COVER STORY

Joe Jackson Tries To Compose Himself With *Night Music

Joe Jackson earned himself a fanbase and critical notoriety with early energetic releases like Look Sharp! and I'm The Man... and has since tested the strength of that popularity with musical experiments that, for the most part, have only pleased himself. With the release of Night Music, his newest effort for Virgin, comes yet another pop quiz: if a rock star falls and becomes a composer in the woods, will anyone hear it? Your proctor is Adrienne Stone.

Alpert & Moss: Remember "Almo"

Herb Alpert and Jerry Moss make their return to the recording business with the creation of Almo Sounds, signing a pressing and distribution deal with Geffen Records and album releases expected by mid-1995.

—see page 18

The Character Of *Pulp Fiction

Quentin Tarantino's Pulp Fiction has its share of blood, bone and bits of blown-out brain (heh, heh), but this is definitely a character-driven piece, as an ensemble of quality performances from John Travolta, Samuel L. Jackson, Uma Thurman, Bruce Willis and many others—including Tarantino himself—bear witness.

ASCAP, BMI, SESAC and the NSAI all held award/induction ceremonies honoring country music songwriters in Nashville, TN recently as part of CMW (Country Music Week)...and plenty o' alphabet soup for all.

NARM '95 TAG IS 'SOUND': "Where Business Is Always Sound" is the winning and permanent tagline for the 1995 and future National Association of Recording Merchandisers (NARM) convention(s). The search for the tag was thrown open to competition amongst NARM members and was won by CEMA Distribution's manager of artist development & marketing services George Saadi.

The 37th Annual event will be held February 22-25 at the Marriott Hotel & Marina and the San Diego Convention Center in San Diego, CA.

The Convention Committee announced some format changes for the event involving the six major distribution companies as well as the independent community. Executive v.p. Pamela Horowitz said, "At last March's convention in San Francisco, there was a lot of talk about re-thinking the convention program, particularly the product presentations. When the convention committee met in July, it seemed to make sense that we not only question the interest in and viability of these presentations, but that we review the role and goals of the entire convention."

Companies may choose to stage a traditional product presentation or other type of event, either on-site or off-site. Specific details on each event will be included in the registration materials to be mailed in late November.

RIAA AWARDS SEPTEMBER ORES: The Recording Industry Association of America announced the certification of seven Gold singles and 26 Gold, nine Platinum and 26 Multi-Platinum full-length albums for September. They include: Meat Loaf's Bat Out Of Hell, which hit 12 million to become the best-selling debut album in music history. Garth Brooks' 1990 No Fences tied The Bodyguard soundtrack for the pair to become the best-selling albums of the 1990s. Both have passed Multi-Platinum sales of 11 million. Michael Jackson's Thriller jumped to 24 million, lengthening his lead as the single best-selling album in music history. Tim McGraw's debut LP Not A Moment Too Soon reached Triple Platinum while Mariah Carey's self-titled LP and Pearl Jam's Ten hit the eight million mark, which made them the top-selling debut albums of the 1990s. The Rolling Stones' Voodoo Lounge became the group's 35th Gold disc and was certified both Gold and Platinum. Multi-Platinum music videos went to Yanni's Live At The Acropolis on Private Music and Madonna's The Immaculate Collection from Warner Music Video. Both certified at 300,000 units.

SSC + WMG = SW NET RADIO: Sony Software Corp. and Warner Music Group have joined forces to create a new spectrum of interactive, full-service radio networks to be called SW Networks, the Radio Picture Co. The enterprise will consist of three 24-hour channels and five two-hour weekly shows in varying formats which will encompass alternative, metal, urban, country and talk-radio genres.

Susal Solomon, attorney and ex-entertainment industry investment banker, has been installed as president/CEO of the new company.

SW will beam to affiliates by satellite, digital transmission, compact disc and by Sony MiniDisc. This will be the first foray of a record label into radio programming on this level and while it is apparently not illegal for this to occur, major label plans for an MTV-type TV network are on hold while the Justice Department reviews anti-trust concerns.

AEROSMITH AIMS BIG ONES: Aerosmith will release its 13-track greatest hits collection Big Ones on Geffen Records November 1. It will include the group's five Top 10 hits, six other Top 40 singles and two new tunes, "Blind Man" and "Walk On Water."

To accompany the release, Geffen Home Video will simultaneously release Big Ones You Can Look At, a 100-minute visual compilation featuring some added never-before-seen footage of the band.

BLACK CROWES CAW CAA FOR REP: The Black Crowes have signed with Creative Artists Agency to represent them for their upcoming 1995 world tour, announced the band's manager, Pete Angelus.

The tour, in connection with their forthcoming album America due out November 1, will kick off internationally in January, with U.S. dates set to begin in late February.

Tom Ross, CAA music division head said, "For us, this is a truly major signing. The Black Crowes are one of rock's most important artists. They not only define what rock & roll is—their new album says a lot about where it's going. This is definitely a band to believe in."

Red Hot Chili Pepper Anthony Kiedis was a backstage guest at the recent Carnegie Hall performance given by the legendary Johnny Cash. The concert was in tandem with American Recordings, Cash's debut release for Rick Rubin's American Recordings label.

CARNEGIE HALL TRIBUTE to Illinois Jacquet was festive and touching. Jacquet and his band, who almost singlehandedly carry the banner for big-band swing, were joined in the recent Carnegie Hall concert by lots of jazz all-stars.

Wonderful blues singer Etta Jones joined the band and proceeded to rock the Hall with a spirited version of "Blowtop Blues." Jacquet still speaks volumes with his tenor sax as he led the group through a solid repertoire of familiar tunes like "Robbin's Nest" and "Body And Soul." The second half featured a jam session with guests including young lion Joshua Redman on tenor sax, Jamal Haynes on trombone, Harry "Sweets" Edison on trumpet, Ray Bryant at piano, Roy Haynes on drums and crowd-pleasing Milt Hinton on bass. The evening's highlight came when first Ray Charles and then Lionel Hampton came out to swing into an energy-raising, galloping rendition of the signature "Flying Home." Jacquet's band still serves as a learning ground for young talented musicians, and it is special when these young voices are joined by some of jazz's master veterans.

MARINA LIMA is an extraordinarily talented Brazilian singer and songwriter. Her rock/pop/jazz vocals are exquisitely showcased on her recently released World Pacific album A Tug On The Line.

Lima is a huge star in Brazil, and this album, only her second to be released in this country, should bring her loads of attention here if life is just. She has been the recipient of the prestigious Vinicius de Moraes Award for Best Singer and Best Song. The award is named after the late poet who wrote lyrics to a number of Antonio Carlos Jobim songs. She has also won numerous Sharp Awards (Brazil's version of our Grammy Awards) for Best Album, Best Singer and Best Record. The singer has a warm, sensuous, assertive voice and plays deft guitar. Her songwriting is worldly and mature and still very sensitive. She has called this work "...a feminine perspective on life and love." This is a very special album, the kind you recommend to friends. The CD contains several outstanding tracks, one of which is a haunting comment on love titled "It's Not Enough." The honey-voiced vocalist is set to tour major cities in the U.S. this winter. Check out the album and then catch her in person when she hits town.

AROUND TOWN—Folk rocker David Broza, with special guests The Syrens, showcased at Tramps recently to herald his new November Records release Second Street...Eddi Reader is the name of the artist and the debut Reprise Records album showcased at the Mercury Lounge Sept. 28th. Richard, Janie, Matthew and Joe Bob, aka The Bobs, played the Bottom Line on Oct. 6th and did tunes from their Rounder Records CD The Bobs Cover The Songs of... N.Y.C.'s own Shootyz Groove played Irving Plaza Oct. 12th to offer samples of their new Mercury release J.I.V.E. (Jammin' In Vicious Environments). Dedicated/Arista Records group This Picture performed tracks from their new CD City of Sin at CB's Gallery recently.

See if you can spot Waldo in this class picture, which gathered after Luscious Jackson's recent performance at Luna Park in L.A. Seen here (l-r): Luscious Jackson's Gabby Glaser; Capitol Records' Julie Panebianco, senior director A&R; Grand Royal's C.J., director, sales and marketing; Luscious Jackson's Jill Cunniff; (front row) Capitol Records' Ruth Carson, v.p., creative marketing, and John Fagot, senior v.p., promotion; (middle row) Luscious Jackson's Vivian Trimble and Kate Schellenbach; Capitol Records' Tim Devine, v.p., A&R; Cozy Shack Management's Jane Gulick, manager; The Breeders' Josephine Wiggs; (back row) Capitol Records' Phil Costello, v.p., promotion; Brian MacDonald, national director, alternative promotion; Denise Skinner, senior director, marketing; and Jeffrey Blalock, senior director, national promotion.

DANZIG celebrated the release of their new American record, Danzig 4, by taking over the famed Sunset Strip. The Glenn Danzig-led group tried to put on a surprise performance at the Whisky, but unfortunately, in typical L.A. fashion, word leaked out. Never ones to compromise, the group went ahead with their plans to make the performance a free concert. As a result, over 700 die-hard fans were shut out in the rain. Their response was to begin a giant mosh pit at the sound of the band's opening note from inside the packed club.

SPEAKING OF MOSHING: Opening acts Mother Tongue and Flaming Lips stole the thunder from headliner Candlebox when the triple-bill made its way recently to the Ventura Theater (which by the way, may be the coolest place to see a show in all of Southern California).

Epic recording artist Mother Tongue thrilled the crowd with their blues/rock fusion. An Austin-bred quartet based on raw energy, Mother Tongue put on a hell of a live show. It's rare to see young musicians who are competent, let alone can really play, but Mother Tongue play. They are one of the tightest and most skilled bands to come around in a while.

The Flaming Lips were the Flaming Lips. For those who don't know what that means, this is a band that consistently excels. Since they came out of the Midwest in the mid-'80s, the Lips have been one of the most endearing bands on the college-music circuit, thanks to their humorous lyrics and frenzied rock tempos. It was great to see the mostly teenage crowd embrace the Lips, who have a song on the upcoming alterna-fest soundtrack to the movie, Love & A .45. Who knows? Maybe their time is here.

And kudos have to go to Platinum act Candlebox for not wimping out on their headlining tour and taking bands with them that can play. It's nice to know not all young acts wanna take the tried-and-true route and are willing to give a break to bands that deserve it, especially one that's been at it as long as the Lips. Way to go, guys.

AWARDS UPDATE: Veteran singer/songwriter Bob Seger will be inducted into Hollywood's Rock Walk on Tuesday, October 18. The hit-making machine joins such distinguished past recipients as Aerosmith, Phil Ramone, Steely Dan and Johnny Cash. Seger will place his handprints and signature in cement alongside the aforementioned innovators.

The induction comes one week before Capitol Records will release the first greatest-hits collection in Seger's 30-year career. In addition to the standards one would expect to see and hear, like "Night Moves," "Against The Wind" and "Old Time Rock & Roll," Seger is including two new numbers in the 14-song collection. They are "C'est La Vie," a cover of the old Chuck Berry tune, and "In Your Time," which is dedicated to Seger's son, Cole.

COVER STORY

Joe Jackson Tries To Compose Himself With Night Music

By Adrienne Stone

MOST OF US HEARD THE POP MUSINGS of Joe Jackson in the late '70s and early '80s when Look Sharp, I'm The Man and Beat Crazy best captured the clean and simple New Wave vibe so prevalent then. His hopped-up delivery on such classic tunes as "Sunday Paper" and "Is She Really Going Out With Him?" set against stripped-down instruments withstood the test of time to such an extent that fans often have a hard time relating to his more experimental works. Jumpin' Jive was his tribute to Louis Jordan while other equally eclectic efforts included Shijin No Ie, which he recorded with the Tokyo Philharmonic Orchestra, and Will Power, a disc of instrumental compositions.

Capable of such musical diversity, the creative muse within Joe Jackson issues forth yet another triumphant display in his latest effort, Night Music (Virgin). The disc is ethereal and dreamy, working several stirring tunes around four nocturnes. While the multi-talented Jackson plays all the instruments on the album, he further enhances the divine tunes with the addition of opera star Renee Fleming, Maire Brennan of Clannad and 11-year-old choir singer Taylor Carpenter.

Whether Jackson the "composer" will be as well-received as Jackson the "pop star" remains to be seen. Either way, Jackson seems blissfully resigned to the fact that he can't continue to be a creative force while trying to please the world, so he might as well make music that pleases himself. Listen to him share his joy....

Cash Box: So much of Night Music is melancholy. Were you in a melancholic, introverted mood when you wrote it?

Jackson: (long pause) You know, I guess it's a reflective sort of thought. Some of it is melancholy; some of it is quite happy, though, as well. It's not in-your-face rock 'n' roll. That's not what I wanted to do. People always try to make parallels between someone's life and their work. It's understandable, but it doesn't really work. I mean, you don't have to be happy to write a happy song. You draw on your experiences.

You went through a period after the last album [Laughter And Lust] of feeling very frazzled and in need of relaxation and introspection. Does the new song "Flying" describe that period?

Mmmm...well, that's true that I felt that way. But "Flying" is a happy song about being yourself and becoming free of one's expectations. That's what it's really about. It took a while, but I definitely feel much more free than I ever have before. I've gotten my priorities a little bit more clearer in the last three years.

Were you at a crossroads?

Yeah, I think so, yeah.

How much of this was a reaction to success?

Actually, if anything, it was a reaction to failure, to some extent. The last record, I felt, was the closest thing I could possibly do to a commercial pop record that I thought everyone was gonna love. And it was not very successful in the States. It did okay in Europe, actually. So it wasn't a complete flop. But I find myself thinking, "You know, this record really should be doing better than this." And then I had to stop and ask myself why. Why should I have any expectations? I can't control that. The only thing I can have any control over is my own work.

You have to move forward, creatively, though you risk the alienation of some fans.

Yeah, I mean, who knows? I don't have any control over that, either.

Your ability to play all the instruments on this album is pretty impressive.

Well, I don't really. I mean, I just play keyboards, pretty much. I have training in percussion as well, but there isn't much of that. It's mostly keyboards of various kinds...cheap ones, inexpensive ones.

How will you choose a single for this album?

Well, I don't really believe in singles. As far as I'm concerned, there's not a single. The record company always tries to push certain tracks to radio, and I think they're pushing "Ever After" because it's the closest thing on the record to a sort of regular pop song. I think, in some ways, it's the least interesting track on the album. It just makes sense that that would be the one that they would push! (laughs) Not that I'm not proud of it. I like the whole album, but it seems to be the one that people are latching onto.

It would seem that it's impossible to pick a favorite because the songs and four nocturnes all sort of comprise one whole.

It is sort of a piece. I mean, you really do need to hear the whole thing. And you need to hear the whole thing a few times. And that is, to me, its strength. To a lot of other people, that would be its weakness because we live in this sound-bite culture.

It depends on how commercial you want to be. If you're trying to be commercial with this album, that would be a weakness. But, obviously, you're not.

Right. I'm trying to do something that's beautiful and genuine...that has some soul. And trying to connect with people on that level and not on this very flashy, trivial level that a lot of people are trying very hard to do. There's a lot of harsh, ugly music out there. That's okay, but to create beauty is also one of the tasks of an artist. And to stimulate your imagination, as well.

Your vocal range on Night Music was really wide...especially on "Lullaby."

Yeah. It was very difficult. The vocals on this record were really challenging. I write this stuff and then I have to figure out how to sing it. Sometimes, I find that I can't sing it as all, which is one of the reasons I used other people's voices. Renee Fleming's voice on "Lullaby" is just so incredible.

Could you choose a favorite track, if you had to?

If you tied me up and tortured me and I had to pick a favorite track, "Lullaby" would probably be the one.

Have you found your niche?

I don't know. Basically, I'm in a period of transition in my career where I'm trying to get people to think of me as a composer rather than a pop star. It's just gonna take a little while, but it will happen. There's no question about it.

REVIEWS by Steve Baltin

■ THE CULT: The Cult (Sire/Reprise 45673)

One of the most unique voices in the alternative world during the mid-'80s, the Cult abandoned their experimental style at the turn of the decade for a more direct hard-rock sound that resulted in the hits "Sanctuary" and "Edie (Ciao Baby)." However, their new record marks a glorious return to the earthier, more adventuresome days, particularly on the opening track "Gone" and the moving closing number "Saints Are Down." The record still rocks on occasion, most notably with "Real Grrrl" and "Be Free," but the tuneful ambience of "Black Sun" and "Sacred Life" definitely dominates the 12 songs found here. Insightful and delightful, The Cult is a wonderful surprise that belongs in the must-have category.

■ BIG CHIEF: Platinum Jive (Capitol 27302)

Borrowing a bit of everything from early '70s British glam to genuine get-down soul, all plastered over a hard-rock base, Big Chief's new effort is a blast that will alternately have you dancing in the aisles and banging your head in traditional hard-rock fashion. Aside from some solid playing, Big Chief's biggest asset here is their sense of humor, a trait they demonstrate in the album's liner notes. This album is subtitled "Greatest Hits, 1969-1999." Along those lines they provide a ribald fictional history of pretentious album titles in the Big Chief archives. Among the tracks most likely to turn up on future best-of collections: the soulful "Simply Barry," "Takeover Baby" (the most glam-esque track) and the distortion-induced rocker "Locked Out."

■ DAVE MATTHEWS BAND: Under The Table And Dreaming (RCA 66449)

The hottest draw in the Southeast, Virginia's Dave Matthews Band's blend of jazz and rock calls to mind Sting's Dream Of The Blue Turtles period. Balancing the traditional core of guitar, drums and bass with sax and violin, the quintet maintain a pop/rock sound on "The Best Of What's Around" and "Pay For What You Get" with a jazz hook just strong enough to stand apart from the rest of the crowded field. A record worth taking note of.

■ SLAYER: Divine Intervention (American 45522)

Here's a really neat trick to try with the new album from heavy metal's baddest boys, Slayer. When you get it, which you probably will, since it debuted in the Top 10, skim through just the opening seconds of all ten songs found here and see if you can find the one different one. You get five points for that one. If you feel really confident, see if you can point out the differences between the remaining nine tracks. Consider yourself a genius if you can.

■ DEBORAH HOLLAND: Freudian Slip (Dog & Pony Records 18001)

Holland is the former lead singer of the acclaimed group Animal Logic. The band's reputation for daring tendencies has paid off for Holland in the form of guest appearances by former Animal mates Stewart Copeland and Stanley Clarke, as well as Toad The Wet Sprocket's Glen Phillips. Copeland, who appears on a few songs, joins Clarke on "We Don't Need A Reason," one of the strongest tracks on the largely serene album, while Phillips guests on "Get Out Of Dodge." The record peaks though with the last two numbers: "Charlie Parker's Dream," a uniquely surreal vision, and the powerful "All My Friends Are Leaving." It says a lot for Holland that her brightest moments come when she steps to the forefront, a place she'll hopefully remain.

■ WEEN: Chocolate & Cheese (Elektra 61639)

Gene and Dean Ween were responsible for perhaps the single most annoying song to ever grace commercial radio, "Push Th' Little Daisies," the musical equivalent of fingernails on the chalkboard. There's more of that found here on their new album, but if you can get by that, there's some stellar diversified playing as well. When the duo, and their partners in crime, abandon the idiocy of "Mister, Would You Please Help My Pony," the results can be strong, as is the case with the country-flavored twang of the pretty "Drifter In The Dark." Most impressive is the Jimi Hendrix-flavored melody of the stunning instrumental, "A Tear For Eddie."

■ LYLE LOVETT: I Love Everybody (Curb/MCA 10808)

Lovett made his reputation as a songwriter/singer before he ever entered the pop world. Those roots are in evidence throughout the 18 songs that comprise I Love Everybody. Lovett uses musicians from all walks, including former Simple Minds frontman Jim Kerr, drummer extraordinaire Kenny Aronoff and blues man Sweet Pea Atkinson, to bring to life his eclectic selection of songs. The result is a range of styles from the blues of "Ain't It Something" to the acoustic tenderness of "Fat Babies." However, the crux of this record comes from Lovett's touching tunes, as exemplified on the bittersweet "Sonja." Also of note: the rocking "Record Lady," the touching "Skinny Legs" and the title track. Lovett gives credence to the belief there's always room for great songs by providing the world with a batch of 'em.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ VERUCA SALT: American Thighs (Minty Fresh 24732)

Out of Chicago comes Veruca Salt, a band making a lot of noise in the alternative world. Since the release of their first single, "Seether," a grabbing hard-edged pop tune (about what I, like everyone else, have no idea), this record has built up a strong word-of-mouth that shows this group definitely appeals to the people who matter—the record-buying public. On the rest of their debut effort, Veruca Salt do a lot of stuff that's been done before, but bring a unique vision to it that results in a grunge-meets-Cocteau-Twins sound on "Twinstar" and "25," or an eerily childlike quality to the poppy repetition of "Forsythia" and the lovely lilt of "Fly." American Thighs is one of those albums that makes music magical by mysteriously taking hold of the listener and working its way into the system based on an intangible quality. Listen to this one again and again, as it gets even better upon further listen.

THE RHYTHM

M.R. Martinez

Since joining MCA Records, members of the young teen group Immature have decided that Playtime Is Over, something evident by that album's first single "Never Lie." The group had a successful run of live performances this summer, and group member Marques "Batman" Houston has earned a recurring role on the NBC-TV Emmy-nominated series "Sister Sister." The trio also appeared in the movie House Party 3. Pictured on stage at a recent live performance are (l-r):

BUDWEISER SUPERFEST: Poor sound and acoustics at the Anaheim Pond thwarted all four acts on the bill, although the two major acts—R. Kelly and Heavy D & The Boyz—were the least affected and, consequently, turned in the most crowd pleasing (if not musically satisfying) performances.

Headliner Kelly started his set with a film short drenched in apocalyptic sci-fi images of armed women (wearing tight clothing, of course) advancing paramilitary style on a stark industrial setting and eventually drawing down on a glass chamber where Kelly is shackled. The leader of the group then performs simulated sex with Kelly and leaves. But Kelly somehow escapes to the Pond stage and back in the chamber where he sexually dispatches on one of the voluptuous stage dancers. The entire sequence takes little more than 10 minutes.

This opening continued to demonstrate the commercial drawing power developed by the multi-Platinum Jive Records album 12 Play. The near-capacity crowd at this arena venue was composed mainly of nubile, young adult females that were, for the most part, unescorted. Women were the major segment of the audience that warmed to the glitzy, choreographed sexuality that marked most of R. Kelly's show. Another anomaly was the fact this show was produced by brewery Budweiser, yet most of the people attending this show unchaperoned would have been carded.

Kelly said early on in the show, "I came to show my shit tonight," and, as he lasciviously groped his thrusting pelvis, "a man's gotta do whatta man's gotta do." His two female dancers provided counterpoint with a pelvic pump 'n' grind act that was modern-day burlesque. However, the sexual and over-dramatic approach undermined what could have been a musically pleasing set, something Kelly accomplished to a degree at a Greek Theatre show earlier this year.

"Overweight Lover" Heavy D and crew, while also expressing themselves with the occasional carnal flourishes, provided a more complete musical experience, perhaps owing to the depth of his catalogue. In addition to selections from his current MCA Records album Nuttin' But Love, Heavy came with earlier hits from his three previous albums like "Mr. Big Stuff" and "Girls, They All Like Me." He served up "Black Coffee," the current single from the present album, and the watershed title track, "'Nuttin' But Love."

Heavy D's crew managed the sound problems best during the evening while rappers Coolio and Warren G had the worst experience. The most distinguishable aspects about each of these acts were the beats, as their respective microphone play was lost in the cavernous arena's rafters. As he left following his hit "Fantastic Voyage," Coolio complained about having only 15 minutes to perform. Warren G, as he launched into his hit "Regulate," urged the crowd to say, "Fuck the soundman." That was perhaps the most honest passion of the evening.

RHYME

By M.R. Martinez

RAP SYMPOSIUM VI: The recent Rap Symposium VI, held Saturday October 8th at the American Federation of Musicians Local 47 Union Hall, was an event engineered to attract not just hip-hop hopefuls with demo tapes in hand but active members of the larger African-American community in Los Angeles who hoped to express their feelings about the current state of hip-hop and the world. Jerry Davis, president of Poetic Groove Records, and his partner Kenneth Carr were the chief organizers of the event, but got a lot of help from Madsounds Records, the Motown Records label that focuses on the street side of rap, and also from the American Society of Composers Authors & Publishers (ASCAP). Madsounds tangible interest in the Symposium was to insure a presence for the recently-released State of Emergency—Society In Crisis (Vol. 1) on Poetic Groove Records.

Inspired by the Los Angeles Rebellion of 1992, the brainchild of Davis and rapper Def Jef, and later refined by Carr and other people from both the wider community and the music industry, State of Emergency the concept and the album at the Symposium served as the thematic fabric for panel discussions and a keynote speech by recently-deposed NAACP executive director Dr. Benjamin Chavis. Def Jef, speaking on a panel dealing with the future of hip-hop, debunked the notion that each black rap artist had a responsibility to be a role model and that it is the obligation of each individual to educate themselves. Motown v.p. Paris Eley adjusted the focus on that notion a bit by saying that although the bottom line is important in the record business, "Black executives have a chance to do something a little different: we have a chance to make art that is entertaining and socially relevant."

Chavis' closing comments attempted to expose in a different light those community-based attendees' concerns that rap music must take a more uplifting tone. He recalled the recent African-American Leadership Conference, where Nation of Islam leader Minister Louis Farrakhan was invited. Chavis called the conference a watershed event because of Farrakhan's presence and the invitation extended of various hip-hop artists. "We decided to reach out to hip-hop artists because we thought it very important that this cultural phenomena known as hip-hop and rap not only be understood, but be embraced by brothers and sisters that were serious about the struggle for freedom and justice," Chavis said. "The state of emergency just didn't begin this year; we have been in a state of crisis as a people." The North Carolina native said that in order to maintain a vision of the future and to move from talk of organizing and mobilizing the community, that the current generation of young people would play an important role. "The hip-hop generation, in my view, offers not only one of the most creative, but I think one of the best opportunities for the entire African-American community to come together with a new understanding of our mutual responsibility." Amen.

SOUND NIBBLES: "Big Phat Ones" is the title of a special programming promotion being waged this fall by The Video Jukebox Network, Inc., more commonly known as The Box. In an effort to document music trends that have shaped '90s music direction, rap videos by several rap artists are included. They include vintage videos by Public Enemy, 2 Live Crew, 2 Pac, Cypress Hill, Digital Underground, N.W.A., Dr. Dre, House of Pain, Kriss Kross, Ice Cube, Jodeci, MC Hammer, Naughty By Nature, Positive K and Run D.M.C. with Aerosmith. Big Phat Ones actually covers a plethora of music and should offer a decent retrospective.

RAP REVIEWS

By Dr. Bayyan

MC BREED: "Seven Years" b/w "What You Want" (Wrap 249).

Even on these radio edits, you can sense that MC Breed was intent on coming harder with his almost hypnotic beats and grooves and the distinct mic work. "Seven Years" is a story of Breed's struggle into the music business, while "What You Want" is a bass-deep jeep beater with attitude.

THE PUPPIES: "Summer Delight" (Chaos/Columbia 6413).

They missed the best season for release of this breezy and youthful rap, but the pixie-ish duo bring some heat to the various mixes on this record. The midtempo bum of the R&B Groove-Radio Edit shows up best and could earn this record the widest airplay. The production fits the youthful mic work.

RALLY RAL: "Something Kinda Funky" b/w "I Thought I Knew" (Priority 50794).

The song lives up to its billing as the A side comes with a deeply funky groove, while Rally Ral glides easily over the music with an easy, unforced mic style. "I Thought U Knew" opens in an almost gothic fashion. The music is just as funky and guest E-A-Ski is definitely in the house.

RIGHT FOR BRANSON & WRIGHT: Two of the British record industry's veterans, Richard Branson & Chris Wright, are celebrating this week having both been granted London FM licenses from The Radio Authority. Branson's long-standing dream for Virgin London Radio to become an FM station has now been realised. Wright received the news that his company Crystal FM had been granted a license whilst on vacation in Mexico. (Congratulations to both of them.)

Royal appearance delayed?

NO DATE FOR PRINCE ALBUM: WEA Records are refusing to comment on the delayed release of the new Prince (or "symbol," as he is now known) album Gold Experience. Apparently the artist is not at all pleased with WEA's decision to hold up the release. One of the tracks of the album, "Dolphin," was the first to be played on VH-1 last week. Personally, I thought the track was great and if this is a taster for the album, then I do not understand why they are "soft-peddling."

AMERICAN RECORDINGS AMEND SUIT: American Recordings has amended and refiled its U.S. lawsuit against former joint venture partner Phonogram. As well as accusing Phonogram of fraud and breach of contract, American, which is now licensed internationally by BMG, alleges fraudulent accounting, restraint of trade and interference in contractual relationships.

NEW FACE AT EASTWEST: EastWest Records has appointed producer Ian Stanley as head of A&R. Stanley has worked as a consultant to EastWest for the past three years and has just completed the new Human League album he signed to the label. Stanley is a former member of Tears For Fears and co-wrote the U.S. #1 hits "Shout" and "Everybody Wants To Rule The World."

THE QUEEN FAN CLUB CHARITY DRIVE: The International Queen Fan Club is launching a national street collection to raise funds for the Mercury Phoenix Trust next month. Members of the fan club will kick off the collection in central London on November 15th, with each donor receiving a small sticker emblem of Freddie Mercury emblazoned with the motto "The Mercury Phoenix Trust, Fighting AIDS Worldwide." The trust was first set up in 1992 by Brian May, Roger Taylor and Queen manager Jim Beach.

MUSIC BY FAX: Sheet music by FAX will become available for the first time in late October through a new service offered by publisher Music Sales. "Music By FAX" will give A&R persons and musicians access to 1,000 songs using a new premium-rate British Telecom 0897 number.

NEW TV AIDS BENEFIT: Suede, Pulp, Neneh Cherry and Alison Moyet are to perform in a 90-minute AIDS charity concert being recorded for ITV next month. Hosted by Holly Johnson, "Live At The Lighthouse" will be recorded at London's Lighthouse AIDS Centre on October 31 for transmission by Carlton TV in January and the network in spring.

STARS JUDGES FOR THE Q AWARDS: Johnny Cash, Michael Hutchence, Peter Gabriel and Neil Finn have all been confirmed as judges for the 5th Annual Q Awards, being staged at London's Park Lane Hotel on November 9. The four will be joined by MTV's Brent Hansen, John Hegarty and producer Jim Steinman.

GUMP & DISNEY TO FIGHT IT OUT: The Lion King and Forrest Gump albums are expected to push soundtrack sales to previously uncharted heights over the coming months. The releases ranked one and two on the U.S. album charts for five weeks this summer. Phonogram plans a national press campaign and co-op promotions with distributor Buena Vista to support the Lion King album, which has already sold 6 million copies in the U.S. Epic Soundtrax is launching a TV sales campaign on October 17 for the '60s and '70s Forrest Gump compilation.

U.K. SINGLES CHART: A new #1 and the week's highest entry is "Sure" from Take That. #2 is Whigfield's "Saturday Night." #3 is "Always" from Bon Jovi. ## Jazz Reviews

By M.R. Martinez

■ BETTY CARTER: Feed The Fire (Verve 523 600). Producer: Richard Seidel.

Carter is an instrument, and she has always shown an appreciation for young musicians who bring fresh energy to her myriad of incisive interpretations of standard and new compositions. But this live session, recorded nearly a year ago at the Royal Festival Hall in London, includes captains Dave Holland on bass and Jack DeJohnette on drums with up-and-coming pianist Geri Allen. In the spirit of exploration, Carter opens her album with Allen's composition "Feed The Fire," the album's title track. She also has writing collaborations with DeJohnette ("What Is This Tune?"). She's ethereal on her writing collaboration with Mark Zubek ("Love Notes"), and cool on the track "Lover Man."

Whitfield has definitely forged an individual style, but there's a little bit of Joe Pass and Grant Green in his blues. He's assisted mightily here by some young lions that have forged a higher profile via some illuminating gigs. Kenny Kirkland (piano), Jeff "Tain" Watts (drums) and Branford Marsalis (saxophone) all hold forth nightly on the "Tonight Show With Jay Leno" and bring a seasoned and responsive tone to each selection. Lesser known, but equally qualified, bassist Rodney Whitaker and trumpet player Nicholas Payton bring some coherent noise to the proceedings. "Save Your Love For Me," the uptempo "Immanuel The Redeemer" and Thelonius Monk's playful "Ba-lue Bolivar Ba-lues Are" stand out.

■ JIMMY SMITH TRIO: The Master (Blue Note 30451). Producer: Hitooshi Namekata & Yoshiko Tsuge.

Jimmy Smith is synonymous with blues. His rich organ sound is a study in tradition forged by individual flair. He remains fresh because he can rearrange a blues riff with the greatest of ease. Smith is joined on this album by a pair of blues O.G.'s—the venerable guitarist Kenny Burrell and drummer Jimmie Smith. In the hands of these vets, Cole Porter's "It's All Right With Me" sounds as organic. "Organ Grinder's Swing" has some tongue-in-cheek fun; the trio's reading of Horace Silver's "The Preacher" is countrified; working the bass pedals on Burrell's "All Day Long" organist Smith show's mastery; and on the classic "I Got My Mojo Workin'," Smith brings some gravelly vocal soul. Recorded live last December in Osaka.

■ MALEEM MAHMOUD GHANIA WITH PHAROAH SANDERS: The Trance of Seven Colors (Axiom 524 047). Producer: Bill Laswell.

This heady amalgamation of mantra groove and free, open playing transcends definition, but instead works on a more fundamental, spiritual level that contemporary music rarely reaches. Seminal saxophonist Pharoah Sanders redefines some territory he's previously explored on albums like Shukuru and also tills fresh soil on this collection of Gnawa ceremonial music from Morocco. Gnawa master Maleem Mhamoud Ghania is considered the foremost practitioner on the gumbri, and is said to perform the music ritual for its primal intent—healing and purification of spirit. For ears only attuned to Western flavor, "Peace in Essaouira (For Sonny Sharrock)" is the most accessible.

■ ROB MCCONNELL & THE BOSS BRASS: Overtime (Concord Jazz 4618).

This juggernaut big band has some of the most explosive yet smooth arrangements ever charted on a modern recording. McConnell can take the band from bluesy hop ("Overtime") to smoothed-out post-swing swing ("The Touch Of Your Lips") in a lick of the mouthpiece. The Boss Brass cover of "Stella By Starlight" is alternately a reminder of the past and given fresh air by flugelhorn player Guido Basso. The hoochie-choochie groove of Clark Terry's "Hawg Jawz," complete with some gutbucket vamping, demonstrates some soul. McConnell's composition "After You" drifts aboard a swooning arrangement that relies on quiet balladry. Moe Kaufmann's solo on this track is masterful.

News From U.S. & Latin America

By Hector Resendez

MEGA-MERENGUE STAR Juan Luis Guerra y su Grupo 440's latest

album Fogaraté! has done markedly well since its release this past July. Hitting top sales within the first month, over 200,000 units have sold in the United States alone. The album held first place for five consecutive weeks in Spain and captured a Platinum record there as well. It has taken first place in Holland, Belgium and Portugal.

The album's success in Central America has surpassed all projections set by the Miami-based label Karen Records, says Alvaro Rizo, label vice president. A key factor, says Rizo, is Guerra's meticulous care in attending to every detail. No expense was spared in creating and developing the 12 selections for this album. Even the packaging of the album was carefully thought out. The colorful and energetic cover was done by Roy Lichtenstein, a first for the Latin music industry.

The first single, "La Cosquillita," has already shot up through the charts worldwide. The second release, "Vivire," is a ballad written by African composer Papa Wemba. The video versions of these two singles were directed and produced by Gustavo Garzon.

Since 1984, Juan Luis Guerra has hit a distinctive note in the entire tropical music industry. In a short period, this group's new harmonic blend has grown into a Latin music phenomenon. The hugely successful album Bachata Rosa went on to win a Grammy Award in the category of Best Tropical Album of 1991. The album sold more than five million copies worldwide, and the Bachata Rosa World Tour, with tour stops throughout the Americas and Europe, drew over 350,000 fans.

Juan Luis Guerra is a fine example of the versatility of this writer-composer. Another writer-performer is Manuel Jimenez, who has written hits for well-known artists as Wilfrido Vargas, Miriam Cruz, Fernandito Villalona and, more recently, for Spanish singer Ana Belen on her hit "Derroche." Jimenez' single "Dolores" is a smooth and melodic Merengue number. Finally, Roy Tavare Y El Clan De La Furia's second single is an interesting remake of the popular "Another Chacha." Tavare's album, Do It, has sold well in Central and Southern America.

BREAKFAST AT TIFFANY: New York-based indie Tiffany Records' promotions director Candy Cintron recently announced that Latin music legend Joe Cuba will be releasing a new album, Stepping Out...Again! It will combine Salsa and mambo rhythms with hip-hop. Cuba plans to recreate the excitement he first caused back in 1958.

The new label has also signed Salsa artist Hiram Medina with the album De Puerto Rico Con Amor. The group, based on the island itself, has released two singles: "Tu Y Yo" and "No Somos Dos." The album will be distributed in the U.S. by the Ritmo Records chain. Says prez Rolando Ortiz, "Our productions mark a new era. We will definitely keep the public up-to-date with the newest in Latin music out of New York and from outside of the United States."

Jon Secada

SECADA ON THE ROAD: Grammy-winning singer-songwriter Jon Secada began his Central and South American tour last week in Mexico. Secada became an international pop phenomenon when his multi-Platinum self-titled debut album was released in 1992. This tour is named after his latest SBK/EMI Records album, Heart, Soul & A Voice. It includes the top-10 hit "If You Go" and the newly released "Whipped."

GABRIEL

his signature love ballads. Gabriel, along with labelmates Caifanes, Jose Jose and Joaquin Sabina have been recently featured on Telemundo Network TV spots in the greater L.A. area and a Universal Amphitheatre concert in L.A. is slated for October 21-23.

EL GRAN COMBO: La Ruta Del Sabor (Combo Records 2104) Producer: Ralph Cartagena

The Puerto Rican Salsa superstar orchestra El Gran Combo launches its latest album, La Ruta Del Sabor. Since its inception in 1962 by founder and current director Rafael Ithier, the popular group has toured throughout the U.S. and Latin America. How have they been able to crank out hit albums for the past 20-odd years? All fingers point to Ithier, the group's musical director. A self-taught pianist, this man has been the focal point for what was once a spin-off of the late Rafael Cortijo band. The single release is "Buena O Mala."

ISSAC DELGADO: Con Ganas (QBADISC 9012) Producer: Gonzalo Rubalcaba with Giraldo Piloto & Issac Delgado

Released in Venezuela on EMI, Isaac Delgado's Con Ganas has already been selling strongly as an import in the U.S. and Puerto Rico. The N.Y.-based QBADISC is launching the authorized U.S./Puerto Rican edition with radio, club and press promotion, leading off with the single "Dos Mujeres." Delgado, former lead singer of NG La Banda, is a popular solo vocalist in Cuba. The import album version generated five #1 hits in Cuba, enabling him to win the EGREM Grand Prize for 1993 (the Cuban equivalent of the Grammy). QBADISC has also released two previous works by the classic Cuban rumba group Los Munequitos De Matanzas. The first is Congo Yambumba (QB 9014), a new digital transfer made from the album's original master including a previously unreleased track. The other is Oyelos De Nuevo (QB 9013), recorded at the EGREM studios in Havana in 1970. It has never been released in album form, even in Cuba. The album contains two groups of Matanzas' rumba movement on one album, recorded on the same day in the same studio.

PICK OF THE WEEK

JUAN LUIS GUERRA Y SU GRUPO 440: Fogaraté! (Karen 165/BMG 74321) Producer: Juan Luis Guerra

There are many noteworthy aspects to be found in this project. One of these is Guerra's use of the "Perico Ripiao," a very fast rhythm. Guerra has cleverly placed this "Bionic Merengue" within clear earshot of all. It has served in making his style as truly unique as the album's artwork. Guerra has taken his original Bachata style of music, incorporating such international popular music as Merengue, Salsa, Soukous and Cuban Son rhythms. With the assistance of musicians from around the world, rich lyrics and inspiring melodies, Grammy #2 may not be far away.

Alpert and Moss Form 'Almo Sounds' and Line With Geffen

A&M FOUNDERS Herb Alpert and Jerry Moss are making their return to the recording business with the creation of Almo Sounds. They have signed a pressing and distribution deal for North America with Geffen Records and expect to release their first three albums by mid-1995.

The Almo Sounds label is a division of Almo Sounds, Inc., under the aegis of Rondor Music International, Inc., which in turn encompasses music publishing companies Almo Music Corp. (ASCAP) and Irving Music, Inc. (BMI).

Moss, Almo chairman and president said, "We have a successful publishing company which is doing extremely well, but I like making records and I love working with musicians. The industry is in great shape and growing bigger and bigger. It's a great time to start a new record company, which is one of the few businesses in the corporate world where an individual human being can make a difference in the lives of so many people."

There is a 30-year history between Alpert and Moss and Geffen chairman David Geffen and president Ed Rosenblatt, a fact which helped bring the pact together.

Said Geffen: "These are extremely talented people with an incredible history of success in the record business. Eddie and I have known them for many years and we're truly excited to be working together with two of the very classiest people in our industry."

Rosenblatt added: "They share our belief that great records are made in the studio, not at the marketing meeting. They had the ultimate boutique record company and there's no doubt they'll continue to have great success."

The label's premiere album will release in early 1995 with a total of three anticipated in the first half of the year. The first albums are expected to come from signed new acts Angel Corpus Christi (alternative band from San Francisco presently in the studio with producer Craig Leon); Rake's Progress, from N.Y.C. being produced by Nick Sansano; and Sherree Ford-Payne, an R&B singer from L.A. recording with Howie Tee.

Heading A&R on the East Coast for Almo is Howard Thompson, former A&R executive at Elektra. He will be assisted by Bob Bortnick. Alan Jones is managing director of Almo in the U.K. where the company has a distribution deal with Pinnacle.

Initially Geffen will supply marketing, sales, promotion, media and artist relations and creative services support as required. Almo Sounds is based at the Rondor Music offices at 360 N. La Cienega Blvd in L.A.

"Musicians As Artists" Visual Arts Collection Limited Edition to Benefit MusiCares

"MUSICIANS AS ARTISTS" is a special collection of visual art by 55 contemporary musicians which will be introduced at a publication party November 1 at B.B. King's Blues Club at Universal CityWalk in L.A. Only 100 copies will be available in limited edition, individually numbered and signed by most of the artists. The price of the book is $1,000 and includes admission for four to the private evening, including a silent auction of many pieces of the original artwork, cocktail reception, a buffet dinner and surprise musical performances. All proceeds will benefit MusiCares.

Michael Greene, National Association of Record Merchandisers president/CEO and a featured artist in the book, said, "I've always felt that having access to diverse avenues of expression serves to strengthen one's artwork. And there's no better embodiment of that wonderfully symbiotic relationship between the musical and visual arts than the creations of the multi-talented artists found in this book."

The 100 leather-bound and gold-leafed limited editions have been donated to MusiCares by the book's publisher and distributor, Charles E. Tuttle Co., Inc. The event will be co-chaired by Quincy Jones and B.B. King and includes sponsoring partners B.B. King's Blues Club, Gibson Guitar Corporation and United Airlines. The Permanent Charities of the Entertainment Industries has united their efforts with NARM to organize the event.

Foundations Forum '94 Packs 'Em In

Alice Cooper receiving Foundation's Lifetime Achievement Award

THE WORLD'S ONLY ALL-HARD music convention, Foundations Forum, was held September 8-10 at the Burbank (CA) Hilton. Bob Chiappardi, president of Concrete Marketing and host of FF'94, kicked off the convention by announcing that "If we start you at 11:00 in the morning and run you 'til 2:00 in the morning, then you're too tired to damage the hotel."

Four thousand attendees, fans and industry, saw: Alice Cooper presented by Rob Zombie of White Zombie with the Foundation's Lifetime Achievement Award; showcased newcomers Wickerman, Wook, My Head, Korn and Monster Voodoo Machine, along with metal legends Bruce Dickinson, Dee Snider with Widowmaker and Yngwie Malmsteen; Nativity In Black: A Tribute To Black Sabbath, released by Columbia Records and Concrete Marketing was launched at a special listening party; and several panels.

At the record launch party for Nativity In Black: A Tribute to Black Sabbath on Columbia Records (l-r): John Tempesta, Sean Yseult and J. of White Zombie; Danny Schuler and Evan Seinfeld of Biohazard; Bob Chiappardi of Concrete Marketing; Bill Ward of Black Sabbath; Cat Healy of Concrete Marketing; Billy Graziadei and Bobby Hambel of Biohazard; and Rob Zombie of White Zombie.

SCHMOOZE

MCA Records hosted two of the highlight events of the recent New York City media blitz promoting Quentin Tarantino's much-anticipated new film Pulp Fiction—a special preview screening of the film during the CMJ convention, and a record release party at Irving Plaza in celebration of the MCA Records Pulp Fiction soundtrack album, featuring Dick Dale, Kool & The Gang, Urge Overkill and others. Pictured at the screening are (l-r): Darren Higman, soundtracks product manager, MCA Records; Kathy Nelson, senior v.p./g.m., MCA Soundtracks; Pulp Fiction's writer/director Quentin Tarantino; and Toby Hood, national college promotion mgr., MCA Records.

Grammy-winning artists BeBe and CeCe Winans and the Sounds Of Blackness gave a stellar performance for a select audience as a taste of their upcoming "Together As One" tour. The special taping for BET took place at Washington, D.C.'s Lincoln Theater and will begin airing the third week in October. The six-week tour kicks off October 27 in the Sounds of Blackness' hometown of Minneapolis, MN. Pictured in the front row (l-r): Sounds Of Blackness musical director Gary Hines; Perspective Records' co-owner Terry Lewis; BeBe Winans; Ann Bennett-Nesby, Sounds Of Blackness; CeCe Winans; and Perspective Records' co-owner Jimmy Jam.

"Is Censorship Un-American?" was the subject of a recent symposium sponsored by Sony Music Entertainment's Corporate Affairs Department. The symposium, which explored the effects of censorship, featured Dr. Laura Murphy Lee, director, American Civil Liberties Union, Washington, D.C. (center) and Michael Eric Dyson, professor of communication studies, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill (far right), who testified during recent congressional hearings concerning the censorship of rap music. Also pictured are (l-r): LeBaron Taylor, sr. v.p., corporate affairs, SME; David Johnson, sr. v.p., general counsel & secretary, SME; and Mrs. Dyson.

K's Choice

By Steve Baltin

IT'S ONLY FITTING with the renewed interest in the Carpenters, thanks to the tribute album If I Were A Carpenter, that one of the best debut albums of the fall release season come from a brother and sister duo. K's Choice are a duo made up of Gert Bettens and Sarah Bettens (who retains the family name though she is married). Also, like the Carpenters, brother Gert provides the music behind sister Sarah's lovely vocals. And there is one more similarity between the two family acts—K's Choice, like the Carpenters, write killer pop tunes.

The group's debut album, wonderfully titled The Great Subconscious Club (Epic Records), is as good a collection of pop songs as you're likely to hear this year. Beginning with the opening track/single, the infectious "Me Happy," K's Choice dazzle with their ability to bring both delight and despair to their listeners through a three-minute song. Though the album is largely upbeat musically, this is a group who do a mean ballad as well, evidenced by the lovely "My Heart" or the heartbreaking melancholy of "Winter."

K's Choice

Beyond the bubbly surface of their more up-tempo pop tunes is a biting sarcasm. When asked about the contrast between the peppy music and snappy lyrics, Sarah replied, "We both, Gert and I, have a little bit of sarcasm in our sense of humor. It wasn't a conscious thing; it just worked out that way." Also manifesting itself in the lyrics is a deft storytelling ability, a talent that certainly has a bearing on the wistful "Breakfast." The song deals, in a manner that can only be described as adorable, with the awkward subject of love-making...or more accurately, the subject of a child walking in on their parents. Sarah said of the song, "I like it that he (Gert) wrote it from the point of view of a child. It's not really a song about sex, it's a song about a little kid."

The depiction of a child's way of thinking is one of the hardest things to do in any form of writing. However, Sarah and Gert do a job that goes beyond commendable of accomplishing this feat. A large part of that, as well as their upbeat attitudes, comes from their upbringing, which Sarah described as "very happy." The two grew up in the relatively small town of Antwerp, in Belgium, listening to the Beatles, which helps to explain the song "The Ballad Of Lea And Paul," though Sarah says the similarities between the title of that and "The Ballad Of John And Yoko" by the Beatles "is a total coincidence." True to the album's title, though, Sarah doesn't discount the possibility of the song's name coming from the subconscious.

Of the album title, "It comes from a song we wrote for a Belgian movie," says Sarah. That song, "Try To Get Some Sleep," didn't make the album, but the line about the great subconscious club did. In the song, Sarah sings, "Join the great subconscious club." That's sound advice. After tuning in to K's Choice, you'll be proud to be a member.

Music Publishing

EMI SIGNS... EMI Music Publishing, the largest music publishing concern in the world with rights to over one million songs, has just signed a worldwide agreement with Matador/Atlantic Records' band Bettie Serveert. The deal includes the band's Matador-released U.S. debut, Palomine, as well as a new album scheduled for release on Atlantic in the new year.

Bettie Serveert, named for Dutch tennis legend Betty Stoeve, was the most sought-after band of '92. Palomine received critical praise across the board, making many tastemakers' Top 10 lists. The band's songs "Kid's Alright" was also featured in the Rob Weiss film Amongst Friends....

EMI Music Publishing has also signed the hot writing team of Joe Jefferson and Fitzgerald Scott, the songwriters behind the latest Keith Sweat album Get Up On It, which recently debuted at #10 on the Cash Box Top 100 Pop Albums chart.

Jefferson, a part of the famous Gamble/Huff writing cartel, was the songwriter behind many of the Spinners' classic hits, such as "Mighty Love," "One Of A Kind" and "Games People Play." Scott penned and produced the first three Top 10 Lorenzo singles, "Real Love," "Make Love To Me" and "I Can't Stand The Pain."

Jefferson/Scott co-wrote the first Sweat single, "How Do Ya Like It," as well as the second single "When I Give My Love To You."...

Day 2 Day, the brand-new Salt 'N' Pepa/Hurby Azor-discovered singing sensation, has been snapped up by EMI Music Publishing's Evan Lamberg. These five young men, ranging in age from 20 to 23, are featured on the Salt 'N' Pepa hit "Shoop" and are the only group Salt 'N' Pepa and producer Azor have ever chosen to develop. Day 2 Day were also seen singing back-up for Salt 'N' Pepa on their recent tour with R. Kelly.

Elektra recording artist Anita Baker celebrates the success of her smash single "Body And Soul" with the song's co-writers, EMI Music's Rick Nowels and Ellen Shipley. "Body And Soul," the first track off Baker's Rhythm Of Love album, is currently battling Boyz II Men's "I'll Make Love To You" for the top spot on Cash Box's Top 100 R&B Singles chart. Rhythm Of Love, which shipped Platinum, debuted at #4 on the Cash Box Top 100 Pop Albums chart.

Pulp Fiction

By John Goff

The papa of Pulp, Quentin Tarantino (r), performs with Harvey Keitel (l) in his high-powered three-hat turn for Miramax.

Quentin Tarantino—a spoken-record by working-stiff gunsels. Also like its title inspiration, those old pulps used to give us rather jaded, cynical but honest (as perceived by the dicks, gunsels and molls) and slightly skewed philosophical observations of life as periodic reality checks every few pages. Pulp Filmiction it could be called...a bit long but seldom dull and topped with some dynamic performances.

Tarantino discourses on religion, race, retirement, sex and the intrinsic jealousy-faction difference between foot massage and cunnilingus, among other things in Pulp Fiction. His trademark hard humor is ever present and this is very definitely a character-driven piece as opposed to over-gore and action his other pieces have gained attention through. To pull off such a heavily driven character piece you need some very solid actors; since there's little action to detract from the acting, it's words, ideas, attitudes and people here, and writer/director Tarantino cast some gems. Even himself—what the hell, if you're the writer/director you have that right; after all, what are friends for? If he didn't write specifically for these particular performers then either they, or he, or all, collaborated beautifully. But before all ye who lust for blood, bone, and bits of blown-out brain on your screens fly into a deprivation frenzy, know that there's enough to satisfy you 'cause it ain't necessarily the quantity, kids, it's the Quality that counts. And Tarantino gives Prime Rib, not coffee-shop cutlets.

His structure is basically like a pulp fiction magazine with the various segments becoming the short stories, or chapters, except that the characters are interwoven and turn up in each other's faces periodically, first in passing and then in support or adversarially. Tarantino bookends the film with a situation in a coffee shop with top- and bottom-level gunsels present and crossing one another: the smalltimers vs. the big timers; the showboats vs. the working class; the amateurs vs. the pros. May smack of pulp coincidence but it's delightful. With this structure he allows his characters to cross and interact while not tying himself to a linear vision, and it's very satisfying as well as entertaining. If this is the vision Tarantino has been giving other directors, he's better off doing auteuring it himself. (Really makes you wonder what Natural Born Killers would have looked like in its natural state.)

John Travolta and Samuel L. Jackson are the pro gunsels and they work together as if they've been working together for years. Travolta carves out a definite characterization with layers and thought in as smooth a job as he's ever done. He even parodies his earlier dance-age career highlights in one sequence. Jackson injects his character with some old-time religion delivery in his business of killing while undergoing a "spiritual experience" and confidently walks a line between comedy and terror with an intense humanity. Uma Thurman offers up a drug-ditzed moll with a haughty charm. Bruce Willis turns in a solid performance as a double-crossing fighter. Solid performances all around from Harvey Keitel as a troubleshooter; Ving Rhames as the head hood; Eric Stoltz as a working class drug dealer; Rosanna Arquette, with face looking like a pin-cushion via various pierced rings; Tim Roth and Amanda Plummer as the small-time hoods are delights; Maria de Medeiros, sexy as Willis' little woman and Christopher Walken in a flashback monologue.

The Miramax Films release was produced by Lawrence Bender and executive produced by Danny De Vito, Michael Shamberg and Stacey Sher.

Cutting Room Floor: Movie Scenes Which Never Made It To The Screen

By John Goff

THERE ARE PROBABLY MORE OF THOSE, scenes left on the cutting room floor, than there are movies because some whole movies have been left there. Shake a writer, actor, director, producer, etc. in California—in the world—and they'll readily tell you all about their favorite. And they won't delete the expletives, either. Featured on this Cutting Room Floor are scenes from some celebrated movies that author Laurent Bouzereau has thoroughly researched through articles, interviews and viewings and comparisons and he's come up with some highly interesting material—consequently his book works on several levels.

Cutting Room Floor is aimed at the consummate moviegoer on the broader-based level in that the reader has to have seen, and been a devotee of these films, or must set aside several good blocks of time to camp in front of the VCR with the films and book in hand, otherwise they'll get bogged down in material amongst which they have no inkling of what's going on. They'll only know just that some scene was cut one way for feature release in the U.S. and another way for foreign, one way for TV release, another way for airline release, and yet another for video consumption.

But hey, sitting in front of your VCR with several different tapes and this book can be a fun way to spend a month of time—if you can afford that time. Films range from Hitchcock's Suspicion to Paul Verhoeven's Basic Instinct.

On another level, one which will appeal to and often inflame readers of a creative leaning and First Amendment fans, are the pressures brought to bear on some of these films and the realization of what, often, a movie must go through and be subjected to to get a green light, to be shown, where to be shown and how to be shown. The behind-the-scenes-during-making manipulations which smack of subjective censorship of special interest groups, ethnic-gender-sexual preference minority groups, businesses, business-people (both inside and outside the industry), cracks, cranks and creeps...if most movie-makers listened to every complaint and then complied with the wishes every movie would be like eating vanilla pudding without the vanilla flavoring. The end result would be as bland as those people's lives. Most often all complaints seem anyway to be stemming from a personal axe which, more often than not, affect the wallet. An example of what must be contended with which pretty well sums it up in this paragraph: Then, there's of course the airline version. Don't expect to see any violence or sex at thirty-thousand feet! Logically, scenes showing crashes of any kind are prohibited as well. Do you remember Dustin Hoffman's monologue in Rain Man about crash statistics? Airlines wanted that scene out except for Qantas, whose perfect safety record was noted by Dustin!

And on another level there are the battles with the MPAA ratings board which all filmmakers tolerate rather than allow state and local groups to totally censor their product in the marketplace. And then, on the other hand, the reader must take the responsibility to ask himself: what if there were no guidelines at all? What if some of these ego maniacs were given free rein to put whatever they want to on the screen—then theatres would have to pass out barf bags with their popcorn. As in Basic Instinct: Who the hell really wants to see an icepick go into an eyeball and come out the nose? What Verhoeven refers to as "impact" ("lessened," he feels because of exclusion) becomes gross overkill to others, more than likely a majority.

But still, with the movement of putting out the Director's Cuts on home video these days, you can get all the gross out you care for, we're able to see films as they were, are, should have been and shouldn't have been.

Bouzereau is a thorough researcher, presents the facts and balances the arguments with a reportorial style. He also adds anecdotal humor: (William) Friedkin told (Bernard) Herrmann he wanted him to write for The Exorcist a better score than the one he had composed for Citizen Kane. Herrmann simply answered, "Then you should have made a better movie than Citizen Kane," and returned to London.

Cutting Room Floor is concerned in the main with films after they've been completed but with Bouzereau's penchant for research it would be fun to see him turn to something like The Waste Basket, and dig out how stories get from the beginning imagination of the source of it all—The Writer—and trace that torturous journey from Idea to "A Film By (insert director's name)." Talk about some real idiocy.

Gill Tops Again At CMA Awards

Vince Gill proudly displays two of his three CMA awards.

A surprised Pam Tillis displays a big smile and her award for Female Vocalist of the Year.

By Richard McVey

VINCE GILL, host of this year's show, took home three awards at the "28th Annual Country Music Association Awards" October 5 at the Grand Ole Opry House in Nashville.

Gill took home the most coveted prize of the night as he won Entertainer of the Year for the second year and collected a record-setting fourth award for Male Vocalist of the Year. With his Album of the Year award for his contribution to the multi-artist project Common Thread: The Songs Of The Eagles, Gill stretched his lead as the all-time CMA Award winner with 14 wins.

In the biggest surprise of the night (especially to the recipient herself), Pam Tillis collected her first solo CMA win with the Female Vocalist of the Year award. Brooks & Dunn repeated their 1992 and 1993 wins by accepting their third Vocal Duo of the Year award. And speaking of a third year in a row, Diamond Rio took home their third well-deserved consecutive award for Vocal Group of the Year.

Although many believed this to be the big year for Alan Jackson, he only received two awards, winning the Song of the Year for "Chattahoochee" with cowriter Jim McBride, as well as Album of the Year for his part in the Common Thread project.

Martina McBride received her first CMA Award for Music Video of the Year for her powerful video "Independence Day," directed by Robert Deaton and George J. Flanigen IV. Another first-time recipient was Linda Davis, who captured the Vocal Event of the Year award with Reba McEntire for "Does He Love You." John Michael Montgomery won his first two CMA Awards for Single of the Year for "I Swear" as well as the coveted Horizon Award, which is given to the performer who has shown the most significant career development over the past year. Fiddling virtuoso Mark O'Connor was named Musician of the Year for the fourth time in his career.

The highlight of the three-hour event was the induction of Merle Haggard into the Country Music Hall of Fame, which was bestowed on him following a tribute segment hosted by Emmylou Harris. The tribute featured a jam with Gill, Clint Black, Steve Wariner, Lee Roy Parnell, Diamond Rio's Marty Roe, Gene Johnson, Jimmy Olander, Brian Prout, Dana Williams and Dan Truman performing "Working Man's Blues."

ASCAP, BMI, SESAC & NSAI: What Are The Top Songs?

ASCAP PRESENTED its "32nd Annual Country Music Awards" at Opryland Hotel's Tennessee Ballroom in Nashville October 3. With the theme of "An Evening To Remember," more than 900 music industry notables joined in honoring the most performed ASCAP country songs of 1993.

ASCAP Southern Executive Director Connie Bradley was joined by Associate Director Merlin Littlefield, in presenting awards to the writers and publishers of the 75 country songs which were ASCAP's most performed in 1993.

ASCAP Songwriter of the Year honors were shared by Garth Brooks, Alan Jackson, Bob McDill and Kim Williams, each of whom was honored with three individual awards. Brooks' award-winning songs were: "Ain't Goin' Down (Til The Sun Comes Up)," "Somewhere Other Than The Night" and "That Summer." Jackson's three individual award songs were: "Chattahoochee," "She's Got The Rhythm and I Got The Blues" and "Tonight I Climbed The Wall." McDill's three individual award songs were: "On The Road," "She Don't Know She's Beautiful" and "Why Didn't I Think Of That." Williams' three individual award songs were: "Ain't Goin' Down (Til The Sun Comes Up)," "Haunted Heart" and "My Blue Angel."

Publisher of the Year honors were shared by Sony Cross Keys Publishing and EMI Music Publishing, each of whom was honored with nine individual awards. As for the Country Song of the Year, there was little surprise as "Chattahoochee" took top honors. Honored were writers Alan Jackson and Jim McBride and publishers Mattie Ruth Musick, Seventh Son Music and Sony Cross Keys Publishing. The Song of the Year is determined by the greatest number of performance credits accrued during the year of 1993.

BMI

Onstage after the gala are (l-r): Songs of PolyGram's Doug Howard; Patty Loveless; Kostas; (standing behind): Harlan Howard Songs' Melanie Howard; Sony Tree Vice President & COO Donna Hilley; BMI Nashville Vice President Roger Sovine; Harlan Howard, and BMI President & CEO Frances Preston.

BMI STAGED its 42nd annual edition of the "BMI Country Awards" under their traditional "Big Top" at the Municipal Auditorium in Nashville October 4. Presenters of the Citations of Achievement to some 168 writers and publishers were president & CEO Frances Preston and vice president Roger Sovine.

This year's big winner as the Most Performed Country Song of the Year went to "Blame It On Your Heart." Honored were Harlan Howard and Kostas and publishers Harlan Howard Songs, Seven Angels Music and Songs of PolyGram International, Inc. With 13 citations, Sony Tree took home the Country Publisher of the Year award, which goes to the publisher with the highest percentage of copyright ownership in award songs. This will mark the 21st BMI publisher triumph for Tree.

Dennis Linde came out on top for Country Songwriter of the Year. The four hits that earned Linde the title were "It Sure Is Monday," "Janie Baker's Love Slave," "John Deere Green" and "Queen of My Double-Wide Trailer."

SESAC

SESAC SENIOR V.P./CREATIVE DIANNE PETTY presented the performing rights organization's "1994 National Performance Activity Awards" at the Wildhorse Saloon in Nashville October 6. Some 400 music industry executives, songwriters, music publishers and artists were in attendance for what is considered the finale of CMA week. The awards presentation consisted of two portions. The first segment featured awards to writers of country, New Age, and adult/contemporary music. Immediately following this segment, a presentation of additional awards was made to the writers responsible for giving SESAC the evening's theme, "a night of number ones."

One of the evening's highlights consisted of Susan Longacre's award for being "The Most Recorded Songwriter of the Year." Longacre has had cuts this year by Reba McEntire, Steve Wariner, Kim Hill, Sammy Kershaw, Collin Raye and Rick Trevino.

W.B.M. Music Corp., SESAC's Warner Chappell company, took home this year's 1994 Publisher of the Year Award. As for the SESAC 1994 Writer of the Year, the award was shared by writer's Karen Taylor-Good and Amanda Hunt-Taylor. According to Petty, "Our data shows that the performance activity of both writers is very similar. So similar, in fact, that we had to call it a tie. Both writers had very big records. So, both deserved the honor...and both got it."

NSAI

HOSTED BY THE NASHVILLE SONGWRITERS FOUNDATION (NSF), in conjunction with the Nashville Songwriters Association International (NSAI), the 25th Annual Songwriters Hall of Fame induction ceremony took place October 2 at Loews Vanderbilt where Buddy Holly, Richard Leigh, Bobby Russell and Jerry Foster & Bill Rice were inducted into the Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame.

Legendary artist Buddy Holly was among the inductees into the Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame. The original Crickets performed a medley of Holly's songs during the ceremony. Pictured (l-r): J.I. Alison, Sonny Curtis (a Hall of Fame member), Maria Elena Holly (who accepted on behalf of her late husband) and Joe B. Mauldin.

REVIEWS By Richard McVey

■ TIM MCGRAW: "Not A Moment Too Soon" (Curb 1099)

Is this guy's career on fire or what? Just when you think he's not going to hit #1 again, he does. So don't bet against this steady-paced title cut that blends "nothing new" lyrically with some great musical accompaniment and production.

■ RICKY LYNN GREGG: "After The Fire Is Gone" (Liberty 79059)

Well, this is a tricky one. It starts out as though it's going to be a sedate hard-core traditional tune, but soon kicks into a fiery piano and a hard-driven drum beat. This is probably the most commercial thing he's done. Now, if radio will only play it.

■ RADNEY FOSTER: "The Running Kind" (Arista 2758)

As the most (surprisingly) impressive cut off Mama's Hungry Eyes, the tribute to Merle Haggard, this one starts off with a wiry guitar intro that hooks you. With a great sound and fantastic production, this one deserves a listen.

■ JOE DIFFIE: "Pickup Man" (Epic 77715)

The second release off his already gold Third Rock From The Sun offers up a corny look at the women who love their pickup man. Although an upbeat tempo and Diffie's superb honky tonk vocals give it life, expect this single to thrive more off the success of "Third Rock From The Sun" rather than its own merits.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ MARK CHESNUTT: "Goin' Through The Big D" (Decca 54941)

A fun-lovin', toe-tappin', sing-a-long tune that's sure to be a big hit for Chesnutt...a great witty hook and a hot honky-tonk tempo blended with Chesnutt's incredible signature vocals are what make this one shine. Expect radio to eat this up.

Cash Box COUNTRY INDIE

Q-&-A With Larry Hamilton

Larry Hamilton

JMC RECORDING ARTIST Larry Hamilton is currently at #55 on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles chart this week with his song "Matilda." Cash Box caught up with Hamilton, who splits his time between Nashville and his martial arts school in New Mexico, as he discussed himself and his album Stars Get In Your Eyes.

Cash Box: How long have you been performing?

Hamilton: Since I was 10 years old. My dad use to take me into clubs when I was a kid.

He was in music, too. And as long as I was up there on stage pickin' the guitar—I wasn't singing yet—he'd get his drinks free. When I got into it as far as the business part of it at about 18 or 19, I was playing with a band and everything.

When did you decide that's what you wanted to do?

Probably since I was eight years old I knew this was for me. I've had my moments when I said, "Boy, should I stay with this because I've got a family and things like that." But every time I stopped playing for a while, I couldn't stand it. Most of the time when I would play, it would be around 8 o'clock and when that time would come around, I would start walking the floor, wanting to be out there playing music. I would end up right back in it every time. There came a point in my life where I said, "I might as well just go on ahead and see this through."

When was the first time you were in the studio and did any recording?

About 16 or 17 years ago.

So your album Stars Get In Your Eyes isn't the first time you were in the studio?

No. Before this I did a recording in New Mexico. A bunch of my old favorite songs have stayed with me since I was a little kid. My favorites back then are still my favorites today—old Jerry Lee Lewis songs when he was doing country, and most of the old songs that meant a lot to me back then. It's all on a master tape, and I've never done anything with it. In fact, it's still in my closet.

As for Stars Get In Your Eyes, did you write any cuts on there?

Yes, myself and my backer Joe Myers, who is the owner of JMC Records, wrote the entire album.

How long have you been writing songs?

Well, I really haven't written that many songs. The first song I wrote was probably about 16 or 17 years ago, but I didn't really get into it much. Later on, when I met Joe Myers, he put me in a room and I stayed there for about a week working on his material that he had written, along with some of my material, and I came up with enough songs to do an album.

Are you going to be hitting the road anytime soon and where?

Yes, I am. There's nothing wrong with the honky-tonks, and I'm not saying that I'll never play them again, but I've done all that and it's part of paying your dues. I'm trying not to just travel and play any bar anywhere. I want to go beyond that. I want people who are there to listen to me and really appreciate what I'm doing.

As far as your career, where do you want to be?

Well, I'm trying to make a name for myself. I'd like to be a part of the music business, but yet I'd like to be in a position where I can help other people. When I can help other people financially or whatever, that's when I know I made it.

Spotlight

Brent Lamb

By Gary Keplinger

Brent Lamb's first release for Genesis Records, Drawing Pictures, is Positive/Christian Country music at its best.

GROWING UP IN NASHVILLE, music was important to Brent Lamb—not because of the music industry, but because his parents and grandparents were always singing and playing bluegrass and gospel. Lamb never considered a career in music. In fact, he says, “Sure, we sang all the time, but I thought it was like football. A lot of people play football, but never think about going ‘pro.’ I just thought music was something you do like football or woodworking. You know, kind of like a hobby.”

As a senior in high school, Lamb started taking the music more seriously and upon graduation started singing and traveling. A year and a half later he returned to Nashville to work with his father. It was then that he first heard God calling him to sing and speak for Him full-time. “The Lord started preparing my life,” he says.

Lamb began recording and touring, but not as a Positive/Christian Country artist. The time was the late '70s/early '80s, and it would be several years before Positive/Christian Country would come into its own. Instead, Lamb was reaching people (especially young people) through Christian pop and rock.

His songwriting and singing opened the door to numerous recording opportunities. He's recorded for Benson Company, Diadem Music and the Milk & Honey label. He's also had a number of his songs recorded by top Christian artists including Steven Curtis Chapman and Steve Green.

As Lamb grew older, he wanted more and more to return to the type of music that he felt most comfortable with—music with a country sound. “I was 31, had twin boys and a new baby girl, and felt that I was getting to old to jump around the stage doing the Christian rock songs,” he says. “I'm a country boy from Nashville.”

So for the last four years Brent Lamb has been performing Positive/Christian Country. Dan Mann of Genesis called Lamb last year, offering Brent a recording contract. “I told him I'd agree only on one condition—that I can play country music,” says Lamb. That was perfectly fine with Mann. In fact, that was exactly what they wanted.

Genesis Records recently released Brent Lamb's debut album Drawing Pictures. It's a collection of country tunes with a positive message. Says Lamb, “Not all the songs I sing mention God. I want to have songs for the everyday man who's working hard. He needs a positive message.”

A lot of his songs deal with everyday life as he observes it and lives it. He attributes much to the fact that he is a father and a husband. Lamb and his wife have three children: twin boys Hunter and Hayden, age 9, and 5-year-old daughter Haley. “My whole thought process was about being a dad and husband, so I started writing about that. It's just about what I want to be as a husband and what I want to be as a dad. And, if you know me and you know my heart, you will understand that it comes from the Lord.”

And Brent Lamb does have a heart for the Lord. A perfect example is how he deals with a lifelong struggle with stuttering. His speech is clear when he stands before a crowd. “I used to pray that the Lord would heal me, and God always said, ‘My grace is sufficient.’ That's not what I wanted to hear. Knowing what I know now about His grace, not stuttering on stage is my walking in His grace and in obedience. I don't just trust Him to help me play the right notes or to sing the right words. I have to trust Him for every syllable. I no longer pray to be healed. It would scare me to death to know I was on my own. He's there, and He just takes over.”

“If you know me and you know my heart, you will understand that it comes from the Lord.”

Allowing the Lord to work in his life is paying off with some tremendous songs. His current single, “Worth It All,” co-written with his wife Laurie, is just such a song. It was dedicated to his and Laurie's parents and speaks about raising children and shows the sincerity and depth of Brent's heart. Other songs from his first Genesis release also have a great message. One of those, “Monkey See, Monkey Do,” brings the point home in a somewhat subtle, but mighty effective way. “The people really seem to get a kick out of it, before realizing what it's saying,” says Lamb. It is a song with a message, and he delivers it, as he does all the songs, with the strength and dedication of a talented artist with a purpose in life...a purpose to bring a positive message to the people.

As he looks back over the early years of his career and where he is now, Brent Lamb exclaims, “What a journey! It took a while to get here, but I'm sure glad I'm here.” And Positive/Christian Country music fans are sure glad he's here, too. Brent Lamb is a name we'll be hearing a lot of in the months and years to come.

Notes from Gary Keplinger

Since I've taken another position, this is my last article for Cash Box. It's a great magazine and I've truly enjoyed—and am very appreciative of—the opportunity to have been a part of it. I want to extend my heartfelt thanks to the artists, songwriters, publicists, record labels, radio stations and others in the industry whom I've come to know and love. I'll continue to promote Positive/Christian Country and other Christian music in any way possible to help get the message to the people in a way that only music can.

AAMA Southeast Trade Mission Scheduled

CHICAGO—The American Amusement Machine Association board of directors recently approved an AAMA-sponsored trade mission to Indonesia, Malaysia, Thailand and Singapore, scheduled to be held April 1-6, 1995.

The AAMA delegation will be headed by Mark Struhs, foreign Business Development Committee chairman; Ron Carrara, FBD committee vice chairman; and Bob Fay, AAMA executive director.

The purpose of this trade mission is to meet with current customers as well as identify new customers and investors, to meet with government officials to address issues that are impacting on the growth of the amusement industry, and to promote the 1995 AAE Show scheduled to be held in Hong Kong during the period of June 7-8, 1995.

Anyone interested in meeting with the members of the AAMA delegation should contact Bob Fay via phone (708-290-9088) or FAX (708-290-9121).

The Rowe/AMi "LaserStar Eagle" Has Landed!

CHICAGO—During an "invitation only" pre-AMOA distributor breakfast, hosted by Rowe/AMi, the factory's dramatic, new "LaserStar Eagle" wall-mounted jukebox was revealed to an enthusiastic audience of some 150 attendees. To add to the drama of the event, a live golden eagle was brought in by the Last Chance Forever—Bird of Prey Conservancy.

"This wall-hung jukebox is definitely a LaserStar," stated executive vice president Joel Friedman. "As a LaserStar, many of the Eagle's components are interchangeable—the amplifier, the mech, the electronics—they're all AMi LaserStar." Friedman went on to point out that "more than two years of research have gone into the development of this jukebox. The Eagle is truly an operator-designed machine...we spoke to operators all over the U.S. and around the world to get their suggestions and comments on what a wall-hung jukebox should be and what they needed to maximize earnings."

Following is a list of some of the top design suggestions obtained from operators and incorporated into the LaserStar Eagle:

Immediate Impact; ongoing presence; coin and bill; title display with impact - 8 at a time; interchangeable LaserStar components; LaserStar amp and player; high security - no exterior cash-box door; easy installation - the front door, player, amp and title display are easily removed; easy to service and maintain; LaserStar quality; height design - table will not fit underneath, among others.

"Our wall-hung jukebox has the majestic look of the Eagle with the romance and passion of the LaserStar," added Friedman. "It's unbelievably beautiful and undoubtedly the product of tomorrow!"

The LaserStar Eagle will be available for operator viewing at the March '95 ACME convention.

Further information may be obtained through factory distributors.

Guns N' Roses Pin Breaking Arcade Records

CHICAGO—Guns N' Roses, the pinball game, has been breaking records at game arcades throughout the country since it debuted this summer.

Slash, the band's lead guitarist and a pinball aficionado who instigated the idea and developed the machine with Data East Pinball, Inc. said, "There's been games for movies and cartoon characters lately, but there hasn't been a good rock 'n' roll machine for years; one with the guys in a band, chicks, music...this one is also the loudest pinball machine ever built. You can crank it up and smash windows!"

Guns N' Roses is the most technologically and sonically advanced machine ever made, featuring adjustable volume and digital stereo. The game features real guitars, vocals and drums rather than electronic sampling. Segments of nine GN'R tunes can be heard during the course of play.

ALG Fast Draw Showdown Tournament A Big Draw At AMOA

CHICAGO—During the recently held AMOA convention in San Antonio, Texas, American Laser Games held a fast-draw tournament on its newest live-action video game Fast Draw Showdown. Winners were awarded Justin cowboy boots.

The three-day tournament attracted over one hundred entries and brought daily crowds to the ALG booth.

The game Fast Draw Showdown features 60 scenarios with some of the fastest gunglings in the world, and the game's computer measures a player's time to draw and shoot with accuracy down to one-hundredth of a second. (All winning times for the tournament were under half a second, by the way.)

"We noticed that the players' winning times got faster with each day, so they must have been practicing during the whole show," observed Stan Jarocki, ALG's vice president of marketing. "The tournament and the Fast Draw game created a lot of traffic at our booth."

Fast-draw world record holder Wes Flowers, the top man to beat in the game itself, was at ALG's booth during the show to demonstrate his speed with a six-shooter, give pointers to challengers and autograph pictures.

The three winners of the Fast Draw Showdown tournament were: Tim Jones, Midwest Electronics, Ellsworth, IL—time: .48 second (Thursday); Tony Williams, Primadonna Corp., Las Vegas, NV—time: .32 second (Friday); and Jerry Rogowski, Rare & Coin-It Co., Miami, FL—time: .28 second (Saturday).

Pictured in the accompanying photo is first-place winner Tim Jones (l-r) and his wife, Sandy, with Jim Jarocki (ALG sales director), Wes Flowers and Stan Jarocki.

Further information about the new game may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting American Laser Games, 4801 Lincoln Road NE, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87109.

Congratulations, Rowe!

CHICAGO—Rowe/AMi's LaserStar Jukebox was once again voted "The Most Played Jukebox of the Year" by American operators at the recently held Amusement & Machine Operators Association convention in San Antonio, TX.

The factory's executive vice president, Joel Friedman, accepted the award in behalf of Rowe/AMi employees. He thanked the operators for their continued support and confidence and stated, "I am honored to accept this award on behalf of the Rowe/AMi team. AMi is an 85-year-young company that is excited about the future. We are dedicated...we will continue to work at making the best jukebox possible to ensure its long-term value and a strong cashbox for our operators."
