The college contribution

is a two-
way street

There are two ways to look at it.

There's the contribution the colleges make to business.

That's crucial.

Business employs about 42% of all college educated people. It uses their brainpower and skill in developing new products and methods. It fills management posts.

In the other direction, there's the contribution business makes to colleges.

The colleges welcome it. They need all the funds they can get. They're helping to prepare leaders for management, but the cost of this preparation—the whole cost of education—is going up sharply.

If business wants college talent, it must keep colleges in business. It can help finance their need for classrooms, facilities and especially teachers.

In this light, your aid-to-education program is an aid to your company.

SPECIAL TO MANAGEMENT—A new booklet of particular interest if your company has not yet established an aid-to-education program.

Satellite Communications—Wave of the Future

Brief history and outlook of satellite communication activities in U.S. & rest of world, based primarily on information prepared by Comsat.

Three new synchronous satellites were launched and placed into commercial service in 1967, expanding this new means of communication to more than two-thirds of the world in the Atlantic and Pacific Basins.

The development pace of the system was equally rapid on the ground. The number of operational earth stations for sending and receiving commercial communications via satellite increased during the year from 12 to 15.

Six new high-capacity stations were under construction in the United States and around the world by the end of 1967. It is estimated that more than 40 stations will be located around the world by the end of 1969 to expand the system to global scale.

The Communications Satellite Corporation is the sole United States company authorized to provide commercial satellite communications. Comsat is unique among American corporations. Chartered by an Act of Congress, the Communications Satellite Act of 1962, it is a privately financed company whose shares are publicly traded daily on major stock exchanges—not a government agency.

As a commercial communications company, Comsat's principal revenues come from leasing to authorized customers of reliable, high-quality satellite circuits capable of handling all types of international communications—television, telephone, telegraph, pictures, telex, data, facsimile, etc.

The new Intelsat II series satellites placed into service in 1967 over the Atlantic and Pacific are more than twice as powerful as Early Bird, the world's first commercial communications satellite, which is still in service over the Atlantic. These synchronous satellites are placed in parking position 22,300 miles over the equator where each satellite can "see" an area embracing nearly one-third of the earth. The speed of the satellites keeps pace with the earth's rotation below so that they appear to remain stationary in space. They act essentially as radio relay towers in space for transmission between one earth station and another, or between many stations at the same time.

Commercial satellites in service:

Early Bird, launched April 6, 1965, serves North America and Europe.

Pacific I (Intelsat II Series) satellite, launched Jan. 11, 1967, serves Japan, Philippines, Thailand, Australia, Hawaii and U.S. mainland, and other Pacific Basin points.

Atlantic II (Intelsat II Series) satellite, launched March 22, 1967, serves U.S., Europe, Latin America and other Atlantic Basin points.

Pacific II (Intelsat II Series) satellite, launched Sept. 27, 1967, serves the same entire Pacific Basin area as its sister satellite, Pacific I.

Even more advanced commercial spacecraft are scheduled for launching in the latter part of 1968, over the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans. Each of these global satellites will have the capacity for about 1,000 voice circuits, or nearly five times the capacity of the pioneering Early Bird satellite. Plans are actively underway for still larger satellites for the 1970's with 5,000 circuits or more.

As new earth stations are built, and old ones enlarged, all continents and major population centers will be served by commercial space communications.

Broadcasters continued to use satellites at an increasing rate during 1967 for international telecasts. Some of the more notable events included live international coverage of former West German Chancellor Adenauer's funeral, the "Our World" program in June seen by millions of viewers live in fourteen nations, the full color "Bravo Picasso" program highlighted by a two-way transatlantic art auction in Feb., news broadcasts in June of the Arab-Israeli conflict, the Clay-Terrell boxing match telecast simultaneously to Europe and Japan, live coverage to Italy in September of Italian President Saragat's formal arrival ceremony at the White House and a New Year's special at the end of 1967 from Europe and the United States to Japan via two satellites. Broadcasters used a record 50½ hours of satellite transmission time during June alone.

Comsat manages and operates three U.S. earth stations. They are located at Andover, Me.; Brewster Flat, Wash. and Paumalu, Hawaii. Construction began in the fall of 1967 on three new high-capacity earth stations, located at Etam, W. Va.; Jamesburg, Cal.; and Cayey, P.R. Under an FCC ruling, these stations are 50% owned by Comsat, 50% owned by other common carrier companies, and managed and operated by Comsat. Stations located abroad are owned and operated by companies or agencies in the countries in which they are located.

The fifteen operational stations at the end of 1967: Andover, Brewster Flat, and Paumalu in U.S.; Ibaraki, Japan; Carnarvon, Australia; Pinay, Philippines; Ban Bang Phra, Thailand; Ascension Island, U.K.; Grand Canary Island, Spain; Goonhilly Downs, England; Raisting, West Germany; Pleumeur-Bodu, France; Fucino, Italy; Buitrago, Spain; Mill Village, Nova Scotia, Canada.

TV charges for Atlantic satellite communications were reduced in March 1967. Broadcasters can be expected to use this new medium more extensively as it grows and becomes more economically attractive. The following are typical one-way TV charges filed by Comsat with the FCC for transmission via satellites between designated points.

Pacific Area

Between Brewster Flat & Paumalu, a full through channel, $1,500 for the first 10 min., $42 for each additional min.

Between Brewster Flat and Japan, one-half channel, $1,200 for the first 10 min., $36 for each additional min.

Between Paumalu and Japan, one-half channel, $1,100 for the first 10 min., $30 for each additional min.

Color transmissions are 125% of the black & white rates. The proposed Comsat rates are charges to carriers, and are not the charges carriers will make to the users of the service.

Atlantic Area

Between a U.S. earth station and the satellite, one-half-channel, $1,100 for the first 10 min., $39 for each additional min.

Charges for the remaining one-half channel, between the satellite and European or overseas earth station, are made by the foreign country involved. Color transmissions are 125% of the black & white rates.

Looking to the future, Comsat has outlined to the FCC an extensive technical and economical program to provide satellite services in the United States. Under the proposal, educational broadcasters would be provided with full-time TV channels at free or reduced rates. The program, along with proposals and comments from some 30 other parties, is pending before the Commission.

A unique international partnership—the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium, or Intelsat—owns and operates the commercial satellites in the system. Five more nations joined Intelsat during 1967 to raise the total to 60.

Under two interim international agreements, the member nations of Intelsat share in financing and revenues from the space segment of the systems, that is, from the satellites but not the earth stations. As of Dec. 1967 the 60 Intelsat countries were:

STATUS SYMBOLS

Your name on the door—and carpet on the floor, are two important first steps.

But even more important—not just for status, but for honest-to-goodness practical application—is a copy of the 2-volume-in-1, Linen-Bound Executive Edition of Television Factbook.

Containing both volumes of our Factbook, it is designed for even easier reference, and to stand years of hard use. What's more, we'll personalize your book (either your name or your company's name) in attractive gold stamping.

Teach somebody a skill and his skill becomes yours.

Train someone to be a typist. It takes about two months. Or train someone to be a welder. Four months crash training would do the job. The same goes for draftsmen, machinists, assemblers, molders, bookkeepers.

In a few short months, your skilled labor shortage could be over. For good.

363 American corporations are already spending millions to train unskilled people. Whites, Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexican-Americans and others.

Can you afford to ignore this valuable source of talent?

These 363 corporations have formed a voluntary organization called Plans for Progress. They are working to show how equal job opportunity works for everybody. Let them show you.

Write: Plans for Progress, 1800 G Street, N.W., Suite 703, Washington, D. C. 20006. You'll get a local action kit which tells you how to end the skilled labor shortage in your area.

Plastoid aluminum sheath co-ax delivers in the most rugged climate or terrain!

You think you've got problems with rain, snow, water, high humidity. Or with big distances from your head-end to your drops. You should hear about the situations that CATV operators have already beat by specifying Plastoid aluminum sheaths.

We've helped system-builders lick sea-shore installations where salt-water corrosion plus high humidity have wrecked previous systems. We've watched our co-ax function smoothly year after year under water, up in the snows of windy mountain peaks—in the most rugged conditions you can imagine.

There are just two reasons: (1) We build in extra strength and dependability. (2) We test, test, test to be sure every foot, every inch of our cable meets our high standards.

So—even if you're up a steamy, tropical creek and fearful of your system's lasting powers, phone Plastoid. Question us about the "specs" of our .750-inch, .500- and .412-inch aluminum sheaths. They come with and without poly jackets. And they are all undoubtedly tops. If you question us further, we'll put you in touch with one of our hundreds of satisfied users—probably one in your own vicinity, maybe one with tougher problems than you face. Talk to him. Satisfy yourself that we deliver as promised. Then call us back to order and watch us deliver for you.

For the full story plus special pricing information call us now collect at (212) ST 6-6200.

PLANNING

One of the reasons for our leadership in audience measurement is that we anticipate the needs of the television industry and make plans to meet them.

ARB planning has led to the development and use of the Television viewing Diary, Instantaneous Television Audience Measurement (ARBITRON), Simultaneous All-Market Measurement, Spot Activity Reports, the Personal Diary Method for Radio Measurement, Product Usage Data in survey reports, Quality Control Procedures in samples to account for CATV and UHF, the Instant Cume, and many other significant contributions to broadcast audience research.

Planning through research . . . responding to the medium we serve with ever-improved, more refined techniques . . . is the force behind our leadership. At ARB our planning pays off . . . for you.

Benco's Headend installation leveled it.

The Headend input and output tapes speak for themselves. The signal input level varies over a range of 26 to 28 db.—the output signal varies only a fraction of a db for days at a time. Just one example of the proven performance that makes Benco your best CATV buy.

Mr. Harry D. Gray
U. S. Sales Manager
Benco TV Corporation
724 Bugbee Street
Jacksonville, Florida

Dear Mr. Gray:

Attached to this letter are sections of recording strip chart tape which I thought would be of interest to you. These tapes were not made at the same time but we have yards and yards of tape made over a period of three weeks which show exactly the same sort of results.

The first of these tapes shows the input to the Channel 2 Benevac from the parabolic reflector. You know, of course, that the transmitter we are looking at is 110 miles away behind two mountain ranges.

The scale on the input signal has been calibrated in dbmv. You can see that the signal level swings over a range of 26 to 28 db.

The next chart shows the output of the same Benevac indicating the efficiency of the AGC action and the units long term level stability. We have yards of tape indicating that this output does not vary by more than a fraction of a db over several days. The perturbations below normal signal level are caused by extremely deep and fast fades and almost total loss of signal, an infrequent occurrence caused by the heavy airplane traffic in the vicinity.

On the output trace the basic reference mark is +50dbmv since this is a record of the output level that would be applied to the system.

Since these charts are a graphic demonstration of how well these units have performed, I thought you would like to see them and review them with your people.

Very truly yours,

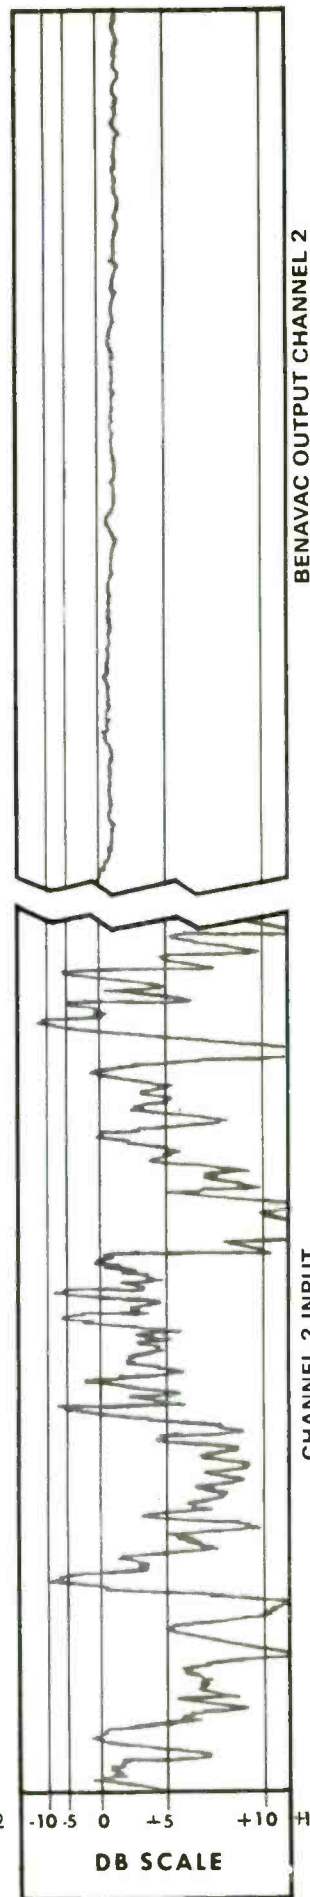

W. C. Henchy

Collins' new CARS Band* microwave system delivers crisp, true colors, high resolution black and white—and sound to match.

With the MW-808D's low differential gain, low phase distortion and excellent linearity—and with its solid-state, crystal-controlled transmitters and receivers—you can maintain sharpness, clarity and definition in video transmitted over hundreds of miles.

The same benefits are available in other new

Collins systems—both IF heterodyne and re-modulating.
