 7.1-5.9 12-plus, but it remains the market's No. 2 station. WFUS, meanwhile, debuted in the spring book with a 3.0 share, and was up to a 3.7 by the summer book, making it No. 10 in the market overall.

While the jury is still out on whether WFUS can ever overtake market leader WQYK, it is clear the CBS Radio outlet now has a serious competitor for the first time in recent memory.

X-TREME DESERT BATTLE

For a long time, Las Vegas had only one modern rock station, CBS Radio's KXTE (X-treme Radio). The active-leaning station was well-known not just in Las Vegas, but to radio listeners nationwide, due to former morning man Howard Stern, who called the station home once a year when his show broadcast from Sin City.

However, Stern is no longer on the air there, having been replaced by Adam Carolla. And as of Oct. 21, a new choice for modern rock came to Vegas, courtesy of upstart radio company Riviera Broadcast Group. Flipping its recently acquired adult R&B KVGS to modern rock as "Area 108," the station launched with KXTE in its sights. Shortly after its introduction, Riviera found a name programmer to lead the station, former Sandusky PD J.J. Jeffries, who is now VP of programming for its Las Vegas and Phoenix properties.

One industry insider, who asked not to be identified, says there was a hole for another modern rock station in Vegas. "X-treme is too extreme to cover the pure modern hole, and [CBS Radio adult top 40] KMXB is a soccer mom station," he says. "Even though they lean into the Green Day/Killers territory, they'll play Kelly Clarkson next. There's a nice hole for a station that's a little more gold-based than either of those two, but leans more modern."

The insider says Area 108 reminds people of mid-'90s modern rock station KEDG (the Edge). "That was the first big modern station in the market in the '90s," he says. "It was a non-corporate stand-alone with a renegade feel to it, and the modern movement in the mid-'90s helped the station do well."

"The market does have quite a heritage for great modern music that the Edge used to play, along with some of the new stuff that X-treme hasn't been playing. X-treme isn't playing much indie rock or new modern. They would never touch a Jack Johnson, so there's new music, as well as old stuff from the Cure to Coldplay that Area 108 can play." —BRAM TEITELMAN

L.A. TURF WAR

The reggaeton revolution hit the mainland last spring when, in a bid for younger Hispanic listeners, Spanish Broadcasting System flipped its successful top 40 KXOL (El Sol) Los Angeles to "Latino 96.3."

SBS chief Raul Alarcon Jr. said in September that he expected the reggaeton outlet to start showing "revenue traction" before the end of the year, after losing between $500,000 and $700,000 following the flip.

He noted that any format change could make advertisers bashful at first. "It's understandable that advertisers would be reluctant," he said, "but [after just] four weeks, KXOL had explosive growth."

In the month following the flip, KXOL finished at No. 3 behind Clear Channel mainstream top 40 KIIS and SBS regional Mexican KLAX (La Raza).

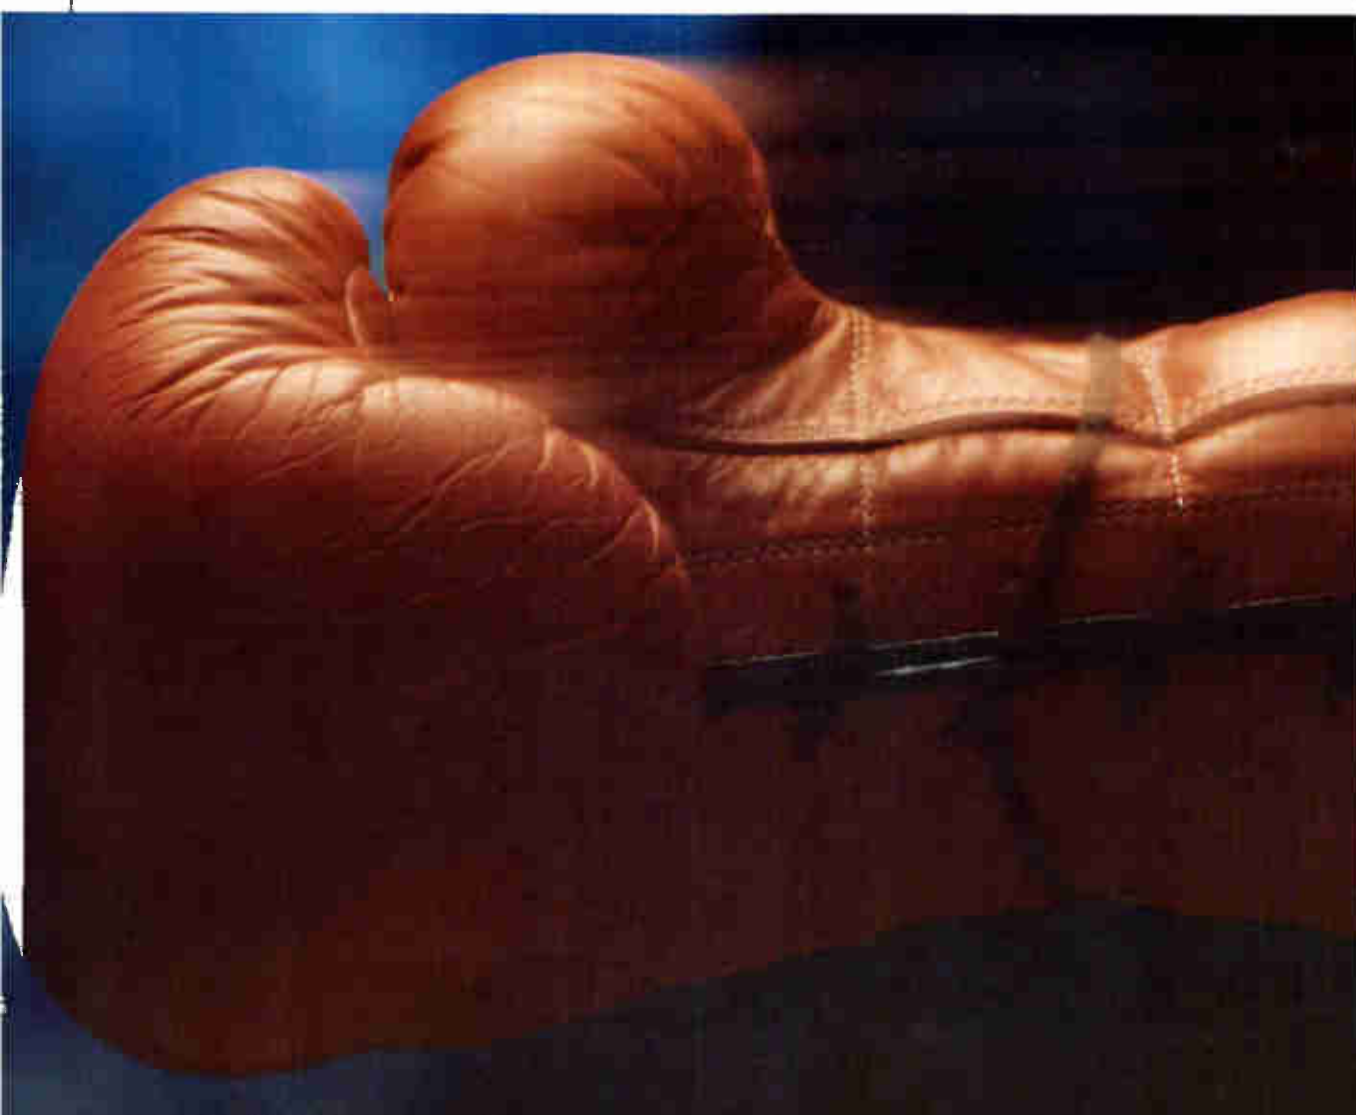

According to the final tally in the summer 2005 survey, KXOL tied with Univision romantica KLVE for No. 2 in the market 12-plus, just behind KIIS.

But the real battle for Los Angeles' young ears is not with KIIS, KLAX or KLVE—it is with Emmis rhythmic top 40 KPWR (Power 106). Emmis kicked KXOL off its tower not long after the SBS station flipped to its new format last May. And in addition to reggaeton, KXOL also mixes in English-language hip-hop, which cuts into Power's territory.

Power dropped from its lofty 4.2 share in spring 2005 to a 4.0 in summer, which put it behind KXOL. And if early fall Arbitrends are any indication, Power's downtrend is continuing, with a 3.8 in phase one and a 3.6 in phase two.

Meanwhile, KXOL's performance also has slipped a bit, according to the same Arbitrend report—after rising to 4.3 in phase one, it has dipped to 4.0 in phase two. —TONY SANDERS

POWER PROGRAMMING

SIMPLY PUT, THERE IS NO RADIO WITHOUT content, and this lineup of programming muscle is focused on giving that content some context.

ROB BARNETT, PRESIDENT OF PROGRAMMING, CBS RADIO

CBS Radio flipped formats at roughly 10% of its stations last year. Will a ratings and revenue payoff follow this year? And will 2006 turn out to be as active at radio's recently rebranded No. 2 group?

Taking a calculated risk that listeners were tired of 300-song playlists and sometimes-inane air talent, the company dealt Jack after Jack in a ratings wager that has already reaped dividends in several markets. How long will Jack last?

"When I came into this job, advertisers, listeners and the industry itself seemed more ready for change than in all the years that I've experienced radio broadcasting," president of programming Rob Barnett says. "This has been a sea change moment and we felt uniquely qualified with a great group of smart programmers to step out and take a leadership position with the idea of large playlisted opportunities for radio stations under the lovely umbrella called Jack."

The Jack brushfire, and the expansion of FM talk, often came at the expense of rock. The genre has been banished to weekends and nights at former bastions in New York and Philadelphia.

"The most compelling content and the best talent wins," whether you do that with talk, music or a combination of the two, Barnett says. "It ultimately comes down to how the radio station presents itself. Free FM is the brand that comes to life through a great list of experienced radio pros and others who are new to radio . . . We think these radio stations have an opportunity over the next year [or] two to win dominating positions in major markets across the country."

—PAUL HEINE

JOHN CRENSHAW, DIRECTOR OF PROGRAMMING, CLEAR CHANNEL/COLUMBUS, OHIO

There is something about Columbus, Ohio, that feels like home to John Crenshaw.

After a stint as PD of Clear Channel country WCOL from 1994 to 1999, he spent two years working in Virginia Beach, Va., but returned to WCOL in 2001.

In late September of last year, Crenshaw was promoted (or "coronated," as he prefers) to director of programming for the whole cluster, adding oversight for top 40 WNCI, soft AC WLTZ, '80s rock WBWR, news/talk WTVN and talk WTPG, along with WCOL.

He says he is juggling his new duties "the same way you would chainsaws," adding on a more serious note that it was "an easy transition because I already knew the players so well."

Asked for any time management tricks he has picked up, Crenshaw quips: "Skip lunch."

Crenshaw feels he has been successful in his job because he uses the research tools available to him, balancing that data against "what my active audience tells me on the phone and in e-mail."

Among his other philosophies: "Put your people first. Have a heart. Don't take yourself too seriously. Have some fun."

He also believes in giving back to the industry, and has been an active member of the Country Radio Broadcasters board of directors.

"You get what you give," he explains. "Lots of folks took the time to teach me. I'm just trying to return the favor as best I can."

—PHYLLIS STARK

KURT JOHNSON, VP OF JACK PROGRAMMING, CBS RADIO

While 2005 was definitely the year of the Jack for Infinity—now CBS Radio—and other companies, there are still those that doubt the format's longevity and room for growth. As VP of Jack programming, Kurt Johnson is a man people are looking to for answers. In addition to serving as PD for his company's first foray into Jack, KJJK Dallas, Johnson oversees 10 other stations the company has taken down the adult hits path including WCBS New York, WJMK Chicago and KCBS Los Angeles.

'ONE OF THE BIGGEST DIFFERENCES HERE, AS OPPOSED TO WORKING IN OLD-FASHIONED RADIO, IS THAT I'M CREATING CONTENT. THAT IS THE MOST STRIKING THING.' —TIM SABEAN

Barnett sees opportunity this year for battered rock formats to "go through the same self-examination that some of our other formats have done in '05," he says. "You'll see a lot more from us in '06 . . . We believe there is an opportunity for us to readdress the way that rock radio is traditionally programmed, and also turn elements of the radio station over to both fans and musicians to take the wheel and drive it around town."

To get its programming ducks in a row, CBS Radio programmers are convening in mid-January "to attack strategy" for the second time in four months.

While Jack was the word last year, this year it is Free FM. The company's expanded and rebranded FM talk strategy will be closely watched this year and next, on the heels of a talent-buying binge that lured personalities from terrestrial, satellite, TV and a defunct rock band. Talent will not be alone in feeling the heat. There is a lot riding on programmers like WYSP's Tom Bigby, who is tasked with transitioning what for years was positioned as "Philadelphia's No. 1 rock station" and is now using the more nebulous Free FM handle. Bigby must make the station appeal to WYSP's core listenership, while attracting new listeners with a pure talk product from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Even entrenched FM talkers like KLSX Los Angeles, WCKG Chicago and WJFK Washington, D.C., are now completely rebranded and have thrown the dice with new morning shows.

Rob Barnett

Johnson officially jumped into Jack's corner in July 2004, when KJJK became the first major market station in the United States to flip to the format, although he says he "studied it for two or three months before that" and was aware of the format's Canadian launch. A year later, he was named to his current role as VP.

Despite the format's success, Johnson knows that there are those who say it will be short-lived. "I would expect our competitors, especially those that have been hit hard by it, to say nothing less," he says.

The frequent comparisons to another fast-rising format, Jammin' Oldies, are not accurate, he says. "There are significant differences. Jammin' Oldies literally played 200-250 songs and Jack literally plays 1,100-1,400 songs." While Jammin' Oldies covered 17 years of music, Jack covers 42 years' worth, he says. "There are so many songs that we can move around to keep the format fresh."

Jack's presentation is also a plus. "Jack has an entirely different vibe and presentation to it and stands apart on the dial for that reason," Johnson says. "Jack doesn't sound like anything else. The first law of marketing is 'uniqueness' and Jack has that. Jammin' Oldies really didn't."

While WCBS and WJMK have not taken off as quickly as the company's other Jack stations, Johnson is confident of the format's potential. New York and Chicago are "two of the more competitive markets on the planet and you have some established, long-term

Yes, he will have the man who invented saying “penis” and “vagina” on the radio and fellow Clear Channel castoff Todd “Bubba the Love Sponge” Clem. But outside of morning and afternoon drive, Sabean is tasked with filtering, developing and executing concepts that spew nonstop from Stern’s idea volcano—and making two channels of riveting radio out of them.

Though Sabean will not have to worry about Arbitron ratings for the first time in his career, he will be judged by subscriber counts and detailed customer satisfaction surveys conducted several times a year.

Unlike other stations he has launched, Sabean is starting from scratch, hiring talent and producers and “creating the infrastructure of where the commercials go, where the people go and where the shows go. It’s a much bigger task,” he says.

“One of the biggest differences here, as opposed to working in old-fashioned radio, is that I’m creating content,” Sabean says. “That is the most striking thing. I work with people that create content and develop ideas. It’s an entrepreneurial feel.”

A visit to Sirius headquarters in New York’s McGraw-Hill Building finds a palpable, contagious energy permeating the halls. The NASA-esque satellite control center at the entrance has been replaced by Stern’s outlandish, 4,100 square foot studio.

“I can’t tell you how exciting it is to do this thing day in and day out,” Sabean says. “I’ll go into the production studio and they’ll play me something and I’ll get shivers up and down my spine, listening to this creativity. This is why I got into radio, to have this kind of fun and excitement. The bottom line is we’re content providers. We’re able to create content that nobody else has.”

NATE BELL, WWPR (POWER 105) NEW YORK PD/REGIONAL VP OF PROGRAMMING, CLEAR CHANNEL

Nate Bell sure knows how to ring in the new year. He began 2006 as the new PD of Clear Channel R&B/hip-hop WWPR (Power 105) New York. With that, he carries the lofty title of regional VP of programming for the Mid-America Trading Zone.

No doubt, Bell has come a long way since he began his broadcasting career at WJAX Jacksonville, Fla., as a part-time and mix-show personality. Since then, he has held positions as MD; production director; morning, afternoon and evening show host; promotions assistant; and PD in several different formats, including country, rock, news/talk, AC, oldies and gospel.

Bell joined Clear Channel in 2000, most recently heading up the St. Louis market. He has also programmed stations in Milwaukee, Detroit, Memphis and Mississippi cities Biloxi and Montgomery.

Working in New York, he says, offers a new challenge: “The key ingredients of a great radio station are the same everywhere but what makes New York City different is that when you put together a successful recipe, the whole world will follow.”

In his short time in the nation’s No. 1 radio market, Bell observes, “It’s wonderful to hear some of the Dirty South hip-hop on the air and in the clubs in the tri-state area, since I spent many years in the South.”

His overall mandate for the station is “to continue increasing our ratings share, grow our audience and have a positive impact on our revenue. Personally, I’d like to set an example and mentor more of the younger programmers in Clear Channel.”

The coming year for hip-hop, he says, will be marked by a number of new discoveries that Bell looks forward to championing: “Trey Songz. He is a tremendous performer, writer and singer. I love this kid. Also another new artist, Tara, is one to watch.”

Tom Poleman, senior VP of programming for Clear Channel/New York, feels that Bell, in his new role, is a person to watch in the coming year. “It was a pleasure to get to know Nate through the long interview process,” he says. “I have no doubt that he’s the man for the job.”

players in those markets.” In Chicago, he says, the format is growing in cume and time spent listening on a monthly basis. As for New York, “We’ll get there, it’s just taking a bit longer,” he says.

“We knew that it would take some work to get it on the map in some markets. There are some markets where the competitive nature allows Jack to go No. 1 immediately, like it did in Los Angeles and Seattle and Las Vegas,” Johnson says, citing 25-54 Arbitron ratings data. “There are other markets, where depending on the layout of the market, it takes a little longer to grow.”

ADAM NEIMAN, TOP 75 PD, CLEAR CHANNEL

Adam Neiman is not talking. It is not that the newly appointed Clear Channel top 75 PD does not want to, it is just that the specifics of his new job are not anything he feels comfortable discussing. “I’ve joined the Clear Channel content and research development department,” he says. “There’s many things in development, and I’m just onboard to bring an outside perspective to Clear Channel.”

It can be assumed that Neiman might be doing something in line with what he did at his previous job, Music Choice. Starting out there in 1992 as a programming coordinator, he worked his way up to senior director of programming, overseeing 54 channels. Before leaving the company last year, he had oversight of Music Choice’s rock channels.

More can be gleaned from what Clear Channel execs themselves told Billboard Radio Monitor. In a September interview, Clear Channel Radio executive VP of content Tom Owens shared a little bit about the company’s plans for the future. Neiman is joining the content research and development team that consists of Owens, executive VP of online music and radio Evan Harrison, former Clear Channel/Denver regional VP Michael O’Connor and Eric Seibert, recruited from IBM.

“The purpose of the group is to generate new thinking,” Owens told Billboard Radio Monitor. Neiman will be working with the “format lab,” which will house 75 low-clutter formats available to Clear Channel’s terrestrial, high-definition multicast, Internet and wireless platforms. The formats will run the gamut from mass appeal to ultra niche. While the format lab is based in Cincinnati, Neiman will remain in his base of New York.

TIM SABEAN, PROGRAMMING DIRECTOR, HOWARD 100 AND HOWARD 101

When he programmed Howard Stern’s highest-rated affiliate station for more than a decade, Tim Sabean had a format to follow and lines to stay within. But at Sirius Satellite Radio, Sabean has two large canvases to fill and he can color outside the lines.

COMPANIES TO WATCH

From technology companies to consolidators to the people who want to take your business away from Arbitron, Billboard Radio Monitor examines the companies you should keep an eye on this year.

THE ARBITRON CHALLENGERS

Six companies are vying to unseat Arbitron as radio's primary ratings provider. On March 6, a Clear Channel-appointed evaluation team will pick the winner from the seven finalists that submitted entries in the company's request for proposals.

Who are these guys? Do any of them have a better electronics ratings mousetrap than Arbitron's Portable People Meter, which is one of the RFP finalists? Here is what they have to offer:

- Phoenix-based RadioStat is a startup that was formed by a pair of attorneys specifically to participate in Clear Channel's ratings bake-off. Don Dybus, former director of Chicago's first cable TV office, was a VP in Clear Channel's outdoor division from 1998 to 2002. He practices law with John Greene, who has been a tax and business litigator for 30 years.

What do a pair of lawyers know about the complex intricacies of audience measurement? Enough to have a patent pending on a process that would capture media exposure with a gizmo most Americans never leave home without: their cell phone.

To work, RadioStat would need to convince cell-phone companies to offer monthly discounts to customers who agree to participate in its surveys. In addition to subsidizing the discounts, RadioStat would pay the cellular providers a fee.

The ratings wannabe would make mass callings to hundreds of thousands of participants, who would then hold their cell phone up to the sound source. The audio would be captured, digitized and matched by RadioStat to its original source. Fifteen minutes later, the same respondent would receive a second call, and go through the same process, to determine whether he or she listened to the sound source for a full quarter-hour.

Since the company captures a listener profile when the customer agreed to participate, listening could be broken down by demographics.

Dybus says he plans to commission clients that "have the capability to fill in operating components of our system," but he will not disclose who his subcontractors are. He says the system has been beta-tested and that he is ready to "hit the ground running."

RadioStat also aims to conduct custom surveys for advertisers. It could, for example, measure the percentage of black, white and Hispanic males aged 20-55 listening to sports radio on Sunday afternoons during football season.

The company would use standard statistical deviation models and apply for "all accreditations that the client base would require," Dybus says.

The concept is not perfect. RadioStat would exclude the millions of Americans who do not have cell phones. It assumes that a respondent listening to station A in both phone calls continued to listen to station A uninterrupted between calls. Apart from conforming to the myriad research procedures required to produce reliable audience estimates, RadioStat does not have deals in place with cellular providers. Without them, all it has is a novel idea.

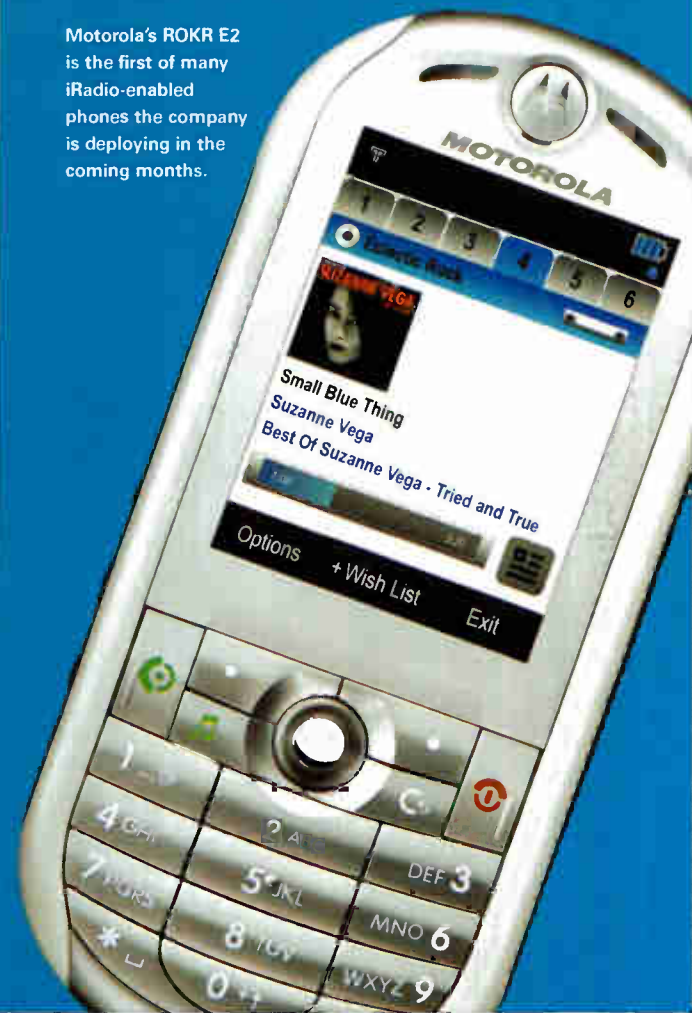

- Integrated Media Measurement, a private company based in San Francisco, is already tracking media exposure via cell phones for a group of clients it will not reveal. The venture capital-backed firm gives panelists a cell phone preloaded with its proprietary software. Not reliant on watermarking, the phones sniff has not been field-tested and was rejected by U.K. radio ratings consortium RAJAR as "underdeveloped."

• In business for 50 years, Simmons claims to be the nation's first single-source media measurement company. The Fort Lauderdale, Fla.-based firm is better-known for qualitative research—who the consumers are and what they like—than it is for quantitative audience measurement. Each year it sends 30,000 Americans age 18 and older an extensive questionnaire about their TV, radio, Internet, newspaper and magazine consumption.

"We use our data to get a really powerful profile of who the consumer is," executive VP/GM Ken Wollenberg says. Used by clients for strategic marketing, the company measures product purchase and usage behavior and compiles psychographic and lifestyle information about consumers of specific products.

Wollenberg says Clear Channel contacted Simmons to solicit a ratings service proposal. The company plans to combine its existing consumer database with a new Web-based diary system where respondents would log their radio listening habits. By combining raw usage numbers with existing qualitative data, the Simmons service would transcend traditional ratings to profile who the audience members are, where they live and what they buy.

"Advertisers buy age/sex demos but that's only a surrogate of what they really want, which is, 'Who buys my product?' and 'Who buys my competitor's?'" Wollenberg says. Radio account execs would use a desktop application to show clients where their customers are located and where the station's listeners are.

• Paladin Adsolutions, a relative newcomer to the radio space, is testing its radioad.com service in Seattle. While the product has nothing to do with the new ratings system the company proposed

MOTOROLA

See that cell phone in your hand/on your belt/in your pocket? It is about to provide another form of competition for your listeners' attention.

Motorola, which makes phones that are used by Verizon, Cingular, T-Mobile, Nextel and Sprint customers, will debut its iRadio service in first-quarter 2006. "This is really designed to be somewhat of a replacement for FM in the way that we know it," Motorola director of product marketing Dave Ulmer says. "It's allowing the consumers to be put in charge of what to listen to, when and where."

The company already has more than 400 channels, including 50 talk channels, ready to go and has plans for more. Users will select what they want to hear via their home computers, which will then synch up with their phones.

And while Motorola's service is not the only one—a company called Mspot has streams that are available on Sprint phones, and Cingular has a service called MobiRadio—it is the newest and has already caught the attention of at least two major labels. In October, Universal Music Group agreed to make content available to Motorola. In November, it announced that iRadio would include channels dedicated solely to UMG's country artists, including Shania Twain, George Strait and Reba McEntire. In addition to music, an artist's channel might include tour news, album release dates, new singles and catalog titles. A similar deal was recently announced with Warner Music Group.

Even though it is described as a "replacement for FM," broadcasters and other traditional content providers are lining up to be involved with iRadio. "Everyone in the traditional out ambient audio and the software extracts an audio signature from it and matches it to the company's media center database. In addition to measuring media exposure, the service can report the panelist's location within 100 feet. This allows clients to see whether exposure to specific ads triggered visits to their stores. "It shows what they were exposed to and whether their behavior is different from those who weren't exposed," chairman/CEO Tom Zito says.

• Another dog in the ratings hunt is a joint venture between Media Audit—a Houston-based, privately owned qualitative research company—and Ipsos, a U.K.-based, publicly traded media research firm. Their service would be based on Ipsos' new "smart phone" technology, a high-end cell phone that would also record media exposure by tracking watermarked-encoded signals or by audio-matching signals that are not encoded. Media Audit plans to initiate a field test of the Ipsos watermark software in mid-2006 in the United States.

"We believe cell phones are such an integral part of most people's lives that we will get a high degree of cooperation and compliance with survey participants via their cell phone," says Richard Silman, global CEO of Ipsos Media. "This applies particularly to the younger demographics. This will result in a greater degree of reliability and accuracy in audience estimates."

While Ipsos has held the radio and TV ratings contract in the United Kingdom for about a decade, its smart phone technology to Clear Channel, it is designed to "solve the recall problem" for listeners when it comes to commercials, founding member Steve Walker says. "Instead of needing three to six [spot] impressions to take action" on an advertised product that interests them, listeners can visit radioad.com to hear the spot again and get the advertiser's Web site and phone number. Stations plug the service in spot tags and promos. Neither Paladin nor Clear Channel would provide specifics on Paladin's ratings proposal. The private company is headquartered in Redmond, Wash.

• Also vying to establish the $20 billion radio industry's new ratings currency is New York-based Mediamark Research, a private company that conducts personal interviews from a single sample of consumers to collect demographic, lifestyle, product usage and exposure to advertising data for magazines, TV, radio, Internet and other media. Mediamark officials did not return Billboard Radio Monitor's phone calls; Clear Channel will not comment on its proposal.

A rival to Arbitron would have to fund a major demonstration of its service in the U.S. marketplace and receive Media Rating Council accreditation, Clear Channel says.

Arbitron, the seventh finalist, which has been testing the PPM for five years in the States, is currently demonstrating the PPM in Houston and says it is ready to commercially deploy it as early as April. Final results of the MRC's audit of the PPM are expected this month. —PAUL HEINE broadcast realm is looking for all sorts of new ways to broaden their business," Ulmer says. "It would be foolish to ignore the evolution that's taking place, and I think there's a place for all of it. There's a place for traditional AM/FM, there's a place for satellite, and there's a place for mobile radio."

Earlier this month, Clear Channel announced it would be involved with iRadio. The company is planning to offer 75 channels of commercial-free music and some content from its syndication company, Premiere Radio Networks, including morning duo Bob & Tom and overnight show "Coast to Coast AM."

Ultimately, the question will be whether customers are willing to pay $7-$10 per month for the service. Portability, the ability to listen to their streams on a car radio or home stereo and the availability of commercial-free channels will all factor into their decision. —KEN TUCKER

IBIQUITY

What to expect in 2006 from the technology company that invented and licenses the high-definition radio standard? More units with more functionality at lower prices.

Bob Struble, CEO of Columbia, Md.-based iBiquity Digital, expects HD radios to become available at a $199 price point and the number of units in circulation to grow from the low tens of thousands now to hundreds of thousands by the end of this year.

SIX IN '06

He also expects Detroit's automakers to get onboard.

While satellite radio competitors have deals in place with all the major carmakers, BMW is the only company currently installing HD radios in cars. But Struble says at least eight different manufacturers will install a total of 30 different models during the next couple of years.

"We have very solid commitments" with automakers, Struble says, "but these car guys like to keep it close to the vest."

Similarly, the 10 companies making HD radios will expand to 15-20 this year, he says. And the number of stations pumping out an HD signal will mushroom from 650 now to 1,200 by year's end, Struble adds.

"The consistent theme we're hearing from electronics manufacturers, retailers and automakers is, 'We want to see consumer demand—people coming into stores and showrooms asking for it—before we get geared up,'" Struble says.

To create demand, radio companies will launch hundreds of new HD2 multicast channels this year and use $200 million in airtime to promote and market them to listeners. Part of radio's pitch to hardware manufacturers, retailers and carmakers is to make them part of that campaign.

Just as HD2 multicast capability became the industry buzz of 2005, Struble expects the discussion to expand this year to include the technology's other capabilities. "I wouldn't be surprised to see the discussion move beyond multicasting and on to the next killer app, such as overlaying real-time traffic data on a vehicle navigation system, surround sound or TiVo-like services for radio," he says. —PAUL HEINE

CUMULUS MEDIA

During the past several years, Cumulus Media has sailed through the airwaves with steadfast stamina. But with the fourth-quarter 2005 purchase of Susquehanna Radio for $1.2 billion by newly formed Cumulus Media Partners, the company is poised to take to the skies.

The Oct. 31 deal added 33 stations to Cumulus' portfolio of 293 outlets, now in 67 markets, allowing the firm to leap from its respectable rank as the No. 11 radio group to No. 3. Granted, it remains miles behind No. 1 Clear Channel and No. 2 CBS Radio, but chairman/CEO Lew Dickey Jr., insists the future looms large.

"To tell you the truth, I did not expect this to happen," he says of the acquisition. "Susquehanna came online in April, and I was shocked. I figured they would be one of the last groups to trade. We went into Def Con 5 mode, all consuming, for about six months. I'm very pleased with the outcome."

Dickey believes the radio industry is poised for a second significant round of consolidation, following passage of the Telecommunications Act in 1996, which transformed the business from a cadre of mom-and-pop operators to a Wall Street force field.

"I think we're ripe for massive consolidation," Dickey adds. "I'm expecting a wave that lasts through the remainder of the decade."

And who will come out on top? "I firmly believe that whomever doesn't end up with either Susquehanna or ABC Radio will end up for sale," he says. "If you didn't get one of those two, you're not going to be a player for very long. We had to bag this one to stay in the game, and we're very well-positioned now to grow."

Cumulus is eyeing at least half a dozen more radio companies to stack its deck, including ABC, Dickey says. The public Cumulus Media will focus on acquisitions in markets 200-250, while Cumulus Media Partners—a private equity firm comprising Cumulus Media, Bain Capital, the Blackstone Group and Thomas H. Lee Partners, which financed the Susquehanna buyout—will pursue stations in the top 50 markets.

"Our primary goal has always been to be one of the last remaining consolidators," Dickey notes. "I don't know exactly who's going to ultimately end up with what, but being No. 3 adequately positions us to be one of the top players in the business for the long haul." —CHUCK TAYLOR

STREAMING AUDIO PROVIDERS

In the world of streaming audio, the key players are CDNs, or content delivery networks. And as wireless networks become a significant avenue for content delivery by radio groups (read: content providers), the world of CDNs will become much more important.

Radio is not the only industry that has experienced tremendous consolidation. CDNs and other Internet companies that provide streaming audio services to the broadcast industry have seen their share of consolidation, too.

Here are snapshots of four of the more significant CDNs that work with broadcasters.

- Akamai Technologies is probably at the top of the CDN food chain, if only because it is now the exclusive provider of streaming services for Clear Channel's 1,200 stations, more than 400 of which are now streaming live. Clear Channel's online audience grew last year from 5.9 million unique listeners and viewers per month to almost 8 million. Time spent listening online increased almost 70% to more than 9.5 hours per week. Clear Channel ranks among the top three online music and video content providers, according to comScore/Arbitron ratings.

- Eonstreams currently includes Citadel Broadcasting and, until recently, some Clear Channel stations among its clients. The company has been a streaming services provider for more than three years and is based in Knoxville, Tenn.

- Limelight Networks provides streaming audio services to all of ABC Radio's stations, as well as to several other radio groups and networks. Limelight's advanced CDN offers media content and software via the Internet.

- Publicly traded VitalStream Holdings acquired another streaming services provider, PlayStream, last May. Then, in mid-2005, the company hired Jack Waterman as its new CEO. Waterman had held senior executive positions during his 22-year career at Paramount Pictures. Most recently, he served for more than a decade as president of worldwide pay TV, where his additional responsibilities included international channels, pay per view, video on demand, and airline and hotel sales. —TONY SANDERS

WORLDSPACE

WorldSpace is the original developer of satellite-based digital radio services. In early December, the company announced it had surpassed 100,000 subscribers globally. That is far fewer than the millions of subs XM and Sirius can claim in the United States, but this third player on the satellite radio stage could be the bellwether for gauging global acceptance of a subscription-based audio service by consumers.

Last year, the company raised $250 million in an initial public offering. Shares began trading at $24.10 and fell the first day to $22.36, a higher figure than the IPO's price of $21.

Now, shares are significantly lower. In December, they dropped to $13.47. At the start of 2006, they moved a bit higher, closing at $14.20 on Jan. 3.

While XM and Sirius compete head to head for subscribers in North America, WorldSpace is the only licensed provider of satellite radio for the rest of the world, except for Japan and North Korea. Last year, WorldSpace launched rollouts in nine cities in India. —TONY SANDERS

CHARTS

THIS WEEK IN DATA. For complete charts, there's always more at www.BillboardRadioMonitor.com

LEGEND TO CHARTS

Charts are ranked by detection, except for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country charts which are based on audience impressions, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data.

● Songs showing an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. Exempting the Country chart, a song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country). Country titles which decline in audience but increase in detections will also receive a bullet if the total audience erosion for the week does not exceed 3%.

AUDIENCE TOTALS on the charts are derived, in part, using certain Arbitron Inc. copyrighted Persons 12+ audience estimates, under license.

◎ AIRPOWER: awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Airpower awards do not appear on the Latin and Christian, gospel charts.

↑ GREATEST GAINER: awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country).

+ MOST AIRPLAY ADDS: awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week.

TIES: A song with the best detection differential (audience differential for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week is ranked first if tied with another song on the chart. If the songs are still tied at this point, the title that is being played on the most stations at that format will be ranked first.

RECURRENT RULE: Songs below the top 20 (top 15 for Adult Top 40, AC, Adult R&B, Heritage Rock, Dance, Christian and Gospel) become recurrenents and are removed from the chart after 20 weeks. In addition, songs that have been on the chart for more than 52 weeks and rank below No. 10 will become recurrenents and will be removed from the chart. Descending country titles move to recurrent after 20 weeks if they rank below No. 15 in either audience or detections.

Nielsen BDS certification for airplay of 100,000 detections on all monitored stations, including satellite and national networks, across the U.S. and Canada. Numeral following symbol indicates multiple level of 100,000 detections.

★ Indicates title earned Hit-Predictor status in research data provided by Promosquad.

Playlists are listed in order of TSA weekly come, beginning with the highest-coming station. Comes are updated twice yearly following the release of the spring and fall Arbitron surveys.

A+ AIRPLAY ADDS denotes songs with 6 or more detections at station for first time this week.

IMPACT! Songs at Airpower level and below with a gain in detections or with a percentage loss in detections equal to or better than the monitored downtime in the format.

★ INITIAL IMPACT: Indicates song's first appearance on the Impact! page.

THE SPIN

UNDERWOOD TAKES 'WHEEL' TO NO. 1

"American Idol" winner Carrie Underwood basks in the No. 1 spotlight on the Country chart with "Jesus, Take the Wheel" (Arista Nashville), marking the first time the list has been dominated by a solo female artist since Sara Evans spent two weeks there in September 2005 with "A Real Fine Place to Start."

Underwood's single also gains traction on the religious music charts with a 16-12 leap on Christian Adult Contemporary and a 16-14 move on Christian Songs. Both of those charts sport a Hot Shot Debut inside the top 10 as worship leader Chris Tomlin storms in at No. 6 on the AC chart with "How Great Is Our God" (EMICMG) and enters Christian Songs at No. 7.

Also noteworthy on Christian Songs is a No. 37 debut by Mary Mary's "Heaven" (Integrity), which previously spent 15 weeks atop the Gospel Songs chart.

BEYONCÉ CASHES IN WITH ANOTHER TOP 10

Beyoncé earns her fifth consecutive top 10 as a lead artist at Rhythmic Top 40 as "Check on It" (SUM) featuring Slim Thug climbs 12-8. Not since Jennifer Lopez's run from 2001 to 2003 has a female artist been able to string together an equal amount of trips to that region of the chart.

Starting in June 2003 with "Crazy in Love," the first release from her debut solo album, Beyoncé has reached the top 10 with each of her singles and has topped the chart three times. If one includes the assist she gave to Jay-Z on his "'03 Bonnie & Clyde" at the beginning of 2003, the singer has crossed the top 10 threshold six straight times. For Beyoncé, it is a continuation of the success she attained as a member of Destiny's Child. The trio racked up seven uninterrupted visits to the Rhythmic Top 40 top 10 from 1999 to 2001 and has 10 overall top 10s to its credit.

Modern Chart In 'Hypnotic' State

System of a Down makes its second trip to the top of the Modern Rock chart as "Hypnotize" (Columbia) jumps 3-1. The quartet first reached No. 1 in September 2002 when it began a three-week run with "Aerials."

Meanwhile, Nine Inch Nails' "Every Day Is Exactly the Same" (Interscope) becomes the first song this decade to pick up the chart's Most Airplay Adds honors for four consecutive weeks.

KEYS TURNS IN A RECORD PERFORMANCE

Alicia Keys holds on to No. 1 for a 10th week at Adult R&B, one frame after breaking the single-week detection mark at the format. During last week's unpublished period, "Unbreakable" (RMG) posted 1,691 spins, which bettered the 1,572 detections earned by "We Belong Together" by Mariah Carey in the Aug. 12, 2005, issue.

Meanwhile, Ray J makes his first appearance at Adult Top 40 in nine years as "One Wish" (Sanctuary) takes a bow at No. 37. He last spent a week on the list with "Let It Go" in the April 4, 1997, issue. "Wish" peaked at No. 3 at R&B/Hip-Hop in the Dec. 16, 2005, issue.

Lifehouse Leads AC Chart

Lifehouse scores its first No. 1 on the Adult Contemporary chart as "You and Me" (Geffen) moves 3-1 in its 29th week on the chart. The track, which picks up Greatest Gainer honors, previously spent nine weeks on top of the Adult Top 40 chart in the latter half of the past year.

Meanwhile, Hootie & the Blowfish re-enter at No. 5 with "One Love" (Vanguard). The track moved to recurrent status during the holiday season, but is allowed to return because of its substantial spin gain and the fact that it is now at the highest rank of its chart run. It is the band's first top 10 since 1996's "Time."

Also enjoying renewed top 10 success is Eric Clapton, whose "Say What You Will" (Reprise) at No. 10 is his first song to hit that portion of the chart since 1999's "Blue Eyes Blue." Meanwhile, Melissa Etheridge, who dips a spot to No. 11 with "I Run for Life" (IDJMG), returned to the top 10 a week ago for the first time since her 1995 No. 1 hit, "I'm the Only One."

NO. 1 'RUN' BY BROWN CONTINUES

Chris Brown's "Run It!" (Zomba) remains No. 1 at Mainstream Top 40 for the seventh week. It is the longest-running No. 1 track for a new male solo artist since Shawn Mullins held for eight weeks with "Lullaby" in 1998. Brown holds off "Stickwitu" (Interscope) by the Pussycat Dolls by only 28 detections, which is the closest difference between the top two songs on the chart since the Feb. 18, 2005, issue when Ciara's "1, 2 Step" beat out Mario's "Let Me Love You" by six spins.

Songs are blind tested online by PromoSquad using multiple listens and a nationwide sample of carefully profiled music consumers. Songs are rated on a 1-5 scale; final results are based on weighted positives. Songs with a score of 65 or more are judged to have Hit Potential, although that benchmark number can fluctuate per format based on the strength of available music.
