8 Loving It Live

College Radio exists to support and help establish upcoming artists. While airplay is always a good way to introduce artists to listeners, stations can further support an artist by bringing them to town and sponsoring a live concert. This week, CMJ offers an elementary introduction to the art of concert booking. From the first time you contact a band to play your concert to promoting the show around town, from making sure the band actually shows up to cleaning up the beer stains at the venue after the show, we've got you covered.

KAZAA FIGHTS BACK

In a startling move, Sharman Networks, the owners of the Kazaa file-sharing network, filed a counterclaim against the movie and recording industries on Jan. 27, alleging copyright misuse, monopolization and deceptive acts and practices. The suit is in response to a copyright-infringement lawsuit brought against Sharman by the RIAA and MPAA. Even though the company is based in Australia, U.S. District Judge Stephen Wilson ruled that it is subject to U.S. copyright laws because it sees significant usage by Americans and its actions contribute to piracy within the United States. "In seeking to simultaneously stop illegal copying and to maintain their dominant position in the distribution of musical and movie content, the industry plaintiffs have obscenely overreached," Sharman said in a statement. A spokesman for the Recording Industry Association of America scoffed at Sharman's claims, saying they were "akin to an arsonist burning down his home and then seeking sympathy for being homeless." While copyright misuse is a relatively new and unsettled area of law, Sharman will face staggering legal costs in order to gather the evidence needed to make its case. The ill-fated Napster attempted a similar defense when facing the RIAA last year, but the inquiry ended when Napster went bankrupt and was liquidated.

CLEAR CHANNEL DEFENDS ITSELF TO SENATE

The U.S. Senate Commerce Committee recently heard arguments regarding radio ownership, which featured Clear Channel Chairman/CEO Lowry Mays and artist advocate Don Henley facing off over such issues as radio deregulation and anti-competitive practices. The hearing was in response to Sen. Russell Feingold's proposed "Competition in Radio and Concert Industries Act," which would restrict further radio consolidation, revise the current payola law and ban anti-competitive behavior (first reported in CMJ NMR 798). Mays argued the benefits of deregulation, citing the fact that owning more stations allows economies of scale, greater diversity of formats and the ability to compete more effectively with other media for advertising dollars. Commerce Committee Chair Sen. John McCain reportedly intensely interrogated Mays on several issues, but did not indicate whether the issue would be pursued further. RIAA Chairman/CEO Hilary Rosen lauded the Committee for addressing the matter. Last May, the RIAA joined nine other trade groups in asking that Congress and the FCC revise current payola law and look into the effects of radio consolidation.

MARC BENESCH 1953-2003

Marc Benesch, one of the most dearly loved radio promotion executives in the music industry, succumbed to his battle with cancer on Saturday, Feb. 1. He was 50. During his successful career, Benesch held posts at Columbia, Interscope and TVT Records and also worked as an independent marketing consultant. More recently, Benesch headed the promotion department at ARTISTdirect. CMJ's sincerest condolences go out to the Benesch family, Marc's friends and co-workers.

IDJMG WRESTLES VIDEO GAME WORLD

As constricting radio playlists make it more difficult to break songs through traditional methods, major labels are now turning towards video games as an alternative means to introduce music to their audience. Island Def Jam Music Group, together with the EA Sports™ brand, has recently launched Def Jam VENDETTA, a game that allows users to step into the world of underground street-fighting, with the ability to beat down such characters as DMX, Ludacris, Method Man, Redman, N.O.R.E., Scarface and more. Players advance through fights at underground Hip-Hop venues that feature new music from the label's roster. The game will be available for both Playstation2 and Nintendo Game Cube.

INDUSTRY SHUFFLE

Team Clermont has welcomed Graham MacRae into its ranks, where he will pitch in on College and non-commercial radio promotion. The move also marks the opening of the Athens, Georgia-based company's Los Angeles office. MacRae spent the last three-and-a-half years promoting records at S.P.E.C.T.R.E. He can be reached at his new office at: 706.548.6008, or by e-mail at: graham@teamclermont.com. • Hollywood Records has appointed Eric Ferris as Vice President of Marketing. Prior to joining Hollywood, Ferris served as Vice President of Marketing for Virgin Records.

THE WEEK IN MUSIC NEWS

Compiled and written by Doug Levy • dougl@cmj.com

More than 30 years after the initial release of the Beatles' Let It Be, Paul McCartney can finally stop complaining. The album, which was released in 1970 to coincide with a film of the same name, was cobbled together from numerous recordings the Fab Four initially laid down for an LP to be titled Get Back. However, tensions in the band caused plans for that album to be scrapped, have hoped for. Although there's no new album on the way in the near future, plans have been announced for the release of The Complete Works Part 1, a 24-track double-disc collection of highly-sought after rare Spiritualized material dating all the way back to the band's first 7-inch single, originally released in 1990. And if two full CDs of B-sides, non-album tracks and other lesser-known songs aren't enough for you, as the title of the collection hints, it doesn't end there. The Complete Works Part 1 is currently looking at a March street date, with a second collection, The Complete Works Part 2, to follow later in the year.

The first offering, despite the wealth of material, covers only the initial three years of Spiritualized's career, up through 1993, so expect the next installment to showcase hard-to-find songs from more recent years. A full tracklisting for The Complete Works Part 1 is available at www.spiritualized.com. • There was a time when taking a five-year break between albums was quite shocking. These days, it's a fairly common occurrence. Or, in this case, Phair-ly common. Yes, indie rock siren supreme Liz Phair is finally set to make a comeback with a May 20th release for the follow-up to 1998's Whitechocolatespaceegg. Watch out, though: Phair has been working with both Michael Penn, who's most well-known for collaborating with his wife, Aimee Mann, and the Matrix, the pop song-writing collective that has spawned such beasts as Avril Lavigne. If that's not a recipe for a schizophrenic album, we don't know what is; which could explain the disc's title, Happy Tragic Thing. Luckily, Phair is promising lots of rock for the release. Look for the inclusion of tracks such as "Extraordinary" and the promisingly-titled "Rock Me," which the singer recently premiered live during a party at the Sundance Film Festival in Salt Lake City. • No one can accuse Outkast of not living up to its word: The record-breaking rap duo promised a long time ago that its next release would be an unprecedented double-album made up of two solo discs — one by each member. Now Big Boi and Dre have revealed that they went ahead with exactly that plan in preparing Speakerbox/Love Hater, which they hope to see in stores by May. The two artists will naturally appear as guests on each other's discs, but each one was written and produced exclusively in solo mode. Big Boi's Speakerbox promises to be a more classic Hip-Hop oriented album, while the decidedly more flamboyant, eccentric Andre 3000 has revealed his Love Hater as a concept record, with a proposed film possibly on the way to accompany it. The final tracklists for the albums have yet to be decided, but the pair claim to have laid down more than 80 songs between them, so there's a lot of selecting to do. In the meantime look for Big Boi and Dre on Monster, the debut album from their "The Whole World" collaborator Killer Mike, which is out March 11.

The Beatles

with the group instead going on to record Abbey Road before finally splitting up. Since Let It Be was released after the fact, producer Phil Spector was brought in to spruce things up, adding extra strings and production to a number of songs — much to the ire of Sir McCartney. Now, for the first time, Apple Records will be offering a new version of Let It Be featuring all of the songs in their original form, before Spector got his hands on them. In conjunction with the CD release, the difficult-to-come-by Let It Be film will also be offered on DVD for the first time. Release dates have yet to be set for both the CD and DVD. • Fans hungry for more music from Spiritualized are close to getting more than they ever could

SUGAR

Copper Blue (Rykco)

With both the brutal dismantling of Hüsker Dü and two solo albums behind him, Bob Mould was anxious to throw his hat back in the post-punk ring. Assembling power-pop three-piece Sugar, he prepared for the inevitable Hüsker comparisons with the release of the evocative and innovative Copper Blue. Mould's growing ability to throw a guitar-driven full nelson around the neck of memorable pop hooks, however, made this his most commercially successful work to date — "Helpless" and "If I Can't Change Your Mind" both enjoyed moderate radio and MTV success and the album nearly achieved gold status. But the meat of Copper Blue's true achievements didn't hang exclusively from the bones of its two commercially-accepted singles; "Hoover Dam," "A Good Idea" and "Changes" all crunched, popped and skyrocketed Mould's craft to the next level. — Brad Maybe

SUPERGRASS

Life On Other Planets (Island)
It may not have been all that long ago, but many of the rock giants that strode the Earth during the Britpop era have already become dinosaurs, or worse, fallen prey to outright extinction. So the fact that Supergrass is not only still going strong on its fourth album, but sounds downright relevant and fresh is no small feat. Now an official four-some, with frontman Gaz Coombes's brother Rob (keyboards) finally getting his membership card, the band offers up its most winsomely diverse album yet with Life On Other Planets. "Seen The Light" dares to mix sheep noises and melody in a way only the Beach Boys would have dared, while everyone from Elvis to the doo-wop greats gets a nod on this trip from guitar pop to psychedelia in an analogue-synth-driven space-ship. And, as "Can't Get Up," "Grace" and "Never Done Nothing Like That Before" evidence, Supergrass's knack for the sing-a-long chorus is still very much in effect. Don't forget, these are the guys who inspired Dave Grohl to grow out his sideburns. They can do that to you, you know. — Doug Levy

JULIANA THEORY

Love (Epic)

With Love, the Juliana Theory completes its shift away from the confines of emo, a transition that could have been predicted after 2000's Emotion Is Dead. Per the industry norm, the group has had all of its rough edges polished and buffed into a high-gloss shine in order to make its major label debut more consumer-friendly; glaring through the luster, however, are 60 minutes of expert songwriting that contemplates the dark, driving powers of love through corpulent guitar-work, sprinkling Jimmy Page-melodies over driving rhythms. The real focus, however, is on the powerful lilt of singer Brett Detar, whose vocal maneuverings just about force the listener to feel his pangs of loneliness as if they were their own and search for the necessary fulfillment. Whether giving in to the despondent "Shell Of A Man," the churning-guitarfest of "Repeating, Repeating," the misty "Into The Dark" or the rousing climax of "Everything," it's the earnestness and passion that went into every one of these songs that shines through. Careful, folks — Love is in the air.

ZWAN

Mary Star Of The Sea (Reprise)

Just because a band breaks up doesn't mean its members want to stop making music. So what's an aging alterna-rocker to do? Form a supergroup, of course. Enlisting the help of Smashing Pumpkins drummer Jimmy Chamberlin, ex-Chavez member Matt Sweeney and A Perfect Circle's Paz Lenchantin, Pumpkins mainman Billy Corgan makes his return to the rock fold with Zwan. Anyone even remotely familiar with the Smashing Pumpkins output won't be too surprised by what they hear on Zwan's debut disc; the textured guitars and dense melodies that were the Pumpkins' calling cards remain intact in Corgan's new vision, while his voice is so recognizable it's hard not to think of his former band every time he opens his mouth to sing. But calling Zwan "Smashing Pumpkins Part II" would be a disservice to the contributions of Sweeney and Lenchantin. The delicate acoustic inter-ludes and atmospherics on tracks like "Heartsong" and "Of A Broken Heart" give Corgan's songwriting room to breathe in a way it never did before. — Brad Filicky

PAUL VAN DYK

Global (Mute)

Thanks in part to his bi-monthly residency at New York City's now-defunct superclub Twilo, Paul van Dyk is one of the first international DJs to develop a loyal following Stateside. Clubbers often travel hundreds of miles for his sets, actually planning their weekends around van Dyk's energetic DJ performances. His best production, "For An Angel," is easily one of the most beautiful dance songs of all time — and just one of the many hits found on Global, PVD's definitive "Best Of" collection. More than worth your while for its catalogue of classics like "Forbidden Fruit," "Beautiful Place," "Words," "Tell Me Why (The Riddle)" and "A Magical Moment," the package also features the inclusion of previously unreleased tracks "Animacion" and "My World." While trance DJs like van Dyk have caught quite a bit of flak from "intelligent" clubbers for catering to the commercial side of dance music, the impact of his career on America is virtually unmatched. And beyond that, van Dyk remains a global phenomenon.

VARIOUS ARTISTS

Amandla! The Soundtrack (ATO)

The soundtrack to the award-winning documentary by Lee Hirsch, Amandla! spotlights the freedom songs of South Africa suffering under the harsh system of apartheid. Spanning a half-century of South African music, the collection is epic in scope, undeniably stressing the importance of song in inspiring and empowering revolution in the human spirit. Showcasing a wide variety of artists, the soundtrack covers an extensive range of subjects and genres, from Nelson Mandela's struggle for freedom documented in Hugh Masekela's rousing anthem "Bring Him Back Home" to the swinging Jazz of Miriam Makeba's "Beware Verwoerd (Naants' Indod'Emnyama)."

Oppressed people have always expressed their pain, triumph, struggle and joy through music, and no stone is left unturned in documenting the rousing sounds of particular struggle for freedom. In the '60s, it was believed by many that music could change the world. Listening to this collection, it's obvious that it did. It may even make you believe that music is one of the only things that can change the world.

PRAM

Dark Island (Merge)

Known for its use of unusual instruments such as toy pianos, glass hammers and a zither, Pram has been pushing the musical envelope for over 10 years now. Hailing from Birmingham, England, the group got its start with the 1992 Gash EP — this initial offering was a pared-down disc marked by frontwoman Rosie Cuckston's spellbinding vocals simmering in theremin shrills. Throughout the years, the band's ranks have swelled until it encompassed seven partners-in-crime, now sporting fully textured sheets of sound. The sixth full-length release from the increasingly ethereal U.K. collective, Dark Island, bubbles over with multi-layered, lost-in-time tracks; "Sirocco," for example, swirls with a mind-bending snake charmer appeal, while "Leeward" quietly seduces the ear with a lullaby allure. The curious "Penny Arcade," however, speaks most to the essence of the band, with the words, "There's a place that we all know/ It's the world where dreamers go." Dark Island is both the vehicle and the destination on this particular trip. Close your eyes and enjoy the ride.

WHITE LIGHT MOTORCADE

Thank You, Goodnight! (Octone)

Add White Light Motorcade to the list of bands that are going to save the life of rock 'n' roll. The New York City band's debut, Thank You, Good Night!, slides in innocently enough at first, but quickly lands an open palm across the face, just to politely "Open Your Eyes" (sample lyric: "You see your life in bits and pieces/ And all the things you love are useless"). Singer Harley Dinardo spends most of the album continually shifting from acid-tongued, snarling verses to giant contagious pop choruses, a formula that works for both the disc's loudest and most electric moments ("It's Happening," "Semi Precious") and the more mid-tempo tracks ("All Gone Again"). White Light Motorcade also steps up with a satisfying answer to the question, "What happened to variety?" — switching it up quite comfortably and kicking out a different jam every time. The result is one hell of an eclectic record, but one that's just about ready to bust into the emergency room, grab the defibrillator pads and press them firmly on rock's balls. Clear! — Brad Maybe

ATOM AND HIS PACKAGE

Attention! Blah Blah Blah (Hopeless)

Armed with a Yamaha RM1X, a neuroscience degree, a loving eye for minutiae and a Milo Aukerman Smurf whine, Adam Goren (the "Atom" of Atom And His Package) is a synth-punk science fair renegade.

Sure, punk elitists find his sequencers bourgeois (note to naysayers: get thyself to some Suicide or Big Black tout de suite), but his quirked-out, dynamic fourth LP sees Goren continuing on his mission unabated, with melodies cribbed from early L.A. thrash and contemporary power-pop meeting Atom's Kraftwerkcore dementia. The lyrics are as insular and adorably oddball as ever (sample topics: taping fake mustaches to the TV, failed attempts at professional gambling, the beauty of the octopus), and the songs are actually at their most varied. "The Palestinians Are Not The Same Thing As The Rebel Alliance, Jackass" is '96-era Hopeless hardcore, "Head With Arms" slowly blips "Til Tuesday and "I'm Downright Amazed At What I Can Destroy With Just A Hammer" is Harold

LIVE

An Introduction To Booking And Promoting Concerts by Louis Miller

We all know the importance of College Radio to artists and the labels that represent them. Radio exposes listeners to new artists everyday, driving consumers into music stores to support retailers, the artists and their labels. However, the true lifeblood of this industry is live music. It's the live concert where an artist and their listeners can make an intimate connection that recorded music can't touch. Without any help from studio wizardry, overdubs or overzealous production teams, artists are allowed to present their raw songs — the three-minute aural manifestation of their souls — to the listener. Whether it's a budding singer/songwriter at an open-mic coffeehouse or rock's biggest name rockin' out at a sold-out amphitheater, each concert makes a unique impression, allowing viewers to see artists as more than just performers, but as people.

Stations can do so much more to support an artist than simply playing their CDs on the radio, and sponsoring concerts is a great way for both the artist and the radio station to receive more publicity and promotion. In hopes of inspiring a few of our readers to bring this experience to as many people as possible, CMJ is offering a basic introduction to the art of concert booking. While booking shows can be an exhausting and demanding task, we hope this introduction can help eliminate some of the stress that seems to go hand-in-hand with coordinating a concert.

When a station decides they would like to book a band, the first challenge is to establish contact to see if the artist is not only interested in playing the show, but is available. Many bands list an E-mail address for its booking agency in the liner notes of its album. Another great resource is to call the label rep or promotion agency that worked the band's record to College Radio and ask for the booking contact. "I tried to get the band Thursday a bunch of times, so I heckled the living hell out of Thatcher [Graham] when he worked at the Syndicate and Steve [Schwartz] when he was an intern," remembers WIUP/Pittsburgh Music Director Dave Earl. Otherwise, a band's Web site generally always has some sort of contact information, whether it's an E-mail address, phone number or even a message board.

While booking agents can be helpful, it is generally easier to work directly with a band, as opposed to through a booking agent. "Bands are easier to work with, because you get rid of the middleman," says Matt Schnable, who serves as WXJM/Harrisonburg, Virginia's MACROck (Mid-Atlantic College Radio Conference) Coordinator, a gig that makes him responsible for booking almost 100 bands in several venues for the two-day festival. "The band will say, 'Yes, I want to play this date, let's sure it up.' With a booker, we talk to them, they ask us to send them an offer, they present it to the band, the band makes a decision and tells the booker, and then the booker tells us."

When talking with a band, one of the things it will obviously be concerned about is how much they will be paid for the show. Ask the artist what they usually get paid per show, and see if the station has the budget to cover it. While payment amounts can be negotiable, it is important to make sure the artist is fairly compensated. Many campuses have program boards that may offer to donate some money towards the concert. While booking Student Rick, Motion City Soundtrack and Big Blue Monkey show, KWAR/Waverly, Iowa's Tim Hirl was able to do just that. "We ended up getting funding from the campus programming, so they went in half and they just had to put up their banner along with ours."

Artists will often send a tour rider, which lists the supplies the band needs in order to have a successful show. These lists may include stage, sound and light requirements, as well as such touring staples as batteries, duct tape, food, beverages, new socks and underwear and lodging requests. These items are also negotiable, and bookers can often get local businesses to help underwrite some of the cost by donating much of the rider items. When hosting bands for the MACROck conference, Schnable is awed by the community's readiness to help out. "We have all the food donated to us by local restaurants and stores to feed the bands,” he says. “It’s the whole community coming together to promote good independent music and an independent lifestyle.”

While in talks with the band, one also needs to be thinking of venues in which they could perform. Depending on the act, an appropriate venue could range from a basement or garage to an off-campus bar or your campus’s auditorium or arena, taking into consideration the genre of music and the artist’s drawing power, as well as the set-up of the venue, its acoustics, if it has its own sound system, lights and stage, etc. Talk to the venue’s booker as early as possible to confirm a date and determine how much it costs to rent the venue. Many schools allow campus organizations to book an on-campus venue either for free or at a discounted price, so it may be very beneficial for a station to hold a show on-campus, if the room is available.

Once a band, venue and date have all been confirmed, it is time to promote the show to anyone who will listen. Starting at least two weeks ahead of time, there should be posters advertising the show in every record store, campus dorm, student mail hall, dining hall, lifestyle store and bulletin board in town. “Fliering is probably the most important thing,” advises Earl. “Having a flier that’s not wordy, has pretty pictures on it and is going to grab someone’s attention is key. College campuses are notorious for having fliers everywhere, so you have to have a flier that’s going to jump out at people.” The band’s record should be placed into high rotation at the radio station and have DJs announce the upcoming show on air every time the album is played. Post the show on the radio station’s Web site, on any local concert listings and any appropriate message boards or chat rooms. Remember, it’s not possible for too many people to know about the concert.

“Stations can do so much more to support an artist than simply playing their CDs on the radio.”

As the day of the show approaches, all the small details must be dealt with. Make sure the band has detailed directions to the venue and they know exactly what time they should arrive. If more than one band is playing, have a meticulous schedule of when each band should load in, soundcheck, play their set, break down, etc. The agreed-upon items from the band’s rider should be readily available. Make sure you have enough volunteers to make the show run smoothly; people will be needed to work the front door, run lights and sound, help load in and set up all the equipment, break down the equipment and help clean up at the end of the night. Exchanging cell phone numbers with the band is also essential, just in case they aren’t at the venue on time or get lost along the way. In other words, “be more anal than you’ve ever been in your life,” advises Hirl. While compulsively double-checking times and confirmations may initially seem like yet another thing to do, it will only make things easier by alleviating future headaches.

If you’ve planned correctly, when the day of the show finally arrives, everything should be perfectly organized, everyone will be on time and stress won’t even enter the picture. More likely, however, you will be running around frantically trying to secure loose ends. But try to stay calm. When the band arrives at the venue and you meet them, hand out the schedules you prepared and try to make sure everyone has a good time. If a band has fun playing your show, it can only help your reputation and make it easier for you to book better shows in the future.

After the concert is over, make sure to settle up and pay the band, the venue, sound technicians and anyone else whose services you used. If the band needs a place to stay, it’s always nice to try and find a place for them, whether it’s an inexpensive hotel in the area or someone’s couch. They will be very appreciative.

While it is rare for a show to ever go over without any difficulties, perhaps the most important aspect of booking a show is to always have a backup plan. A band may not show up, or a venue may get shut down the night before your show. The only way to survive these obstacles is to plan for them. After all, when the band has played and everyone has gone home, you will have achieved a tremendous accomplishment. Booking shows is never easy, but, as Tim Hirl says, “If you’re crazy, you’ll want to do it again.” NMR

Chart information is based on combined airplay reports from CMJ's panel of college, commercial and non-commercial radio stations. Statistics are compiled from point totals tabulated from positions (1-30) of artists on airplay reports, then multiplied by station code factor (based upon market size, market impact and market reach). A digest version of this chart reaches over 100,000 active music consumers in CMJ New Music Monthly. ## Reporting Note

On Tuesday, February 4, CMJ's Web site (www.cmj.com) was inoperative due to an external problem with our Internet service provider's server. With that said, just over half of our regular College Radio reporting panel was able to submit their weekly playlists to CMJ.

Since 100 percent of the College Radio station playlist reports that formulate our charts are submitted to us online — not to mention the fact that we were unable to send or receive E-mail — CMJ was obligated by strict deadlines to complete and post our radio charts late in the afternoon on Tuesday. As a result, all of CMJ's charts for Issue #801 were compiled with the statistical information that we had received from our reporting stations up until the point when our Internet service provider's server failed.

CMJ regrets any inconvenience this may have caused. As this was an external malfunction that we could not manage ourselves, we shared your frustration. We ask that you please understand that this sort of situation is highly uncommon. The problem has since been rectified, and provided our ISP's server will behave itself, CMJ welcomes all online playlist reports again beginning on Friday, February 7.

We appreciate your patience and understanding.

Respectfully yours,
 — Kevin Boyce

THE KENU STAFF AT A RECENT CRYSTAL METHOD SHOW IN SEATTLE (L-R): Lorna, Damian, Big 'D,' DJ Juice and Lady-J.

Station Philosophy/ Audience Perception:

We bring current and upcoming dance music to the masses and provide an alternative to commercial/anthem dance tracks.

Slogans/Positioning Statements:

"NU Music, Pure Dance."
"The World Dance Soundtrack."

How do you differentiate your station from others in the market?

We focus more on underground music and play tracks that other stations don't.

How is the station promoted on-campus? Off-campus?

On-campus, the station promotes itself by putting up flyers and getting involved with campus activities, as well as having DJs mix records in the lunch hall for our "Monday Mix." Off-campus, we do live mix shows from clubs in the Seattle area, as well as go to dance music shows and set up a booth to pass out promotional items and interact with the listeners.

What type of image does the station project on the air?

Our jocks have natural, unforced radio voices, as to relate to the listener on a more one-on-one level.

Does your station have a unique morning or afternoon drive show?

We don't have unique morning or afternoon drive shows, but we do feature "Pure Dance Weekends," which are all-music/no-talk weekends.

Station Marketing/ Fundraising:

Pledge drives and fundraising concerts occur about every four months.

Recent remote broadcasts:

"Plush Crush," a deep house night from Temple Billiards in Pioneer Square in Seattle, is broadcasted live on KENU every Tuesday night, from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m., on 1330 AM and KENURadio.com.

Does your station do any music or audience research?

We're constantly finding new music that hasn't received any commercial airplay, breaking new artists, featuring local talent and asking people what they think KENU radio should play.

Current/Recent Promotions:

We set up a booth at a Crystal Method show. Also, we're planning to set up a booth to broadcast live and give away tickets at an upcoming Valentine's Day show for a local promoter.

Ties to the local music scene:

We feature local artists, as well as promote/give promo airtime to local shows.

Station benchmarks:

KENU used to be a country station, but we recently changed our format to dance music and are in the process of obtaining the world record for the longest DJ marathon (currently held by WFMU).

Also of interest:

KENU is a digital studio that uses Audiovault and we're training students to use the most current equipment, as well as teaching them about Internet radio, as KENU markets itself as both an AM and Internet outlet.

Andrew Balzarini)

ARTIST SPOTLIGHT

A BAND OF BEES

It's the usual band biography: two friends meet at school, connect through music and go on to record a collection of uniquely personal songs with a charming universal appeal. They do this, of course, in a shed. In the middle of a field. On an island. The songs are rooted in sounds that have floated down through the years, using offbeat instrumentation and instruments, unassuming falsettos, harmonies and sun-drenched melodies to take reggae, folk, roots and rock music, spin them about, toss them off a cliff, and then gather the pieces below, putting them back together in the most interesting fashions... All right, so it's not the usual band story at all. But for Aaron Fletcher and Paul Butler, that's how A Band Of Bees was born on their native Isle of Wight, a popular British holiday spot previously best known for hosting an infamous music festival over 30 years ago. The pair's debut album, Sunshine Hit Me, was nominated for the Mercury Music Prize following its 2002 release in the U.K. (where the band is known more simply as the Bees). Now, with its Stateside appearance, U.S. audiences finally have a chance to see what all the, um, buzz is about. Since locking themselves away in the shed that Butler built with his father — dubbed, quite functionally, The Shed — the boys have graduated to new housing/recording facilities and brought some local pals along to make A Band Of Bees the full band its name implies. CMJ caught up with Fletcher before the New Year to talk about Sunshine Hit Me (which includes the duo's loving take on Jorge Ben's "A Minha Menina"), what island life is truly like and why the use of samples is a "sinful thing."

How long have you and Paul been working together now?

We've been writing music for like eight years now, since we left school. It's just been serious for the last three, but we're literally doing it all the time. That's what we do. [We] lost all our friends. We're just in the studio all the time.

Does living on the island make you feel isolated at all? Is there any urge to pack up and move to the big city?

Most bands come from cities, I suppose — because that's where studios are. And things are. But we've got our own studio and make our own music. We just made it a pact that we're going to stay on the island. We love it. Most people do want to go somewhere else, apart from people who are creative. Unless you're a creative person, you've got to get away to get the jobs.

So does the Isle of Wight have a big community of creative people?

Yeah, totally. That's why most people are here, I'd say. Music, art; you know, things like that. There are no venues, though, which is the weird thing. The Isle of Wight bands, we play in pubs and theaters, but there's no place on the island where touring bands can play. They just don't come here, mostly.

How does your songwriting partnership work?

Paul sings, plays guitar, Rhodes keyboard, trumpet and recorder live, and a bit of tambourine. Paul does the drums as well. He plays everything. He was classically trained when he was younger. He's amazing; he can play everything really well, and he's really inventive. I'm coming at it from a different angle. I just make stuff up. I don't really know what I'm doing, it has to be said.

What made you decide to record a cover of "A Minha Menina"?

We were going to do a roots tune, a reggae track, but it was a bit tricky to find one that wouldn't sound a bit strange if we were singing it. "A Minha Menina" is just great. It really is the icing on the cake, I suppose. We recorded it in like two days — just knocked it down.

Do you prefer those kinds of classic songs to contemporary music?

That's a lot of what we listen to — Neil Young, the Beatles, the Beach Boys, Elvis, Al Green, Bob Marley, loads of Lee Perry, loads of roots stuff, Burning Spear, things like that. That's the sort of timeless music that we're trying to do. Not cheap thrill stuff.

Does Paul always sing the songs, regardless of who wrote what?

That's how it worked on the album. But before the album came out, we released a four-track EP over here, called You Got To Leave, which was musically rock, folk and roots. I sung on all the songs on that, and I don't sing at all on the album. So, we're still learning; we're still doing all sorts of stuff. We're both singing now, basically, but Paul is the frontman live.

Has a lot changed since you recorded the album?

It's funny, because Sunshine Hit Me has existed for about three or four years now. We wrote it and it didn't get released for a year, and now it's been out for a while here. So we've had loads of time to think about the next record, and in that time, we've moved from our studio, our shed, where it was made. We got a house, which has got a basement with a studio, and we're just over the moon.

"I just make stuff up. I don't really know what I'm doing, it has to be said."

— A Band Of Bees' Aaron Fletcher

How does working with a full band affect the songwriting process?

With Sunshine Hit Me, a lot of the music was done before the songs were created. We made the songs around the tracks. Now we're writing for guitars and pianos, and also we're quite spontaneous. That's a really important thing.

Could you see yourselves adding an electronic element, like samples or loops?

No way. That's a sinful thing. We don't need to. We just write music. It's all played.

Was it difficult to find other musicians to fill out the band?

Well, really, we were a bit slow to the fact that most of our mates played the instruments we needed. Literally, it was ridiculous. It was like a jigsaw. It just snapped into place. They've all been long-time mates and people who have influenced us. It's a great marriage. We're really happy with it.

Do you miss The Shed at all? Did you get new equipment when you moved?

Same equipment. It's just a better environment. It's not creaky. It's not sinking. It really was a bit crooked, The Shed. It's still there; it just couldn't take what we had in there.

— Interview by Doug Levy

Well, it's about effing time! Despite offering an endless succession of EPs, splits, 7-inches and tours, Shai Hulud hasn't released a full-length in as long as we can remember. That will change, however, when the band releases That Within Blood III Tempered this April via Revelation Records. Eat your heart out, Chad Gilbert! (Gilbert is the New Found Glory guitarist who was Hulud's original vocalist.) • Dog Fashion Disco has named its new album Committed To A Bright Future and it's due in April. • Dry Kill Logic might be label-less, but it's currently showcasing new material. • The dates have been announced for the annual New England Metal And Hardcore Festival. The NEMHCF is our favorite festival (well, it shares the honor with Hellfest) and this year it will take place on Friday, May 16 and Saturday, May 17 at the Palladium in Worcester, MA. Besides being the hometown of New Kids On The Block's Jordan Knight, Worcester has the honor of being a town with absolutely no restaurants other than a joint called Irish Times. So, if you're traveling in from Kenosha, WI, pack some Ramen Noodles in your suitcase because the food is scarce. No lineup has been announced, other than the bloodsucking Cradle Of Filth as the headliner. But we're sure the folks at Mass Concerts will again outdo themselves, as they always put on a brain-mashing fest. See ya there! • With Honor, the side-band of Agnostic Front's Vinnie Stigma, has signed to Stillborn Records, the label of Jamey Hatebreed. • Shadows Fall will be filming a video for "Destroyer Of Senses" at the Fat Cat in Springfield, MA. So, if you're in the Massachusetts area, get your fat ass out to the 'Cat and show your ugly metal face. • Those masked hoodlums in Mushroomhead have entered the studio to work on the follow up to XX, which is expected to drop sometime this year. • Biohazard was forced to drop off the Kittie/Eighteen Visions tour due to Evan Seinfeld falling ill. • H2O and MCA Records have parted ways. • Ozzy will lend his trademark vocals to the forthcoming Black Label Society single "Stillborn." • Therapy? has signed to Spitfire Records. The band's label debut is expected in the spring. • Voivod has changed the title of its forthcoming album from The Multiverse to Voivod. • Entombed is back in the studio. • Stereomud's new album, Every Given Moment, is on schedule for a spring release and a sampler with the tracks "Anything But Jesus" and "Control Freak" has landed in our laps. If you worshipped the band's Perfect Self debut, then you'll love the new stuff. It picks up where the band left off with plenty of commercialized hard rock. We still wish guitarist Joey Z. would force a Life Of Agony reunion. Oops. Did we say that out loud? • Falconer vocalist Matthias Blad has exited the band and been replaced by Kristoffer Gobel. • Machine Head gets a lot of flack, in the "how the mighty have fallen" sort of way, since it changed its sound post-The More Things Change (see this week's reviews). Recently, however, bandleader Robert Flynn posted the following on the band's Web site, www.machinehead1.com: "All that I will tell you about the new Machine Head demo is that: The guitars are fucking back! We're talking B-I-G, fat, meaty, slicing fuckin' guitars. The type of guitars that have the painful frequency that hurts your ears, and rips your head off in sweet, sweet, painful bliss. Ahrue, eat your heart out. Fuck yeah. We're talking guitars like concrete slabs. We're talking drums like concussion mortars. We're talking bass so heavy it'll make your testicles/ovaries ache. We're talking melodies so sad, and mellower moments so lonely, that you're gonna weep tears of joy, in a fit of depressed glee, while babbling mindlessly with your thumb in your mouth, looking for your fucking nook-nook. We're talking Molten Metal Hot Lava from the Super Satanic Sacred." Wow. After we give Robert a Valium, we have to give him props for recognizing that girls like metal by referencing testicles and ovaries. • Skinless is working on a new full-length, titled From Sacrifice To Survival. • The track listing for Slayer's War At The Warfield DVD has been announced and is as follows: "Disciple," "War Ensemble," "Stain Of Mind," "New Faith," "Postmortem," "Raining Blood," "Hell Awaits," "Here Comes The Pain," "Die By The Sword," "Dittohead," "Bloodline," "God Send Death," "Dead Skin Mask," "Seasons In The Abyss," "Captor Of Sin," "Mandatory Suicide," "Chemical Warfare," "South Of Heaven" and "Angel Of Death." The Dec. 7, 2001 show marks one of drummer Paul Bostaph's final performances with the band. We're pretty psyched to see the DVD; the floor at the Warfield was surely ankle deep in plasma, knowing Slayerphiles penchant for Braveheart-like displays during the band's shows. • Keyboardist Aaron Zilch has exited American Head Charge. He will not be replaced. The band will continue working on a new album. • Former Kittie guitarist Fallon Bowman has formed the new, techno-ish band Amphibious Assault. Bowman will release District 6 later this year, complete with a guest appearance from former Kittie bassist Talena Atfield. AA is dance-friendly industrial, influenced by VNV Nation, Ministry and KMFDM. Check Bowman's site, www.aassault.com, for more info. On her FAQ, the petite rocker tackles the question about her departure from her former band with tact: "I left because of disagreements that would never have gotten resolved. I felt that it was best for the band and myself for me to depart. And no, I don't talk to them anymore." • Overkill has leaked the track listing for its new album, Killbox 13, and we just raided our closets for a pair of skin tight acid wash jeans and a Years Of Decay tee in celebration of all that is '80s! The album features the tracks "Devil By The Tail," "Damned," "No Lights," "The One," "Crystal Clear," "The Sound Of Dying," "Until I Die," "Struck Down," "Unholy" and "I Rise." • All Ages, featuring members of Madball and H2O, has renamed itself F.T.W.

SIX QUESTIONS WITH... STRAPPING YOUNG LAD'S DEVIN TOWNSEND

The mind of Strapping Young Lad's Devin Townsend is one of the most interesting things we have probed in quite a while. The man took time out from a BBQ at the Century Media compound to answer six questions for us. Despite his reputation as a real shit-stirrer, we found Townsend to be pleasant and forthright. We love that in a metal musician!

Your razor sharp wit and the way you taunt crowds has caused some to look at you as a real shit-stirrer. Why did you set out to earn that rep?

The heavy metal community portrays itself to reinforce negative stereotypes. I once stuck a phone up my ass when I was 19. I don't give a fuck. It's stupid. It makes people think, 'Is he insane? He stuck a phone in his ass!' or 'God, that guy is a dick.' I have had bottles thrown at me, people punching me, all the time — at least I get their attention. The best way to get under the death metal fan's skin is to call them out for being gay. You assault them with music and they cannot deny it. I have people that hate me, but I don't like it. Who wants to be hated? But it's not going to stop me from doing what I do.

We think Strapping Young Lad makes genre-defining albums.

We're definitely unique. A lot of that comes from the fact that it's not a parody, but is taken with a grain of salt. We're adults doing it for a living, so we have to commit to it emotionally, but it's heavy metal and we're doing "Argh! Kill." So there's irony in that, absolutely.

Regarding SYL, it's a stark title, but the music is so complicated.

The last album was released in 1997 and because I do all those flaky solo projects, I wanted to prove to the audience that I still love shit-starting, uncompromising heavy metal. I want to hear that, not an artistic statement. At the end of the day, I want people to listen to it and say, "Fuck it! This is cool!" and put it on at a party.

What record is this for Strapping Young Lad, in terms of your discography?

This is the battle record. It's about catharsis. Crank it up and sing. Divide. Multiply. Kill. Devour. Hail. 250,000 people in the arena with explosions, pyro, double kick drums, backdrops and Marshall stacks.

Tell us about the Devin Townsend Band.

Oh, that was recorded at same time as the new Strapping, at the same studio. That is the love record. It's intense, sensitive stuff. There's no anger. There are a whole bunch of record companies who want it; there are offers on the table. Once we assault with the brute force of Strapping, I have to put out something really sensitive, but heavy in that it talks about my relationships, my life and my dog. If you're going to do one, you have to do other. Don't commit yourself to one, because no one is one or the other.

Finally, can you give us some information on the Lamb Of God album that you're producing?

They are killer band and [singer] Randy [Blythe] is evil!

MACHINE HEAD

Hellalive (Roadrunner-IDJMG)

Metal purists will undoubtedly (and understandably) argue that Machine Head head Robert Flynn lost focus after the band's 1997 classic The More

Things Change. Almost unforgivably, Flynn went from beating the shit out fans with a ten ton hammer to a nü-metal-leaning rapper; tracks like "From This Day" and "Desire To Fire," from 1999's The Burning Red, presented a new side of the Oakland, California band that most longtime fans didn't want or weren't ready for. Even so, the album was successful and bone-crushers like "The Blood, The Sweat, The Tears" were so punishing that we were able to overlook Flynn's newfound love for taking the trash rock and mixing it with the Hip-Hop. 2001's Supercharger, which was unfortunately hindered by releasing the lyrically sensitive single "Crashing Around You" just before 9/11, had some notable moments, but for the part, the album came and went with little fanfare. With Machine Head at a crossroad in its career (there's a LOT riding on the band's next studio outing), the quartet has unleashed its first-ever live recording, Hellalive, which was put-to-tape at London's famed Brixton Academy in December 2001. The album, featuring classics like "Take My Scars," "Old," "Ten Ton Hammer," "Davidian" and a full-throttle version of "Nothing Left," serves as a reminder that Machine Head once was a leader in the metal world, not a follower — and hopefully hearing these songs will remind Rob Flynn of that too. — Kevin Boyce

STRAPPING YOUNG LAD

SYL (Century Media)

It's pretty safe to say that Strapping Young Lad is peerless. The band sticks out like a porn joke at a funeral, thanks to the eccentricities and foresight of frontman Devin Townsend (a.k.a. Hevy Devy), a Crypt Keeper clone decked out in wire-rimmed glasses. Townsend has earned respect for his work with Steve Vai and Front Line Assembly, as well as his other personal projects, such as Ocean Machine, Terria and Physicist; in fact, Strapping Young Lad is almost overlooked in the midst of all of these projects because the band releases albums so infrequently (its last effort, City, came out in 1997). Thankfully, the masterful SYL was worth the wait. Anchored by the drumming of Gene Hoaglan (Death, Dark Angel), fast 'n' deranged riffing and Townsend's non-linear arrangements, SYL celebrates the glory of chaos. On "Consequence," Townsend (whose "I get the joke" sense of humor is essential) screams out "I love you/ Fight, fight, fight!" as though he were up against Armageddon itself. Apocalyptic, programmed, somewhat robotic and wholly chaotic, SYL borders so much on the unstable that it actually becomes stable. We said it before and we'll say it again: SYL makes 1990s cyber classics like Fear Factory's Demanufacture look like faux metal. Strapping Young Lad is practically rewriting a genre.

GRADE 8

Grade 8 (Lava)

Not a fan of the whole Fred Durst-core style? We'll be honest then, and tell you that Grade 8's eponymous debut won't work for your station's Loud Rock roster.

But if confident, dirty rock mixed with rhythm and rap appeals to your senses, then you're hereby decreed to jump on Grade 8. The riffs and songwriting on Grade 8 are sure to take listeners back to the good old days of Snot and Ozzfest '97. This Los Angeles band reveals that while many industry insiders have proudly proclaimed the death of rap-rock, there are still many more nails that need to be hammered into the coffin before the genre finally goes the way of glam-metal. Props to Grade 8 for the swagger and confidence it imbibes into "Headcase," "Empire Falls" and "Chances Are."

A18

Foreverafternothing (Victory)

A18 (that's shorthand for Amendment 18, if you must know) boasts an impressive pedigree, featuring founding members of Cali straightedge acts Outspoken, Instead and Chorus Of Disapproval.

Foreverafternothing definitely carries on the tradition of Cali HxCx, but with a bit of NYHC edge, à la Warzone. Walking the tightrope between punk rock and textbook early 1980s hardcore, A18 knows how to start a circle pit with "Public Apology," "Three Times Solid," "Scars Upon Scars" and "Bury Me Breathing." This is the kind of hardcore that you play for your little brother, and it's a revolution for him, thanks to the music's inherent anger and think-for-yourself lyrics. Play it loud and hope someone's little brother is listening to your show.

ELECTRIC HELLFIRE CLUB

Electronomicon (Cleopatra)

Electric Hellfire Club's campy, kitschy Satanic style has always been its hallmark. Visions of Beelzebub have always danced in vocalist Thomas Thorn's head. EHC has always walked the gothic path, but Electronomicon steers into the metal lane, thanks to guest appearances by Lord Ahriman of Dark Funeral, Peter Tägtgren of Hypocrisy/Lock Up and David Larsson of In Aeternum. Electronomicon favors staccato riffing and treated vocals in the same vein as Ministry and White Zombie, making this release more of an industrial aggro outing than band's usual electro goth. The lyrics remain a total hoot — spin "This Is The Zodiac" for a gut-busting laugh. Wanna scare the little kids in the neighborhood? Then "Whore Of Babylon," "Stockholm Syndrome" and "I Dream Of Demons" should do the trick.

VANDERMARK 5 HITS THE ROAD

In a quick note from the super-busy Ken Vandermark, he was able to confirm some great news. First off, a new V5 album will be released March 18 on Atavistic. Entitled Airports For Light, the album is the band's seventh (including the live double-disc Free Jazz Classics). Like the last two studio releases, the first pressing will include a limited edition second CD of live covers, this time paying tribute to the mighty Sonny Rollins. The 5 will then immediately hit the road in the U.S. on the Airports For Light Tour 2003, which is currently being booked by the Billions Corporation out of Chicago. The band should be in good shape by the time it departs: After several months off, the 5 reconvened in early December for its weekly Tuesday night spot at Chicago's Empty Bottle. This will be the group's first album and tour with promising young drummer Tim Daisy replacing Tim Mulvenna, who left to pursue other musical opportunities. Those looking for more information about Jazz's golden boy can go to the brand new Web site, www.kenvandermark.com.

VEGAS BLUE NOTE CLOSES

The Blue Note Jazz Club in Las Vegas closed quickly — but not unexpectedly — in late January. The two-year-old club, which was part of the Aladdin Hotel and the casino's Desert Passage Mall, had several problems. Many claimed that the club had over-priced drinks and cover charges; while these accusations could be lodged against most Jazz clubs, they were particularly acute problems in a town where large casinos fight fiercely over clientele by offering a plethora of perks. Other problems arose from arguments over how to market the club (both to tourists and locals), resulting in a falling out between its two owners. The venue is currently looking for new financing.

JARRETT WINS SWEDISH AWARD

The award will be presented in Stockholm by His Majesty King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden and administered by the Royal Swedish Academy of Music. Jarrett will receive his prize from the King at a gala ceremony, to be followed by a celebratory banquet at the Grand Hôtel on May 12. Her Majesty Queen Silvia and Her Royal Highness Crown Princess Victoria will be among the many other dignitaries attending.

Instituted in 1992, the Polar Music Prize awards one million Swedish crowns (roughly $117,000) to individuals, groups or institutions in recognition of exceptional achievement in the creation and advancement of music. Past winners include Bob Dylan, Ravi Shankar, Iannis Xenakis, Joni Mitchell, Karlheinz Stockhausen, Dizzy Gillespie, Paul McCartney, Stevie Wonder and Robert Moog.

OTHER DIMENSIONS An occasional segment set aside for Jazz on the fringe

Old-school headbangers and closet metalheads will no doubt remember Alex Skolnick, lead guitarist for much-heralded thrash metal outfit Testament. Skolnick walked in 1992, in search of other musical challenges; doing studio work and slinging licks for the Trans-Siberian Orchestra has been paying the bills, but Skolnick, who holds a BFA in Jazz Performance from the New School, also leads a Jazz trio. Coming full circle, the Alex Skolnick Trio's Goodbye To Romance: Standards For A New Generation (dan@alexskolnick.com) takes songs from Ozzy, Kiss, Aerosmith, the Scorpions and a few originals and puts them through a bebop trio filter. The results can be shocking for those not privy to what's going on: The tunes are recognizable, but are so out of context that it's hard to reconcile your conclusions. Nonetheless, Skolnick mines some vibrantly emotional material on tracks like the title cut, "No One Like You" and "Dream On," which are balanced by the more carefree takes on "Detroit Rock City," "War Pigs" and "Pinball Wizard." This is more fun than groundbreaking, but sometimes that's all right. • Guitarist Mark Stanley's Insect

Warriors (sireel@comcast.net) gives the impression that Mr. Stanley received a steady diet of Frank Zappa in his formative years — then decided to really get weird. The album is a self-styled sci-fi thriller vaguely about giant mutant insects taking over the world. Stanley mostly works with the format of guitar, bass and drums (Jazz great Dennis Chambers plays on four cuts), with a style that ranges somewhere between Joe Satriani, Zappa and Buckethead. A notable exception amongst the craziness, however, is the lovely guitar duet entitled "Crickets And Moths," which proves that the guy knows his Jazz tradition. All in all, this isn't for everyone, but there are some imaginative moments couched in amongst the madness. • The Hub's Trucker (tsdahl@yahoo.com) sounds like it was created by someone suffering from bipolar disorder, moving back and forth between frenzied bebop and downtown noise skronk that emphasizes collective playing over soloing. The trio of drums, electric bass and sax has a tight chemistry that easily negotiates all the musical bumps and potholes the members create for themselves. Death-metal-bop fusion? Not a bad thing after all.

the grand unification theory

At just 29, Stefon Harris has already established himself as the most creative vibraphonist of his generation with two Grammy nominations under his belt. His latest release only ups the ante, demonstrating his prowess as a composer, arranger and bandleader for a large ensemble. The ambitious 11-movement suite was recorded with a 12-piece ensemble and the masterwork sums up Harris's musical thoughts and incorporates his philosophy of life, linking physics, religion and art.

JUSTIN TIME FOR JAZZ

Essential recordings

LATIN BIG BAND

"NOW IS ANOTHER TIME"

"Now Is Another Time" is Justin Time's first David Murray production to feature his Big Band. Recorded at Egrem Studios in Havana, this CD features five DM originals and stars players such as Changuito on timbales, Tony Perez on piano as well as saxophonists Orlando Sanchez Soto and Roman Feliu O'Reilly. An exciting recording, appealing to lovers of jazz and latin music.

ABDULLAH IBRAHIM
"AFRICAN MAGIC"

The first release following a new North American agreement between Justin Time and Enja Records is a spiritual concoction of jazz, African rhythm, Arabic influences, English choral and European romantic music that radiates communicative power. Abdullah Ibrahim is South Africa's foremost jazz messenger, and this recording is magic. Features Ibrahim on piano, Belden Bullock on bass and Siphon Kunene on drums.

BILLY BANG "VIETNAM"

This highly celebrated disc is a musical journey into the dramatic experience that was that was Billy Bang's tour of duty in Vietnam. Violinist Bang gets great support from a stellar lineup on this powerful performance of his compositions.

When Love Goes Wrong: Songs For The Broken-Hearted (Verve)

The blues has never had a monopoly on articulating the pain of the lovelorn — that practice has been the stock and trade of many a Jazz and torch singer too. Out in time to offer solace to the lonely on that cruelest of days (Valentine's Day),

When Love Goes Wrong includes 15 blue night songs performed by giants like Billie Holiday, Mel Tormé and Chet Baker. The surprises on this carefully picked collection include lesser known gems like Beverly Kenney's "A Woman's Intuition," Ella Fitzgerald's "Reaching For The Moon" and Peggy Lee's "A Woman Alone With The Blues." No happy endings here, but, ironically, each song is so romantically rendered that it can also serve as a reminder of how good you've got it — that is, if you're lucky enough to share a listen with someone else.

CHRIS LIGHTCAP QUARTET

Big Mouth (Fresh Sounds)

Chris Lightcap made quite a splash with 1999's Lay-Up. Now he returns with Big Mouth, which again features the notable combo of drummer Gerald Cleaver and tenor saxophonists Bill McHenry and Tony Malaby. Much like former employer Joe Morris, Lightcap's compositions are filled with plenty of challenging improvisation, but there's always a jaunty sense of groove to the proceedings, thanks to Lightcap's active and melodic approach to playing and writing. Two of the best young tenor players coming up in the downtown scene, McHenry and Malaby play off each other nicely, sometimes combining tones and harmonizing, consistently illustrating how talented players standing next to each other can sound different, even when using the same instrument.

Rewind 2 (Ubiquity)

Rewind 2 is an interesting 15-track collection that features cover versions, remixes and old-school classics in the soul Jazz, acid Jazz, Brazilian lounge and rare groove vein. Terry Callier, Nicola Conte, Yesterday's New Quintet, Herbert, Greyboy and others contribute tracks here; of particular interest for the Jazzheads will be Soul Bossa Trio's chill-out take on Coltrane's "Naima" and Terry Callier's drum-machine-and-horn-section rendering of the Temptations' "Just My Imagination." Another highlight is Denmark's Povo Povo, whose "Uam Uam" is a tribute to Art Farmer's "Mau Mau," featuring a nice bit of bebop piano over a bossa nova beat.

TOUR TIDBITS

Télépopmusik (pictured above) will nourish the buzz surrounding its dance club hit, "Breathe," with a U.S. tour launching this month. Wild Colonials vocalist Angela McCluskey, who lent her voice to "Breathe" and a few other tracks on Télépopmusik's debut, Genetic World, will accompany the French group on all dates.

P.J. Harvey is teasing the world with samples of material from her new sixth studio album, due out later this year. Tracks from the release have already been performed during the Big Day Out festival in Australia and New Zealand and some of the new songs will also be presented at Glastonbury. Polly Jean is planning to tour the U.K. following the release of the recording.

Ben Folds, Ben Kweller and Ben Lee will crisscross Australia this March for a jaunt that the trio is calling the "Bens Rock Over Australia" tour.

Pearl Jam has enlisted a diverse selection of bands to support its extensive U.S. tour, which will begin in April. Currently, Sleater-Kinney, Sparta, Idlewild and the Buzzcocks have been confirmed. Koop, one of Europe's most interesting electronically tinged Jazz ensembles, is about to land on U.S. shores. The six-piece outfit will make appearances in the States beginning Feb. 27 in support of its acclaimed debut disc, Waltz For Koop.

Joe Jackson and his original band will return to the road to promote a brand new disc, dubbed Volume 4. This reunion will celebrate the 25th anniversary of the band's landmark debut, 1979's Look Sharp.

Four U.S. shows by Warp recording artists Plaid, Prefuse 73 and Andrew Weatherall have been announced. Be sure to catch these crucial DJ events, involving unique visuals, in New York (3/26), Chicago (3/27), Los Angeles (3/28) and San Francisco (3/29).

Swedish rockers Blindside are stepping into the supporting role for TRUSTcompany's current jaunt on American soil. The quartet has been quite busy since the release of its intense major-label debut, 2002's Silence.

Music will perform on The Late Show With David Letterman on March 18. The band is currently on the road with fellow U.K. act Coldplay, serving as the opener. It's a solid bill; get there early and don't miss the Music's set!

HART OF THE MATTER

Saturday night. February 1. Mercury Lounge. First, openers and D.C. locals Canyon raise a brow or two because the tattoo-riddled lead singer is not playing what his punk-rock uniform tells us he almost has to play. Canyon takes risks, uneasy ones at times, but ones that nudge me from my own stereotyped expectations of what I think a band should sound like looking at them. It works. Rough around some edges, but you can tell when you see them they're on the verge.

Louisville's My Morning Jacket

On the verge—by definition neither here, though almost there—and there is where My Morning Jacket takes off. I had spent some time with Brad and Bridget at RCA a few weeks ago and got to hear the band for the first time. I was taken, but it did not prepare me for Saturday night. Show was packed and, without a widely released record yet (they're still in the studio for RCA), these five from Louisville, Kentucky had fans there who knew every word to every song: men and women from MTV age to Triple A, thirty-somethings and "beyond." I had to catch my breath several times (and not because of the smoke), over and over again because almost every song (though I'd heard many of them on their early album before), came as a surprise.

When I was little, my dad faithfully and annually bought season tickets to our town's college football games. No matter how badly the team was losing, or how thoroughly they were winning, it was a rule: you never leave a game 'til the clock's run out—traffic be damned! Even with that training, I did not plan to stay the entire show because of prior obligations. And before I knew it, they were playing the encore. I won't try to describe the music (such an odd non-science), but I will say it was familiar and new all at once—the songs had basic structures, but the delivery somehow kept me from predicting the songs movements from verse to chorus, bridge, jam, chorus-out (or not), it was all as accessible as it was blissfully unexpected. It was passionate, smart and heavy rock 'n' roll. And original. They pay respect to the good in traditional American roots rock—but only as a framework that doesn't ultimately hold or define them. Listen to them. See them live. This band, in these times, deserves retail's support, and so does the label for taking this artist-development chance which may in the end turn out to be no chance at all because MMJ stands to make its creative mark on an industry pressed for change.

SPEAK OUT

Tim Johnstone (far right) with Suffocation Keep's Jonathan Mullen and Record Exchange owner Michael Bunnell

Tim Johnstone
Marketing and Promotions
Director
The Record Exchange
Boise, ID

This is Part I of II by Tim, whose store's work with local artists and media is a great example of the slug-it-out trench work that is bearing some retailers fruit in these challenging times.

The recession took a little longer to reach Idaho, but when it did it kicked in hard. Like many other states, Idaho finds itself in economic dire straits. Boise has a large high-tech presence. So much so that it was responsible for the largest percentage of workforce in the valley. But massive cutbacks and plant closures have changed the economic reality in Treasure Valley, and we are very much feeling those changes. The 50,000 people that come to work in the 30 square blocks that make up downtown Boise do not have the disposable income they did in the late '90s. And while those folks are still looking for music, they are price-conscious like never before. With the increasing popularity of file-sharing and CD burning, indie retailers like ourselves face some pretty ugly realities. But we are energized in our efforts to do what we need to do to compete.

We have redoubled our commitment to local artists. We routinely host in-store CD release parties with local bands and performers. From folk legend Rosalie Sorrells and Built To Spill's Doug Martsch, to part-time local Curtis Stigers, we celebrate homegrown talent. In-store performances by local musicians at events like our 25th Anniversary Block Party compliment the special appearances we get with up-and-coming national artists like Jason Mraz. By offering local artists exposure via our Web site (www.therecordexchange.com) and the opportunity to appear on sales charts in national trades (like Marcus Eaton And The Lobby's recent No. 6 debut on the CIMS chart), we strengthen our relationship with the music community here at home and reinforce the idea to the public that cool things happen at the Record Exchange. The national chain stores cannot and will not compete with us in this area... [continued next week]

Rufio's debut is the biggest selling album in interpunk.com's history. This EP bridges the gap between Rufio's Militia Group debut and their follow-up LP for Nitro due out in June. From the label that gave birth to AFI, Rufio will be on the map in a big way soon.	Johnny Marr founded the Smiths at 18, which the NME just name the most influential band in their 50-year history. He's produced and performed with The The, Electronic, Beth Orton, Oasis, the Pretenders, Neil Finn, Haven. Album features Zak Starkey (the Who) and Alonza Bevan (Kula Shaker). Smiths fans will, of course, be coming in to pick this up. But in-store play it too, new fans will come.

Before landing his first record store job at Ultrasounds in 1993, Bill Paskins kicked off his now-13-years in the music biz managing Detroit-area local bands. By 1995, he was working at Rock-A-Billy's and soon decided it was time to spread his wings and open a store of his own. So, in late October 2000, Rochester, Michigan's East Alley Records opened its doors.

When Bill decided to open his own store, everyone advised him against it, but he knew he'd be OK as long as followed his patented approach. "It's about being creative and busting your ass," Bill says. But the thing he says has made the most substantial difference has been his attitude: "I love this business, I wouldn't want to do anything else! People come in here all the time and ask me if I'm doing OK because of all of the downloading and burning and the super-cheap CDs at the mass merchants. They seem to be more concerned about it than I am," Bill says. "My sales are up. I have more and more customers every day." Bill says that over the next few years, there will be fewer and fewer chains, which will leave even more market for indies. "Customers will continue to go to Best Buy for their top 40 and they'll come to me for all of their catalog, niche and special order needs. And that is music to my ears!"

Q&A with Bill Paskins, owner East Alley Records

What local press affects sales most?
 Detroit's two weekly alternative papers, Real Detroit Weekly and Metro Times.

What radio station affects sales most?
 Modern rock station CIMX and the Wayne State University station WDET.

Do you have in-stores?
 We have a stage area where bands can perform, but so far we've only taken the opportunity to do signings. Our most successful signing was with KMFDM, it was in the middle of the afternoon on a weekday and over 150 people turned up!

How green was my Alley?

What is your most effective program?
 I've found that the thing that works the best for us are midnight sales. We will only have a midnight sale if the label can provide us with added-value items to give away so that we can make it into a real event with a total party atmosphere.

What other programs do you offer? Are any of them discretionary?
 We have 40 listening stations, some of which are available on a discretionary basis.

What types of non-traditional promotions have worked best?
 I DJ every Saturday night at a club in Royal Oak called Luna. I throw a lot of release and listening parties there. We also hand out coupons to drive traffic back to the store. We do a lot of venue sales at clubs like the Magic Stick, which holds anywhere from 100-200 people, to the State Theatre which seats 3,000.

What display materials work best for you?
 Countertop bins, posters and flats.

What records are your current and all-time favorites?
 Calla's Televise and Nine Inch Nails' Pretty Hate Machine.

What's the first record you bought and where?
 Depeche Mode's "People Are People" 7" at the Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights, MI.

What's the best concert you've attended?
 The Verve on the first leg of their Urban Hymns tour when they played only small clubs. I saw them at St. Andrew's Hall and it was just magic, totally amazing.

NEWSWORTHY

Bling Bling! Get That Ca$h!

Pulitzer Prize-winning poet laureate and No Limit soldier Soulja Slim once said, "Now, with this last 20 dollars, I might buy me some doja/Because that weed from Magnolia still have a n*#$@ sober." Now, like most people in the music industry, you probably also have an increasingly expensive and debilitating drug habit... one that only a cool, crisp 20-dollar bill can solve.

Well, now the music industry can pay for your next $20 fix, thanks to the CD settlement that nobody was talking about and now everybody is talking about. In early January, the Associated Press reported that the massive price-fixing settlement between the states and music companies that gave Sweet ca$h Settlements to everyday consumers was going unclaimed! The deal called for payments of as much as $20 for customers who bought CDs between 1995 and 2000—and hardly anybody was signing up!

In September, as you may recall, the crack news team at CMJ Retail reported that the five top CD distributors and three of America's largest music retailers settled a two-year-old lawsuit over illegal price fixing to the tune of $143.1 million. The suit alleged that the labels and retailers (Universal Music, Sony Music, Warner Music, Bertelsmann's BMG Music and EMI Group, Musicland Stores, Trans World Entertainment and Tower Records) violated state and federal antitrust laws by indulging in minimum-advertised pricing and artificially raising the price of CDs between 1995 and 2000.

About $44 million of this cash was set aside to pay consumers between $5 and $20, depending on how many people signed up. By the end of December, only 30,000 people nationwide had signed up for the easiest $20 they ever made. Its unpopularity is befuddling, since there were legal notices in national magazines like TV Guide and Parade, and considering the average American's affinity for reading legal notices...

Since word of America's ignorance to the settlement spread in early January, nearly one million people that the industry had bent over a log for five years have signed on for the cash! However, if more than 8.8 million people apply, the per-person share drops to below $5, making it too expensive to mail and relegating all the money to public entities and non-profit organizations. We cannot let that injustice happen! We need the $20 that will somehow make us feel better after half-a-decade of pricing masterminded by the faceless monoliths that pull the puppet strings for the music industry!

Retailers Hit The Net

Six of the largest music retailers announced that they are forming like Voltron in an attempt to sell music that can be downloaded from the Internet.

The retailing group, Echo, consists of Best Buy, Tower Records, the Virgin Entertainment Group, Wherehouse Entertainment,

"Oh, they have the internet on computers now?!"

Hastings Entertainment and Trans World Entertainment (FYE).

The effort is spurred, in part, by the two year decline in CD sales negatively impacting the retailers. Within this group alone, Wherehouse announced it was filing for bankruptcy protection earlier in the month and Best Buy announced that it is closing 107 Musicland stores.

In an interview with the New York Times, Dan Hart, chief executive of Echo, said they hope to get licenses from recording companies to distribute their music through the retailer's own Web sites. The Universal Music Group started distributing songs through major retail sites in November for 99 cents each (or $9.99 an album) and now has 60,000 songs available.

The challenge, of course, is that these companies are getting together to sell things kids/consumers essentially believe should be free. It will be key for these companies to offer enough to consumers so that the general perception of this joint venture doesn't come off like a merger between PepsiCo, Inc. and the Coca-Cola Company in order to sell tap water.
