Nielsen DMA Market Atlas

The Designated Market Area (DMA) is a geographic market design that defines each television market exclusive of others, based on measured viewing patterns. Each market's DMA consists of all the counties in which the home market stations receive a preponderance of viewing, and every county is allocated exclusively to one DMA—there is no overlap. The total of all DMAs represents the total television households in the United States.

The DMA is a standard market definition. As a television buying tool, it is a geographical and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool, it has applications for sales, programming, and promotion planning.

Following, in alphabetical order, are Nielsen's 210 markets for 2009 with coverage maps for each, with county by county breakouts of TV households. Other data include the markets' stations, their cities of license, channel numbers, and network affiliations. An asterisk preceding call letters indicates that it is a noncommercial (ETV) station.

Coverage maps show total survey areas in light shading, the DMAs themselves in dark shading and white, with Nielsen Metro ratings in white. The survey areas consist of all counties in which the home market stations are viewed to a significant extent including via cable. The Metro Areas usually conform to U.S. Census Standard Metropolitan statistical areas.

Non-DMA markets do not meet Nielsen's criteria for having a DMA of their own. They are listed with the DMA of which they are a part.

A cross-reference list of cities in multi-city DMAs appears on page B-228
