ENTERTAINMENT IS
REDEFINED AS B97 SERVES
BATTERED NEW ORLEANS

BY PHYLLIS STARK
PHOTOGRAPH BY
ERIKA GOLDRING / BETNA LTD.

Just nine months after the shock and devastation of Hurricane Katrina, the staff at Entercom top 40 WEZB (B97) New Orleans is facing the June 1 start of the next hurricane season still bruised and damaged, but with a new focus and a strengthened sense of purpose in their roles as broadcasters.

While the station still primarily strives to entertain, gone are the goofy contests and what OM/PD Mike Kaplan calls “senseless remotes.” Front and center is anything that can help the still-devastated community put itself right again.

In fact, Kaplan says, a heightened sense of radio’s community service obligations, and a stepped-up emphasis to keep things real on the air have been the lasting legacies of Katrina at B97.

Asked what’s changed at the station since the devastating storm and subsequent flood, VP/market manager Ken Beck simply says, “Everything. It’s much harder to do normal business here.”

Kaplan uses the term “the new normal” to describe life in New Orleans today. “We’re all drafting a new set of rules to reach our goals,” he says. “It’s doing more with less and [learning] how doors can be opened with a lot less effort.”

All around them, there are the physical reminders. The building B97 and its five sister stations are housed in—which overlooks the Superdome where evacuees were stranded for days in squalid conditions—was badly damaged when Katrina hit last Aug. 29. None of that damage has been repaired.

Windows on two of the building’s four sides, including studio windows, were blown out, resulting in severely damaged equipment and, later, mold. Some days, Kaplan says, there’s still falling glass creating a hazard as people come and go from work.

The studio windows have been replaced by boards, which Kaplan wryly says means there’s no sunlight and no view, but plenty of street noise seeping in.

“What it does to the psyche is really tough,” Kaplan says of current conditions.

In addition to working from a building that is not maintained, other challenges include two ratings periods with no Arbitron survey, the attrition of some staffers following the flood and the fact that the home lives of many remaining staffers continue to be stressful as they live in Federal Emergency Management Agency trailers, damaged homes or in crowded conditions, bunking with family and friends.

Beck says, “The clients are going through some of the same things as the staff. Almost everyone sustained some kind of damage or change in their life that was pretty revolutionary from the storm.”

In fact, it’s changed the whole civility of the market. “The first thing people talk about now is, ‘How’s your house?’ or ‘How’s your family?’” Beck says. Such conversations, he says, have become “the coin of the realm.”

While some of the Entercom staffers who bailed out have been replaced, and Kaplan has found that many broadcasters are willing to “come here and be part of this,” he’s learned through experience that it takes “a special breed of people” to work in a rebuilding market.

While Beck is actually based in Seattle, where he handles his other Entercom job as VP of news, talk and sports programming, he’s in New Orleans once a week. At B97, he says, “I wouldn’t say anything is back to business as usual. The client mix has changed, [and] what we do on the air has changed.

"Things like wacky promotions aren't as well-received as they used to be," Beck says. "The receptivity of the audience to some of the things you'd expect from active radio stations in other markets just isn't there."

"The filters are more defined today," Kaplan says. "Every little on-air component must have the larger cause in mind."

Kaplan defines that cause as, "What's in it for our listeners and our community? How are we contributing?"

That new mind-set, Kaplan says, "comes pretty easy to everyone on staff because we've all been living the same existence together."

EMOTIONAL TOUCH

In addition to a couple of full-time jocks, the station lost its entire street team after Katrina. "Right now, it's very difficult hitting the streets and impacting people the way we used to," Kaplan says. "On the positive side," he adds, "our online marketing initiatives have been given a jump-start as we look at other ways of reaching the masses. We know we have to get back to the human touch, too, but this has given us a great opportunity."

Kaplan believes the challenges of entertaining a devastated community can be met "through just being real. We're living it, too."

He tells his jocks to "express how you feel, but be a source of inspiration and lead them down the road. I just wish we had more resources to do that."

IF YOU BUILD IT . . .

On the promotion front, Kaplan says, "We're partnering with every B artist we can" to join the station staff for a Habitat for Humanity home build and an acoustic concert at the building site. They've already done one with Shinedown and have upcoming Habitat events scheduled with Teddy Geiger and the Afters.

"It's something the artists want to be involved in, and the labels love," Kaplan says.

For listener giveaway items, Kaplan says, "We're looking at things that enhance the escapism aspect of their lives. We know what they're facing every day, so we're looking for entertainment value." Among the "tried and true" giveaways are tickets to concerts and station-planned parties.

On the client side, Beck reports "a lot of [client] interest in the power of radio to reach a highly mobile audience." And he has share 12-plus.

Asked how he's liked working without a book, Kaplan, who is no fan of the ratings company, says, "I love it," and adds that he didn't miss "that constant source of pressure."

But the loss of Arbitron has been a double-edged sword. Beck calls it "exhilarating because we can go out and present the radio station on the basis on what they do and the results we get for clients rather than negotiating cost per point."

On the flip side, Beck says, "What has been difficult is because of the lack of metrics that everyone can agree on, there have been conversations about how pricing should be set." Still, he says, "We've worked through a lot of that."

POINTS OF PRIDE

Asked what he's most proud of his staff for having accomplished during and in the months after the storm, Beck again says, "Everything. The fact that they juggled the concern for their families and their houses and cars [with concern for] their radio station and their listeners and clients is just amazing to me."

"Not to get sappy," Kaplan says, "but I do feel every single one of us who went through Aug. 29 and beyond have a special

'WE'RE PRETTY MUCH FOCUSING EVERYTHING WE CREATE WITH AN EYE ON THE COMMUNITY AND ON CONNECTIVITY. WE'RE JUST BEING REAL ABOUT IT.'

-MIKE KAPLAN

That human touch has been one of B97's hallmarks, even before Katrina.

"We haven't had such a thing as marketing dollars," Kaplan says. "But what we do believe in is our content and having fun. That's what emotionally connects. It's not the $100 [giveaway] quick fix."

While Beck says community service has always been part of the Entercom "DNA," in New Orleans there is a new focus on "taking care of the community, many of which are still hurting."

"Connecting emotionally is a long-term investment, and B97's already done that and outlasted everyone in the pop [radio] universe," Kaplan says.

"We're pretty much focusing everything we create with an eye on the community and on connectivity," Kaplan continues. "We're just being real about it."

As an example, when two B97 jocks—Stevie G. and Tpot—recently became engaged to each other, Kaplan paired them up for afternoons where their relationship is played out on the air. "I've really got to believe it's connecting with our listeners," he says.

noticed that many advertisers are now buying time largely to recruit potential employees.

CHRISTMAS IN MARCH

Another big adjustment has been the lack of Arbitron measurement, suspended for the fall and winter after the flood and market evacuation but expected to resume with the spring book. Both Beck and Kaplan say they are unsure what to expect from that spring survey since many people have moved—permanently or temporarily—and mail service remains an issue. Kaplan says as recently as two months ago he was still receiving Christmas cards mailed last year.

Will the spring book accurately reflect the market's radio listening? "I have no idea," Beck says. "I don't think anybody knows."

And Kaplan says, "I don't believe any of us were confident in Arbitron before this, and we're certainly not confident now . . . It will be a challenge."

In its last book before the Arbitron suspension, B97 had a 3.9

and unique bond.

"Our people, each one of them, lost a piece of their lives here, and some lost everything," Kaplan says. "Yet they didn't hesitate one minute in lending a hand and being part of our rebuilding and helping us get the job done. They all got thrown into positions they weren't trained for or expected to be in, and yet they all gave back without any second thought."

"We are all here building something together that not only helps us grow, but helps the community as well," he adds.

After such a devastating event, Kaplan says, "it sinks in that our role in this business isn't one way . . . The storm really enhanced my awareness that no matter what delivery platform we use, it's the content that [matters]."

While many city residents and some Entercom employees chose to move on after Katrina, Kaplan isn't going anywhere. "I have an investment in this city both emotionally and financially," he says. "This is my adopted city now, and I hope after all of this they've adopted me, too." ●●●

TEXTING FOR TSL

BY PAUL HEINE

ASK ANYONE who has been in radio more than 20 minutes what the medium's greatest attributes are, and you're likely to hear the word "immediacy." Radio has an innate ability to respond in real-time to whatever the target audience is buzzing about, whether it's last night's big game, tonight's sold-out concert or Britney's latest baby bungling.

But can radio marketing keep up with its content?

Even the most sophisticated e-mail campaigns can't get the word out fast enough when Shakira is shaking her way down to the station for a live interview, or when a major concert announcement is about to be made on the air.

For that kind of immediacy, radio increasingly relies on text messaging. "It's a great way to have two-way interaction with our audience and to have that immediacy that radio is so famous for," Clear Channel top 40 KUBE Seattle PD Eric Powers says.

Cell phone texting offers two major advantages, Emmis/Chicago VP of programming Mike Stern says. The first: No one ever gets a busy signal. "Every message gets a response of some sort, and that gives us a chance to image the radio station or send a message to listeners," Stern says. "The second thing is it gives us another easy way to give control to the listener. They can respond to poll questions, pick songs and give opinions in an easy-to-use manner."

Johnny O, PD at Clear Channel rhythmic top 40 KBFM (Wild 104) McAllen, Texas, uses text messaging to "get [listeners] to listen and feel more involved with our station." Messages vary from notifying listeners that the station is giving away concert tickets at a remote broadcast to reminding them to listen for a specific song to win money.

"It's another useful tool for us to engage in the listeners' lives," says Rob Ryan, PD at Pamal Broadcasting rhythmic top 40 WJZ (Jamz 96.3) Albany, N.Y.

INBOUND: INSTANT FEEDBACK

The easiest way to get started is to establish a short message service code or short-code number that listeners can use to text messages to the station. Inbound texting provides listeners with a direct path to a personality or an on-air guest. It can also be used for contests, requests and listener polling.

Through its Control Freak weekends, Emmis modern rock WKQX (Q101) Chicago employs the technology to make listeners feel like they have a say in what they hear on the air. Before a spot break, the air talent gives listeners three songs to choose from. Listeners text their pick to the station during commercials. The song with the most votes is played immediately after the stopset.

Working with Chicago-based vendor Vibes Media, Q101 kick-started its texting program with three weeks of ticket giveaways. The mechanism to win was to be the 101st person to send the station a text message.

In three weeks, Texting for Tickets prompted more than 12,000 people to text the radio station, Stern says. Q101 received on average seven different messages from each participant.

"That's a lot of the audience engaging in a contest—and not one person ever got a busy signal. Everyone got a reply message from us," he says.

WHAT TEXTERS WANT

APART FROM TALKING, text messaging is the No. 1 cell phone activity, according to an online poll of more than 26,000 rock radio listeners conducted in February by Jacobs Media. Of the nine in 10 respondents who own a cell phone, more than one-third said they text at least weekly and nearly one-quarter do so daily.

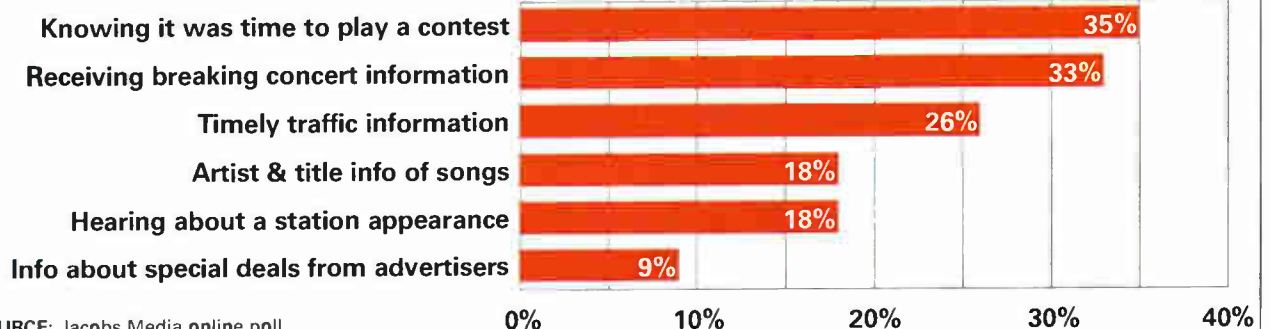

Information about contests (35%) and concerts (33%) are the radio station text messages that cell phone-equipped respondents were most interested in receiving. The survey found almost equal interest in outbound and inbound texting options: 40% said both sound equally good, 15% preferred opt-in messages sent by the station, 16% would rather text the station and 26% found both options unappealing.

As with all Web polls, the Jacobs study cannot replicate all radio listeners—or even all rock listeners—and reflects only those who chose to participate in the poll, which involved 79 stations e-mailing a survey link to database members or promoting the survey on-air. Participating stations were located in large and small markets, and encompassed heritage rock, modern rock and classic rock formats.

PERMISSION REQUIRED

Powers says KUBE's T-Man morning show invites listeners to text daily to the station's short-code, for polling, contesting and general communication. "A great way to utilize this is having listeners text into an artist in the studio when they want to ask a question," he says. "The artist has his or her own screen. They end up reading whatever the listeners are texting in."

Texting has increased audience involvement at WJZ, too. "Our morning show uses it a lot for specific morning show topics and contests," Ryan says. "We get instant reaction most times and willingness to participate in their stunts or bits."

Texting provides a quick temperature check on how the audience feels about specific subjects and issues. "In the morning show we use it for topical issues that might relate to them. A lot of our listeners use it to e-mail us now as well since it's easier for them to communicate to us what they want, need and are looking for," Johnny O says.

OUTBOUND: APPOINTMENT LISTENING

Permission-based outbound texting has the potential to boost the number of listening occasions, one of the keys to increased time spent listening. But to legally transmit messages to listener cell phones, stations must first get the cell phone owner's permission. That's usually accomplished via a form on the station's Web site.

"The Mobile Click Club hears who plays at Summer Jam before you do," a not-so-subtle enticement displayed on the KUBE home page declares. Listeners can text the word "join" to the station's short-code, or fill out an online form (see sidebar, right).

That allows KUBE to blast a message to the 8,000 listeners Powers says have joined the club. "When we have an interview or a contest," he says, "we have the ability to get out to our core, our PIs, that quick message: 'Coming up in 20 minutes, an exclusive interview with Jay-Z.' It gets out to the audience immediately, instead of your traditional [e-mail] database, which is still good and useful. However, we all know a good portion of our audience is in the car. Instead of an e-mail that gets stacked up, it's something that will get directly to them and hopefully have that immediacy and that call-to-action to get them to utilize our product now, instead of three to four days down the road, when it isn't as relative."

"There are so many ways to use it," Powers continues. "For us, a lot of it is event-based. We just did a big car show. We let them know about discounts and where to get tickets. It's a lot of quick information that people find value in."

Stations in the largest markets have texting databases well into five figures.

Appointment setting is the killer app for outbound texting, Ryan says. "Giving [listeners] inside info not only makes them feel special, it allows us the opportunity to ensure that they give us more tune-ins," he says.

REVENUE SOURCE

By gathering information from the user at sign-up, KBFM and others can sort their texting databases into various categories, based on age, sex, ZIP code and interests. "This way, we can just send them information that would suit them," Johnny O says.

Like e-mail-based database marketing, opt-in text marketing can be narrowly targeted. A message about a specific event can be sent only to those who live or work in the neighborhood where the event is taking place. Geo-targeting makes it an attractive option for station clients.

For vendors "looking to do special events," KUBE can text a message offering listeners a 50% discount. "It's almost like a digital coupon. It's on the phone. They bring it in, show [the vendor] the code number and they punch it in at retail," Powers says.

The Mobile Click Club has grown to the point where "we can see impact" at street level or retail promotions, he says. "If there's value, they're utilizing it. They opt in for what makes sense for them, whether it's clubs or movies. And we try not to oversaturate them with messages."

KUBE generally limits the number of messages it sends to about one to two per week. A message driven purely by programming would go to the entire 8,000-member database; sales-driven messages go to fewer recipients.

KUBE sells text message programs to clients either as a stand-alone item or as part of a traditional spot buy. Powers says the program "is a great way to complement client marketing as long as it is radio station-based, and we see value in it."

KFMB's Johnny O applauds texting as "a great tool for ratings and revenue, especially when our station runs out of sales avails." When that happens, the station "digs into our database and looks for subscribers that meet the client's criteria and offer it to them," he says.

Ryan says the WJZ sales staff offers sponsorships for specific text messages, such as concert announcements and road closures.

Stern says Q101 has sold sponsorships for its Control Freak weekends and the Texting for Tickets promotion. However, it has yet to sell an overall station texting sponsorship or venture into permission-based outbound texting.

Since it began to experiment with text messaging five years ago, KUBE has utilized several different vendors. It currently works with Essex, Conn.-based Hip Cricket. "There were a lot of challenges in the beginning," Powers says. Cell phone "carriers were pretty nervous about pissing off clients. There was a lot of bargaining and [convincing] carriers that this would be OK." Powers says only recently are vendors able to provide stations with a texting service that works across a platform of all mobile carriers.

"I think our listeners are using this technology and appreciate the station providing them an easier, less frustrating way to

Visitors to KUBE's Web site can opt in to the station's Mobile Click Club by filling out an online form that asks for their name, mobile phone number, a password, date of birth, gender and ZIP code. The sign-up form also asks opt-ins to check off from the following menu:

- I'd like to receive free stuff on my cell phone.
- I'd like to receive concert announcements on my cell phone.
- I'd like to receive KUBE 93 contest announcements on my cell phone.
- I'd like to know when KUBE 93 is in my neighborhood.
- I'd like to know when new Studio 93 artists are coming to the studio, and how I can be a part of it.
- I want to be the first to know about KUBE 93 Summer Jam.
- I want to be the first to know about KUBE 93 movie premieres, and how I can win.

For sales purposes, the sign-up form also asks listeners to check off product categories that they are interested in receiving information about. Among them:

- |                                      |  |                                  |

To complete the registration process, listeners check a box that indicates they have read and accepted the station's terms and conditions. KUBE then sends via short message service an activation code to confirm registration. The station agrees to "only send you messages regarding the information you have clicked above" and warns that "standard SMS message rates may apply depending on your carrier and plan."

interact with us," Stern says.

Johnny O views texting as a way to have a more personal relationship with listeners "since they carry their cell phones with them all the time and can receive messages anywhere. One of the winning elements for winning the radio war is top-of-mind awareness, and this method is another element I give a lot of credit to for helping my station get to the top." Advancing 8.0-10.9, the station ranked second 12-plus in the fall 2005 Arbitron.

For Powers, the station's texting program is "almost like our KUBE 2. It really does a lot. I think it's going to be part of a lot of stations' future." ■■■

STRIP -HOP

STRIP CLUB-TO-RADIO CROSSOVERS ARE AS HOT AS THE DANCERS

BY HILLARY CROSLY
STEPHEN WEBSTER

THREE WOMEN, each nude but for the tiniest of G-strings, dance onstage at Sue's Rendezvous, one of the hottest strip clubs for the New York area's hip-hop scene.

These women are beautiful, leggy and lithe, all hips and eyes, in the way that strippers in a relatively classy club can be.

We're here for the music, though. We swear.

In fact, as attractive as these women might be, we're in awe at their ability to shimmy incredibly specific body parts: the upper third of a thigh here, the majesty of hip flexors undulating in fifth gear. More to the point—and our reason for a trip to Sue's on this fine spring night—these women undulate to some of radio's and the underground's hottest tracks.

In the space of an hour, we hear Rick Ross' screwed-up radio hit "Hustlin'" and newbie Cassie's subdued underground bubbler "Me & U," right along with Shannna's "Getting Some," Dr. Evil's "More Punnani" and, of course, T-Pain's "I'm N Luv (Wit a Stripper)" remix featuring Remy Ma.

It's no longer just the hardworking ladies who make money at strip clubs. These late-night hangouts, with their booming sound systems and gender-mixed crowds, have become big business for the record industry, particularly for hip-hop labels.

"Strip clubs have become the main breaking place for records, especially in the South," says Jermaine Dupri, president of urban music for Virgin Records. Clear Channel R&B/hip-hop WMIB (the Beat) Miami MD Coka Lani agrees. "All the big Southern songs start in the strip clubs," she says.

And soon, here at Sue's, the words of Robert "Kaspa" Smith, who runs a record pool for strip club DJs, come back to us as if an epiphany. "The visual of a nude woman dancing in front of a consumer," Smith says, "tends to put that record in a new light."

Indeed.

The music industry—especially the dominant hip-hop segment—has increasingly embraced the strip club out of necessity and convenience. Tighter radio playlists mean it's harder than ever to break a track on the FM dial, and regular dance clubs, where songs get played for a moment and then lost in a mix, tend to play what's already on the radio in most markets.

At strip joints, DJs are able to let a full track ride, and if the bass is right or the ladies request it, they can take a chance on unproven material. For DJs, programmers and labels, the strip club serves as a sort of research petri dish: If the girls aren't making any money, the song probably isn't that great.

Two principal DJ collectives have sprung up that specifically work the strip club circuit: the Hen House in Detroit and Atlanta-based Hittmenn DJs, a 72-DJ collective established three years ago by Smith, now president, and CEO Greg Street. "Right now our DJs reach 32 million people in 29 markets," Smith says.

"The labels make sure the strip club DJs have their music," Lani says. "It's grass-roots marketing, it really is."

Perhaps most important for the record promotion business, plenty of strip clubs break the stereotype of lecherous men in raunchy, smoke-filled haunts. At Sue's, for example, DJ Carl Blaze of New York's top-rated R&B/hip-hop station, Clear Channel WWPR (Power 105.1), plays the hits to a smartly dressed crowd.

Today, strip clubs are one of the fastest-rising segments among entertainment venues. There are now more than 7,500 strip clubs across the United States, according to the Strip Club News Web site. Urban promotion reps are plugged into a circuit that stretches from the Southeast to the Midwest and into the Southwest. Key venues are located in such prime markets as Detroit (Platinum), Charlotte, N.C. (Club Champagne), Miami (Diamonds) and Atlanta (Body Tap, Magic City, Stokers). And with markets like Houston, radio is directly affected by the strip club playlist.

"An artist like Mike Jones will only break in the strip club," Asylum Records promo rep Ramon Diaz says. "Some people don't remember that he first started on the independent scene with the strip club circuit. That's how he broke as an artist, by making songs for strippers."

Mike Jones initially catered his lyrics to a specific dancer for her set, and his innovation quickly spread. DJs took notice of Jones' talent with the music and the ladies. As a result, his first single, "Still Tippin'" featuring fellow Houstonians Paul Wall and Slim Thug, helped spearhead the city's exploding local rap scene in 2005. Stations including Radio One R&B/hip-hop KBXX (the Box) Houston and rhythmic top 40s Emmis KDJT (Hot 93.3) Austin and Radio One WHHH Indianapolis hit the track in early 2004. National outlets like MTV noticed, giving Jones wider exposure. His debut album, "Who Is Mike Jones?," entered the Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums chart at No. 1.

The strip club circuit is also a great place to see and be seen in the hip-hop business. Virgin's Dupri, who declares that "strip club airplay is stronger than radio airplay in Atlanta," has signed artists as a result of his strip club forays.

As such, labels and promo execs regularly reach out to strip club DJs. At Sue's, Blaze says he and other DJs get serviced all the time. "They know if I like it in the club, they'll hear it on the radio," Blaze says. And it's not just moonlighting FM jocks getting serviced. DJ Alemo ran the tables in the hours before Blaze, and Alemo says he gets records from various labels, including Swizz Beatz's Full Surface, Dupri's Virgin imprint So So Def and Def Jam.

STRIP CLUB ANTHEMS

Strip club DJ'ing has become almost synonymous with spinning at any other club in some markets. CBS Radio R&B/hip-hop WPEG (Power 98) Charlotte part-timer DJ Magic puts in six nights of grueling strip club mixing per week.

"The strip club can be treated like any other club, except for the naked girls," WPEG MD Deon Cole says. "And in some cases there are naked girls in regular clubs. There is a different audience in every club that a programmer may go to. You want to see the different reactions to the songs in the clubs."

Lani says "a good 10%-15%" of strip club anthems make it to the WMIB playlist. "I get music in, and people in the office will say, 'I heard that in the strip club.' But those are the real down-south songs. You won't hear Jadakiss, but like Pretty Ricky's song 'Grind on Me' was popular. It was originally 'Grind on Me' but then they got signed and changed it to 'Grind With Me.'"

In other markets like Detroit, strip club-to-radio crossovers are less prevalent. DJ Blast says he is the only jock at Clear Channel R&B/hip-hop WJLB who spins in a strip club. "I'm at Club Le' Elegant, and I'm the only one. A lot of people in the office weren't dealing with the strip clubs."

To Blast's dismay, labels don't chase Detroit strip clubs the way he feels they should. Motor City radio doesn't exactly gained notice. The ladies who worked with the censorship-threatened performer onstage and in his videos were strip club dancers.

"I didn't have a big budget where I could hire regional people," Campbell recalls. "I had to be creative and use all the different avenues I could think of."

Strip club promotion moved into the contemporary spotlight with the emergence of the Ying Yang Twins. Early in their career the duo previewed their records at strip clubs, including "Whistle While You Twurk," which peaked at No. 27 on the R&B/hip-hop airplay chart on April 15, 2000. Since then, the Twins have notched five top 10s, including three top fives, on that chart.

"Radio wasn't always as friendly to me as it is now," says Mr. Collipark, a producer and executive whose Collipark Music production roster includes TVT's Ying Yang Twins. He appears with the Twins on Bubba Sparxxx's current hit and club favorite "Ms. New Booty." "But I didn't have to take it to radio. If the embrace the strip club's tastemaking cachet either. And in turn, strip clubs rarely play radio songs.

'THE VISUAL OF A NUDE WOMAN DANCING IN FRONT OF A CONSUMER TENDS TO PUT THAT RECORD IN A NEW LIGHT.' -ROBERT 'KASPA' SMITH

"If radio plays a song, then it's old," Blast says. "Maybe you'll hear some Young Jeezy or Rick Ross in the strip club because hustling is relatable, but you ain't gonna hear no Mary J. Blige 'Enough Cryin.'"

Asylum's Diaz says he relies exclusively on radio in smaller markets, where strip clubs hold less musical sway.

"It's more clubs in larger markets, but in smaller markets, it's radio over clubs," he adds. "Like in New York, I need to know who's playing where, what night, what time."

As for Sue's Rendezvous, "The girls like anything that's on the radio or on TV," says DJ Alemo, who says he broke Nelly's "Grillz" two months before it hit mainstream. "Radio still has a big impact on what people like."

Musically, some old club faithfuls at Sue's are anything by Jay-Z, Luke, the Ying Yang Twins or Lil Jon. But newer tracks like Rick Ross' "Hustlin'" seem to be a national favorite both in and out of the strip clubs.

"'Hustlin'" is hands down the biggest song right now because the girls make money," Blaze says. "And the dudes get hyped."

Marketing group the Hittmenn crew, which works major and independent releases, participates in a weekly conference call during which it discusses if a record is worth working to the clubs. Smith estimates that about 40% of the songs make that cut. Within 12 weeks, he says, they'll know if a record is hot or not and whether it needs a remix.

Among the bounce-friendly, beat-banging R&B/hip-hop hit records that Hittmenn has worked first in the strip clubs are Ciara's "1, 2 Step," Dem Franchize Boyz's "Lean Wit It, Rock Wit It," Young Jeezy's "Trap or Die" and D4L's "Laffy Taffy."

"Lil Jon, the Ying Yang Twins and Ludacris are all artists who were helped early on" by strip club exposure, Smith adds. "Now today, they are some of the biggest artists in the country."

LOOKING BACK

Urban music's working relationship with strip clubs dates back to the late '80s when Luther "Luke" Campbell and 2 Live Crew first music made the girls want to dance, it was an instant hit. We were one of the only acts making music for the strip clubs; we had the lane all to ourselves. Now every rapper has a strip song."

Another source agrees. "It's to the point where all of these artists are trying to make strip club records. It's become another vehicle to get the record to radio because radio seems to want to play more aggressive songs like 'Laffy Taffy.'" Add to that list such songs as Da Muzicianz's "Camera Phone" (the group includes Ying Yang Twin D-Roc) and T-Pain's surprising mainstream hit, "I'm N Luv (Wit a Stripper)," featuring Mike Jones.

Campbell is in the midst of promoting his first new project in several years: a three-CD boxed set titled "Uncle Luke—My Life & Freaky Times," released May 16. Once again, his promotional strategy includes strip clubs. Campbell is staging a "Are You Ms. Freaky Soul 2006" competition at strip clubs across the country. Prizes include $10,000 in cash, a Rolex watch and the opportunity to tour with Uncle Luke.

Universal Motown VP of rap promotion Troy Marshall is coordinating a promotional strip club tour in June on behalf of "Go Head," a new track by Ali & Gipp. The plan includes visits to venues in 17 cities, including Houston's Onyx.

Indeed, no less an authority than the men's room attendant at Sue's says top acts seem to stop by the club whenever they are in town. "In the past few months, we've seen Lil Jon, Chamillionaire and Lil' Kim," he says.

Marshall notes that he works strip club promotions in one of two ways. Sometimes he'll host a party on behalf of an artist in a market's most popular club and prime the dancers to request whatever new single is being promoted. Marshall also stages performances at times if the venue has a proper sound system. In both cases, Marshall says the DJ and the strippers are serviced with the new product.

"Guys say they go to the strip clubs because they have good chicken fingers," Lani says. "I'm assuming they play the records on-air because they saw a good routine. There's a big booty-shaking thing down here, and the more explicit a song is, that's a sure sign it's going to blow." ■■■

MINORITY INTEREST

BLACKS, HISPANICS BOOST OVERALL LISTENING

BY TONY SANDERS

Terrestrial radio needs its minority listeners now more than ever because the listening habits of African-Americans and Hispanics appear to be keeping radio from experiencing a rapid decline in time spent listening. That's a first impression analysis from several researchers and analysts contacted by Billboard Radio Monitor—and based on our exclusive study of TSL figures in Arbitron survey reports from 1998 through the recently published winter 2006 survey.

TSL DOWN 11.6% SINCE 1998

Arbitron's latest tally from winter 2006 of weekly time spent tuned in for the average U.S. listener aged 12-plus is 19 hours even. That's down one-quarter of an hour from fall 2005. It is also a decline of two hours and 30 minutes, or 11.6%, from the 21:30 reported in fall 1998. These figures are from Arbitron's quarterly surveys and are averages calculated for the continuously measured markets.

Analysts contacted by Monitor were hesitant to declare anything definitive and on the record about the possible link between minority listenership and steadier TSL figures.

One analyst, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, pointed out that any type of listening—either to commercial or noncommercial radio—would contribute to a market's reported TSL figure. "Any increased listening to radio will drive an increase in the TSL figure that Arbitron reports in a market," the analyst says. The trick is determining if there has been a significant listening increase by a specific minority group to either commercial or noncommercial radio, the analyst says.

The current nationwide TSL figure for black and Hispanic listeners is significantly higher than it is for the U.S. population as a whole. According to the 2005 edition of Arbitron's "Black Radio Today," the TSL for blacks 12-plus was 22:30 in spring 2004, a full 3:15 higher than the U.S. average.

Hispanic radio listeners also clocked in at 22:30 in spring 2004, according to Arbitron's "Hispanic Radio Today."

There is no data immediately available from Arbitron for Hispanic listening in 1998, but the firm's "Black Radio Today" for spring 1998 puts the 12-plus TSL at 25:00. The comparable TSL figure for the U.S. average that same year was 21:45. In this case, black listeners also tended to spend 3:15 more per week tuned into radio.

While TSL for black listeners is significantly higher than the U.S. average, they have also declined 10% since 1998 or 2:30 from that early 25:00.

(As a side note, it's worth pointing out that the U.S. average in spring 1998, 21:45, was 15 minutes higher than the figure Arbitron calculated for the fall 1998 survey. That lower fall figure, 21:30, was used by Monitor to compile the table "Time Spent Listening Trends 1998-2006," below.)

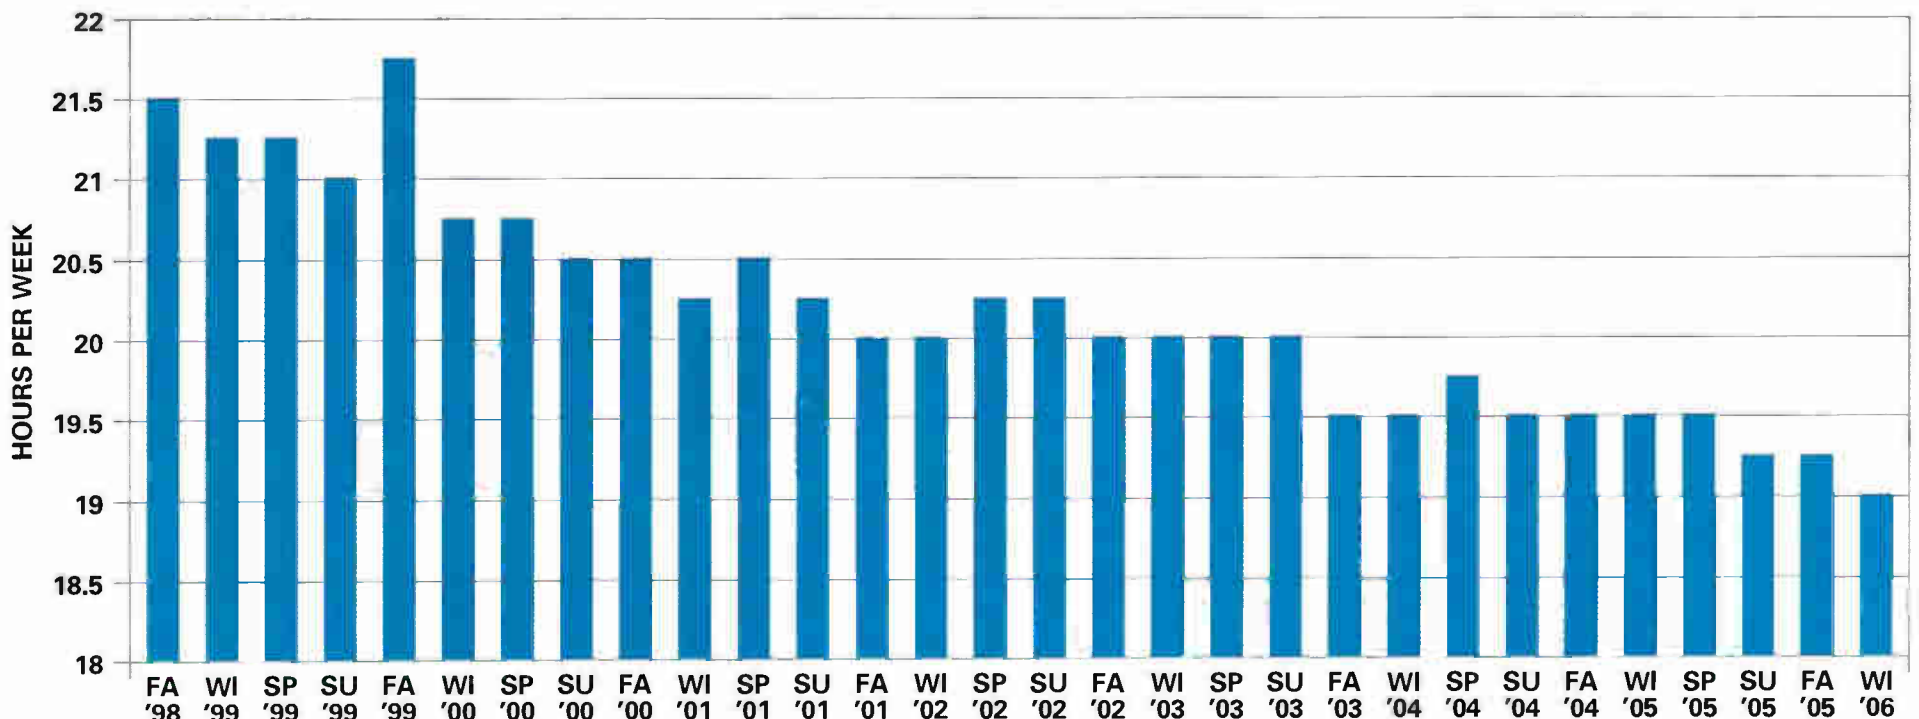

Sean Ross, Edison Media Research VP of music and programming, believes that a number of markets experiencing relatively small TSL declines appear to have a significant ethnic population in the market mix. Other researchers share that view.

"My first thought was ethnic population," Ross says, "since Hispanic listening in particular has held fairly steady."

Hispanic listening in 2001 was 23:00, the oldest TSL information available on Arbitron's Web site for that demographic group. A year later, the figure dropped to 22:15. Since then Hispanic TSL has risen a bit to 22:30 in spring 2004.

Other factors Ross sees potentially influencing TSL include the length of the local commute and "the ongoing commitment to marketing by local radio."

However, Ross adds this caveat: "We don't know if that holds true for all the markets cited."

RADIO'S STRONGEST TSL MARKETS

As Monitor went to press, Arbitron had just published its comprehensive TSL average for the winter 2006 survey. In advance of that release, we compared current winter 2006 TSL figures from local market reports with their corresponding figures from 1998. Older data wasn't available for three markets: Fredericksburg, Va.; Johnson City-Kingsport-Bristol, Tenn.-Ky.; and Gainesville-Ocala, Fla.

Comparing 2006 with 1998, the market with the most consistent TSL in continuously measured markets is Bakersfield, Calif. The market has seen only a 2.3% decline in TSL, or about 30 minutes; dropping from 21:30 in winter 1998 to this year's 21:00.

Phoenix was No. 2, declining from 20:30 in 1998 to 19:45 in 2006, a roughly 4% drop.

(For other strong markets, see the table "Radio's TSL Stalwarts," above.)

One analyst pointed to Bakersfield's heavy concentration of Hispanics—now 43% of the 12-plus population—as a possible explanation for its strong showing. "That's a huge percentage," the source says, who requested anonymity.

Monitor's research confirms the point.

Arbitron's "Radio Metro Market Guide" for 1991-92 showed Bakersfield's Hispanic population as 29% of the metro's 12-plus population. Today, that ethnic population is 234,600 of the market's total 542,500.

In Phoenix, Hispanics comprised 15% of the 12-plus population in spring 1991 (264,500 of the metro's then 1,811,600 persons). Today, Hispanics account for just under 27% of the 12-plus population in Phoenix, or 782,800 of the metro's 2,938,500.

RADIO'S WEAKER TSL MARKETS

Based on this same analysis, Monitor found that five of the 10 markets with the lowest winter 2006 TSL figures also registered some of the largest percentage declines from 1998.

For example, in 1998, Omaha-Council Bluffs, Neb.-Iowa, posted 21 hours of TSL. By winter 2006, that dropped to 16 hours, a 23.8% decline.

Nashville has a winter 2006 TSL of 16:30. But in 1998, its TSL was 21:00, a drop of 4:30 or 21.4%.

Little Rock, Ark., also has a winter 2006 TSL of 16:30. In 1998, it was four hours higher at 20:30—a 19.5% decline over eight years.

Kansas City's winter 2006 TSL of 17 hours is down 20% from the 21:15 it registered eight years ago, a falloff just over four hours a week.

The Norfolk-Virginia Beach-Newport News, Va., market also shaved off four hours, from 20:45 in winter 1998 to 16:45 this year, a 19.3% decline.

THE FRAGMENTED FUTURE

There are 70 markets with winter 2006 listening levels below the weekly average of 19:15. Six markets show TSL equal to the 19:15 average and 20 are above the average. Not included is Puerto Rico, which consistently has the highest TSL of any continuously measured market—26:00 as of winter 2006.

Compare that with 1998, when 91 markets were available for this type of comparison. Back then, 52 markets were below the then-current average of 21:30, five markets had TSL equal to the average and 34 markets were above the average.

While a greater proportion of the continuously measured markets now come in with TSL below the quarterly average, it is not clear what this means in the long term.

One ratings analyst summed up radio's current state of affairs this way: "There are about the same number of people listening to radio as there were a few years ago. Cume is holding steady, and, in fact, it has gone up recently. The problem is we're losing the time we get from them. But that's to be expected, given all of the various media that radio's competing with. Frankly, I'm still happy to be in radio rather than in TV. And let's not even start to talk about how newspapers are doing."

THE SIGNPOST AHEAD

Arbitron recently published its 2006 edition of "Black Radio Today." In that latest version, based on spring 2005 survey data, TSL increased for black listeners by 15 minutes, climbing from 2004's 22:30 to spring 2005's 22:45.

Though the increase could be seen as an encouraging sign, it puts African-American listening back where it was in the spring 2002 survey.

In essence, black listening is making up some lost ground. And it remains to be seen if those recent gains can be preserved, and if the spring 2005 gains will be repeated later this year in the spring 2006 survey.

Sometimes, a nice gain is followed by a disappointing decline.

Three years ago, in spring 2003, black TSL was 23:15. That was a gain of 30 minutes from 2002's 22:45. But that 30-minute gain was followed the very next year by a 45-minute drop-off, when the TSL figure fell back from 23:15 to 22:30. ●●●●

TRUST JOINS BILLBOARD RADIO MONITOR

New England radio veteran Gary Trust joins Billboard Radio Monitor as Adult Top 40/Adult Contemporary chart manager, effective June 5. He replaces Patrick McGowan, who vacated the position in May to relocate to San Diego.

A life-long New Englander, Trust arrives from Aritaur Communications triple-A WMVY Cape Cod, Mass., where he hosted morning drive. Prior to that, he spent eight years as MD at longtime Clear Channel adult top 40 WSNE (Sunny 93) Providence, R.I. His radio travelogue also includes adult top 40s CBS Radio WBMX (Mix) Boston and Citadel Communications WXLO Worcester, Mass., and Clear Channel top 40 WERZ Portsmouth, N.H.

"We are thrilled to have someone with Gary's background in the adult music formats join us as a chart manager," Billboard Radio Monitor director of charts Silvio Pietrolungo says. "His enthusiasm for the music and his knowledge of the stations in the format are impressive, and we believe that he will be a solid addition to our well-experienced chart team." Trust will be based at Monitor's headquarters in New York.

THE STORY BEHIND

BY KEN TUCKER

'THE REST OF THE STORY'

In a medium where storytelling was once commonplace, there are few modern examples of the craft still being practiced. Public radio's Garrison Keillor and his weekly "A Prairie Home Companion" series immediately comes to mind, but commercial radio is sorely bereft of practitioners. Thankfully, that's where Paul Harvey's "The Rest of the Story" comes in.

The six-days-per-week show—which just celebrated 30 years on the air—is written, researched, produced and frequently voiced by Harvey's son, Paul Harvey Jr., and syndicated by ABC Radio Networks. It's heard on 1,100 stations in the United States, and it reaches 177 countries via the American Forces Radio Network. And while listenership is obviously limited in terms of numbers, the show is also heard on the International Space Station.

Through the years the stories told on the show have been the source of many a water cooler conversation. And how the younger Harvey became the creative force behind the program is the connection between me and someone they hear on the radio," he says. It was "almost like an alternative universe where I was pretty much who I was and quite separate from my dad."

THE BEGINNING OF THE STORY

Meanwhile, the genesis of "The Rest of the Story" actually dates back to the 1940s, when Paul Sr. was gaining a legion of followers as a radio newsman. "'Now you know the rest of the story' was a tag line that my dad used to use in feature stories on the radio in World War II, maybe earlier," Paul Jr. says. His mother believed that the concept of "the rest of the story" was worthy of a separate feature. The trick was that someone needed to sit down and develop it further.

Finally, in the mid-'70s, the younger Harvey decided to dedicate time between concerts to launching the series. "I had no intention on staying with it, but here we are," he says.

"I was rather urged along the way by circumstances," he adds.

would last, and yet here we are."

Given his experience as a composer and playwright, it's not surprising the care that goes into "The Rest of the Story." Each episode is treated as a work of art—which, of course, it is. The time spent putting together a story "could take anywhere from 45 minutes to never," he says. "Many stories come in a rush and come superbly corroborated—there are no questions and are so powerfully suggested that out they come—but there are other stories that take a year, two, three, five, 10, waiting for something to develop and are eventually written."

Stories that are not ready do not make it to his father to voice. "It won't get to him until it's pretty much done and over with," Paul Jr. says.

The show reflects his personal perspectives on history and current events, "which have always been a little inside out and contrary to convention," he says. "I read the same material of news and history that everybody else is reading, but certain a story unto itself.

'The thought of something extraordinarily different as "The Rest of the Story" making it in commercial radio was just unheard-of. No one thought it would last, and yet here we are.'—PAUL HARVEY JR.

Although radio is the family business—even Paul Sr.'s wife, Lynne, better-known as "Angel," is closely involved—Paul Jr. followed his own path early on.

Born and reared in Chicago, Paul Harvey Aurandt II (Aurandt being the family's real last name) received a bachelor's and master's degree in piano performance from Chicago Musical College of Roosevelt University.

His musical credits as Paul Aurandt include a successful 12-year concert career and numerous original compositions, among them an opera and a half-hour-long piano sonata, which has been recorded and is performed throughout the world.

A playwright as well, his stage play "Burton," which explored the life of actor Richard Burton, premiered in 1996 at the Caldwell Theatre Company in Boca Raton, Fla.

Paul Jr. lived a separate life from that of his famous father. "I can't think of once in 12 years of concertizing, anyone drawing

"The series premiered on May 10 of '76, and that following July I was in an accident that forced me to cancel concerts for a year, so I devoted that year mostly to the 'Rest of the Story' series."

The longer he was away from performing, the more difficult it became to return. "There is an edge that one has to maintain to weather the verticality and horizontality of playing the piano at that level," he points out. "It gets pleasant after a while not having to get that edge rehoned."

The fact that Paul Jr. transitioned from the performance stage to the radio studio so easily is a credit to his mother. "I was raised by a scholarly mother who in many ways laid the foundation for whatever literary skill I have, so that part came rather naturally," he says.

When the show first started, nobody imagined it would still be here 30 years later. "The thought of something extraordinarily different as 'The Rest of the Story' making it in commercial radio was just unheard-of," Paul Jr. says. "No one thought it aspects of history intrigue me that for some reason most people miss. I focus on those aspects, and that has become the series."

'THE MAGIC BULLET'

Ask Harvey about the strangest story he has written, and his answer is almost instantaneous. "The 'magic bullet,' no doubt about it," he says. "It's really incredible. If there were not a stack of medical journal articles backing this up, one would just dismiss it."

The story centers on a Civil War battle. "It was at first called a 'front-porch war,' because people would come out on their front porch and watch this slaughter," he explains. "This family was standing on the porch watching . . . and a shot was fired and a soldier screams and falls. Almost simultaneously, a young teenage girl on the porch screams and falls."

The teen was wounded in the abdomen by a bullet that lodged in her uterus—the same bullet that had passed through the soldier's private parts. The projectile carried traces of the man's sperm to her uterus, and an egg was fertilized.

"So this bullet became the only bullet in any war, as far as anyone knows, that gave a life," Paul Jr. says. "This story is incredible. This story goes even further: The woman met the soldier, and they fell in love and married and had more children."

Another story that stands out to him is one that the Radio-Television News Directors Assn. honored with an Edward R. Murrow Award for writing in 2004, "Bar Mitzvah in the Dark."

"I was doing a story of a boy in the Nazi concentration camp Bergen-Belsen whose name was Joachim," he recounts. "He was approaching 13, and he goes to a rabbi named Dasberg . . . and he said, 'I want to be bar mitzvah.' So in the middle of one night, in secret, in the dark, they performed a bar mitzvah. After the ceremony, Rabbi Dasberg gave Joachim his Torah scroll and said, 'I'm not going to survive this, I'll die here, but you are going to go on. Take this Torah scroll, and I want you to remind people who see it of what happened here.'

"Joachim grows up to become a physicist and grows up to work on one of the space shuttle projects, and so to remind the world of what happened in the dark at Bergen-Belsen during the second World War, he gave one of the people of the crew the Torah scroll. I thought it was a real 'feel good' conclusion to the whole thing."

In typical fashion though, there's a twist. Though he was almost finished with the story, Paul Jr. decided to complete it the next day. "That Saturday morning I woke up, and Space Shuttle Columbia went down, and aboard the space shuttle Columbia was an Israeli Air Force colonel named Ilan Ramone," he says. "It was he who had Rabbi Dasberg's scroll with him."

"It became this incredibly poignant story, which I finished immediately afterwards, still not able to get the full emotional lead on it, and we broadcast it on Monday."

The elder Harvey was overcome by emotion while recording the segment. "He couldn't get through it," Paul Jr. remembers. "I could guess he started it eight, nine times, maybe more, and could not get past the ending of it without breaking up. Finally we said, 'Let's try to do the end alone,' and he barely got through it."

While he says no one show has drawn a significant amount of listener response, he notices that the series in general does. "I waited in my car for the last line, that type of thing," Paul Jr. says. "It's like nothing else on commercial news talk. It's completely unlike anything else in the environment. I think that's a shame in more ways than one. Except for [the Paul Harvey lineup], there's no more room for short-form programming in commercial terrestrial. The big, three-hour preproduced syndicated blocks moved into place and have no room for network product in the middle of them."

Yet despite that and the fact that the show focuses on the past, Paul Jr. says it continues to engage listeners. "Its ratings are comparable to the very best morning-drive ratings," he claims. "It's essentially a historical series, not Tom and Kate's baby. Maybe its irrelevance is what makes it so relevant."

Given the care and feeding that he puts into each installment, it is not surprising that Paul Jr. seems a bit put off by its frequent displacement. "Everything pre-empts this show," he says. "Sports, sewer backups in the community . . . you would be amazed at how often it goes away—and certainly without announcement, or very often without being delayed—just vanished."

BULLISH ABOUT RADIO, BUT CONCERNED

As someone whose livelihood revolves around terrestrial radio, Paul Jr. is frustrated by TSL erosion to other entertainment options.

"They blame options in the car like CDs, iPods, satellite radio and so forth, and when I say 'they,' I mean industry insiders, wonks and so on, but I just don't buy it, because if you look at the terrestrial world and compare commercial terrestrial news talk to public terrestrial news talk, you get an entirely different outlook," he says.

"There are some powerful inferences that we overcommercialized our commercial radio. We may be sucking the eggs out of the goose laying our golden eggs too hard and fast." He also thinks a different programming philosophy is in order. "I've been saying this for decades, and I'll use 'The Rest of the Story' as an example. Why is 'The Rest of the Story' up there sailing away and it's environment is growing more tremulous by the season? I think variety is a huge part of that."

Don't mistake his challenges for abandonment. He believes in terrestrial commercial radio, but says the medium is ceding too much ground to new media. "Why am I anxious about it? Because I owe commercial terrestrial radio a great deal," he says. "It's been the home for 'The Rest of the Story' for 30 years now . . . and I don't want to see it perish through a lot of excuses."

Interestingly, while Paul Sr.'s "News & Comment" program is available as a Web stream, "The Rest of the Story" is not. That is by design. "I've done everything in my power to keep 'The Rest of the Story' exclusively on commercial terrestrial radio," Paul Jr. says. "My feeling is that the more special the encounter, the more it will be prized by the person who encounters it."

Paul Jr. says he continues to "review the various media and respective areas of expansion for 'The Rest of the Story' . . . [but] until it can be demonstrated in listeners, dollars and cents and all that, that there is a good reason to do it, I'm inclined to keep it that special experience for guests to get in one's car and by going to one's radio."

While he has contributed a few pieces through the years to "News & Comment," that's not where his strengths lie, he believes. "I'm suspicious enough to be a good reporter, to be a good newsperson, but I'm just too iconoclastic to be so-called 'fair and balanced,'" Paul Jr. says. "Only a contrarian could write 'The Rest of the Story.' I think I'm doing the right thing and in the right field." ■■■

SoCAL VET LAUGHLIN REVS ENGINES AT KDAY

BY CHUCK TAYLOR

ROY LAUGHLIN HAS STOOD upon the mountaintop.

As the former co-regional VP of Clear Channel/Los Angeles and GM of top 40 powerhouse KIIS-FM, he spent 14 years helping build the brand through a series of bold and often controversial moves, including the replacement of longtime KIIS morning man Rick Dees with an up-and-coming Ryan Seacrest.

But a year ago, last March 30, Laughlin stepped down in what many regarded as an abrupt exit. The talk at the time was that he had bumped heads one too many times with his corporate higher-ups and was simply fed up. But more on that later.

Now, the broadcast veteran is back in the business and, in a sense, starting over. He remains in the nation's No. 2 radio market, but has taken on the challenging task of reinventing struggling R&B/hip-hop KDAY, owned by Magic Broadcasting/Styles Media.

Roy Laughlin

So far, the station's buzz among listeners has sounded like "zzzz." In the winter 2006 Arbitron, the station pulled a lackluster 0.6 share, paling against head-on, steel-plated competitors: Emmis rhythmic top 40 KPWR (Power 106), with a 3.2 share; Spanish Broadcasting System Latin rhythm KXOL (Latino 96.3), with a 3.2; and Radio One KKBt (the Beat), at 1.9, which recently flipped from R&B/hip-hop to adult R&B/talk.

"I saw this as an opportunity to get into radio again at the ground level in a major market," Laughlin explains. "I still have a lot of friends at Clear Channel, and my wife works there"—KIIS morning team sidekick Ellen K—"so I don't see myself in competition with them."

Already, the Magic/Styles market manager is moving and shaking. KDAY announced May 17 that it would begin airing syndicated morning host Steve Harvey at the end of the month. It has been a year since Harvey signed off at the Beat, ending a four-and-a-half-year morning stretch in the market.

"He's a superstar," Laughlin says. "You look at his guest roster over the next week, which includes Nicolette Sheridan, Teri Hatcher and Magic Johnson. He could be on most any radio station."

Second, the station is making a prominent move away from direct competition in the contemporary hip-hop market, segueing toward a programming concept that seems to be coming into its own: classic rap, if you will.

"In 1994, if you were listening to Notorious B.I.G. and you were 16, today you would be 28 years old," Laughlin says. "The idea is to create a variety position in hip-hop, similar to what the Jack format is for Anglos. We intend to form a coalition for African-American and Hispanic listeners with the same appeal."

The precise mix of the format is still in development, but Laughlin says, "We will have a lot more classics than anybody else, and it will be presented in contemporary fashion. That, I think, is what will set us apart."

The station is obviously targeting an adult audience, moving it more into a competitive realm that includes Clear Channel adult R&B KHHT (Hot 92 Jamz) and similarly formatted Taxi Productions KJLH.

"Our plan," Laughlin jokes, "is to take a radio station that has been kicked to the curb and move it to just below average."

The truth behind the jest, however, is his belief that if KDAY could improve its ratings to as high as a 1.5 share 12 plus, the profit margin would allow it to thrive. Laughlin tosses around numbers, but prefers to keep potential revenue estimates off the record.

Of course, given his legacy, Laughlin hardly signed onto KDAY's rejuvenation on a whim. Conditional to his belief in the station was a substantial signal upgrade. KDAY has improved its reach in Southern California 70%, he says, via a "synchrocast" at the same 93.5 FM frequency on KDAI Riverside-San Bernardino.

"That was a big part of me signing on to do this project," he says. "We have a major improvement in our reach to what I call 'the L.A. basin.' There's a potential 9.5 million people that live south of the Hollywood Hills."

In the meantime, Magic/Styles brought in programming veteran Steve Hedwood on April 9 as a consultant.

KDAY/KDAI's classic hip-hop format is aiming for the adult black audience, sure enough, but Laughlin says that such programming also has an allure for the market's Latin population.

"There are three ways to attract Hispanics: First, speak Spanish. There are 17 radio signals in Los Angeles that are doing that, and granted, we are not one of them. So the second way is to be gigantic in English—to be Coca-Cola, to have an image that is larger than life, even if it's in English. The third way to attract Latinos is to reflect the urban musical image. That is our worm to put on the hook."

Laughlin reflects on the fact that not only is Los Angeles the No. 1 Hispanic market in the United States, but it ranks No. 5 with African-Americans. He believes that among adults who grew up with hip-hop, it's a winning proposition.

And we are talking about a man who is used to coming out on top. Laughlin grew up in Louisiana and first worked in No. 83 market Baton Rouge, then worked his way to Houston before ending up in L.A.

Regarding his exit from Clear Channel and KIIS-FM, he speaks frankly: "I probably stayed too long. I should have been looking for something else to do. Everyone gets stale when they stay too long somewhere. I guess I was like the guest who wouldn't leave the party."

On a reflective note, he adds, "Everyone who is there now has bigger opportunities. I still have good relationships with everyone there, but I kind of needed to go."

Laughlin admits that he was rankled by Clear Channel's "Less Is More" campaign to lighten the spotlight on the company's outlets, which, in some of its largest markets, had reached as many as 16 minutes per hour.

"I didn't understand the rollout of 'Less Is More,'" he says. "I figured we were going to lose so much revenue, and I was very vocal about it. But you know what? I was wrong. Sometimes you have to learn the hard way."

In fact, stepping outside of radio's inner circle gave the broadcast leader an opportunity to view things in a different light, which he shares with a sort of vulnerability that many mighty execs would shy from.

Foremost, he says, stepping out of the spotlight allowed valuable time to spend with his now-4-year-old boy, Calvin.

"Through all of this process, that was the greatest thing during the year I had off," he says. "It was a really important time to be with him."

In terms of observing the industry whose ladder he had spent a lifetime aggressively climbing, Laughlin observes, "First, I realized that in this industry, nobody seems to respect anybody else's wins. You know, in the movie or music business, if you do something great, it seems that people are lined up to stand behind your successes—because in an artistic field, any success spells out a victory for the industry as a whole.

"But in radio, there doesn't seem to be any sense of respect, because it's so terribly competitive. That's unfortunate."

A second observation Laughlin makes: "I worked at KIIS for 14 years, and I think anyone who works at any of these great radio stations loses sight of how great they've got it. I started in Baton Rouge—the leaders at these stations have the opportunity to set that standard for everybody—anyone that's working at a station in a top 10 market needs to realize that they should never lose sight of how exciting what they do is."

Laughlin is also confessional in his opinion of his big-dog former employer. He offers full respect for Clear Channel, adding that to serve as a critic of the nation's primary player is counterproductive to anyone in the industry. "Look, it doesn't matter if you don't like the Yankees. They need to do well for baseball as a whole to do well, you know? You can't be in the radio industry and be against Clear Channel. It's just, well, it's just kind of dumb."

His money is where his mouth is: KDAY's new morning show is distributed by Clear Channel's Premiere Radio Networks, in a partnership with Inner City Radio, owner of Harvey's adult R&B flagship, WBLS New York. Laughlin remains protective of wife Ellen K's role on KIIS: "She's the reason I stayed in Los Angeles and was looking for something noncompetitive."

When Dees was released, Laughlin insisted that Ellen K remain with the morning show. He defends such patronage: "When she started, she was the hip kid and Rick Dees was the family guy. Now, she's the cool mom and Ryan is the hip kid. You need that balance for the audience; I think it worked out perfectly."

Looking forward, Laughlin realizes that his station needs to focus on the basics at this point. Text messaging and other technologies are important, but first, he has to build ratings following a traditional model, with the right music and personalities.

"We're in show business, so you always have to make sure you put out the biggest show that you can," he says. "I need to generate some ratings before I look into everything that is out there. We need to run before we sprint."

Still, Laughlin has always kept an eye toward the future. "I remember when we registered rick.com for Rick Dees and I kept telling him how big the Web could be. None of us understand where the convergence of media is going to take us."

Laughlin reflects on his belief in Seacrest as a vehicle that will lead KIIS beyond just morning show numbers. "I see him now as a new generation, not just of radio, but of media. He's everywhere, from 'American Idol' to KIIS to his countdown to E!. That's where we're going. Media will be ubiquitous like that. One element that radio has in its corner will be everywhere."

As far as starting all over again in an industry that he has spent decades helping move forward, Laughlin says, "There's so much potential, all over again. It's a lot of fun thinking about creating a big win again. You get addicted to that. It's tough to sit back and not be involved in it. Even if you're in it and you lose, you're still playing hard—and you're still having fun."

AC: MORE THAN JUST IDOLS AND BRITS

CHART COMMENTARY BY JOE FLEISCHER

HAS ADULT CONTEMPORARY become the dominion of "American Idol" winners and smooth British crooners? Well, the BigChampagne Top 20 Adult Contemporary Download chart is certainly well-stocked with the work of mainstays Kelly Clarkson, Carrie Underwood, Daniel Powter and worldwide superstar James Blunt, but there are some pretty exciting contenders for the AC crown just now emerging. Case in point is the somewhat surprising success of former 98 Degrees leader and Jessica Simpson's ex Nick Lachey, whose "What's Left of Me" single is more than a mere dark horse. Rob Thomas may not have quite the eye-popping download numbers as Blunt or Clarkson, but by notching two tracks in the top 20 with "Lonely No More" and "Ever the Same," the Matchbox Twenty frontman has confirmed his position as an AC sure thing.

THE CHARTS

THIS WEEK IN DATA. For complete charts, there's always more at www.BillboardRadioMonitor.com

LEGEND TO CHARTS

Charts are ranked by detections except for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country charts which are based on audience impressions, computed by cross-referencing exact times of air-play with Arbitron listener data.

● Songs showing an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. Exempting the Country chart, a song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country). Country titles which decline in audience but increase in detections will also receive a bullet if the total audience erosion for the week does not exceed 3%. A song in its first week at No. 1 will always receive a bullet, even if it has lost detections.

AUDIENCE TOTALS on the charts are derived, in part, using certain Arbitron Inc. copyrighted Persons 12+ audience estimates, under license.

◎ AIRPOWER: awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Airpower awards do not appear on the Latin and Christian, Gospel charts.

↑ GREATEST GAINER: awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country).

+ MOST AIRPLAY ADDS: awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week.

TIES: A song with the best detection differential (audience differential for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week is ranked first if tied with another song on the chart. If the songs are still tied at this point, the title that is being played on the most stations at that format will be ranked first.

RECURRENT RULE: Songs below the top 20 (top 15 for Adult Top 40, AC, Adult R&B, Heritage Rock, Dance, Christian and Gospel) become recurrences and are removed from the chart after 20 weeks. In addition, songs that have been on the chart for more than 52 weeks and rank below No. 10 will become recurrences and will be removed from the chart. Descending country titles move to recurrent after 20 weeks if they rank below No. 15 in either audience or detections.

Ⓝ Nielsen BDS certification for airplay of 100,000 detections on all monitored stations, including satellite and national networks, across the U.S. and Canada. Numerical following symbol indicates multiple level of 100,000 detections.

★ Indicates title earned Hit Predictor status in research data provided by Promosquad.

Playlists are listed in order of TSA weekly cume, beginning with the highest-cuming station. Cumes are updated twice yearly following the release of the spring and fall Arbitron surveys.

A+ AIRPLAY ADDS denotes songs with 6 or more detections at station for first time this week.

IMPACT! Songs at Airpower level and below with a gain in detections or with a percentage loss in detections equal to or better than the monitored downtime in the format.

★ INITIAL IMPACT: Indicates song's first appearance on the Impact! page.

BENTLEY 'SETTLES' FOR ANOTHER NO. 1

Dierks Bentley becomes only the fourth male artist in the past two-and-a-half years to land back-to-back No. 1 songs on the Country chart as "Settle for a Slowdown" (Capitol) gains 1.9 million listener impressions and steps 2-1. The track follows his previous chart-topper, "Come a Little Closer," which started a three-week run at No. 1 in the Nov. 25, 2005, issue. Bentley joins a prestigious list consisting of Tim McGraw, Toby Keith and Keith Urban among male artists who have posted consecutive chart-toppers since the beginning of 2004.

Also noteworthy on the Country list is a 12-8 hop by Brad Paisley's "The World" (Arista Nashville). The track is the lucky 13th top 10 of his career. Taking the chart's Hot Shot Debut is sister act SheDaisy, which checks in with its second-highest entry on the list at No. 47 with "In Terms of Love" (Lyric Street).

SHAKIRA NEARS MAINSTREAM TOP 40 DETECTIONS RECORD

Shakira's "Hips Don't Lie" (Epic) holds onto the No. 1 spot at Mainstream Top 40 for a second straight week and closes in on the format's single-week detections mark. With 9,549 spins, "Hips" moves within 33 plays of the 9,582 standard set by Gwen Stefani's "Hollaback Girl" in the June 10, 2005, issue. "Hips" sports a 524-spin increase this week, its ninth consecutive gain of 500 or more detections.

Elsewhere on the Mainstream Top 40 list, Chamillionaire's "Ridin'" (Universal Motown) rolls 13-8 in its fifth week on the chart. The track, which retains the Rhythmic Top 40 crown for a sixth straight week, is the second-best gainer on the Mainstream chart and is up more than 1,000 spins for a second consecutive week (1,047).

BENET IS SITTING 'PRETTY'

With its 11-10 climb at Adult R&B, "Pretty Baby" (Warner Bros.) gives Eric Benet his sixth consecutive top 10, which is the longest current streak by a male artist at the format. Among his titles to reach the upper territory of the list, "Spend My Life With You," which featured Tamia, spent five weeks at No. 1 in 1999.

Among all artists, Benet's current streak trails Jill Scott's active run of seven consecutive top 10 songs. It may take some doing for Benet to overtake her, as Scott has a chance to extend her total to eight with the re-entry of "The Fact Is (I Need You)" (SUM) at No. 36.

Nickelback Scores A Perfect 10; Lostprophets Find Chart Success

Nickelback's "Savin' Me" (Roadrunner/IDJMG) jumps 7-4 at Heritage Rock, giving it a new record for most career top five tracks at the format. The quartet's 10th top five moves it out of a tie with Aerosmith atop that list. "Savin'" is also the group's seventh consecutive visit to the top five, a feat accomplished at Heritage only by Aerosmith, 3 Doors Down and Kenny Wayne Shepherd.

Elsewhere on the rock landscape, Lostprophets' "Rooftops" (Columbia) enters the Modern Rock and Active Rock charts at No. 36 and claims Greatest Gainer and Most Airplay Adds honors at each format. The quintet spent one week atop the Modern list with "Last Train Home" in April 2004. "Rooftops" is the lead track from the group's forthcoming album, "Liberation Transmission."

LONG THAW ENDS FOR ICE CUBE

After a six-year absence, Ice Cube returns to the Rhythmic Top 40 chart at No. 37 with "Why We Thugs" (Virgin). Ice Cube last took up residence on the list in July 2000, spending three straight weeks at No. 40 with "Hello."

Also debuting at Rhythmic Top 40 is Mike Shinoda of Linkin Park and his side project Fort Minor. The band's "Where'd You Go" (Warner Bros.), which features Holly Brook, comes in at No. 35 as it holds at No. 5 on the Mainstream Top 40 chart. With Linkin Park, Shinoda enjoyed a Rhythmic chart peak of No. 25 with the mash-up of "Numb/Encore" in November 2004.

AC ANSWERS TO 'RIDDLE'

Five for Fighting matches its career-high debut at Adult Contemporary as it enters at No. 26 with "The Riddle" (Columbia). In November 2001, the act's debut chart effort, "Superman (It's Not Easy)," also opened at that rank en route to a No. 2 peak the following May. Since that debut, Five for Fighting has spent more weeks in the top 10 of the AC chart (104 weeks) than any other artist during that time frame.
