AMENT, GERALD

Executive, e. Graduate of Boston University School of Law. Ament began his entertainment career at the New York law firm of Katz, Leavy, Rosensweig and Sindle. Executive positions in business affairs at the William Morris Agency and at NBC followed. He then teamed with Harry Sloan, who is now chairman & CEO of MGM, to form the law firm of Sloan, Kuppin and Ament, where, as a partner, he specialized in business matters relating to TV production including primetime series, daytime serials and Movies of the Week. From the firm he went to New World Pictures in 1983, working in various capacities. He originally joined the company as senior v.p., business affairs & production. When New World purchased the NBC series "Santa Barbara" in 1985, Ament became the company's executive in charge of production for that series, a position which made him responsible for all business and production matters relating to the series while simultaneously maintaining his business affairs and production duties at New World. When New World purchased Marvel Comics in 1987, Ament was promoted to COO of Marvel Productions and executive v.p. of new pictures while retaining "Santa Barbara" duties. He left New World Pictures in 1989 but stayed with "Santa Barbara" duties until the series was canceled in 1993. From 1993 to 2000, consultant to numerous TV production companies including Spelling Television, Inc., New World Entertainment, American Specialty Underwriters, Inc., New Line Television, and SBS as well as serving as the executive in charge of production for Spelling Television's daily serial, "Sunset Beach." In 2000 he once again teamed with Harry Sloan and joined Sloan's SBS Broadcasting S.A., one of Europe's largest broadcast groups. At SBS Ament was senior v.p., business and corporate affairs and oversaw the business affairs and production activities for each of SBS' stations and negotiated all significant acquisition deals for the SBS stations with the major studios in the U.S. Ament was integral in the acquisition of rights for SBS and the subsequent production of such major international formats as "Big Brother," "Millionaire," "Weakest Link," "Survivor," "Apprentice," "Temptation Island," "Popstars," "The Bachelor," "Joe Millionaire" and many others. When Sloan came on board at MGM, Ament joined his long-time colleague and in 2006 was named executive v.p., worldwide television, business & legal affairs for MGM Studios Inc. and is the position he holds today. Ament oversees various aspects of business and legal affairs activities for MGM's reinvented worldwide television distribution operation.

ANSCHUTZ, PHILIP

Executive, Producer. b. 1939, Russell, KS. e. U. of Kansas, 1961. Entered U. of Virginia law school but returned to help with family oil wildcatting business. On first discovery of oil in 1967, Anschutz bought up surrounding oil leases on credit. When a spark ignited the entire field, threatening to bankrupt him he called in the famed firefighter, "Red" Adair, who was reluctant to cap the blazing well without assurance of compensation. Anschutz contacted Universal Studios, who were filming a story on Adair at the time, and sold them rights to film his fire, for $100,000, enough to assure payment to Adair and continued operations. In 1982, Anschutz sold land to Mobil for $500 million and 17% royalties. In 1984, he bought the small Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad. In 1988, he took control of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Developed a fiber-optics network along the railroad right-of-way. In 1996, the Southern Pacific was sold to the Union Pacific Railroad for $5.4 billion. Anschutz retained a 5.4% stake in the combined company. In addition, he retained the telecom company and the fiber-optics network it was based on along the railroad right-of-way. 1997, this company, now called Qwest Communications, was taken public. As a public company, Anschutz still owns 18%. Now focusing on entertainment: bought stakes in troubled United Artists, Edwards and Regal theatres comprising 20% of U.S. movie screens. Founded companies Crusader, Walden Media to develop family-friendly films and partnered with Kerner Entertainment Co., and also with 20th Century Fox and will market films through Fox Walden. Trustee, Kansas University Endowment, John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts; hon. board member, Museum of Natural History, New York and the National Associates Board of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C. Director, The Anschutz Foundation, Chairman of The Anschutz Film Group.

Case Western Reserve U., B.A., M.A., Ph.D. Recipient of honorary degrees from St. John's University, College of St. Elizabeth, Long Island University, New School University, and Seton Hall University. Began broadcasting career in Cleveland while still a student. Joined Scripps-Howard Broadcasting, 1971. Joined Group W as vp. and general mgr., WJZ-TV, 1978; served as pres. and CEO, Group W Productions; pres. of Group W Television, 1979; chmn., Group W Satellite Communications, 1981. Carried Explorers Club flag to top of world, becoming one of few in history to visit both North and South Poles, 1983. Since 1987 Baker has been the pres. and CEO, of Thirteen/WNET (parent company is Educational Broadcasting Corporation "EBC", NY PBS station). In Feb. 2007, he turned over the president title to 25-year news veteran Neal Shapiro (former pres. of NBC News) while retaining the CEO title. Baker is transitioning toward a reduced role at the station and plans to turn over his CEO title to Shapiro in 2008. Baker will become president emeritus. Baker established the station's Educational Resources Center, which has become a prolific teacher trainer in multimedia techniques, and Baker helped stabilize the finances of WNET by instituting the largest endowment in public television history. He oversaw the station's transition to digital broadcasting and its historic merger with WLW21, as well as the launch of several new digital channels. Before assuming his position at EBC, the parent company of PBS, he was pres. of Westinghouse Television and chmn. of the cable and programming companies. During his 10 years at Westinghouse, five cable networks were launched, including Discovery Channel and the Disney Channel. He was pres., NY Chapter, Nat'l. Acad. Television Arts & Sciences, 1998-2001. In 2004 Baker was inducted into the Broadcasting & Cable Hall of Fame, which honors pioneers and innovators in the field and those who have made significant contributions to the electronic arts. He has been honored by the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences with its national Trustee's Emmy Award and Silver Circle Award, and has won six Emmys as a TV producer. Baker has also won two Alfred I. DuPont - Columbia Awards in Television and Radio Journalism - the broadcast equivalent of the Pulitzer Prize - as well as a Gabriel Award, and many others. In Oct. 2005, Baker was inducted a Fellow into the American Academy of Arts & Sciences. Baker received a new award in Feb. 2007 from the Lincoln Center Institute; the award is named after the institute's founder, Mark A. Schubart, and recognizes those whose efforts and dedication advance the values found in art. Baker serves on the boards of the Public Broadcasting Service, Rodale Press, Freedom Communications, Inc., Intrepid Sea, Air & Space Museum, Consumers Union, and Leitch Technology Corporation, and is on the advisory board of the National Park System.

BEEKS, STEVE

Executive. e. Bachelor of Science degree in industrial engineering from Calif. Polytechnic State Univ. in San Luis Obispo, CA. Master's degree in business admin. from Harvard Business School. From Aug. 1983 to Jan. 1985, mgt. consultant with Touche Ross & Co., now known as Deloitte Touche. From early 1986 to early 1994, he was v.p. business development for The Paragon Group, a limited partnership formed to invest in the entertainment industry; at the same time he was also executive v.p. and pres., Home Entertainment, for Republic Pictures Corporation. As part of Paragon, Beeks sought particular investment opportunities and performed financial analyses and negotiation on a number of potential deals. In August 1986 Paragon purchased a controlling interest in Republic Pictures. During his eight years at Republic Pictures, Beeks grew the home entertainment group's annual revenues from $15 million to $70 million and served as an officer of that public company. In May 1994, Republic was successfully sold to Spelling Entertainment, now a division of Paramount Pictures. Previously, Beeks started Hallmark Home Entertainment, for the Hallmark Cards company, as an independent home video distributor in October 1994, distributing filmed entertainment produced by the company as well as several other independent suppliers. HHE became one of the leading independent home video distributors with exclusive relationships with The Samuel Goldwyn Company, October Films, Showtime Original Pictures and others. He oversaw all aspects of the business, including sales, marketing, finance, accounting, and operations. Beeks was pres. of Artisan Home Entertainment, which he joined in January 1998, following the purchase of the Company by Bain Capital. He grew his division's revenue from $115 million to $300 million during his tenure. As pres. of the division, he spearheaded the marketing, advertising, sale and distribution of Artisan's theatrical films and extensive library of feature films in the videocassette and DVD market as well as overseeing the acquisition and/or production of new programming. Following the merger of Lionsgate and Artisan in 2003, Lionsgate's home entertainment division has emerged as the largest and most powerful home entertainment business in the independent marketplace, capturing nearly 6% overall market share. Lionsgate's family home entertainment division, one of the largest and fastest-growing family entertainment operations in the industry, ranks fourth among entertainment studios with approximately 10% market share in children's non-theatrical titles. Beeks moved to Lions Gate with the merger and Beeks has overseen a trend of steady growth year-over-year, with a growth rate of 13% in fiscal 2006. Beeks became pres. of Lions Gate Entertainment, Inc. in Dec. 2003. Since July 2006, he has been pres. and Co-CEO since 2007 of Lions Gate Entertainment Corp. and is a member of Lionsgate's senior decision-making team with Lions Gate CEO Jon Feltheimer and Vice Chairman Michael Burns.

BERMAN, GAIL

Executive. b. 1956. e. Bachelor's degree in theatre, Univ. of Maryland. Television executive whose creative savvy developing TV series has become her signature. At 23, Berman coproduced the original Broadway production of the Andrew Lloyd Webber-Tim Rice musical Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, which garnered seven Tony Award nominations. Her other Broadway productions include David Rabe's Hurlyburly (1984), Athol Fugard's Blood Knot (1985) and Larry Shue's The Nerd (1987), all of which received Tony Award nominations. In 1990, Berman transitioned into television when she joined the New York-based Comedy Channel (a precursor of Comedy Central) as the fledgling network's supervising producer. She was promoted to executive producer the following year. She next served as pres. and CEO of Sandollar Television, an offshoot of Sandy Gallin's Sandollar Entertainment, where she had both creative and bottom-line responsibility for program development and production. She remained with Sandollar six years. While president of Sandollar Television, she helped Joss Whedon develop Buffy The Vampire Slayer into a TV series for the WB Network. She then had a two-year tenure as the founding president of Regency Television, a joint venture of News Corp. and New Regency Enterprises. While at Regency, she developed the hit comedy, Malcolm in the Middle. Success at Regency led to her association with News Corp.'s Fox Broadcasting Co. as entertainment president from 2000 to March 2005. In 2003, Berman was first named to Fortune magazine's list of "50 Most Powerful Women in American Business" (No. 25). That same year she received the coveted "Lucy" award recognizing women who have revolutionized the television industry—from Women in Film. In 2004, she was named to Forbes magazine's list of "100 Most Powerful Women in the World" (No. 49), reappeared on the Fortune list (No. 25); and received the Executive of the Year Award from the Caucus for Television Producers, Writers, and Directors. During her time at Fox, the network developed such signature series as the Emmy-winning series 24 and Arrested Development. Berman left Fox in 2005 and became pres., Paramount Motion Pictures Group. After only 18 months on the job, Berman resigned in early Jan. 2007 and announced plans for BermanBraun, a production company she runs with partner Lloyd Braun, the former ABC Entertainment chmn. who recommended Berman for her Paramount job. BermanBraun focuses on TV production, the Internet and movies.

BLOOM, MARCIE

Executive. b. Brooklyn, NY e. B.A. degree, Cornell University, 1979. Bloom got her start in the movie business in the summer of 1978, while still a math and science student at Cornell University. Filing at the Film Society of Lincoln Center turned into a full-time job after she graduated. By 1985, Bloom was hired to do publicity for Orion Classics at the Smith & Siegal agency. By 1989 two partners at Orion Pictures, Michael Barker and Tom Bernard, asked her to join them as senior v.p., acquisitions. When its parent company's bankruptcy, Orion, disappeared, Barker, Bernard and Bloom formed Sony Pictures Classics (SPC) in 1992, with the three serving as co-presidents. The company acquires, distributes and produces art films. The trio's knack for acquiring foreign-produced films with audience appeal soon elevated them to the top of the niche art film industry, and the team's films have earned 18 Academy Awards. Bloom suffered a health setback in Nov. 1996 when she collapsed and underwent emergency brain surgery. She awoke to learn that a genetically inherited aneurysm had left her paralyzed on her left side. She is now semi-retired but still reads scripts and consults for SPC.

tion he holds today. He's only the third chairman in the company's 83-year history. In June 2005 AMC announced Loews Cineplex Entertainment Corporation would merge with AMC. Brown remains the organization's top executive. Brown is a member of the executive committee and vice chmn. of the bd. of directors of the National Association of Theatre Owners. He is a member of the advisory bd. for the Will Rogers Motion Picture Pioneers Foundation as well as a member of Variety International's Movie Industry Advisory Council. He also is a member of the International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC). In 2003, he received the Saleh M. Hassanein Humanitarian Award. In 2006, Brown was named "Sho'Wester of the Year," an honor that is given to individuals who, throughout their career, demonstrated a dedication to the betterment of the exhibition industry and its causes. Previously, Brown founded and served as chmn. of the bd. of Entertainment Properties Trust, a New York Stock Exchange-traded real estate investment trust, from 1997 to 2003. Other past corporate board memberships include LabOne, Inc., a diagnostic testing laboratory, serving from 1999 to 2001; and Protection One, Inc., a security alarm monitoring company, serving from 1999 to 2001. He's served various Kansas City-area community organizations, including the University of Kansas School of Business, Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, Kansas City Civic Council, Rockhurst High School, and the Kansas City Art Institute.

BROWNE, DON

Executive. e. graduate, Fairleigh Dickinson University. Browne also attended the Univ. of South Carolina on a football scholarship and earned three varsity letters in track and field. He served in the U.S. Coast Guard from 1967 (active) until 1973 (reserve). Browne worked for CBS News from 1967 to 1979, when he joined NBC. From 1979 to 1989, as NBC's Miami bureau chief, Browne directed news coverage of Central and South America. From 1989 to 1991, Browne served as NBC News' executive news director. Browne helped strengthen the affiliate-network partnership in news and was instrumental in the formation of the NBC News Channel in Charlotte, NC. He was also involved in the creation and the airing of Dateline, the first successful prime-time newsmagazine in NBC's history, and he was directly involved in launching the weekend edition of the Today show. Browne was executive v.p. of NBC News in New York from 1991-1993. Browne then served as pres. & gen. mgr. of WTJV, NBC's owned-and-operated station in Miami. Browne has been a long-time advocate of expanding into the Spanish-language television market, and was closely involved with NBC's purchase of the Telemundo network. While at WTJV, he integrated the first NBC and Telemundo stations in a duopoly market; led the NBC's station efforts in creating a Southeastern Regional Hub for handling master control for multiple stations; and he spearheaded the design and construction of NBC's first fully digital TV station. Browne moved over to Telemundo as COO and was tapped to his current position, president, in May 2005. Browne oversees all aspects of programming and production, sports, network news, corporate communications, sales, marketing, human resources, research, station group, affiliate relations and distribution, operations and engineering, Telemundo Studios, and Telemundo Cable.

BURGESS, R. BRANDON

Executive. Raised and educated in Germany, e. graduate of the European Business School; M.B.A., Wharton School, Univ. of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Burgess' early career included investment banking with Goldman Sachs in London and Frankfurt, focusing on real estate and corporate finance. Subsequently, he worked in PepsiCo's Corporate Planning group in Purchase, NY. He joined NBC, serving in various management capacities including: CFO for the NBC Television Network and its director of business development; co-head of the NBC Network Affiliate Futures Committee, a growth initiative in collaboration with NBC-affiliated stations. This initiative produced the NBCOlympics.com online multimedia venture joined by more than 200 NBC affiliate stations, as well as NBC Weather Plus, the first U.S. nationwide digital multicast broadcast network, through a joint venture he arranged between NBC and its broadcast affiliates. He played a central role in growing NBC's owned-and-operated stations group from 3 to 30 stations. Burgess also was instrumental to the May 2004 merger of NBC and Vivendi Universal and the restructuring of Rainbow Media, which gave NBC its first entertainment cable channel, Bravo. He also helped launch NBC Universal Global Networks' first free to air TV network outside the United States, Das VIERTE, in Germany, in September 2005. At NBC Universal he rose to executive v.p., business development & international channels, where he was credited with a series of strategic moves that led the U.S.-focused NBC broadcast network to evolve into an integrated global multimedia organization. NBC Universal execs called upon Burgess to look after the company's 32% stake in ION Media Networks Inc. in Nov. 2005. As CEO of ION, he is spearheading efforts to turn around the financially struggling company. ION's 60 TV stations reach 83% of U.S. TV households.

CUBAN, MARK

Executive. b. Pittsburgh, PA, July 31, 1958. e. graduate of Indiana Univ., 1981. Entrepreneur whose MicroSolutions, Inc. was grossing $30 million a year in 1990 before he sold the company to CompuServe and retired briefly. Cuban entered broadcasting over the Internet in 1995 with his Broadcast.com venture which enabled people to listen to radio and TV stations live on the company's website. The company went public and was sold to Yahoo.com, leaving Cuban a billionaire. With his wealth, Cuban has followed his passions and entered new industries: He acquired his hometown NBA team, the Dallas Mavericks, and he is an owner of 2929 Entertainment, which produces and finances movies through two production companies. These companies are 2929 Productions, which produces films in the $10 - $40 million budget range, and HDNet Films, which produces smaller-budget movies shot exclusively in high definition. Through its acquisition of Rysler Entertainment, 2929 Entertainment owns syndication rights to TV shows such as Hogan's Heroes, Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous and Star Search. Cuban is also a partner and chairman and pres. of HDNET LLC, a leading high-definition national television network he co-founded with Todd Wagner. HDNet's two 24/7 general entertainment networks are HDNet and HDNet Movies. Cuban is also a partner in Magnolia Pictures and a co-owner of Landmark Theatres, the nation's largest art-house chain.

In 1969, named v.p., feature films and program dev., east coast. In 1971, made v.p., Feature Films and Circle Entertainment, a unit of ABC Entertainment, responsible for selecting, producing and scheduling The Tuesday Movie of the Week, The Wednesday Movie of the Week, and Circle Film original features for airing on ABC-TV, as well as for acquisition and scheduling of theatrical features for telecasting on ABC Sunday Night Movie and ABC Monday Night Movie. In 1973, named v.p. in charge of prime time TV for ABC Entertainment. In 1974 joined Paramount Pictures as bd. chmn. and CEO. 1983, named pres. of Gulf & Western Entertainment and Communications Group, while retaining Paramount titles. Resigned from Paramount in 1984 to join 20th Century-Fox as bd. chmn. and CEO. Named chmn. & CEO of Fox, Inc. (comprising 20th Fox Film Corp., Fox TV Stations & Fox Broadcasting Co.). Oct. 1985. Named to bd., News Corp. Ltd. June, 1987. Resigned from Fox in Feb., 1992. Named CEO of QVC Network Inc. Resigned QVC in 1995. CEO and bd. chair, Silver King Communications, Inc. Aug. 1995. Silver King merged with Savvy Pictures and Home Shopping Network in 1996, calling the new company HSN. In 1997 HSN bought Microsoft co-founder Paul Allen's 47% interest in Ticketmaster. Diller followed with the $4 billion purchase of USA Networks in 1998. USA Networks bought the remainder of Ticketmaster in 1998, then purchased online entertainment guide publisher CitySearch, merging it with Ticketmaster Online into a new company called Ticketmaster Online-CitySearch. USA Networks then spun off the new company to the public, retaining a 60% interest (later reduced to about 50%). In 1999 Diller failed in an attempt to merge Ticketmaster Online-CitySearch and Internet portal Lycos (now part of Terra Lycos). Diller then bought parts of PolyGram Filmed Entertainment and independent film companies Gramercy and October from Seagram, renaming them USA Films. USA Networks also bought the Hotel Reservations Network in 1999. In 2000 Diller reorganized the co. into three units: USA Electronic Retailing, USA Entertainment, and USA Information and Services. It also lost World Wrestling Federation programming to Viacom. Later in 2000, when Vivendi bought Seagram, it gained Seagram's 43% stake in USA Networks. USA Networks also agreed to sell its TV stations to Univision for $1.1 billion. Later, Diller announced that his company would buy a 65% stake in Expedia (completed in 2002) and launch a travel venture called USA Travel Group. The group eventually included Hotels.com, a cable travel channel, and USA's minority stake in cruise and vacation package provider National Leisure Group. At the end of 2001, Diller sold USA Networks' entertainment assets to Vivendi Universal for $10.3 billion. The deal was completed in May 2002 and the company changed its name to USA Interactive with Diller retaining his voting control of the firm. Diller is currently chmn. Expedis, Inc., chmn & CEO, InterActiveCorp (IAC, formerly USA Interactive Inc.). On board of directors: The Washington Post Company and The Coca-Cola Company. He also serves on the Board of the Museum of Television and Radio, Conservation International and The Educational Broadcasting Company. In addition, Diller is a member of the Board of Councilors for the University of Southern California's School of Cinema-Television, the New York University Board of Trustees, the Tisch School of the Arts Dean's Council and the Executive Board for the Medical Sciences of University of California, Los Angeles.

EMMERICH, TOBY

Executive. e. Calhoun School and Wesleyan University, graduated Phi Beta Kappa, with honors in English, concentrations in classics and film, 1985. Emmerich joined New Line Cinema in 1992 as a dual development and music executive. In his position as president of music, he oversaw the development of platinum and gold-selling soundtracks such as "Elf," "Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me," "Boogie Nights," "Love & Basketball," "The Mask," among others. In 2001, Emmerich became New Line's president, production and oversaw production during the most successful period in the company's history, which included the release of such hits as the Academy Award-winning blockbuster "The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King," "Wedding Crashers" (2005's highest-grossing comedy), "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre," "Hairspray" and "About Schmidt," which starred Jack Nicholson in a Golden Globe-winning performance. New Line is widely credited with creating the genre of the R-rated comedy, based on the success of "Wedding Crashers" in 2005. The company is also one of the few studios that still works in the horror genre and is widely known for the iconic "Nightmare on Elm Street" franchise. On Feb. 28, 2008, Warner Bros. Pictures, A Time Warner Company, announced New Line Cinema would be absorbed into the Warner Bros. organization. With this reorganization, company co-chairman and co-CEOs Bob Shay (who founded New Line in 1967) and Michael Lynne, departed the company. Warner Bros. tapped Emmerich in March 2008 to be president & COO of a new, scaled down New Line Cinema. Emmerich reports directly to Warner Bros. President & COO Alan Horn and works closely with President, Warner Bros. Picture Group Jeff Robinov. Emmerich's charge is to use WBPG's existing infrastructure to reduce costs and take advantage of Warner Bros.' industry-leading scale. As a unit of Warner Bros., New Line continues to maintain its own development, creative and production teams. Its marketing, publicity, distribution, business and legal affairs and physical production staff report to Emmerich, but closely coordinate with their Warner Bros. counterparts.

FELTHEIMER, JON

Executive. e. Bachelor's degree in economics with honors from Washington University. Feltheimer, a 20-year entertainment industry veteran, spent eight years at New World Entertainment, where he was promoted to president and CEO, directed the company's domestic and international distribution businesses and launched and managed its New World Television division. He also managed the company's Marvel Productions and Learning Corporation of America units. Feltheimer then joined Sony Pictures Entertainment (SPE) and engineered the creation of TriStar Television as part of SPE's acquisition of television assets from New World Entertainment Ltd. During his nine years at SPE, was named head of the Columbia TriStar Television Group and executive v.p. of SPE. Feltheimer led co. to international powerhouse status; SPE launched or partnered in nearly 30 branded channels, regional networks and co-production ventures around the world. He launched SPE's interactive TV business in 1996 and served as the architect of SPE's investment and management of the U.S.-based Spanish-language network Telemundo in conjunction with Liberty Media and Apollo Partners. Telemundo was sold to NBC in 2000 for approximately $2 billion, reflecting a threefold increase in Sony's investment in the four years since Feltheimer engineered the deal. Feltheimer then joined Lionsgate Entertainment and was named CEO in March 2000, a position he holds today. The Lionsgate film library holds more than 7,800 titles, and the company releases a feature film slate of 18 to 20 releases a year. During Feltheimer's tenure as CEO, Lionsgate has increased its revenues from approximately $150 million to nearly $1 billion annually.

Executive. e. B.A. degree from St. Michael's College and M.B.A. from New York University. Freston began a career in advertising and in 1980 joined Warner Amex Satellite Entertainment Company (WASEC), the predecessor to MTV Networks. In 1981, he was one of the founding members of the team that launched MTV: Music Television. As the head of marketing, Freston oversaw the breakthrough "I want my MTV" campaign which helped propel the channel into a global entertainment network. Freston held a succession of positions with MTV Networks, culminating in the CEO position in 1987. In mid-2004, Freston was promoted to co-president and co-COO of MTV Networks' parent company, Viacom, Inc. At Viacom Freston acquired DreamWorks. Freston also initiated several campaigns and programs that addressed social issues. These included Nickleodeon's Big Help campaign. Other initiatives addressed issues ranging from discrimination to HIV/AIDS. While at MTV Networks, Freston shared a prestigious "diversity leadership" award from the Diversity Best Practices (DBP) Council. Freston resigned from Viacom during 2006 over disagreements on internet strategy and Viacom Executive Chairman of the Board and Founder Sumner Redstone's disappointment over the price of Viacom stock. He is currently self-employed as a consultant and also started a private company, Firefly3 LLC, which invests and consults in the media and entertainment businesses. Recently, Firefly3 LLC became an investor in Veoh Networks, an Internet TV company Freston received an honorary doctoral degree from Emerson College in 2007. In Sept. 2007, Freston was elected to the bd. of directors of DreamWorks Animation SKG Inc., and also serves on the Board of the American Museum of Natural History and the Board of Trustees for Emerson College in Boston. He is a member of the Broadcasting and Cable Hall of Fame, has received many industry awards and has worked closely with many charitable organizations like City of Hope, the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC), Riverkeeper and Phoenix House.

GASPIN, JEFF

Executive. e. State Univ. of New York at Binghamton, undergraduate degree, NYU Graduate School of Business Administration, M.B.A. During Gaspin's first five years at NBC, he was v.p., programming & development and helped develop and launch "Dateline NBC." Before that, he was responsible for the expansion of the "Today" franchise to seven days. Gaspin also served as dir. of financial planning for NBC News, overseeing production finance for "Late Night with David Letterman" and "Saturday Night Live," as well as for NBC's TV stations division. Gaspin joined VH1 in 1996 and served as executive v.p., programming & production. He created the acclaimed program "Behind the Music." Under Gaspin VH1's ratings more than doubled and its profits increased fivefold. He was responsible for overall programming strategies, as well as program development, production, acquisition, scheduling, on-air talent, news and studio operations. Also developed under his watch were "Divas Live" and the hit series "Pop-up Video," "Rock and Roll Jeopardy," "Storytellers" and "Before They Were Rock Stars." He returned to NBC in March 2001 as executive v.p., alternative series, long-form, specials and program strategy. There, he led the network's unscripted programming division, specials, movies and miniseries and developed the hit NBC programs "Deal or No Deal," "The Apprentice," "Fear Factor" and "Biggest Loser." In Dec. 2002, Gaspin was named president of the Bravo cable network where he guided the day-to-day operation, programming, and marketing when the network was acquired by NBC. Among his accomplishments are "Queer Eye for the Straight Guy," which was Bravo's highest-rated show in its 23-year history, and "Project Runway," which continues to break ratings records for Bravo. Under Gaspin's direction in 2003, Bravo increased its subscriber base from 68 million to 76 million and more than doubled revenue and profits. In 2004 Gaspin became president of NBC Universal cable entertainment and cross-network strategy. He added digital content to his responsibilities in November 2005. Under Gaspin, the NBC Universal entertainment cable division posted its strongest performance ever and traffic to all of the television group's entertainment websites more than doubled. Gaspin had served as President of NBC Universal Cable and Digital Content since February 2007. Gaspin was named to his current post, president and COO of the Universal Television Group, in July 2007. The newly created division consists of NBC Universal's entertainment cable networks — Bravo, Chiller, SCI FI Channel, Sleuth, Universal HD and USA Network, the Telemundo network and its 16 owned-and-operated stations, the television group's distribution, including wireless, digital and cable investments and the company's domestic first-run and off-net syndication efforts. He is a member of the boards of the A&E Networks and the Sundance Channel. Gaspin reports to Jeff Zucker, President and CEO of NBC Universal.

Journalist. b. Evanston, IL, March 9, 1943. e. graduate, Princeton University. Originally the news director for the university's radio station WPRB-FM, Gibson then moved into television journalism, becoming one of journalism's most recognized faces and trusted sources for news. With more than 40 years' experience, Gibson has spent more than 30 of them at ABC News. Gibson's first broadcasting job was Washington producer for RKO Network in 1966. He then became news director for WLVA-TV and Radio in Lynchburg, VA, before joining WJLA-TV in 1970. Gibson covered anchor and reporter duties at ABC affiliate WJLA-TV until 1973. He joined the syndicated news service Television News Service, Inc. in 1974 before joining ABC News in 1975. From 1977 to 1981, Gibson was on general assignment for ABC and covered various national news stories; from 1976-1977 Gibson was a White House correspondent and covered Gerald Ford's presidential campaign. He then became ABC's chief correspondent covering the House of Representatives from 1981 to 1987. On Capitol Hill, Gibson covered Tip O'Neill and the Democratic handling of President Reagan's legislative agenda. From 1987 to 1988 he co-anchored ABC's morning program and was also co-anchor of Primetime Thursday, now known as "Primetime Live," periodically substituted on the evening newscast World News Tonight and was a contributing anchor on the TV news magazine "20/20" from 1998-2000. Gibson returned on Jan. 18, 1999, to ABC's morning program "Good Morning America" to relaunch the broadcast with Diane Sawyer. On the political beat, Gibson has interviewed each of the last seven American presidents and has anchored many broadcasts from Republican and Democratic national conventions as well as presidential inaugurations. In addition to domestic and political coverage, Gibson has interviewed leaders from around the globe, including Kofi Annan, Tony Blair, the late Yasir Arafat and Nelson Mandela. In July 2006, Gibson began his current role as sole anchor of ABC's World News Tonight, a seat previously filled by the late veteran journalist Peter Jennings. Anchor of One Night, Two Parties: The New Hampshire Debates, 2008.

HARRIS III, PHILIP

Exhibitor. Harris, a third generation motion picture exhibitor, began his cinema exhibition career more than 35 years ago as an IATSE union projectionist in family-owned theatres in Davis, California. In 1982, Harris purchased a family business with partner Doug Stephens, but sold it in 1985 to form what would become Signature Theatres in 1988. By 2004, Harris had increased the company's initial 22 screens in three sites to a total of 281 screens, located at 31 sites in 25 cities in California, Hawaii, and Montana. In Sept. 2004, Regal Entertainment Group acquired and integrated San Ramon, CA, based Signature Theatres. In 2003, Harris was awarded the "ShoWester of the Year" award, which recognized Harris' dedication to improving the exhibition industry. He has been a member of the NATO Board of Directors since 1990 and has served as vice chair of the finance committee and was NATO chairman Jan. 1, 2005-Jan. 1, 2007. Harris has also been on the bd. of dir. of NATO California/Nevada for the past 20 years, and served as its chairman for five years. He previously served on the Board of Directors of the Northern California Variety Club Children's Charity Tent and the Motion Picture Pioneers. In May 2007, Harris received the Excellence of Service Award from NATO of Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

HASHEMI, HAMID

Exhibitor, e. graduate of Florida Atlantic University. A 20+ year veteran of the cinema exhibitor industry, Hashemi founded and ran the Florida-based Muvico Theaters circuit he founded in 1984 until Jan. 2006 when Muvico's board replaced Hashemi with a new president and CEO, Michael Whalen. Before founding Muvico, Hashemi was pres. of Professional Services Realty, and was involved with real estate transactions for offices, shopping centers, motels and warehouses. The Carl DeSantis Business and Economics Center for the Study and Development of the Motion Picture and Entertainment Industry named Hashemi the "Motion Picture Business Leader of the Year" in 2000. He is an inner circle founder of the FAU football program and is also helping FAU outfit its new movie theatre at the DeSantis Center by supplying more than $200,000 in theatre equipment. Hashemi has a long association with the "Variety Club-The Children's Charity" and the Will Rogers Institute. Work with South Florida charities includes The Center for the Arts in Boca Raton, National Multiple Sclerosis and The Jewish National Fund. Hashemi's newest venture—IFic Entertainment—launched a new theatre complex concept in Glendale, WI, in summer 2007. In a single facility resides a tony restaurant, bar, luxury bowling, a live stage auditorium with cabaret-style seating and also six to 10 luxury movie theatres, all digitally projected deluxe movie screening rooms with every seat a love seat and every row 54 inches behind and 24 inches higher than the row in front. IPic is based in Ft. Lauderdale, FL, and Hashemi has Florida investors financing IPic's theatre and entertainment complex concept. He plans to roll out six more locations over the next two years in Wisconsin, Texas, California, Illinois and New York.
