THE NEW TRIUMVIRATE

THE RELATIONSHIP AMONG RADIO, CONCERT PROMOTERS AND AGENTS BY MIKE BOYLE

More than ever before, radio is working more directly with concert promoters and agents to bring artists to towns big and small across America, according to sources interviewed by Billboard Radio Monitor.

Some point to the uneasiness created by New York State Attorney General Eliot Spitzer's ongoing payola investigation, and broadcasters subsequently becoming more cautious about their dealings with record companies. Others say concert promoters and agents have become hungrier and more competitive, and place a premium value on the insight and promotional power stations and programmers can provide when deciding what artists to bring to town.

Legendary concert promoter John Scher believes the relationship between radio and promoters has changed in recent years, primarily because he perceives much less music on terrestrial radio nowadays.

"Less radio-driven concerts are due to the reshuffle of the industry, instigated by Eliot Spitzer," Scher says. He now manages artists, is part of the executive team running indie label Hybrid Recordings and recently re-entered the concert promotion business via Metropolitan Talent. "This has caused some of the concert business to go away, certainly in the secondary markets."

Scher also sees stagnation when it comes to creating events. "There's a willingness on the part of most radio to work with local concert promoters, but there's less opportunities."

While the reasons why radio, promoters and agents have become more connected at the hip are not entirely clear, one thing is for sure: The promotional ideas being collectively hatched appear to be as limitless as the sky.

PICKING EACH OTHER'S BRAINS

Tom Cuddy, VP of programming for ABC Radio adult top 40 WPLJ New York, says the station is in constant contact with promoters, as they query about what artists generate ticker sales.

"They'll ask us, based on music we're already playing or have a history of playing, 'Will you support this band or that act at this time? Or do you think we should wait to bring them to the market?'"

Cuddy also notes that promoters and agents, now more than ever, realize they have to give people more bang for their buck, due to competition and escalating ticket costs. "They also constantly ask our opinions on artist pairings so that shows can be put together with two name acts instead of just one."

On the flip side, Agency Group senior VP Ken Fermaglich keeps an eagle eye on airplay charts, keenly scouring for what acts are hot.

"When it comes to tour marketing, radio PIDs can give you a clear picture of what works and what doesn't," Fermaglich says. "They can also tell you what is sexy on the air and what is not."

"Sometimes reaching out to programmers," he adds, "helps me to understand how to effectively tour market an artist better than I would initially."

Chicago-based promoter Frank Mastalerz, who runs FM Entertainment, believes that the nature of the music business today has forced his relationship with radio to become much closer. "As a promoter, you also need to feel confident enough in your relationship with radio to discuss songs and artists for airplay that would not only work for the station but also help in deciding what artists to bring to town."

For Greater Media rock WRAT Monmouth-Ocean, N.J., PD Carl Craft, the relationship is more about negotiating to upgrade his station's promotional efforts. "I like working out deals for our signage at shows plus getting our call letters on the tickets," he says. "I also like working more closely with artist managers, who are always eager to know what we're doing with their artist on the air."

"At the end of the day," Craft notes, "all the audience wants is a connection to the band."

MUTUAL ADMIRATION

What's driving the improved relationship among radio, concert promoters and agents?

"Years ago, shows didn't come to small markets such as ours," says Michael Cross, PD/afternoon drive host at Bahakel Communications active rock KFMW Waterloo/Cedar Rapids, Iowa. "Now, since we're the only active rock station in Iowa, a lot of the baby bands are coming to and selling out our clubs."

"Promoters are watching the bands we're supporting with airplay, and we're proving to them that these bands are a hit in the clubs and arenas, too," he adds.

Cross compares this relationship to the way labels and stations worked together back in the day and says communication is critical to create successful shows.

Marlin Broadcasting active rock WCCC Hartford, Conn., PD/afternoon driver Michael Picozzi concurs on the record label/concert promoter role reversal. "Record guys used to be the 'promotion guys.' Now the promoters are coming up with the ideas."

In Hartford, Picozzi's relationship with the local promoter, Clear Channel's Live Nation, was previously not as close as it is now.

"Years ago, Clear Channel had two other rock stations in the market," he says. "We had to be 10 times as good because Clear Channel not only owned the competition, but they were the promoters and owned the venue, too."

During those challenging years, Picozzi claims WCCC was forced into the role of the "bad guy." The station achieved a presence at shows co-promoted by competing stations by posting them to the point where the promoter would get angry at WCCC because his hands were tied with Clear Channel, he says.

"As our Clear Channel competitors dropped off one by one, we became the only rock station in the market," he recalls. "Now we have a great relationship with Live Nation." It is such a great relationship that one of Live Nation's people chats on-air with WCCC midday personality/MD Mike Karolyi every Friday about upcoming shows and when tickets go on sale.

PUTTING HEADS TOGETHER

WPLJ has enjoyed the fruits of relationships with promoters and agents during the past seven-plus years with its highly successful Up Close & Personal concert series at New York's famed China Club.

"We'd rather feature one artist that people want to see in an intimate environment rather than a bunch," Cuddy says of the series. "We look for the kind of artists that would play Madison Square Garden one night, then do the China Club for us the next night for a few hundred of our listeners."

Scher, who has worked with WPLJ for many years, says the station has been a great partner. "Here's a radio station that is active and involved with their audience. The China Club series helps bridge the artist-development story locally."

All the promoters and agents Monitor spoke with agreed the most effective radio promotions are ones that enable listeners to reach out and practically touch the artists.

"Allowing the listeners to be in the pit in front of the stage and photograph the show is always huge," Cuddy says. "Acts are now allowing winners to watch the show from backstage or from the side of the stage on a grandstand."

Fermaglich is on the same page. "Anything that involves the band, whether it's the age-old meet-and-greet, or doing things like playing golf or pingpong backstage with the artists, are huge ways to do promotions.

"Creativity is the name of the game," he adds. "The sky is the limit as long as you have a willing band and a willing radio station."

Picozzi favors concert promotions that engage the listener, especially with trivia questions and not just the old "Be caller No. 25 to win the tickets." "We'll give away tickets for a week starting with 'Fifth Row Monday,' which will lead up to 'Front Row Friday,'" he says.

Scher agrees there is not much effort or excitement in seeking caller No. 25 to win tickets. "Trivia questions have always been a great way to engage the core audience, and give the station good content and flavor, and also bring more of a spotlight and importance to the upcoming concert."

SATELLITE RADIO NEXT?

Indications are that the relationship among radio, concert promoters and agents will only become stronger. However, concerns have been raised.

KFMW's Cross worries about having too many shows for his listeners to choose from. "Their dollars can only support so many shows."

Fermaglich, the agent, is concerned about rock stations flipping formats. "As we continue to lose radio stations, it gets tougher to develop, build and sustain bands," he observes. "I can pick up some of that slack with satellite radio, but the number of listeners is minimal compared to terrestrial radio."

Metropolitan's Scher is also looking toward the possibility of developing relationships with satellite broadcasters. "Satellite, from a national footprint, gives a niche artist a great deal more exposure," he says. "You can now focus on a particular kind of music and find an outlet for it where that act might not be getting any airplay or limited airplay on terrestrial radio." ■■■

AN UNLIKELY COUNTRY HIT

A ROCK GROUP TOPS THE COUNTRY CHART FOR THE FIRST TIME EVER—HOW DID THIS HAPPEN?
BY PHYLLIS STARK

Jennifer Nettles and
Jon Bon Jovi

BON JOVI RECENTLY notched a chart milestone by becoming the first rock band to land a No. 1 single on Billboard Radio Monitor's Country Airplay chart. The group's hit, "Who Says You Can't Go Home," spent two weeks at the top of that chart.

The song followed an interesting path to success beginning when the band took a chance on a then-unknown singer named Jennifer Nettles, asking her to sing on the track. Their collaboration would later be boosted by some key TV exposure and the unlikely support of country radio and would go on to earn nominations for two significant country music awards.

The road to their first country hit began when Bon Jovi's Jon Bon Jovi and Richie Sambora wrote and recorded a version of the song for the group's ninth studio album, last year's "Have a Nice Day" (Island), which has sold 1.1 million copies, according to Nielsen SoundScan. The album includes two versions of the song, one without Nettles that is currently a hit on the adult top 40 and AC charts, and the one with Nettles—lead singer of hot country act Sugarland—that was so successfully worked to country radio.

But Nettles was not their first choice duet partner. After hatching the idea for a country version of the song, Bon Jovi ran into Keith Urban at a Los Angeles hotel gym. He asked the country superstar to sing and play on the track.

"I said, 'Go do something useful and sing a verse and play some banjo and let me see if my theory is right about this song,'" Bon Jovi recalls telling Urban in the studio.

The collaboration was not what either artist had in mind. "The experiment was interesting, but nothing either of us really thought we'd ever use," Bon Jovi says. "It was kind of like, 'Hey, we'll do a rough mix and send you a copy for fun.' Our voices were too similar. A banjo wasn't really the way to go on the track. But I now had the idea in my head that this could really work."

Thus, when Universal Music Group Nashville co-chairman Luke Lewis suggested Nettles and sent him a copy of Sugarland's album, Bon Jovi was intrigued by the young singer from Island's sister label, Mercury.

"I liked her voice, [and] I liked their songs," Bon Jovi says. But there was one final test Nettles had to overcome. "If I was going to put somebody singing on my record, they better deliver the lyric the way it needed to be delivered," he says. "I couldn't have somebody interpret it incorrectly, because it would negate what our song was about."

While John Shanks produced the original track, Bon Jovi sent Nettles into the studio with Nashville producer Dann Huff. And with Huff's help Nettles "nailed it. [She] hit a grand slam," Bon Jovi says. Huff then "twanged it up for real."

John Ettinger, VP of national promotion for Mercury Records, was in the studio with Nettles and Huff and recalls that in the singer's 20 or 25 takes she "just ripped at it." Near the end of the session, Huff told her to have some fun with it, which is when Ettinger says she added some of the "vocal stylings" that make the song so distinctive.

"I was so happy with it that I was willing to take a shot," says Bon Jovi, who says he was carefully trying to avoid "insulting the country audience" by giving the impression of his group as "these carpetbaggers who were going to come in and say they're a country band suddenly."

At the time, Sugarland was little-known. Since then, however, the group's debut Mercury album, "Twice the Speed of Life" (which does not contain "Who Says You Can't Go Home") has been certified double-platinum by the RIAA, and the group has landed three other top 10 songs, "Baby Girl," "Something More" and "Just Might (Make Me Believe)." The single is available as a digital download and starting May 23 the song and video will be available exclusively through Target as a CD shrinkwrapped with "Twice the Speed of Life."

TV TIME

Last year, Sugarland and Bon Jovi teamed for a CMT "Crossroads" special that included a dynamic performance of "Who Says You Can't Go Home." While Mercury executives had already been talking about releasing it as a country single, the reaction to that show helped convince them to give it a shot.

Next up, Bon Jovi appeared on the Country Music Assn. Awards in New York in November 2005, where Nettles joined the band for another spirited performance of the song.

Bill Catino, executive VP of Universal Music Group Nashville, says the nationally televised CMA Awards performance "definitely gave it a boost. [Programmers] say their phone lines started hitting [with requests]. It probably surprised a few people."

Country radio programmers, once notorious for shunning anything considered to be outside the format's parameters, began to embrace "Who Says You Can't Go Home" with surprisingly little resistance.

In fact, for a time the Mercury promotion team got more flack from radio for working two Nettles tracks at once (the team was simultaneously working Sugarland's ballad "Just Might [Make Me Believe]") than it did for bringing a Bon Jovi track to country radio.

Nettles and Bon Jovi then shot a compelling video for the song, which played off the title to bolster Bon Jovi's support for the charity Habitat for Humanity. The video, directed by Bon Jovi's brother Anthony Bongiovi, was filmed at a Habitat home-building site and featured shots of volunteers intercut with scenes of Nettles and Bon Jovi performing. The clip helped the song garner additional exposure with the country audience when it received significant play on CMT and GAC as well as VH1.

Last month it won the CMT Award for collaborative video of the year. The single is also nominated for an Academy of Country Music Award. That show takes place May 23 in Las Vegas.

ON THE AIR

The reaction of Jesse Garcia, APD/MD of Entercom WDAF Kansas City, was fairly typical of many country programmers. "At first when I heard Bon Jovi was releasing a [country] song, I was skeptical, but interested," he says. "Once I heard the song, I knew they had something."

Brooks O'Brian, PD of Clear Channel KWNR Las Vegas, remembers initially thinking, "Why take up one of my spots with a rock star who most likely will do this one song and then move on?" But she soon reconsidered. "I realized that I have always been a Bon Jovi fan, I grew up with Bon Jovi. I'm familiar with all [their] music, and my core audience is my age." It also helped that "he's singing with one of country music's biggest up-and-coming acts."

ABC Radio KTYS (the Twister) Dallas started playing the song last September, almost three months before it first showed up on the Country Airplay chart. Chris Huff, APD/MD of KTYS and sister KSCS, says, "Soon after the song was serviced to country, we found ourselves in the same boat as most country stations . . . Wondering if we were really playing a Bon Jovi song between George Strait and Alabama. It may have seemed illogical to our programming minds, but it never seemed to violate our audiences' sensibilities on either station. The song wound up having a long and solid run in our callout, pleasantly exceeding all of our expectations."

The Nashville promotion team was as surprised as anyone that the record became such a smash. "We never thought it would go past the major markets," Catino says. "We thought it would hit a wall at some point [but were] proven wrong."

In some markets, the response from listeners was more polarized. "It was split," Garcia says, with people saying, "either Bon Jovi's not country, or they really like it."

O'Brian says the response from her listeners was "not as big as [with] other Sugarland singles, but no negative response. When we played Kid Rock [and Sheryl Crow's] 'Picture' we got some negative feedback probably because his name is more related to rock and rap. Listeners didn't seem offended by Bon Jovi."

Marci Braun, APD/MD of CBS Radio WUSN (US 99.5) Chicago, says she had no initial reservations about the song and neither did her listeners. "It researched through the roof," she says. "We had the song in heavy [rotation] for just about two months straight."

Many country programmers were careful to validate the song's country credentials by giving Nettles top or equal billing on the air. WUSN even aired a produced stager before every spin early in the record's life to help familiarize listeners with it. Ettinger remembers a few country programmers telling him early on that they would never say the name Bon Jovi on their airwaves for fear of the reaction from their core country listeners.

Ettinger thinks Nettles' confident performance helped sway some programmers. "The way [she] owned what she was doing helped country radio feel better about playing it."

Unsure of what to expect from this single, the Mercury promotion team took an uncharacteristically low-key approach while continuing to work the record hard. "We let the record do its own talking, and we were pretty calm through this one," Ettinger says. "There were no yelling sessions, [no] having to put the hammer down with specific programmers. We understood their worries and discussed those worries, and those worries subsided."

Meanwhile, Bon Jovi is so grateful for country radio's support that he has done multiple interviews with country stations, something he rarely does for pop stations anymore.

While most pop stations are playing the non-Nettles version of the song, one exception is ABC Radio WPLJ New York. "Since we don't have a country station in New York, we have been sprinkling in appropriate country cuts in the last couple of years like Faith [Hill], Tim [McGraw] and Keith [Urban]," VP of programming Tom Cuddy says. "So when the opportunity popped up to satisfy both our pop/rock listeners along with the homeless country fans, we jumped at the chance.

"We have aired both versions of the song," Cuddy says. "However, since listeners have responded better to the Jennifer mix, we've favored that version on 'PLJ with more spins."

COUNTRY CRED

While this is their first country hit, the members of Bon Jovi are no strangers to Nashville or country music. Jon Bon Jovi has made multiple trips to Music City for songwriting collaborations during the last 15 years, and the group has recorded and performed here many times, including laying the tracks for the "These Days" album in Nashville.

Jon Bon Jovi even spent five weeks on the Country Airplay chart in 1998 on a duet with Chris LeDoux, "Bang a Drum," and Bon Jovi's hit "Wanted Dead or Alive" was recorded by country artist Chris Cagle on his 2005 Capitol Records Nashville set "Anywhere but Here."

"A lot of people know that I have been there many, many times," Bon Jovi says, "and not just swooped in and said, 'Hey, y'all, I've got a country single.'"

While the song had been building steam for quite some time, Bon Jovi says his initial idea that it could work as a country hit wasn't validated for him until he ultimately got a call saying it had gone to No. 1.

"Up until that point it was just going to be a footnote . . . just another song that crossed over," he says. "[But to be] the first rock band to ever have a No. 1 country single is pretty neat."

Asked if he'd like to have more country hits, Bon Jovi says, "It's not too foreign an idea." ●●●

KMEL BREAKS LOCAL ARTISTS

BY HILLARY CROSLY

Sunshine breeds happier people and even better music. Clear Channel R&B/hip-hop KMEL San Francisco, the market's perennial 18-34 leader, shows no signs of slowing down. The station rose 4.0-4.3 12-plus in the winter 2006 Arbitron book, bested only by ABC Radio news/talk dynasty KGO and Bonneville International AC bellwether KOIT. And with the Bay Area's "hyphy" scene gaining nationwide notoriety, KMEL has done its part to support local talent and give Yay-areans exactly what they want.

"We are the street station so we have real street folks on our team," PD Stacy Cunningham says. "These kids know where to go and where our PIs are. We stay in the clubs and do about four to five per week."

APD/MD Big Von agrees, boasting, "We have the hottest DJs in the Bay."

"When I hear the same set in the club that I just played on the radio, I know I'm doing my job," he adds.

Strangely enough, KMEL's closest competition comes from rhythmic top 40 sister KYLD (Wild 94.9). Once fierce rivals, the siblings now strategically play musical chairs.

Quinn, Federation and the Team that gives it a leg up over KYLD.

"I have either helped these dudes out with their albums," Big Von says, "or I've DJ'd for them. We all know each other. So when you come to KMEL's studio, you just see artists playing dominos or pool. It's a real family vibe."

'BATTLE OF THE BAY'

Historically, the Bay Area's music scene went quiet around 2003. So Big Von and KMEL veteran-turned-MTV-VJ Sway decided to jump-start it with a weekly rap competition called "Battle of the Bay." Winners garnered a week of airplay, which helped launch the careers of unsigned local favorites like Mistah F.A.B. and Clyde Carson. Then the Bay Area's music scene gained momentum with front-runner Keak Da Sneak, who reached No. 10 on Billboard's May 28, 2005, Bubbling Under R&B/Hip-Hop Singles Chart with "Super Hyphy" leading the pack. From there, Bay Area producer Rick Rock's group Federation, signed to Virgin Records, dropped the single "Hyphy."

"The first to really take off was Federation with their song 'Hyphy' and then Keak's 'T-Shirt,'" Big Von says. "Then the 'Hyphy' remix came with independents San Quinn, Turf Talk and Keak along with the Federation on one track. That's how we got things going again. And at 2003's Summer Jam, Federation came and turned it out. All the big stars didn't even matter because folks were just glad to have some home pride."

Not long after, trendsetting music magazine The Fader latched onto the Bay Area's growing hip-hop scene. And with blogs, articles and dedicated hipster fandom, The Fader and hip-hop mainstay publication XXL helped spread the Bay Area buzz to the East Coast. So by 2006, E-40's major-label album "My Ghetto Report Card," which debuted on the Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums chart at No. 1, and crossover single "Tell Me When to Go," which peaked at No. 37 on Hot R&B/Hip-Hop Songs, became the Bay Area hip-hop scene's expressway to national exposure. Soon enough MTV aired "My Block: The Bay" as part of a series that exposed and thereby catapulted local hip-hop scenes, including Houston in 2005. "My Block: The Bay" featured unsigned northern California darlings Mistah F.A.B., Keak Da Sneak, Turf Talk and San Quinn, whose only previous exposure had been the streets, the Internet and KMEL airplay.

"For the past three to four years, KMEL has really gotten behind a lot of local music," says E-40, whose new single with Lil Jon, "Snap Yo Fingers," is No. 7 on Billboard Radio Monitor's R&B/Hip-Hop chart. "Local music and artists stepped it up a notch. And now we hotter than fish grease."

Without major labels shopping their songs, unsigned artists take unorthodox routes to get Cunningham, Big Von and KMEL's mixers to hear their music.

"Most harass security with their CDs," Big Von says. "We shuffle through them and about 10% make the playlist as compared to the 90% that's ass-licious. Everyone thinks that they can [be an MC] because KMEL's biggest record doesn't have a video, ain't on MTV, with no album in stores. So you have to think to yourself, 'I could do it, too!'"

Meanwhile, E-40, who has his own KMEL Sunday-afternoon show, "E-Feezy Radio," gets joints via "MP3, or they give it to me when I'm at a show or a club."

Cunningham credits her mixers Big Von, Mind Motion, Rick Lee, Scottie Fox and Will C. Wood as being first to discover new local artists. Meanwhile, San Francisco veteran and Deal Done independent label artist San Quinn simply drops his new music at the station.

"They didn't accept everything, but they did accept the quality stuff," says San Quinn, whose latest single, "Hell Yeah," is No. 10 in KMEL's top 40. "They took a chance and helped us step our music up with constructive criticism."

Big Von says that even with a Warner Music Group artist like E-40, he still receives new records weeks before major labels service them to radio. On the other hand, tracks from artists like Keak Da Sneak mysteriously arrive on his desk.

"Radio is the biggest promotion after the streets because it reaches different areas we can't walk to," says Keak, whose song "T-Shirt" still researches in KMEL's top 10 though it's almost 3 years old.

Several majors are trying to sign Keak, and he attributes that popularity entirely to KMEL spins.

"I know they can break records and get me a record deal if I wanted one," Keak adds.

Despite the Bay Area's current "hyphy" hip-hop movement, there was a time when KMEL wasn't so supportive of local acts. Some fans blamed Clear Channel, which purchased the station in 1999.

"To be honest, it wasn't a Clear Channel mandate," Cunningham says. "It wasn't going by a national format, but people like Ying Yang Twins, so we played Ying Yang Twins, not knowing the Bay's pride, and that people wanted to hear Avant, Donnell Jones and Jay-Z with a good mix of Bay [acts]. It took KMEL a minute to get that."

Still others like E-40 say independent music's "quality held it from getting played. Some folks didn't understand that the music had to be edited and it became a problem."

Regardless, KMEL is now staunchly supporting local artists and plans to keep hip-hop fresh. Even if national hits like T-Pain's "I'm Sprung" get slighted.

"Take [R&B crooner] J. Valentine—we were talking about starting an R&B group and making fucked up R&B songs," Big Von says. "So he went to the studio for like a day and came back with 'Go Dumb' [a remix of T-Pain's "I'm Sprung"]. We thought it was hilarious. Next thing you know, you've got the No. 1-requested song in the station, callout and rotation. And T-Pain comes to town like, 'You shitted on my record.' And we're like, 'Sorry!'"

With the station's recent success, Cunningham isn't looking to change its future branding too much.

"We've stayed consistent with our staff and slogan, 'Bay Area's home for hip-hop and R&B,'" she says. "I think saying 'Bay Area' in our slogan drives the brand."

Thus far, Cunningham, Big Von and the KMEL team have been right when it comes to mirroring the Bay Area's vibrant hip-hop scene. So like the saying goes, if it ain't broke . . .

"KMEL plays more R&B/hip-hop where Wild will play hip-hop, spike in some R&B, and also play Pussycat Dolls with Baby Bash and Gwen Stefani mixed in," Cunningham says. "They're imaged more towards Latin and [the] San Jose [market, which is 23% Hispanic], where we're more imaged towards San Francisco and the East Bay."

KYLD is also imaged as the region's party station, where KMEL has adopted the ubiquitous but somehow relevant catchphrase "real hip-hop." Still, the playlist parallels are obvious. For example, KYLD's four most-played artists are E-40, Usher, 50 Cent and Aaliyah, while KMEL bangs E-40, Aaliyah, Ice Cube and Mary J. Blige.

KMEL has long established itself as "the people's station" by nurturing local talent and breaking R&B divas like Goapele and platinum-seller Keyshia Cole. But it's the hip-hop camaraderie that the station has engendered with local unsigned all-stars like San

RIDES RECORD RATINGS WAVE

BY CHUCK TAYLOR

The last time Clear Channel mainstream top 40 WHTZ (Z100) New York posted an 11 share 18-34, Madonna was singing "Papa Don't Preach" instead of preaching Kabbalah herself. It was in the spring of 1986, precisely a decade before current PD Tom Poleman would arrive at the Clear Channel powerhouse.

In the winter 2006 Arbitron book, Z100 not only posted its highest adult ratings in 20 years, but it was also No. 1 across a host of female demos: 18-24, 25-34, 18-44, 12-34, 12-17, 12-24 and 12-44. With a four-book uptrend (3.9-4.2-4.4-4.7) the station now ranks No. 3 in the market 12-plus, behind AC sister WLTV (Lite FM) and Spanish Broadcasting System Spanish top 40 WSKQ.

Poleman, also senior VP of programming for Clear Channel's five-FM New York cluster, attributes the triumphant book to years of slow, steady simmering, with an optimum combination of talent, content and consistency at last making soup: "Yes, the planets aligned nicely this time," he says.

"Every great radio station is built on phenomenal personalities, great music and marketing and promotion, plus a great hallway dynamic," Poleman adds. "It's been a slow build for the radio station over time and we reached a point where everything jelled."

Radio consultant Guy Zapoleon, who claims Z100 as a client, agrees that a combination of variables clicked, but he also gives the PD a lion's share of credit: "Z100 had its best book in 20 years because Tom Poleman is never satisfied with just maintaining the success that the station has had," he says. "He is always trying to top himself and finding new ways to make Z100 better and more tapped into what the Z100 fan and potential fan wants."

"Tom has an amazing vision of what a top radio station can be," Zapoleon adds. "This understanding comes from his knowledge of great radio stations throughout history, as well as a fresh new knowledge of what the information and entertainment needs are of today's radio listener. He's an information hound from all areas of pop culture, entertainment and radio, which helps him create some of the most unique and creative radio on the planet."

TEAMWORK

The ever-humble Poleman, however, credits his team for providing the mortar between his building blocks.

He explains: "It's about everybody being on the same page and working toward the same goal, checking your ego at the door, looking at the glass as half full, being positive about the future, having a sales department that works great with marketing and promotion, a morning show that understands the goals of sales. It's about understanding who the target audience of the radio station is and always having that filter in mind with everything we do."

The Z Morning Zoo, commandeered by Elvis Duran, who began in afternoons at the station in 1989 and was moved to morning drive by Poleman in 1996, posted a 4.7-5.1 winter 12-plus gain, to finish No. 4. The show is No. 1 with women 18-34, registering an 11.9-12.8 gain.

Poleman notes, "They're sounding better than ever, clicking on all cylinders. The personalities are well-designed, content is right on the mark and the show is well-targeted and well-executed."

Shelley Wade dipped 9.9-9.7 in women 18-34, but remained No. 1 in middays; MD Paul "Cubby" Bryant was up 10.1-12.1 for New York's No. 1-ranked afternoon drive-time shift in the demo; while evening team Romeo, Niko and Joe rose 9.5-10.2 to rank second.

"All of our personalities have been on the air for a while and had the chance to sink into the fabric of the community," Poleman says. "That's certainly a piece of it as well."

THE MUSIC MIX

Music, of course, is the other factor in a top 40 outlet's success, and the recent move toward more balance nationwide has paid off for Z100.

"Hip-hop has been on such a high for the past few years; it was bound to start to falter. With any style of music, after a while, people need something to balance out the mix," Poleman says.

Such hits as "Bad Day" by Daniel Powter, "Unwritten" by Natasha Bedingfield, "Everytime We Touch" by Cascada and

Los Angeles outlet roared 4.3-4.9 in winter 2005, to finish No. 1 12-plus in the nation's No. 2 market, a feat all the more remarkable for an Anglo station in a market where Hispanics account for 40% of the population.

KIIS PD John Ivey was unavailable to comment for this story, but Poleman notes, "John and I talk on a daily basis. We have different market dynamics in L.A. and New York in terms of audience composition, but the principles remain the same. We both have great morning shows and we employ similar marketing tactics. There are a lot of common denominators, even though our blend of music may be different."

HOLDING STEADY

With record ratings attained, now comes what can be a large challenge: maintaining and growing that success.

All in the family: From left, Z100 assistant MD/nighttimer Romeo; APD Sharon Dastur; Michael Poleman and his father, PD Tom Poleman; midday personality Shelley Wade; and MD/afternoon driver Cubby Bryant.

the steady run of smashes from Kelly Clarkson "help the energy of the radio station, keeping it hip but at the same time very mass appeal," he notes. "There are now a lot of rhythmic songs that aren't necessarily hip-hop and we're seeing passion scores that we wouldn't have two or three years ago."

Poleman reflects on the dominant style at Z100—and across much of the nation—when he arrived at the station in 1996. "We were just coming out of a phase of heavy alternative and polarizing music styles. It seems that the back half of every decade is met with better variety and more mass-appeal music. It's always like a rebirth of pop, which helps stations like Z100 do well."

Similar good fortune is shining upon Clear Channel mainstream top 40 KIIS-FM on the other side of the country. The Poleman says, "Everybody likes to be on a winning team, and when you get that momentum, it can snowball into something even better with every progressive book."

It doesn't hurt that the summer months are approaching, typically top 40's heyday as kids out of school turn to radio to accompany sunny days. "It's about riding the wave of the feel-good music of the season," he says.

Zapoleon, for one, has faith in Z100's continuing good fortune. "Because of the internal environment, because of his team, because of Tom Poleman's mind and vision, Z100 continues to reach greater rating heights and popularity in New York City and to be a monument to great radio that other radio stations in America aspire to be."

EMMIS ADOPTS PUB MODEL FOR STATION SITES BY PAUL HEINE

WHILE RADIO REVENUE WAS FLAT in 2005, local Internet ad spending took off like a bat out of hell, up a staggering 79% over 2004. In its fourth annual report on local Web site ad spending, Borrell Associates compared the explosion to that of the dot-com heydays.

"Local online advertising blossomed beyond even the rosiest predictions in 2005, hitting $4.9 billion," the report stated. Radio grabbed $60 million of the online revenue pie, according to Borrell. Newspapers, meanwhile, captured $2 billion of it.

Fighting fire with fire, Emmis Interactive has adopted a publishing model to increase its share of online ad dollars. Rather than putting its eggs in the streaming basket, the online division of Emmis Communications made a sizable investment in technical and design capabilities for its radio station Web sites. That is not surprising for a company that owns half a dozen city and regional magazines along with 25 mostly major-market U.S. radio stations.

"We love streaming and we're glad that the industry is moving in that direction," says Deb Esayian, Emmis Interactive VP

GIRLS ON PARADE

When Emmis acquired WLUP (the Loop) Chicago in a swap with Bonneville International last spring, the heritage rocker had roughly 10,000 unique visitors to its Web site, Mena says. After Emmis Interactive relaunched wloop.com, the number of uniques grew tenfold. The trigger was a promotion that, a decade ago, would have been nothing more than a series of club nights where all the "ka-ching" was happening behind the bar.

A beauty pageant with attitude, the Loop Rock Girl competition is a major marketing juggernaut that encompasses forced listening, online and call-in voting, off-site casting calls, video on demand (VOI), a TV campaign and scores of Chicago's most attractive women. Sponsored by Bud Light and the Illinois Lottery, the premise was simple: find a "spokesperson" for the radio station and pay her $50,000 for one year.

Contestants assembled at casting calls on Saturdays in March, mostly at area malls, where they were observed, photographed and interviewed by station personnel. Out of thousands of applicants, having programmed for Clear Channel and predecessor Jacor Communications, where the rock radio/Web equation "tits equals hits" was initially postulated and proved.

Sixteen weekdays of voting produced the "sweet 16" finalists who strutted their stuff April 29 at Joe's Sports Bar for a large beer- and testosterone-fueled crowd. Dukes says the two-hour pageant, hosted by Brandmeier and afternoon counterpart Zakk Tyler, "was more than a glorified wet T-shirt contest. We put [Gustafson] on a pedestal on the air all year long," Dukes says. "She voices all the Web promos on the station and people know they can see pictures of her on the Web site."

A trio of local celebrity judges helped station reps select the winner: Crystal Sullivan from Lindenhurst, Ill.

Mena, whose division built the promotion's online platform, views the competition as "an example of how we've used the Web, not as a dumping ground, but as a complementary piece to the programming. All the [Loop's] branding and imaging was around this particular promotion."

'WE LOVE STREAMING AND WE'RE GLAD THAT THE INDUSTRY IS MOVING IN THAT DIRECTION. THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER IS THE MARKETPLACE FOR STREAMING IS JUST EMERGING.' —DEB ESAYIAN

of integrated sales. "The truth of the matter is the marketplace for streaming is just emerging. We're paid to make a profitable business so we built the foundation of our house on a publishing model to bring and weave our advertisers into the experience."

Emmis Interactive VP Rey Mena says the division's profitability has grown over the past three years, up 44% last year. In some cases, he adds, Emmis station Web sites bring in 5% of a station's revenue. Esayian says, "The growth has been exponential compared to regular spot growth."

While a portion of the money is "coming at the expense of what would have been the last station [the advertiser] would have bought on the buy," 80% of it is coming right out of print budgets, Esayian says.

Unlike top Internet destinations such as Yahoo, Google and Monster, Emmis and other broadcasters have a secret sauce in their online pantry: radio stations with loyal listeners to drive to their Web sites. "We already have the audiences, the question is how do we migrate them to these different platforms and serve up the information in different manners," Mena says.

The answer is not poor design littered with excessive tile ads and other visual clutter that have marred many a radio station Web site. Rather, some broadcasters, including Emmis, have invested money and resources to make their sites attractive and robust. "The key is making it contextual. For us, it is very important that the environment is clean and engaging," Mena says.

WLUP narrowed the field down to 64 semifinalists, who competed against each other during April through daily listener online and call-in voting.

A TV campaign, featuring morning man Jonathon Brandmeier and 2005 Loop Rock Girl winner Erica Gustafson, heightened awareness of this year's contest. The message in the first flight of spots was simply that the search for Gustafson's replacement was under way. Spots were individually tagged with specific casting call times and locations. After the fourth and final casting call, a second TV spot began, directing people to listen to find out how to vote.

The 360-degree radio/Web promotion sent listeners online during specific times to cast their votes, boosting Web traffic. It then cycled them back for a second on-air listening appointment to hear the results.

With photos and thumbnail sketches of all 64 semifinalists posted on the Loop site, voting sessions occurred on 16 weekdays during April. Contestants paired off in rounds, competing head to head, battle-of-the-bands style.

During each of two 30-minute voting periods, the two candidates stumped on-air via recorded promos that encouraged listeners to check them out on the Web. The winners of the two midday battles squared off for a 6-6:30 p.m. voting block.

"It doesn't take rocket science to know that men like to look at pictures of attractive women on the Internet—even if they do have clothes on," WLUP PD Tim Dukes says. He should know,

Deb Esayian

Roughly 100,000 people voted via the Web, Mena says. To help grow its database, the station required online voters to register. Rules limited Web site visitors to one vote for each face-off. The entire promotion generated 3.5 million page views, Mena says.

"Think about how those numbers compare to your typical bar promotion," he adds, crediting it with growing the Loop database from 10,000 to 115,000 in one year.

Using the Web to help drive appointment listening also appears to have paid ratings dividends. Dukes says the station saw an Arbitron spike in April 2005, when it first did the promotion, especially in middays and afternoons—the two dayparts where voting took place. "I absolutely believe there is a correlation between the two," Dukes says. "April was stronger than March or May."

Having his jocks pound the voting times on-air "helped remind diary keepers what they were listening to," Dukes says.

He's hoping for another ratings payoff in the spring 2006 book.

The visual component of the Internet allowed this tried-and-true promotion to play on a much larger stage. Additionally, Comcast produced two short videos from the event that are available for free from its VOD cable TV service.

CHICAGO SHUFFLE

Late last year, Mena approached Emmis/Chicago VP of programming Mike Stern with a concept to make WKQX (Q101)'s "On Shuffle" format more interactive. Described as "alternative radio redefined," the modern rocker had expanded its playlist to nearly seven times its original size, playing 1,500 songs in active rotation.

Mena's idea was to bolster the Shuffle format by mirroring it online with an interactive riff on the way consumers build playlists for portable MP3 players.

Stern says he fell in love with the idea. "That's one of the tenets of our re-imaging—giving listeners control of the radio station," he says. The result: My Shuffle, an interactive interface housed on q101.com that allows listeners to build, name, describe and shuffle a six-song playlist and then submit it to the station.

Requiring what Stern describes as a "fairly rigorous" build-out, listeners are able to access online a list of Q101's entire music library arranged alphabetically by artist. Simplistic in a way that appeals to the iPod generation, listeners use the interface to select and submit six-song shuffles.

Stern says listener submissions are frequently themed. One involved songs by bands that all played "Saturday Night Live" in 1993. Another consisted entirely of early punk tunes. Listeners can also write-in songs not included in the database.

Weeknights at 8, Q101 airs one of the playlists. The station records the list-making listener introducing each song for on-air stagers. Once a month, Q101 programs a My Shuffle weekend, where roughly 15 listener shuffles air.

After launch, My Shuffle generated 5,900 user mixes from 3,800 unique users. Since then, it has leveled off to what Stern calls "a steady flow."

While Q101 advertisers sponsor both programming specials, no client has purchased a title sponsorship package for My Shuffle.

Stern says My Shuffle weekends test well in the station's call-out, perceptual and focus group tests. "Even though only a small percentage of our listeners participate directly, it resonates strongly with the audience. It reinforces the idea that we're trying to give control of the station back to the listeners."

POWER TO THE PEOPLE

One of KPWR (Power 106) Los Angeles' biggest benchmarks is the rhythmic top 40's annual multi-act festival, Powerhouse. The lineup for this year's June 24 event will be announced May 18-19.

The way Emmis Radio VP of programming/KPWR PD Jimmy Steal sees it, "This generation is not going to pick up the L.A. Times to find out about Powerhouse." That is one reason the station built a micro-site that acts as an online brochure while opening up a new revenue source. Esayian claims the brochure was downloaded "hundreds of thousands of times" in the six weeks preceding last year's concert. "Everything you want to know about the Powerhouse is contained on this micro site," she says.

The event's title sponsor, Coca-Cola, paid an additional fee to brand itself with the online brochure. "That's a great way of partnering with somebody and intensifying the touch points that they have with our listener," Esayian says.

Convinced that an audio-less Web page "doesn't translate the power of radio," Mena and his team included an audio Powerhouse promo that begins streaming when you click on the micro-site. "What we've done is merge all the stuff you're normally used to hearing with visual communication. It makes for a very rich interactive experience." Pre-event, the micro-site houses the concert lineup and details, along with ticket info, how to procure VIP seats, a seating chart and more. After the show, there are photo galleries, audio files and videoclips from the event.

To help drive all important first-week ticket sales (and build the station's database), Powermail Club members can purchase tickets at a discount by visiting the site to get a private password that Ticketmaster honors. "We sold over 42% of the tickets this way in 2005," Emmis/Los Angeles senior director of marketing Dianna Jason says.

Once a hot ticket event like Powerhouse sells out, programmers salivate over the prospect of increased TSL as listeners vie to win the premium seats the station withheld for forced-listening giveaways. Perks including front row seats, private suites and artist meet-and-greets are available only to Powermail members. They help Steal achieve his goal of always having 10% of the station's current come in its database.

KPWR also uses the micro-site to allow sponsors to promote their Powerhouse-related activities. What's in it for the advertiser? "Several different ways to remind the listener who they are and their association with this demo," Esayian says.

For Steal, cross-pollination between the two platforms is key. When a celebrity is doing an on-air interview, he or she may tease the audience about someone famous they hooked up with. The audience is directed to the Web site for the reveal.

Loop Rock Girl competition winner Crystal Sullivan

Rey Mena

"Building a Web site that lives up to some of the best brands in radio, like [triple-A] KGSR [Austin], heritage rock KSHE [St. Louis] and [R&B/hip-hop WQHT] Hot 97 [New York] is not a simple task," he says. We go to [Emmis Interactive] with a lot of requests, sometimes to the point of driving them crazy."

So far, Mena and Esayian, dubbed "the rock stars of Emmis Interactive" by Steal, appear not to mind. Still, Mena says getting radio people to think visually can be a challenge.

"We look at it as an integrated approach, so it's not a tag-on or some ancillary deal that you purchase along with a radio package," Mena says. Rather, the company focuses on "how do we best bring value to an advertiser utilizing the power of radio matched with the power of interactivity and visual communication."

"You have to have advertisers who are willing to use this space creatively," Esayian says. "You need account execs educated enough to be able to talk intelligently about this space and offer solutions and you need a well-developed back end to support this kind of innovation. Along with management that's making this possible and an environment conducive for selling it." ●●●

KISSIN' KUZZ:

AN INSIDE LOOK AT COUNTRY RADIO'S FIRST FAMILY

BY KEN TUCKER PHOTOGRAPHS BY BOB BERG / RETNA LTD.

For a radio station that prides itself on longevity, loyalty and family unity, it's been a long, hard winter for the staff of Owens Broadcasting country KUZZ-AM-FM Bakersfield, Calif.

In November 2005, MD/night jock Karen Garcia, who had joined the station the previous March, was found dead in her apartment. While it was initially believed that the 34-year-old died of natural causes, her death was later ruled a murder.

As traumatic and unnerving as Garcia's death was to employees, more bad news came in late March. Station owner and country music legend Buck Owens died in his sleep on March 25, just hours after performing at his Bakersfield theater, the Crystal Palace.

How KUZZ dealt with these tragedies goes a long way in explaining why the station has dominated Bakersfield for decades. "It was a shock and a challenge as to how we would handle it," PD Evan Bridwell says of Garcia's death. "We decided to simply do what we've always done when faced with a crisis in our 'family'—let the listeners weigh in with their thoughts, prayers and remembrances.

"It was very powerful and I believe helped the healing process for all," he says.

KUZZ took a similar approach following Owens' death. "We basically turned the station over to the listeners and what they wanted to say about Buck for two days," Bridwell says. Music and stories from listeners and artists alike flowed over the venerable station's airwaves. "We made it an on-air celebration of his life," he says, "and many thanked us for helping the town in its time of losing our most famous citizen.

"In both these cases, we found you can't go wrong with letting the listener lead the way," Bridwell says.

In a unique show of solidarity, normally competing Bakersfield radio stations simultaneously played Owens' 1988 duet with Dwight Yoakam, "Streets of Bakersfield," at noon on March 31. "Everybody was glad to do it," Bridwell says of the tribute. "It was a no-brainer, it didn't matter what format you had."

Listening to other stations play the song is something Bridwell will always remember. "I had my little portable radio [and] virtually every single station had 'Streets of Bakersfield' on. It gave me chills. It really was amazing."

DEDICATION TO THE COMMUNITY

It has been 40 years since Owens purchased what was then only KUZZ-AM, a daytimer, in 1966. Interestingly, the call letters can be linked to local country TV star Herb Henson, who had served as station manager in the early '60s. He changed the original call letters, KIKK, to KUZZ to reflect his stage name, "Cousin" Herb Henson.

Consultant Larry Daniels has a long history with Owens and KUZZ. The two men met in 1960 when Daniels was a fledgling DJ at KGEN in Tulare, Calif., and Owens was a budding country star. When Owens purchased KUZZ-AM, Daniels was the PD. "As [Buck] generally tells everyone, he inherited me," Daniels told Billboard Radio Monitor in 2005.

Daniels later spent 28 years as chief programmer for Owens' properties in Phoenix, including the legendary KNIX. He now consults KUZZ.

Nepotism was not a bad word to Owens. "When Buck first bought KUZZ he had become the top artist in the country and asked me to teach his sons, Michael and Buddy, about radio," Daniels remembers. But nepotism only goes so far, and Owens' family proved that they understood the business and, in fact, excelled at it. "Buck took KUZZ right to the top by keeping that 'family' touch on the air and off the air," Daniels says. Michael eventually became the station's GM and later moved to Phoenix to run his properties there. After a recording career of his own, son Buddy was the longtime MD at KNIX. Mel Owens, Buck's nephew, is KUZZ's GM.

Owens once told Monitor that he had a simple philosophy about programming a radio station. "It's called the 'more syndrome,'" he said, "and it's a guaranteed way to success. You play more of what more of the people want to hear more of the time. Therefore, you'll have more listeners, you'll have more ratings, and you'll sell more advertising."

Along with "more promotion and more of everything," the philosophy worked.

For the last 20 years, KUZZ has consistently been the 12-plus and 25-54 ratings leader in Bakersfield. It has never had country competition that posed a serious threat.

KUZZ is also the perennial top biller in Bakersfield. In 2005, it generated $3.1 million, representing 13.6% of the total market revenue, according to BIAfn.

The station has also garnered its share of awards and nominations. The Country Music Assn. has named KUZZ station of the year twice, and the Academy of Country Music has picked it once. Likewise, the NAB has bestowed its Crystal Award for community service on the station three times, most recently on April 25 in Las Vegas.

"It's a simple formula really," Bridwell says of the station's link to the community, "just be involved with everything that matters to our listeners. A station endears itself to the listener with an airstaff . . . that genuinely cares about local causes and events. Making this a priority is the reason for our Crystal Award success. Unfortunately, too many stations in this day and age don't have either the means, staff or commitment to make this happen."

"What's really special about KUZZ is their pride in being a big part of the community and that's always been a main focus," Daniels says. "They hire incredible air personalities who put their listeners first . . . they're out and about every week throughout the Bakersfield area and that's a key to being more than just a voice on the radio. They continue to support local organizations and do more than just talk about them on the air. They get involved."

Consultant Jaye Albright, who was OM at KUZZ from 1974 to 1978, says the station's success comes from Owens' "loyalty to his people . . . Buck was loyal to his people and we all repaid him with loyalty right back."

'NOT A COOKIE CUTTER STATION'

A veteran airstaff that believes in the mission contributes greatly to the station's success story. "We all believe in the same thing," Bridwell says. "With the kind of tenure that they've put in, they continue to be believable."

Morning man Steve Gradowitz, who Bridwell calls the "most beloved broadcast personality in this market," has been at the station since 1986. "He's just a big old nut, but people love him," Bridwell says. "He's one of those radio guys from the old school. Technically, he'll drive you nuts as a PD, but it doesn't matter, because people don't care, they love him. When he goes to a remote or an event, he draws a crowd."

Geoff Emery, who has been at the station for five years, is Gradowitz's co-host. "We're grooming him to be Steve's replacement," Bridwell says. "Steve's not the youngest chick in the brood these days."

Late mornings are handled by Casey McBride, who also serves as community service director. "She's kind of the mother hen around here," Bridwell says.

Bridwell's alter ego K.C. Adams handles noon-3 p.m. He joined the station in 1983 and became PD three years later.

Chris Conner has been doing afternoons in the market for 30 years, with most of those at KUZZ. "He's the consummate professional," according to Bridwell. "He's an old rock jock—he comes straight at ya."

Donna James, the newest member of the staff, handles nights and music. "She's the brightest new addition we possibly could have hoped for," Bridwell says. "For a veteran staff that's been around awhile and needs an occasional kick in the ass, she's just the one to do it, and you can quote me on that.

"We're constantly updating everything we can," he says. "We don't rest on our laurels. We realize that the staff is not the youngest around, but we continue to do the things that we need to to keep us on the lower end of our demographic. You gotta grow 'em early when you can."

Overnights are covered by Premiere's "After MidNite With Blair Garner."

"It's a collage," Bridwell says, "a mish-mash of personalities that make up the stationality. We're not a cookie cutter station by any stretch of the imagination."

A bronze sculpture of Buck Owens adorns the lobby of the Crystal Palace in Bakersfield.

Voice-tracking? Not here. "We're live and local," Bridwell says. "We believe that if somebody wants to call, someone needs to answer the phone. That's what has set us apart for many years."

The station's news department also sets KUZZ apart from its competition. "We provide drive-time casts along with 24/7 breaking reports with staffers on the scene," Bridwell says, while pointing out that KUZZ has three full-time news staffers plus weekend support. "The Associated Press has honored us with numerous station of the year, reporter of the year and best anchor awards."

In the spirit of the Grand Ole Opry on WSM-AM, the Wheeling Jamboree on WWVA and the Louisiana Hayride on KWKH, KUZZ-FM's sister stations KUZZ-AM and classic country KCWR air Friday- and Saturday-night performances from Owens' theatre, the Crystal Palace. "It's like old-time radio," Bridwell says. (KUZZ-AM simulcasts the FM the rest of the time.)

Interestingly, Buck's son Buddy recently returned to the stage to perform with his father's band, the Buckaroos. While more widely known, at least in industry circles, for his KNIX stint, the younger Owens was actually a country artist in the early '70s, when he performed and recorded as Buddy Alan.

THE STATION YOU CAN DEPEND ON

As the station's programmer for 20 years, Bridwell could certainly take credit for its longtime success, but he doesn't. "I would have to give Buck most of that credit. He believed, from his early artist days, that if he were ever in the position to have the kind of radio station that the format could be proud of, that artists could be proud of . . . that's the kind of station he was going to put forward."

Owens set the tone many years ago. "He wanted it to be the station you could depend on," Bridwell says. "He always wanted the jocks to answer the phones [and] he would test us from time to time. He would call from his ranch to make sure that we answered the phone in a timely manner."

He would also have friends call, "asking about a traffic situation or a concert coming up," Bridwell remembers. "Did we have the answer? If we didn't, then by God, somebody heard about it and we had it right the next time."

That attention to detail makes a difference, Bridwell believes, "because there's really no one in radio, at least in this market, that does it that way. Buck has always been the flag bearer in that regard." The staff saw things the same way, which might explain its overall longevity. "I've been in country radio for 32 years and that's the way I always thought it should be," Bridwell says.

Owens' commitment to marketing and promoting his radio properties stands out to Albright. She remembers taking a promotion idea to Owens and his son Michael, who was the GM at the time, to give away 50 times a winner's age in cash. "Buck loved it, but said, 'Why 50? Let's give our frequency times your age away in cash,'" Albright remembers. "With those words, he doubled the budget and taught me that to win sometimes you must either go big or go home when it comes to showbiz."

"That philosophy—delighting the listeners and customers by exceeding their expectations—has been built into the foundation of KUZZ since its inception," Albright says.

Owens not only wanted his staff to be in touch with listeners, he gave them the means to do it. "He gave us tools," Bridwell says. "He gave us a research department that does 500 phone calls a week. We do in-house station indexing to find out how we're doing against the rest of the market. We do callout on 20 songs a week so that I can have research on my current music."

But music is about something more than how a song researches—it's about the songwriter who conceives it and it's about the artist that delivers it. From the beginning, Owens wanted KUZZ to be a place that artists felt comfortable visiting—and they did. In the early days it was Merle Haggard stopping by to listen to Jimmie Rodgers records, Roger Miller trying out a new song and Johnny Cash stopping by on his way to a hunting trip.

Later the visitors included the likes of Garth Brooks, Kenny Chesney, Brad Paisley and countless others who would stop to pay homage to Owens and maybe, just maybe, pick up a bit of the legend's wisdom. "There's been a lot of priceless advice that Buck has passed along," Bridwell says, noting that he always appreciated seeing "Buck tutor some of these kids."

When new artists visited the station, Owens tried to be there "every chance he could," Bridwell says. "He never lost the passion for the new music. He loved to be involved with the up-and-comers. Obviously, he liked the more traditional stuff, but he wanted to be aware of everyone that was coming along. He wanted to hear the new projects. He wanted a copy of the new CDs."

CHALLENGES

As successful as KUZZ has been, Bridwell knows that there are always new challenges ahead, and technology is chief among them. While the station did stream early on, it later stopped the practice, as many stations did, to address licensing issues. As other stations introduce podcasts and other new-media initiatives, Bridwell knows his station can't fall behind. "Making sure that we have the kind of people that can keep us on the cutting edge of what's going on" is key, he says. "Being a station that's been around a while, our biggest challenge is to stay up to date with what's available—[the] technology that's going to endear us to our listeners."

As profound as it was, Owens' death won't change the station's path, according to Bridwell. "It's going to carry on. There are no plans for any changes. The wheels were set in motion a long time ago and there's no reason to change direction now." ■■■

IS RADIO'S COLD WAR OVER?

BY TONY SANDERS

AS TRADITIONAL RADIO GROUPS transform into content providers, offering programming to any and all platforms, a new, cooperative relationship may be forming between terrestrial and satellite radio with effects likely to be felt for years to come.

Moving "beyond the tall towers" (2006's radio buzz phrase) means pursuing opportunities with cellular providers, such as Sprint/Nextel, or streaming on the Internet. But it also translates into pursuing opportunities with what some in the industry may think of as the Death Star.

Howard Stern's terrestrial departure and the spectacular flame-out of his East Coast heir David Lee Roth helped prompt CBS Radio and XM Satellite Radio to form a unique partnership with XM licensing its duo Opie & Anthony to seven CBS stations.

Greg "Opie" Hughes and Anthony Cumia's return to traditional radio is a unique move since the duo will split their morning show every day between a terrestrial-satellite simulcast and a satellite-only segment. But their return is also an important reminder of how talent can develop and move from local to regional to national platforms. Or, as the two put it, "The virus is spreading."

Bringing Howard Stern back to terrestrial radio is not a top priority for Sirius Satellite Radio CEO Mel Karmazin. Still, during his recent earnings call, Karmazin said he wouldn't rule out such a deal.

On the other hand, Sirius expects to bring Stern's programming to the Internet by mid-June. Karmazin says his company's primary focus is "getting subscribers to satellite radio" and that "the more that we have exclusive content to drive them, the better [it is] for satellite radio."

REGIONAL SATCASTING

Despite Karmazin's determination to maintain a tight hold on exclusive content, Clear Channel has moved aggressively into the satellite-radio space by forming its own wide-ranging partnership with XM. According to Clear Channel's estimate, the radio kingpin now programs as much as 10% of XM's spectrum.

Starting in late spring or early summer, XM and Clear Channel will launch six regional news and talk channels aimed at blanketing coverage nationwide. The channels are part of a new 12-channel "Regional News, Talk & Music Channels" category, programmed entirely by Clear Channel. Two of the 12 channels are rebroadcasts of Clear Channel stations—country WSIX Nashville and talk WLW Cincinnati.

As it has with local traffic and weather channels, the news and talk channels remain within the letter, if not the spirit, of XM's FCC license as a national radio service. In December 2003, the NAB and XM agreed that the FCC should include language in its rules to govern XM's land-based repeaters. The rules say, essentially, that these repeaters should be restricted to transmitting the "complete programming, and only that programming," to every subscriber. Locally targeted programming that is nationally broadcast does not violate that covenant.

Clear Channel VP of programming Sean Compton says the final programming lineup had not been finalized for these six regional channels, but the concept is in place: "We're still in the early stage of rolling this out," he says. "We're asking ourselves, 'How do we maximize the resources, how do we do it by region efficiently, and how do we make money at this?'"

Compton says one aspect of the regional channels will involve rotating five-minute newscasts from different cities on each of the six regional channels. "The plan is to give each city a five-minute benchmark slot," he says. Each newscast short will carry 90 seconds of advertising, with the 3:30-minute balance devoted to regionally targeted news.

The six regions Clear Channel will program to, under the "News & Talk" title, are the Northeast, Southeast, Midwest, Northwest, Southwest and Middle America. Using the Southeast channel as an example, Compton says news delivery will run something like this: "At 15 past, you get Tampa [Fla.], at 20 past, you get Miami, at 25 past you get Atlanta, and at 30 past you get South Carolina." The bottom-of-the-hour newscast would have a broader scope, focusing on one state, he says.

It is unclear how many hours per day will be filled by this type of hot-clock, or if other types of news and information programming will be incorporated.

Compton reiterates that the newscasts will be locally focused: "We don't plan to have any national news in that because you can get that elsewhere."

Sean Compton

All told, Compton describes the newscast as a work in progress and stresses that the final product is not hinged to a specific, hard deadline: "We're constantly modifying this. We want to do it right."

He says the news content will be generated by Clear Channel's reporting staff, producers, editors and anchors, mainly at the group's roster of news/talk stations.

By Clear Channel VP of news, talk and sports Gabe Hobbs' estimation, the company has about 125 "news bureaus" established around the country—part of a hub-and-spoke configuration developed under former CEO Randy Michaels that centers a larger-market station around a set of smaller regional stations.

All told, Hobbs says Clear Channel moves "tens of thousands" of pieces of text and audio throughout their network every year. What is most interesting to him is that there has been a significant change over the years in what local listeners consider the most relevant news.

"Fifteen years ago when you looked at what's important [listeners] would clearly tell you local news was first and foremost," Hobbs says, adding that the top two categories were traditionally local news followed by local weather.

All that has changed, Hobbs says, and this difference is based on his experience along with the results from several recently completed perceptual studies.

"By coincidence, we did a whole string of [studies]. When you have that much data coming in, it's really easy to confirm what you're seeing as a trend over a long period of time." Among the markets analyzed, Hobbs says, were Miami, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Atlanta and Fargo, N.D. "We're seeing practically the same thing in all these markets," he says.

"We've seen that shift where local news does not finish at the top in any of these markets. It's now national, international news and traffic. Weather has started to move down, even compared to traffic."

This does not mean that local news is not important, Hobbs says. "It's just not as important as it once was. People are tuned in to what's going on across the country and across the globe."

CBS Radio News VP Harvey Nagler says, "The reality is that what we at CBS have been saying for several years now is the world is a much smaller place than it was years ago. What happens in Afghanistan or Iraq or the oil fields of Saudi Arabia affects the folks in Missoula, Mont., and they are very much aware of that. Therefore, there is this increasing appetite for national and international news."

Nagler says the increased appetite for global news really took hold after Sept. 11, 2001. "We see it with more affiliates wanting far more coverage."

Nagler adds that this type of interest extends "even into the smaller markets, which is something we didn't see before."

For Hobbs, the big question now is how to deliver all this news and information to listeners.

"I'm no longer thinking that the best way to get it to them is to run it through a transmitter out in a big field somewhere and into a big tower and then into someone's radio. That may not be convenient for the listeners anymore," he says.

Hobbs is not involved directly with Clear Channel's creation or programming of the regional news channels on XM. While that is one business model for delivering news on a regional basis, another possibility, he says, is "through mobile architecture and broadband wireless and all those things."

Another option, Hobbs says, is "news on demand where maybe you dial 6-7-#, and you hear the latest newscast from [news/talk] WFLA in Tampa." ● ● ●

STRIKE A POSE

We don't know what the guys of Austin-based rock band Riverboat Gamblers—whose new album "To the Confusion of Our Enemies" just hit stores—were going for in this photo, but we love that they tried to stir up the obligatory in-studio shot with Vogue-esque poses! The guys are pictured at Emmis modern rock KROX (101X) Austin with 101X MD Toby Ryan. (Photo: EastWest Records)

Billboard Information Group director of charts Silvio Pietroluongo joined the festivities at a showcase for Geffen Records newcomer Joanna at the Canal Room in New York. Her first single, "Let It Slide," just hit radio. Pictured, from left, are Pietroluongo, IGA's Chris Lopes, Geffen president Ron Fair, Joanna and Edison Media Research's Sean Ross. 24-HOUR PARTY PEOPLE

SHADY SNITCH

L.A. ♥ COUNTRY? BELIEVE IT

CHART COMMENTARY BY JOE FLEISCHER

YOU'D THINK THAT COUNTRY MUSIC and Los Angeles go together like NASCAR and Rodeo Drive, but then you don't realize that most of L.A. is still good ol' mainstream suburbia. The Beverly Hills/Hollywood elite may give the City of Angels its image of lipo-sucked movie star wannabes, but it has its share of truckers, NASCAR dads and Dixie Chicks-lovin' moms. And speaking of Dixie Chicks, though most of country radio is already moving on to the next single, "Not Ready to Make Nice" is No. 12 nationally this week and blowing up in major markets everywhere. It might feel political to play it, but since when is giving your listeners what they want playing politics?

Also seeing a big jump this week from the Michelle Branch-led the Wreckers (who put a big smile on Warner Bros. Nashville executive VP Bill Bennett's face) is "Leave the Pieces," which vaults into the top 20 from well outside the top 40 last week.

THE

THIS WEEK IN DATA. For complete charts, there's always more at www.BillboardRadioMonitor.com

LEGEND TO CHARTS

Charts are ranked by detections except for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country charts which are based on audience impressions, computed by cross-referencing exact times of air play with Arbitron listener data.

● Songs showing an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. Exempting the Country chart, a song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country). Country titles which decline in audience but increase in detections will also receive a bullet if the total audience erosion for the week does not exceed 3%. A song in its first week at No. 1 will always receive a bullet, even if it has lost detections.

AUDIENCE TOTALS on the charts are derived, in part, using certain Arbitron Inc. copyrighted Persons 12+ audience estimates under license.

◎ AIRPOWER: awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Airpower awards do not appear on the Latin and Christian, Gospel charts.

↑ GREATEST GAINER: awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country).

+ MOST AIRPLAY ADDS: awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week.

TIES: A song with the best detection differential (audience differential for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week is ranked first if tied with another song on the chart. If the songs are still tied at this point, the title that is being played on the most stations at that format will be ranked first.

RECURRENT RULE: Songs below the top 20 (top 15 for Adult Top 40, AC, Adult R&B, Heritage Rock, Dance, Christian and Gospel) become recurrences and are removed from the chart after 20 weeks. In addition, songs that have been on the chart for more than 52 weeks and rank below No. 10 will become recurrences and will be removed from the chart. Descending country titles move to recurrent after 20 weeks if they rank below No. 10 in either audience or detections.

Ⓝ Nielsen BDS certification for airplay of 100,000 detections on all monitored stations, including satellite and national networks, across the U.S. and Canada. Numeral following symbol indicates multiple level of 100,000 detections.

★ Indicates title earned Hit-Predictor status in research data provided by Promosquad.

Playlists are listed in order of TSA weekly cume, beginning with the highest-cuming stations. Cumes are updated twice yearly following the release of the spring and fall Arbitron surveys.

A+ AIRPLAY ADDS denotes songs with 5 or more detections at station for first time this week.

IMPACT! Songs at Airpower level and below with a gain in detections or with a percentage loss in detections equal to or better than the monitored downtime in the format.

★ INITIAL IMPACT: indicates song's first appearance on the Impact! page.

BY ANTHONY COLOMBO, RAPHAEL GEORGE, WADE JESSEN AND PATRICK MCGOWAN

GODSMACK HOLDS A PAIR OF 10s

Godsmack's "Speak" (Universal Republic) remains atop the Active Rock chart for a 10th consecutive week as the group becomes the first act to have two songs spend at least 10 weeks at No. 1 at the format. The quartet's "Awake" spent 14 weeks at No. 1 between November 2000 and February 2001. "Speak" is the first song to post double-digit weeks at No. 1 since Green Day's "Boulevard of Broken Dreams" held for 12 weeks between January and March 2005.

INGRAM GETS FIRST CHART-TOPPER

Almost nine years after first appearing on the Country chart, Texas singer/songwriter Jack Ingram takes the list's biggest increase (4.8 million audience impressions) and rises 5-1 with "Wherever You Are." The song is also the first No. 1 single for the recently opened Big Machine imprint. "Whatever" is the first No. 1 song to take Greatest Gainer honors since Josh Gracin's "Nothin' to Lose" in the March 11, 2005, issue.

Ingram garnered his first chart ink in the July 11, 1997, issue when "Flutter" opened at No. 69 on what was then a 75-position chart. That song peaked at No. 51 the following month, which was his best chart showing before his current release.

This week's No. 1 battle between Ingram's "Wherever" and Jason Aldean's "Why" (Broken Bow) was an especially passionate one since neither artist has previously rung the top bell. Aldean's song holds at No. 2, finishing just 233,000 impressions behind Ingram, marking the closest No. 1 race since the first week of January when 211,000 impressions separated George Strait's "She Let Herself Go" (No. 1) and Carrie Underwood's "Jesus, Take the Wheel" (No. 2).

Whoa, Nelly! Furtado's Back

Nelly Furtado returns to the Mainstream Top 40 chart for the first time since late 2003 as she teams with Timbaland on "Promiscuous" (Geffen), which debuts at No. 30. The track, which grabs Greatest Gainer (up 929 detections) and Most Airplay Adds (39 new stations), is the highest debut among Furtado's five appearances on the chart, and equals or betters the chart peak on her last two visits to the list. Furtado peaked at No. 1 with her first chart offering, "I'm Like a Bird," in June

THE SPIN

2001 and followed that up with the top 10 hit "Turn Out the Light."

Looking upward on the Mainstream Top 40 chart, Sean Paul's "Temperature" (Atlantic) regains the No. 1 slot after ceding the lead to Rihanna's "SOS" (IDJMG) for a week. It is the first song to return to No. 1 since Kelly Clarkson's "Because of You" made an encore at the top last November after slipping behind Kanye West's "Gold Digger" for two weeks.

Rewriting AC History

Natasha Bedingfield's "Unwritten" (Epic) grabs the Greatest Gainer crown for a fifth consecutive week at Adult Contemporary as it moves 7-6. The track picked up right where Daniel Powter's "Bad Day" left off as the current No. 1 posted five straight weeks as the chart's Greatest Gainer immediately preceding Bedingfield's run.

Prior to Bedingfield's and Powter's domination, the last nonholiday track to earn five straight Gainer kudos was Faith Hill's "There You'll Be" in May and June 2001.

T.I. KEEPS HIP-HOP HOT; BLIGE UPS TOP 10 TOTAL

"What You Know" by T.I. holds on to No. 1 at R&B/Hip-Hop for a sixth week. That is the longest stint by a rap song since "Drop It Like It's Hot" by Snoop Dogg featuring Pharrell Williams held for six weeks in December 2004.

A bit lower in the top 10, "Enough Cryin'" (Interscope) sprints 14-8 to give Mary J. Blige sole possession of second place at the format, with 19 top 10s. The track, featuring Blige's alter ego Brooklyn, breaks her tie with Ludacris; she remains behind R. Kelly, who has amassed 22 top 10s. Meanwhile, LeToya gets her top 10 career kicked off as "Torn" (Capitol) moves 12-10. The singer has five top 10 hits to her credit while a member of Destiny's Child.

KUTLESS RE-ENTERS CHRISTIAN SONGS

A recent upswing in audience impressions prompts "Strong Tower" by Kutless (BEC) to re-enter Christian Songs at No. 8. The title is allowed to return because it has posted consistent gains since being removed under that chart's recurrent rule in the March 10 issue. The song's previous peak was at No. 16 in the Feb. 10 issue. The track also rises 11-9 on the Christian Adult Contemporary chart.

Songs are tested online by PromoSquad using multiple listens and a nationwide sample of carefully profiled music consumers. Songs are rated on a 1-5 scale; final results are based on weighted positives. Songs with a score of 65 or more are judged to have Hit Potential, although that benchmark number can fluctuate per format based on the strength of available music. For a complete and updated list of current songs with Hit Potential, commentary, polls and more, please visit www.hitpredictor.com. © 2006.
