HOW HIGH ARE YOUR EMPLOYEES E.Qs.?

(Economics Quotients)

COULD THEY ANSWER BASIC ECONOMIC QUESTIONS LIKE THESE?

True False

- (1.) Less than four per cent of the U.S. labor force are agricultural workers.
- (2.) Today, the U.S. ranks third in international trade.
- (3.) As productivity increases, our standard of living increases.
- (4.) When inflation occurs, each dollar we have buys more goods and services.

A recent national survey shows that many people would find these questions tough. In short, their Economics Quotients, their E.Qs, could probably stand improvement.

It's important. Not just because we all face some important decisions about our economic system. But because the more we know about our system, the more we'll be able to make it work for us as producers, investors, and consumers.

A special booklet has been prepared on what makes our American Economic System tick. It's fact-filled, easy reading and free. It's also an easy way for anyone to raise their E.Q.. For your copy, just clip the coupon.

ANSWERS:

We should all learn more about it.

Key to FM Channels

Customary FCC terminology identifies FM frequencies by channel numbers from 201 to 300. Channels and frequency equivalents in megahertz are shown below. Asterisks indicate channels reserved for noncommercial use. The letter "A" designates channels set aside for Class A (local service) FM stations, limited to 3kw power and antenna 300 feet above average terrain (or signal of comparable strength).

College or University Campus-Limited Radio

College or university campus-limited stations are operated principally by students enrolled in the schools. Their transmission is by carrier current, and reception is limited generally to on-campus listening. (College stations with 10 w or more power are listed in the Directory of AM and FM stations.)

The following directory is based largely on the membership list of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System (IBS affiliates are so identified) and other information brought to the attention of the editors. Carrier current stations are not required to register with the FCC, and the directory therefore may not be comprehensive.

Broadcast Editorializing

A nationwide survey for the Broadcasting Yearbook indicates that over 65% of AM, 44% of FM stations and 50% of TV stations are now editorializing at least occasionally. The editorializing survey data was obtained from the Yearbook questionnaire sent to all radio and TV stations. The results are shown in the table.

Radio Billings 1935-1973

Figures for the years 1935 through 1967 are net time sales by stations and networks after all frequency and promotional discounts but before deduction of commissions to agencies and representatives. Figures from 1969 on were computed under a new formula and represent total amounts paid by advertisers for the use of broadcast facilities. They include commissions paid to advertising agencies and representatives and payments for broadcast time and programs, materials, facilities and services supplied by broadcast stations and networks in connection with the sale of time. Figures are based on FCC data.

 Prior to 1971, data reflects factory sales by U.S. manufacturers plus those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale. All import statistics are based on average value as published by the U. S. Department of Commerce, which is F.O.B., and therefore excludes U.S. import duties, freight charged from the foreign country to the U.S. and insurance.

1971 and years following data reflects products or purchased by U.S. manufacturers plus those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale. Import statistics are adjusted to U.S. factory values, including U.S. import duties, freight charged from the foreign country to the U.S. and insurance.

Other imports reflect those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale.

World Radio and Television

The following summarizes domestic radio and television broadcasting around the world. Not included are stations and transmitters used for international or armed forces programs. Transmitter counts for each country are for main transmitters and do not include low power relays, repeaters, satellites or translators. Where current information is not available, radio set counts have been estimated by Broadcasting.

Note: Domestic radio stations in foreign countries often use shortwave and longwave frequencies, as well as the medium wave frequencies corresponding with the standard AM broadcast band in the U.S. Longwave (lw) frequencies are below 500 khz and are generally used in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, and Asiatic U.S.S.R. Medium wave (mw) frequencies are between 500 and 1600 khz and are used on all continents. Shortwave (sw) frequencies are between 1600 and 30,000 khz and are used for domestic broadcasting on all continents, especially in tropical areas. On long, medium, and shortwave, the mode of transmission is amplitude modulation (AM). Most foreign frequency modulation (FM) radio broadcasting is on the same frequencies as those used in the U.S. although some countries use a band between 60 and 88 mhz.

Unless shown as commercial (coml), government broadcasting activity identified below is without advertising. Some independent broadcasting organizations, such as the BBC, operate under statutory authority, and are so identified. Statutory, nongovernmental broadcasting may be supported by receiver license fees, advertising, subsidies, or a combination.

National Call Sign Allocations, by Country

Note: Call sign prefixes are allocated by international agreement. They constitute the first character, or more often, the first two characters of a station's call sign, and thus indicate the country in which the station is located. Every nation in the world has been assigned one or more of these prefix codes. It should be noted, however, that stations are not required to use call signs, and most Eurasian and African nations do not make extensive use of them. In countries that do use calls, some prefixes may be reserved for services other than broadcasting, or not used at all. The United States, for instance, has been allocated exclusive use of "K", "N", and "W", as well as part of the "A" series, but only "K" and "W" are employed to identify broadcasting stations.
