Your Metro Area Covers Five Counties...

But Your Target Audience is Only in Two.

With the introduction of TAPSCAN's new County Coverage Research System, radio ratings analysis is no longer restricted by traditionally defined Metro areas. Break the Metro mold by creating a custom geography utilizing Arbitron's County Coverage radio data.

- ❖ Create custom geographies containing one, or as many as 60 counties
- ❖ Create custom statewide or interstate geographies
- ❖ Scan every county to find a station's listeners
- ❖ TAPSCAN has every county in every state available to you now
- ❖ Arbitron's County Coverage data is issued annually and contains every diary from the previous year

Use TAPSCAN's new County Coverage Research System to geographically target your radio campaign for a client's specific trade zone. You now have the power to deliver the most strategic and effective campaign possible! And it's a no charge* enhancement to your present TAPSCAN system. Call today for more information!

Welcome to the 1995 Edition of the M Street Radio Directory. If you've used our directory in the past you'll notice that a lot has changed. The most obvious change is the design of our cover. Gone is the "BIG M" that graced the covers of our first five editions. Amazingly, many people never noticed it. But the cover is only the start.

Whether you're a veteran user of the M Street Radio Directory or are joining us for the first time this year you will benefit from the changes we've made.

A new wide page format enables us to provide more information than ever before while only slightly increasing the bulk of the book. New type styles make locating the information you want easier than ever before.

You'll find all of the information that the M Street Radio Directory is noted for and more. We've added estimates of the average-quarter-hour persons audience of all Arbitron-rated stations to the average-quarter-hour shares we have published in the past. Look for these in the Stations by State and City section as well as in the M Street Radio Markets section. Another new feature, average-quarter-hour share trends are in the M Street Radio Markets section.

As radio programming continues to evolve, so do the codes we use to classify formats.

- * Many Top-40 or CHR stations that traditionally targeted teenage and young adult listeners made program adjustments in recent years to reach more of the adults over age 25 demanded by advertisers. The new breed of "Hot Adult Contemporary" or "Adult CHR" stations that this evolution produced is identified by the new AH code.
- * The number of radio stations designed as an alternative to Album Rock or Classic Rock stations has multiplied and two distinct formats have developed. The genre that concentrates on Modern Rock or New Rock music is represented by the code NR. The other type of alternative station, which has a rather eclectic playlist and evokes some of the feel of the "progressive" rock stations of the late 1960's, are called either "Adult Album Alternative," "Triple A" or "Adult Rock" and are coded AP. Non-commercial Alternative (AP) stations usually have very wide playlists with many musical styles represented.

- * We have also merged New Adult Contemporary (NAC) stations into the Jazz category. NAC stations had been coded NA - a throwback to the New Age orientation of KTWV, an originator of the format - but most now focus on "Smooth Jazz" and so the code JZ seems more appropriate. There are some differences between these Smooth Jazz stations and Traditional Jazz stations. Generally, commercial stations with the JZ code program Smooth Jazz and their non-commercial counterparts concentrate more on Traditional Jazz.

The 1995 Directory includes the names of U.S. radio station General Managers along with the names of the Program Directors and Sales Managers at most stations in Arbitron-rated markets. The radio industry is in an almost constant state of change. People migrate freely from station to station in pursuit of career growth or due to "philosophical differences." No doubt some of the people listed herein will have already moved on by the time this book has reached you. If we missed you, we are sorry. If we misspelled your name, call us, we will correct it on the spot.

Keeping track of the people who run radio stations is just the latest task we've undertaken. In the year since we published the 1994 edition, M Street editors have logged over 30,000 changes in station ownership, management, programming and technical facilities. These changes are reported weekly in The M Street Journal. The 1995 M Street Radio Directory summarizes many of the things we've learned in the last year as well as much of what we've found in a decade of reporting on the changes in the radio industry.

Our experience in covering radio along with our network of radio enthusiasts who provide us with leads on industry changes, the thousands of telephone calls we place to radio stations each month, and periodic radio listening trips throughout North America help make this the most accurate radio industry directory available.

Even so, the large volume of information we handle and the ever changing nature of radio make errors inevitable. If you spot something you believe is wrong, call, fax or write us.

The M Street Radio Directory contains the information most often requested from our database. When you're seeking more specific information, the odds that we have it are excellent. Each year we provide thousands of custom reports on individual stations and group owners, as well as telemarketing lists and mailing labels. The data is also available to merge with your database. When you need information on the radio industry call M Street at (212) 473-4668.

Stations are listed under their legal city of license, in frequency order. AM stations first, then FM.

The AM Band extends from 530 KHz to 1700 KHz. The FM Band extends from 88.1 MHz to 107.9 MHz. The frequencies from 88.1 MHz to 91.9 MHz are reserved for non-commercial use. However, non-commercial stations may also occupy commercial allocations.

Call letters as issued by the FCC, and are listed above the frequency in the left margin.

If a station has changed call letters within the past six years, see the FORMER CALL LETTERS section for a cross-reference to the current call letters.

Program format classifications are followed by M Street's program format codes in square brackets. Please see the section FORMAT CLASSIFICATIONS for a complete explanation of our format classifications and their codes.

Current power and facilities as well as any changes applied for, or construction permits granted are shown.

For AM stations, the day power is listed first and then the night power if any, followed by the antenna configuration:

- ND non-directional, full time
- ND-D non-directional, daytime only
- DA-D directional, daytime only
- DA-N directional, nighttime only
- DA-1 same directional pattern day and night
- DA-2 different directional patterns day and night
- DA-3 different directional patterns day, critical hours, and night

FM stations list their effective radiated power (ERP) followed by the antenna height above average terrain (HAAT). FM stations whose ERP or HAAT is different for horizontal and vertical polarizations list the figures as (h) and (v). "DA" indicates a directional antenna is used.

Both AM and FM stations show a "=" to indicate a station that shares time with another station on the same frequency.

This is an example of a granted construction permit (cp) for 10,000 watts day, 5,000 watts night, directional antenna night. See the power and facilities section on page 9 for a complete list of codes used for power and antennas.

Applications (app) filed with the FCC which have not yet been granted or dismissed.

M Street keeps track of station changes. For the last nine years, a code follows the last digit of the year of the change:

- | | | | |
|---|------------------------|---|------------------|
| c | call letter change | f | frequency change |
| l | city of license change | n | new station |
| s | station sold | t | format change |
| p | facilities change | | |

For example: "7c" means that the station changed its call letters in 1987. "4t" means that the station changed its format in 1994.

The owner of the station.

A "+" preceding the owner indicates the company (not necessarily under the same name) has an ownership interest in stations in other markets.

If the station is being managed by a company or person other than the owner, the organization or person will be listed here. The organization that manages the station may or may not own other radio stations. If they own other stations in the same market area, those stations will be listed in the sister station information on the next line.

An AM or FM affiliated SISTER station(s) in the same market area is shown following the ownership information. If the station is managing another station through a Local Marketing Agreement (LMA), the listing will read "LMA controls." If the station is being managed by another station, the listing will read "LMA by." If two or more stations are in a joint operating agreement, the listing will read "LMA with." If two stations have a Sales Marketing Agreement (SMA), the listing will read "SMA with."

The phone number given is for the station's business office. This is followed by the fax number. If we do not have a phone number, the area code is given.

Up to two addresses are shown. The city and state are assumed to be the city and state of license unless otherwise listed.

The M Street Radio Directory provides, for the first time, the names of key management personnel at stations in the United States and its territories. For commercial stations in Arbitron rated markets the names of the station's General Manager (GM), Program Director (PD) and Sales Manager (SM) are listed. For all non-commercial stations and commercial stations outside of Arbitron rated markets only the name of the General Manager (GM) is reported.

The market area or areas served by the station are displayed here. The station's primary market area appears on the first line. Its secondary market, if any, appears on the next line. When a radio audience ratings firm which has made its data available to us has estimated the size of the station's audience, ratings data are reported. See ABOUT RATINGS for a detailed explanation of the ratings information provided.

INSIDE RADIO®

Every day by 7 a.m.

Edited by Tom Taylor/609 H-O-T-L-I-N-E

On your desk before the distractions begin. Over your morning coffee. Before the meetings and the phone calls. Every day — the most current updates. INSIDE RADIO daily FAX service began on the eve of duopoly. Now, many executives tell us they couldn't have kept track of the flurry of station trading without it. But there's more: executive moves, new format trends, new services.

Next day ratings. From Arbitron and AccuRatings. Today's releases on your desk tomorrow morning. When the ratings are being delivered, it's the most-stolen page of INSIDE RADIO.

Radio stocks and business news. Each morning we publish the quotes from publicly traded radio companies. And information on those stocks that goes beyond how they performed on the exchanges.

Employment and Marketplace listings. A daily diet of executive opportunities. For those looking, the curious-but-employed and stations or companies looking to hire. We're told by owners that it delivers quality leads when they're looking for their next GM or Sales Manager. And something brand new: INSIDE RADIO'S Marketplace section. New products and services on display every day.

Be careful — it's addictive. The INSIDE RADIO daily FAX turns four years old in '95. Our loyal readers tell us it's part of their routine. And that's why advertisers know their messages will be seen. On your desk by 7 a.m. — starting tomorrow if you call now.

Employment and Marketplace listings.

A few hundred years ago, people were convinced that if they continued to sail in a straight line toward the sun, they would fall off the earth. Or be consumed by unseen forces or monsters. They thought the earth was flat. Until that first brave soul sailed past the point of no return — and returned — it was flat.

The constant search for the unattained is the cornerstone of the human spirit. It is that spirit that drives our own need to create. To better ourselves. To make something that will better others.

Over the last decade, we have constantly searched past that point of no return — and returned with ideas that changed the way people think. Our quest was to develop a synergistic suite of software programs that would give any sales staff the ability to accomplish their heartiest goals. The quest has been reached. The complete Business Intelligence System is here now. Find out what it can accomplish for you.

We pioneered addressable satellite commercial distribution in 1989 with PrivateLink. In 1991, working with Rocky Mountain Radio we took it to new heights with VISION.

Now NSN Network Services has blazed yet another trail with Satellite. Powerful and easy to use, Satellite is our newest fully integrated, audio program distribution and localization system. Customized commercials, PSA's liners, station ID's, playback schedules and more are delivered from your network production center via satellite. The result, a local station sound, indistinguishable from live local programming.

And, so you're never alone in uncharted territory, NSN's experienced staff are on the job 24 hours a day, seven days a week providing complete customer support. We'll help you design a system to suit your needs, assist with complete lease financing, install your system and train your staff to use it.

Call NSN — America's most experienced VSAT source — to find out how our integrated C or Ku band networks can enhance network performance and trim your bottom line.

The M Street Database Format Codes

As the broadcast industry itself evolves, so do radio station formats. Classifications and definitions are amended from time to time to reflect current trends. Here is the current set of format classifications in use:

AC Adult Contemporary

An adult-oriented pop/rock station, with no hard rock, possibly some non-rock music, and often a greater emphasis on non-current music. AC-OL would be a gold based AC.

AH Hot AC or "Adult CHR"

A more up-tempo contemporary hits format, with no hard rock and no rap.

AP Album - Progressive/Alternative/Rock AC

Eclectic rock, often with wide variations in musical style. Some times called "A.A.A."

AR Album - Rock

Mainstream rock & roll. Can include more guitar-oriented "heavy metal."

AS Adult Standards

Standards and older, non-rock popular music (1940-1980). Often includes softer current popular music.

BG Black GospelCH Contemporary Hit Radio (Top-40)

Current popular music, often encompassing a variety of rock styles. CH-RB would be Dance/CHR, CH-AR would be Rock based CHR, CH-NR would be New Rock or Modern Rock based CHR.

CR Classic Rock

Rock oriented oldies, often mixed with hit oldies of the 60's, 70's and 80's. sometimes called "Classic Hits."

CW Country

Country music, including contemporary and traditional styles. CW-OL would be country oldies.

DR Drama

Radio dramas, often pre-1950.

ET Ethnic

Programs primarily in languages other than English. Often brokered and/or block-programmed.

EZ Easy Listening

Primarily instrumental cover versions of popular songs. More uptempo varieties of this format include soft rock originals. Can also be mixed with "Smooth Jazz" or Adult Standards.

FA Fine Arts - Classical

Fine arts ("classical") music, often including opera, theater, and/or culture-oriented news and talk.

FF French

French-language programming.

Estimates of audience share labeled Arbitron are Copyright 1993 or 1994, The Arbitron Company. Estimates may not be quoted or reproduced without prior written permission of The Arbitron Company.

Estimates of audience share labeled Willhight are Copyright 1993 or 1994 by Willhight Radio Research. Any person or entity may be subject to a licensing fee by Willhight Radio Research for the unauthorized use of any ratings information.

The M Street Radio Directory contains estimates of average-quarter-hour-audience size and market audience share from surveys taken by the above ratings companies. The figures we show are taken from the latest survey published before our deadlines. The particular survey used in each market is shown in The M Street RADIO MARKETS section, but not in the individual station listings. Ratings are not shown for stations that did not meet minimum reporting requirements.

The majority of these estimates were compiled through surveys conducted by The Arbitron Company which reports its estimates on a quarterly basis. A number of radio markets are surveyed by Willhight Radio Research. Willhight's surveys do not always coincide with the Arbitron survey periods. The dates of the Willhight surveys are given in the MARKETS section.

The term "ratings" is used to describe the audience figures published in the M Street Radio Directory. However, "Audience share" and "audience estimate" are more accurate terms. The published numbers express the size of a station's audience in a theoretical "average-quarter-hour" (AQH) between 6:00 a.m. and 12:00 midnight in two ways: 1) As a percentage of all radio listeners twelve years old or older (12+) and 2) as a number of persons 12+ listening.

These figures highlight some relative strengths and weaknesses of the stations competing in a market but tell only a small portion of the story of competition in a market.

These 12+ Monday-Sunday 6:00 a.m. and 12:00 midnight AQH estimates are not the only audience data that ratings firms provide. Far more specific estimates that report the size of a station's AQH audience at different times of the day and detail how radio listening differs by age and gender are available directly from the ratings firms. Also available are cumulative audience estimates which report how many people listen to a radio station over time periods longer than a quarter-hour. These more specific figures are not included because of their volume and because the ratings firms would have little to sell if they were published. For more information contact either Arbitron or Willhight.

UNDERSTANDING RADIO RATINGS

Why They're Called "Estimates"

by Steve Apel

Steve Apel is the President of Media Perspectives Research Corporation. Media Perspectives provides marketing and audience research along with strategic counseling for broadcasters seeking to maximize ratings and revenues. Prior to founding Media Perspectives, Steve Apel was a Research Project Director at the Arbitron Company and managed research and programming at a number of radio stations. He may be reached at Media Perspectives, 606 Cooper Landing Road, Building A, Suite 4B, Cherry Hill, New Jersey 08002, telephone 609-482-7979.

THE USES OF RATINGS

Audience ratings have long played a key role in the radio business. Ever since the "Golden Age" of network radio programming broadcasters have used audience ratings to set advertising rates and make programming decisions. Ratings provide broadcasters with the only measure of the product they actually sell - listeners.

RATINGS ARE JUST AN ESTIMATE

Audience ratings are produced through surveys of people who are selected at random. All random sample surveys have some degree of error. Political poll results are often accompanied by a statement that the outcome is subject to an error of plus or minus some percent. Through applied statistics we can find out what this amount, the survey error, is.

An example is a poll in which Candidate A is the choice of 55 percent of the people and 45 percent of the people choose Candidate B. If this poll has a margin of error of plus or minus ten percent there is some likelihood that the two candidates are actually tied in popularity. There's also some likelihood that Candidate B is really the more popular of the two.

This situation also exists in radio ratings. If two stations' ratings are extremely close it is possible that the stations actually have the same number of listeners. It is also conceivable that the station estimated to have the smaller audience may have the larger audience. Because this margin of error is known it should be possible to determine how accurate a portrait of radio listening habits ratings provide.

However, there are a number of limitations, peculiar to ratings surveys, which are likely to produce further errors we can't measure. These limitations can distort the ratings. That's why ratings figures are always referred to as estimates. As a result, advertising and programming decisions based on the ratings can be flawed.

THE ACCURACY OF RATINGS ESTIMATES CANNOT BE DETERMINED

The accuracy of a radio audience estimate can be influenced by how the ratings survey used to produce it was conducted. As a result, broadcasters, advertisers and even government regulators need to understand the basic methodology of ratings surveys in order to use these estimates wisely.

A great deal of the information concerning people's use of radio stations in the U.S. is provided by the Arbitron Company. Arbitron collects information about radio listening through a diary. This is a pamphlet size book in which people are asked to write down details of their radio listening over a seven day period. The BBM Bureau of Measurement in Canada also uses a diary. Accuratings and Willlight Radio Research place telephone calls to radio listeners to gather information.

These telephonic interviews inquire about the radio stations that were listened to in the past twenty-four hours. Many of the flaws in the ratings produced through telephone interviews are due to the fact that people are being asked to recall details of an activity, radio listening, to which they give little thought.

The diary, which people are asked to fill out while actually listening to radio, would seem to be a much more accurate method of gathering listening information. However, it too has flaws. Keeping a record of radio listening for a week can be a demanding task. Many listeners decline to participate in a diary survey for this reason. Others make detailed entries in their diaries when they first receive them but then lose interest. These people either report less radio use as the seven days progress or fail to return their diary to the ratings company.

The choices people make in whether or not to participate in the ratings survey, whether or not to return a completed diary and the degree of care they take in recording information in their diaries are all sources of error. Unlike survey error, these errors can't be quantified.

Let's look at the reasons why ratings estimates are subject to error.

SURVEYS ARE NOT ALWAYS REPRESENTATIVE

If all people were alike, gaining a representative sample would be rather simple. However, people vary in their age, sex and ethnic background. These demographic distinctions are important to radio broadcasters and advertisers. The need to deal with the listening habits of a diverse public complicates ratings research.

To be accurate, a ratings survey needs to represent each different demographic group in proportion to their occurrence in the overall population. If men account for 50% of the population, half of the surveys conducted should be with men. This rarely happens. For a variety of reasons, most of the time ratings surveys fail to represent demographic groups in proportion to their occurrence in the population.

When one or more demographic groups is surveyed out of proportion to their membership in the overall population, the ratings produced can be distorted. In general, audience shares for stations which attract listeners in the over-represented demographic will be inflated while those for stations which tend to attract listeners who are under-represented will be depressed.

For example, a sample which contains too many women and too few men will tend to lead to artificially high audience shares for female skewing radio stations and incorrectly understated audience shares for male oriented outlets.

STATISTICAL FIXES CAN'T ALWAYS COMPENSATE

To correct such deficiencies ratings firms "weight" each demographic group within the survey. Increased or decreased emphasis (or weight) is given to the answers of a particular group by multiplying or dividing by a number which adjusts for the degree to which they are over- or under-represented in the survey.

Weighting can compensate for some of the error that a non-representative sample produces but it can't eliminate error entirely. This is because weighting can't create information that isn't there to begin with. When a particular demographic group is under-represented, ratings surveys can't capture the full range of that group's radio listening.

Radio stations that only a minority of people within an under-represented demographic group listen to may not be reported in the ratings because not enough members of the demographic group were surveyed. For example, if radio station KXXX is listened to by only one in eleven members of a demographic group and only ten members of that group are surveyed, there is a chance that no one will report listening to KXXX. As a result, estimates of the size of the KXXX audience will be depressed. Non-representative samples that require weighting are not necessarily the fault of the ratings firm. Most surveys begin with a plan to obtain a representative sample, but some individuals in this sample will fail to take part in the survey. In addition to creating a need for weighting, failure to gain participation from all sampled individuals causes a problem known as "non-response bias." This further limits the accuracy of audience ratings.

THE PEOPLE WHO TAKE PART IN A SURVEY MAY BE DIFFERENT THAN THOSE WHO DON'T

In most audience ratings surveys only one of every two people who are invited to take part actually do. While we learn about their radio listening habits, the behavior of the other 50% remains unknown. When so many people resist responding there is a question of whether their listening habits are substantially different from those who do respond.

It is possible that the people who elect to fill out and return a listening diary are more involved with radio than those who don't. They may listen longer or tune to different radio stations than the people who don't participate in the ratings survey. When many people opt not to take part in a ratings survey the estimates produced may not accurately represent the radio listening behavior of the population at large. Even if there is no non-response bias, the answers provided in a radio ratings survey may not be factual.

RATINGS SURVEYS MAY MEASURE AWARENESS RATHER THAN LISTENING

Some ratings estimates may have more to do with listener awareness of a particular radio station than with use of the station. Although the people who agree to keep a radio listening diary are asked to make entries in the diary as they listen to radio, there is no guarantee that they will. There is some evidence to suggest that many people make entries in their radio listening diary some time after the actual radio listening has occurred.

Diaries completed some time after listening has occurred contain reports of what people remember listening to rather than an accurate record of radio listening. People's memories are not perfect. This is especially true in regards to an everyday behavior such as radio listening. Since people pay no money for listening to radio and can switch stations easily they may not recall all the details of their listening. As a result, people may report listening to the radio stations they are most aware of and neglect to mention stations which have a lower profile, even though they listen to these stations as well.

INACCURATE REPORTS FROM LISTENERS ARE ANOTHER SOURCE OF ERROR

Even if ratings survey participants fill their diaries out at the same time they're listening to radio and even if those who complete their diaries sometime after listening have perfect memories, the ratings produced may still be inaccurate. This is because ratings surveys depend upon unaided response. People must volunteer information on the stations they listen to. Unfortunately, people may not possess the information they are being asked to volunteer.

Since people do not need to know anything about a radio station in order to use it, they may be unaware of the names of the radio stations they tune to. If they don't know the station's name or can't state its dial position they can't report listening. The station will get no ratings credit.

Lack of knowledge, confusion or carelessness may cause listeners to supply inaccurate information. In ratings diary reports people have been known to transpose call letters (calling WXYZ, WYXZ for example), invent call sign and frequency combinations that don't exist (a person who listens to both KAAA-FM 99 and KBBB-FM 88 may enter KAAA-FM 88 in the diary), and confuse AM and FM stations with the same call sign (entering WXXX-AM when they in fact listen to WXXX-FM).

RATINGS INACCURACY EFFECTS BOTH BROADCASTERS AND ADVERTISERS

Since advertising rates are often based upon the size of the audience measured through ratings, inaccurate reporting can have a great effect on a radio station's revenues as well as the effectiveness of a radio advertising campaign. It is for this reason that broadcasters and advertisers both need to understand the limitations of audience ratings.

The Wages of Fear

Or 1994: A Programming Analysis

by Sean Ross

Sean Ross is the program director for Gannett's WGCI (AM), Chicago, IL, and former Associate Editor of the M Street Journal.

In a year of constant changes, there are three radio programming stories from 1994 that need to be told here for posterity: 1) How broadcasters conquered their fear of the '70s gold format by turning it into something else; 2) How broadcasters came to grips with modern rock, without turning it into something else; 3) How the tangible, but hardly overwhelming, success of both of these niche formats led to a broadening of every other major format, including country and urban.

GOING BOLDLY INTO THE SEVENTIES

When last year's M Street Directory came out, '70s gold was still a daring experiment. With its roots in the most critically reviled music of all time, '70s gold seemed like the ultimate product of a niched-out radio market -- the sort of thing that group heads wouldn't try until they were forced. (Indeed, at least four of this year's converts were folks who were already the No. 2 oldies station in their market.) Now, if the test of a hot format is that broadcasters are willing to give a market more than it might need, then '70s gold already qualifies because of Memphis and Detroit (both of which now have two modern rockers also).

Had there not been several variants of '70s gold to choose from almost at once, other broadcasters might not have been as quick to follow suit. KCBQ-FM San Diego was the first major-market full-signal FM to play the '70s, but it was KCBS-FM, L.A.'s "Arrow" and Cox's WCOF Tampa -- the format's first two ratings successes -- that ended up being cloned into three-quarters of the '70s gold stations you hear now. If the original KCBQ was the most imitated station of the early '70s, it lost this last contest to two stations that shied away from any hint of '70s presentation.

The '70s format as it exists now is one of two things in most markets -- either it's an '80s-style classic hits station in different clothing, or it's an AC station where the music just happens to come from the '70s. In the end, the way most programmers decided to deal with their fear of the "Seasons In The Sun" junk-food '70s music was just to pretend it never existed, except, perhaps, on weekend specials. In the end, three-quarters of what you hear on a '70s station is the '70s music that you could have heard on a soft AC or classic rock station already, but packaged differently.

Ultimately, it's not so surprising that '70s gold PDs ignored the goofy '70s material in favor of Fleetwood Mac/Eagles/Steely Dan, etc. There were not, after all, a lot of '60 gold stations playing "Tell Laura I Love Her" and "Who Put The Bomp" or recalling the sound of that era's radio. And, painful though it may be to admit, the two '70s gold stations that were best loved by radio junkies, KCBQ-FM and WFWI Ft. Wayne, Ind., have, thus far, been two of the least successful. The real surprise is that if the "Seasons In The Sun" question was the only stumbling block to the format's growth that PDs didn't think of this solution sooner.

DARING TO BE THE SAME

On the other hand, for all the consultants who went into modern rock with talk about installing top 40 rotations and real radio formatics, modern rock is still essentially the same format it was three years ago-- offhand sounding jocks (I know one at a recent top 40-to-modern convert who has been told not to smile because the listeners are not happy people), deliberately offhand-sounding production, and power records in 5-6 hour rotation. There are true top-40/modern hybrids like New York's Z100 but stations like that are the exceptions. And there are just as many stations that started broad (i.e. Indianapolis and Chicago) and ended up extreme.

It happened this way for several reasons. One, a lot of the talk about streamlining the format is for the benefit of group heads and advertisers only. Two, even the best intentioned PD doesn't stand much of a chance against a modern rock station's core audience, the people who think your station sucks because it's playing the same record they heard last week. Three, the music itself has become more extreme over the last year. The Spin Doctors and the Duran Duran comeback may have helped lure stations in; this year's modern rock, however, is Offspring, Green Day, Weezer and any number of other records that would sound more at home on a college station in 1978 than anywhere else. It's as if a whole format made the transition from smoking pot to speedballing in six months.

The biggest reason that modern rock hasn't evolved is that it hasn't had to. There are enough core listeners that PDs don't have to piss them off to find secondary listeners. In most major markets, the rock spectrum is already so fragmented that being a 3-share niche station looks a lot more respectable than it did 10 years ago. Whether the same will be true in Ocean City, Md., and Lincoln, Neb., will only be borne out by time, although the fact that there are already two modern rock formats on satellite already gives small-town moderns some potential economies of scale.

As was the case in 1982-84, the music played on modern has become a lot of the new music played on album rock radio. It's hard to tell which format has co-opted which since a lot of the music modern rock gave to AOR radio -- Stone Temple Pilots, Soundgarden, Candlebox, etc., has its roots in early '70s AOR anyway. What's clear is that the line between hard-rock, mainstream rock, and modern rock radio is currently fuzzy. Chicago's WWBZ (The Blaze), one of the stations that touched off hard-rock's growth boom in the early '80s and one of the last to abandon Kiss and Poison as core artists, is now "Rock 103" WRCX and, like a lot of its counterparts, has become your official Toad-The-Wet-Aerosmith radio station with yesterday's classic rock and today's alternative-leaning currents.

MOVING AWAY FROM THE NICHE

Which brings us back to this: No major format will make it out of 1994 without being broadened by either the alternative boom or the '70s gold rush, or both. The AOR/modern connection is most evident, but also consider...

* Top 40 - When the modern rock boom began last year, it was a graceful way for top 40 stations to back away from the rap/dance music without the AC excesses that marked the retreat from disco in the early '80s. The problem, of course, is that last year's clump of modern crossovers had hooks and melodies. By jumping on another equally extreme bandwagon, top 40 programmers have made themselves just as vulnerable as they were three years ago when there was no rock on their stations at all. Better this, however, than another three years of top 40 stations as hot ACs in drag; doing pseudo-MTV at least shows that top 40 programmers know who their audience is.

* AC - For several years, AC has been the most overcrowded of formats although the rush to build second (and third) country stations and '70s gold stations has at least helped thin the ranks a little. A year ago, soft AC and hot AC were clearly defined formats. Now, while it's still true that Chicago's WLIT and WPNT don't sound like each other, both have broadened considerably since the debut of the '70s gold station WYSY. "You're No Good" by Linda Ronstadt may not be implied by either "Lite FM" or "Today's Soft Rock", (the latter is WPNT's slogan), but it's turned up on both stations since January. In New York, it didn't even take a full-time '70s station to bring about similar changes WMXV, WLTW, and WPLJ are also broader than they were a year ago which, in WPLJ's case particularly, took some doing.

* Urban - The "old-school" boom, in which urban stations suddenly loaded up on the disco and funk records of the '70s and early '80s, was already starting to happen even before their non-ethnic counterparts got the message last year. Because so many of these records were now sampled in today's hits, playing Funkadelic was an easier way for urban PDs to satisfy both contingents that loading up on Anita Baker and Luther Vandross records. (Even WJPC-FM, the station that's going after Chicago's famously-broad WGCI-FM on the young side, is covering the "old-school" franchise as evidenced by the Saturday night when I found WGCI playing a rap record while WJPC was playing a Peter Brown oldie.) As for alternative's impact, it's helped urban programmers in Jacksonville, San Antonio, Detroit, and any number of other markets where jumping on the alternative bandwagon has taken the top 40 station out of the urban arena and turned more listeners loose in the urban marketplace again.

* Country - Far afield though it may seem, country is actually the format with the most to lose if alternative and '70s oldies kick in. Country's boom came two years ago at a time when there was nowhere besides classic rock for a 30-year-old male raised on '70s rock to hear the type of pop-rock they'd grown up with. Both alternative and '70s gold offer that listener new options, the latter, in particular, lets listeners hear the real James Taylor and Jimmy Buffett without their being channeled through Garth Brooks and Clint Black. (Jimmy, by the way, would know better than to try sailing out of Colorado.)

The net effect of these new choices, combined with the fact that most markets finally reached the oversaturation point for new country outlets in 1994, managed to convince many programmers that the "today's hot country" phenomenon had finally peaked. Never mind that the only real crisis for some programmers was that they were having to live with a 15-share instead of a 20. Many PDs had never been entirely comfortable with being current-driven in the first place and the now-famous John Parikh speech at March's Country Radio Seminar predicting the rise of a country gold format was all they needed to hear.

The result was that by late summer, you could hear "Today's hot country with yesterday's Ronnie Milsap oldies inserted seemingly, at random" on a lot of country stations, including some new converts who had never played those records in the first place. The fact that this mix didn't work so well in the mid-'80s for country or CHR stations shouldn't make you think that I've already made up my mind on this topic. In fact, I think it's kinda refreshing to hear "There's No Getting Over Me" again...once.

FEAR DRIVES CHANGE

The point of all this is that fear is the key and it doesn't take much to force even successful radio stations off the dime. In more than a few cases, the modern rock and '70s gold formats didn't even have to come to town to get a rise out of the incumbents. Even in the world of format giants, it's usually a little child that shall lead. Which sets the stage for next year's article: The impact of the childrens' network boom on Z-Rock. Until then...

COYOTES, AND FROGS, AND BEARS, OH MY!

Station Liners Can Lead to Laughs or Lawsuits

by Phyllis Stark

Phyllis Stark is the radio editor for Billboard magazine. Phyllis can be reached at 1515 Broadway, 15th Floor, New York, NY 10036. Her phone number is 212-536-5032. Her fax number is 212-536-5358.

"Here's the first of a million in row from the station that doesn't count so good."

It's not likely that any listener hearing this statement on country WOFE Rockwood, Tenn., will believe it, but that's not the point. Using liners like this one on the air has helped position the station as fun, with a bit of an attitude.

PDs say establishing an identity, even if it's not that particular one, is the primary purpose of liners and positioning statements, which are used by nearly every station in the country. "I think in today's world, where there are so damn many stations, liners give you some personality and differentiation," says Russ Withers, owner of Withers Broadcasting in Mount Vernon, Ill.

They can range from the thoughtful ("New Country 105.1 KNCI; listening to you while you listen to us"), to the brash ("Rockin' is our business and business is good") to the offbeat ("If you'd like a transcript of this program just write down everything you hear").

Regardless of the message, the point of liners "is really just to get your slogan or identifier in people's faces," says Mike Marrone, PD at progressive album rock KIOT (the Coyote) Albuquerque, NM "This format is so music intensive that you want to have something say 'the Coyote' every couple of songs. We have actual coyote howls and [sounders of] packs of coyotes. Sometimes instead of a liner we just throw on the sound of the coyote. You just want to get that image in people's heads."

"They're your sales pitch," says WGCI-AM Chicago PD and former M Street editor Sean Ross. "That's where you try to get listeners to notice what you're doing."

THE BEST FROGGY MIX OF THE 70's

Programmers have several options when it comes time to make that sales pitch. They include simple slogans (Mix, Kiss, Cool, Froggy, K-Bear), positioning statements ("the best mix of the '70's, '80's, and '90's") drops, and liners. A drop is generally "something that has been lifted from a movie, TV show, or popular culture event that you use to define a certain attitude of mood for you station," says KHTK/KRAK/KNCI Sacramento, CA, OM Larry Pareigis. "A liner is the thing you can have the most fun with. You can use it to sell your station...or to have a good time and further define attitude."

Over the years, stations have found plenty of ways to use liners, some clever, some just downright stupid. Often, they are used to achieve very different goals.

Some are clearly intended to sell the benefits of a particular format, such as classical's "greatest hits of the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries," or religious talk station KJSL St. Louis' "talk radio hell hates."

Others are designed for the sole purpose of angering the competition. When album rock KISW Seattle competed head to head with then format rival KZOK, KISW ran a liner that said "KISW: better that just OK."

Still others are simply intended to get a laugh, such as WHTZ (Z100) New York's "Wanna hear a song? Bring us a pizza."

A fourth goal is simply to project a certain spirit. Country KNCI is particularly adept at this thanks to a stable full of "attitude" liners such as the following: "We didn't do it, nobody saw us, and you can't prove it"; "For fresh new country, plenty of parking, and clean rest rooms, keep it on 105.1"; "We support the two party system, party on Friday night, party on Saturday night"; "There's one thing you should know about us, we have no plan B"; the self deprecating "Of all the radio stations in Sacramento, we're one of them"; and the morning show liners "of all the things they've lost, it's their minds they miss the most" and "not responsible for brain damage received while listening."

Sometimes, listeners may wonder how some liners ever make it onto the air at all. Among the more disgusting liners ever heard came from country WXRb (the Rebel) Pittsburgh, which declared "If you took a man's intestines and laid them out across the highway, he'd be dead."

Topping the list of stupid liners is this frequently heard one: "Fun in the morning, music all day," which, of course, implies that the fun stops at 10 a.m. and that the morning show contains no music.

WHEN LINERS = LAWSUITS

Sometimes, use of liners, or even the simpler slogans and positioning statements, can lead to lawsuits. In August, Fairbanks Communications' WCLB Boston filed a trademark infringement suit against Greater Media's crosstown WBCS over the term "hot new county," which Fairbanks claims to have trademarked on both the federal and state levels.

Earlier this year, a court ruling forced Cox Broadcasting's WYSY Chicago to stop using the handle "Star 107.9" because crosstown WZSR had trademarked and was using the name "Star 105.5"

Withers, who servicemarked the call letters of his Mount Vernon stations, WMIX AM/FM, several years ago, also has vigorously defended that servicemark in court and says "We will make sure that our legal rights are protected."

Other names currently being legally protected by their owners include consultant Mike Joseph's "Hot Hits," CBS Radio's "Arrow," and Alliance Broadcasting's "Young Country."

Even if they don't lead to lawsuits, liners and positioners are sometimes unintentionally misused leading to controversy or simply to the station sounding stupid, such as when country WXTU Philadelphia aired the liner "the station that's fun to listen to" and followed it immediately with Collin Raye's alcoholism-themed downer record "Little Rock."

WFLZ (the Power Pig) Tampa, FL., shocked the industry a few years ago with a series of liners that bordered on the offensive, including one that ended with the tag line "Don't be a dick."

WGCI's Ross is one PD who believes that may have been going a bit too far. "I like things that have a little bit of a sense of humor without being obnoxious," he says. "I think all the nastiness of the Power Pig stuff clearly hurt people. After the initial shock value...people didn't find that funny or amusing long term. A little attitude is good. Too much attitude is a problem."

Of course, radio stations are not the sole dominion of liners and positioning statements. Every kind of business, from consumer products to theme parks, uses them. They've even been known to show up in industry trade magazines including Radio Business Report, which once took a pot shot at a rival publication that's written in a clipped, punchy style with this positioner: "RBR, We Use Verbs."

Are They Out There? Why Can't I Find Them?

Consultant Tips On Developing Talent

by Valerie Geller

Valerie Geller is president of Geller Media International, a consulting firm specializing in News/Talk and personality radio. Her background includes programming WABC, New York; setting up the talk format at KFI, Los Angeles; and various management and on-air positions at stations around the country including: KIOI, KRTH, KOA, KTAR, KOST, and WPLP. Geller currently works in radio throughout the United States consulting stations and conducting "CREATING POWERFUL RADIO" workshops. She also brought talk radio to Europe, helping set up the format and shows in Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Norway and the UK. "Where is the next generation of top radio talent? Where are the future Howard Sterns, Rush Limbaughs and Don Imus' located? How do we find them? How do we develop them and how do we keep them once we've got 'em?"

These are all questions radio managers ask programming consultants daily. As more and more stations take syndicated shows, there is concern that the "farm team," growing tomorrow's radio air talent in the smaller markets, is disappearing. Growing talent costs money. It is often cheaper on a short term basis to go with a syndicated show, but long-term, if you develop your own talent, the ratings reward can pay off in a big way.

Air talent can be difficult to manage. They are volatile, sensitive, ego driven, insecure and need a lot of stroking and positive feedback. They are a challenge to already harried overworked GMs and PDs who roll up their eyes and say "not again!" But these very people can also perform, connect with the audience and bring in huge numbers. It's up to management to decide. It is always easier to turnkey a switch.

I feel however, that it's worth it to develop your own people. If you can afford it both financially and emotionally, try it. Don't give up just because it is the harder, more challenging way to go.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

So how do you discover and begin to groom tomorrow's radio stars while continuing to achieve the quality of programming you need today on air? The answer is there is no easy answer. A plug for consultants here... asking experts in the field for help and advice is one way, another is to steal from your competition, hire people away from other stations. If that works, you are a genius, if not, this is radio, not brain surgery. No one dies because you took a creative risk.

But hiring proven people can be expensive and does not automatically guarantee success.

WHERE TO LOOK? HOW ABOUT UNDER YOUR NOSE...

How do you find these new people? Sometimes a look outside the traditional realm of broadcasters can reap big benefits. I have found and developed radio personalities that literally landed on my doorstep. While I was programming WABC New York, we did a huge talent search looking for someone fun, interesting, topical and loaded with personality. I listened to hundreds of tapes from across the country and auditioned several people off those tapes. However none of them were "right" for the specific profile of a station we were building.

When our afternoon board operator (technically producing the show, screening calls and running the board,) expressed interest in hosting the show, I didn't take him seriously at first. Then we talked. A lot. He had a real feel for radio, had studied acting at Yale, had a wonderful "ear" for impressions and was up on current events. He was also funny. He was drawn to radio because his idol was the afternoon host (Bob Grant) he was working for. We tried him out, the show was a riot and that is how Jay Diamond got on the air. He's now doing nights and doing well.

WABC's current morning man was originally a lawyer who liked to call talk shows. He was so talented, verbal, funny and original that the PD in his hometown in Florida gave him a shot on air. In the end he drew such big audiences that he was granted the chance to work in talk radio in New York.

I've also hired comedians, teachers, bus drivers, actors, musicians, cops, housewives and newscasters who had personality and original stuff to say. Sometimes those "experts" who "guest" on your air can connect with an audience and work out as talent themselves. Look for potential and look for it everywhere.

RESEARCHING PERSONALITY

Many programmers and GMs would love it if they could look into that crystal ball and find out who's gonna make it and who's gonna flop. It can't be done. There's just no way to predict. (There really is no way to research a product or person that the public has not yet experienced.)

The only way is to take a chance. Jump off that cliff and give talented people, you believe in, a shot. Maybe a weekend or fill-in slot. See how it feels. Trust your instincts. See if the show can be developed into one with potential. Don't pull the plug too soon. Give it some time. If that person has the ability to do it creatively and is interesting, it will probably work out. If you believe in someone, take the shot even if everyone else in the building does not share your belief.

One example of just having faith in a talent comes from TV. Do you remember David Letterman's first time out with a talk show? It bombed! They stuck him on, in the noon hour, playing to harried housewives. It failed. However the management believed in Letterman's talent. They decided to put him on in another time frame, the late night slot. It worked out. Just like finding the correct frame for a picture, they had to find where that talent "fit." No amount of naysaying detracted the management from believing in Letterman as a talent. They took the chance, reworked the show and it paid off.

Believe in the talent. Take the risk.

TIPS ON FINDING AND DEVELOPING TALENT

- * RADIO CAN BE TAUGHT, BUT TALENT IS RARE, IF YOU FIND THE GENUINE ARTICLE... HIRE THEM!
- * LOOK IN NON-TRADITIONAL AREAS FOR AIR TALENT.
- * MAKE YOUR CHOICE, THEN STICK WITH IT.
- * DO NOT PULL THE PLUG TOO SOON IF THE RESULTS DO NOT COME IMMEDIATELY.
- * HAVE FAITH.
- * MOTIVATE THE TALENT WITH HONEST FEEDBACK AND ENCOURAGEMENT.

WHAT IS POWERFUL RADIO?

"I always know it when I hear it..." That is the answer most programmers give when you ask them to define powerful radio. But when specifically asked to define it, many PDs can't do it. The essence of powerful radio is hearing anything on the air that rings true, causes you to feel, laugh, cry, or in some way genuinely react. It is anything that makes you want to keep listening to the radio station on the chance that it'll happen again.

There are some common threads that run through every great and powerful radio moment. First the audience must care about what is being said. The content or topic must reach them, be relevant in some real way. It can never be boring. When it is, listeners tune out.

Everyone has access to the same records. And music is important. But it's the personalities that people listen for and remember, and make a habit of. Of course the key to personality radio is to have a personality. A rich and full life to draw experiences from. The best broadcasters draw on what they see in life and filter it through their own (often strange) creative process. Then it goes on air. The best ones don't really worry what others think. They need to express themselves on the air in their own way.

They talk about what is going on, what they see, notice and feel. They are real people on the air. They talk about what bugs them, what made them react to current events, the news or the music they play. They share themselves and they are good storytellers.

Audiences like to feel that the person on the radio is talking to them directly. The guy behind the mike is their friend, someone like they are with the same kinds of problems, life struggles and experiences. Humor helps. You do not have to be a funny person to be able to recognize a funny moment and have the spontaneity to go with it. It is a relationship between the personality on air and the listener.

CREATING POWERFUL RADIO TIPS

- * DESCRIBE EVERYTHING, SPEAK VISUALLY AND PAINT WORD PICTURES.
- * BE REAL. SHARE YOUR TRUTH. ALWAYS TELL THE TRUTH.
- * NEVER BE BORING.
- * SOMETHING BIG HAPPENING TODAY IS WORTH GOING WITH. RESCHEDULE ANYTHING ELSE. IT IS WORTH IT.
- * LISTEN TO THE STATION.
- * DO SMOOTH AND INTERESTING TRANSITIONS AND HAND-OFFS TO OTHER HOSTS AND PERSONALITIES. SUPPORT THEM SINCERELY.
- * MAKE IT MATTER.
- * USE DETAIL. IT IS THE LITTLE STUFF THAT "MAKES THE STORY".
- * BURY THE DEAD. IF A TOPIC IS OVERDONE, AND YOU ARE TIRED OF IT, DROP IT.
- * ANYTHING PRODUCED ON TAPE SHOULD BE PERFECT. NO EXCUSES.
- * BRAG ABOUT YOUR STUFF!
- * BRAG ABOUT OTHER PEOPLE'S STUFF!
- * IF YOU DO NOT KNOW SOMETHING, IT IS OK.
- * BE WHO YOU ARE ON THE RADIO.
- * RISK. TRY THINGS. DARE TO BE GREAT.

Be a Resource, a Counselor, a Friend, Not Just a Time Peddler

by Ray H. Rosenblum

Ray is a Pittsburgh-based media broker, consultant, and appraiser with a 35-year background in radio station ownership, management, and brokering. He can be reached at P.O. Box 38296, Pittsburgh, PA 15238. His phone number is 412-362-6311.

In selling radio advertising some of our station account representatives are forgetting the lessons they should have learned in sales-training kindergarten before taking that first fatal step through the door of the local merchant or regional ad agency. It's just not good enough for a sales manager to explain the station's programming, positioning, rates, and ratings (if any) before sending a fledgling sales person out on her first flight.

Sometimes a dose of RAB (Radio Advertising Bureau), Dale Carnegie ("How To Win Friends..."), and some basic manners might be more important than all the radio broadcasting jargon. In essence my message is: Be a resource, a counselor, a friend...not just a time peddler.

AD AGENCIES NEED YOUR HELP

For many years, I have worked as a radio station sales person, sales manager, general manager, owner and consultant. Over these years I have pounded the pavements, made sales pitches, and trained others to do so. Last year a friend operating a small advertising agency asked me to set up and temporarily run a new media department for his growing company. For the first time I was able to view my radio station colleagues and friends through the other side of the looking-glass. I could see how agency people perceive the end-products of all those years of radio sales training.

As a temporary media director for the ad agency, I dealt with several hundred radio stations in buying time for three different retail chains. Out of all those radio station people, I was amazed to discover that only one offered me, as a time-buyer, a Radio Advertising Bureau background piece on the industry for which I was buying time. Few even displayed any great knowledge of the business areas that concerned me. The one station person who offered background information on my client's business also presented his station and market well. He got a broadcast order for his station.

In another instance a station account person sent me photos of a new store under construction in his town, so that I could know how my agency's client was progressing toward its local store's opening. This enabled me and the ad agency president to know more that the client did about the progress of constructing that particular store. The station's executive gained my attention, gave me his station's merits, and got an order, as well.

POLITENESS ALWAYS WINS

Another major market radio station sales person refused to give me any spot rates because I could not immediately disclose the name of my client (who had local lease negotiations pending). I believe such unconsidered behavior does not produce dollars for the radio station. Let the sales manager beware: what she doesn't know about her subordinates' behavior can hurt her. Sales managers should monitor their sales staff's procedures.

In still another major market, the radio station sales person, with no apology or effort to be friendly, announced starkly and arrogantly: "We are sold out for 3 months." I responded by asking if he could recommend another station in the market. I wonder if the person had ever heard that old adage: "This too shall pass." In my sales training I teach civility and the notion that everybody comes around again and that politeness ultimately wins the day. Radio station sales people have to know their station's story, but nowadays it seems that managers also have to train them to be polite.

Beyond politeness, the station sales executive must be a resource and an adviser. Face it. The ad agency time-buyer is often one of the greenest people around, especially with a new account in the shop. Never assume that agency people know it all. During my stint as a consultant for an ad agency I discovered that some agency people can get frenetic when they land a new account, or when a client changes media plans by abruptly adding or subtracting various markets and media. When the agency time-buyer has a last-minute need to expand or contract a broadcast schedule, the radio station person can shine by serving the agency person efficiently and politely.

As a sales person, one should be a resource for the agency media department. Give the time-buyer concise information on your market, the competition, and most especially on the sponsor's business, locations, and competition.

ON BEYOND "TELL ME"

As for the local merchant, she or he will be most grateful if you demonstrate that you already know about the business before you walk in and say "tell me." The old RAB slogan of asking the advertiser to "tell me" about his business is not enough these days. Merchants might not have the time to tell you much. They will be even more grateful if you walk in with a study of the competition, speculation ("spec") tape, copy, and a prospective schedule, ready to go.

It's much easier to make the sale when the merchant is already going over which of your copy points he likes or rejects. You have thus moved the selling focus to selecting among copy choices. That takes you beyond the basic question of whether the merchant is going to use your station or medium at all. Your goal is to get the merchant or agency to regard you as a resource and ultimately a counselor, giving advice on how best to influence the market you represent. That means you must know what the target client and its competitors are doing. Clip ads and news stories about the prospective advertiser and its competition. You know you've made it when the merchant or agency person asks for your opinion.

BE A FRIEND, TELL A JOKE

And lastly, be a friend. Have a good clean, non-sexist, non-political joke to tell. Avoid religion or ethnic cracks. Consult a joke book, if you must. When you can get the client to laugh, you have softened up the person at least a little.

It's still good to know your merchant's birthday, family, and hobbies. Some of the most successful sales people in fields apart from broadcasting make it a habit to note and remember their prospects' birthdays, family members' names, and other special interests.

Talking about such matters helps to break down the wall between a sales person and an advertiser. Maybe you'll see him or her at a basketball game or a volunteer firefighter's carnival. That's when the advertiser's guard against "peddlers" is down. As a radio time-sales person some years ago, I once struggled in vain for a year to sell a local bank president, until I finally suggested bank sponsorship of a high school news report from the school where his grand-daughter was a student. That suggestion broke the ice and made a long term sale.

To be a successful time-seller for any radio station you have to know your own station, the ratings, and all of the competition well. Beyond all that, you also have to learn enough about your target advertiser's business and personality so that you are not just asking him or her to tell you all about the company. You have to be a knowledgeable resource, counselor, and friend.

How They Die...Tales from the Z File

by Lee Harris

Lee Harris is a former station owner/operator (whose station did not go dark!) He is currently with WINS, New York, and also produces the "Forbes Report", a nationally syndicated radio program.

In the summer of 1992, I would drive around Madison, Wisconsin, occasionally pushing the first button of my radio and listening to the rush of white noise, where several weeks earlier there had been the sounds of WMAD-FM. The market had suffered its first casualty. The bank which held the paper on WMAD and its AM sister station forced the owners to pull the plug and fire the staff. It was sobering. Where was the greater fool buyer? Since when did unsuccessful stations actually go dark?

As it turns out, WMAD AM and FM were resurrected about a year later in the most likely of ways, as the lesser half of a duopoly. That relatively kind fate awaits many of the stations, especially FM, that are forced into darkness by financial disaster. But some are never coming back.

This edition of the M Street Radio Directory lists 409 stations as Z (silent), or off the air. 132 are FM and 277 are AM, many of which are daytime only stations, a particularly endangered species. Yet of that appalling number only a handful indicate that they have surrendered their licenses and abandoned all hope of rebirth. Most of the FM's and many of the AM's expired with upgrade applications or construction permits on file. This points to the common hope of many floundering broadcasters that "things will be okay if we can just get up to 6 kilowatts, or if we can just move the tower 4 miles closer to town".

In the current environment, some operations are beyond hope. Why and how do they die?

AM daytimers are most likely to expire. These stations may have been successful as recently as 10 years ago, but they are at an obvious and often insurmountable disadvantage. The puny 15 and 63 watt post-sunscat authorizations handed out by the FCC are usually of no practical use to these stations. In a market with multiple full-time facilities, the exit (sale) value of these stations is often negligible, making owners less likely to keep them afloat while waiting for a greater fool to happen by with a checkbook.

Full-time AM stations with bad night-time signals also have many representatives in the Z file. If they have enough towers in the right location, they may be sacrificed to the value of real estate.

WDGY-AM Minneapolis, formerly KDWB, was shut down in the summer of 1994, so the towers could be mowed down and the transmitter site sold, presumably at a price exceeding the value of the radio station as an operational entity. The owners still hold the license, but it remains to be seen if anyone thinks it is worth building an expensive new directional tower system to bring the facility back to life.

Many established broadcasters felt that the FM stations created by docket 80-90 had no business being on the air. In some instances this has turned out to be the case. The Z file is littered with Class A stations licensed to towns with populations in the 1,000 to 3,000 range, too small a retail base to support most stations. Often the operators had their eyes on a nearby metro, but just as often they were operating at a fatal disadvantage by not really being home to the metro.

Also represented in the Z file are stations operated by churches and schools, done in by loss of funding and loss of interest. Essex Community College in Baltimore operated WBYQ-FM for 12 years. But students eventually lost interest in the station (after all, it was only 19 watts at 75 feet) and the college decided to shut it down last year.

WMAD being a notable exception, not many of these stations expired with large audiences to mourn their demise.

In many cases, the station had effectively been brain dead for some time, operating on full-time satellite delivered programming, the radio equivalent of life support. There are many successful satellite programmed stations, but dying stations tend to neglect those necessary local elements which interface with network programming to make it sing.

When is it time to pull the plug? The surest sign that your time is up is when there isn't enough cash to pay the bills and there's no more to borrow. The former General Manager of WTKN in Daleville, Alabama tells a typical tale. An AM daytimer, unblemished by success for many years, WTKN had negligible billing and considerable expenses. Calls to the absentee owner eventually started going unanswered. Finally, the GM says, he had no choice but to fire the staff and take the station dark, without actual approval from the owner.

Sometimes events conspire to put a marginal station out of its misery. WKFD in picturesque Wickford, Rhode Island was getting by until August 1990 when a storm blew the station's 120 foot tower into a cove. WKFD rigged a temporary antenna consisting of a piece of wire held aloft by a helium balloon. Alas, the balloon broke loose a few days later and crashed into power lines, knocking out power to most of the town.

Efforts to erect a replacement tower were stymied by environmental agencies and neighbors. The owners, buried by legal costs, were eventually forced to file for bankruptcy. The WKFD building, sold at auction, now sits empty, on a lot overgrown with weeds. The remains of the tower are buried beneath the mud of the cove. WKFD itself is no more than a vague memory to the people of Wickford. Without a physical plant, billings, or even goodwill, the WKFD license (500 watts daytime/160 watts night at 1370) is perhaps worth the paper it is printed on.

As simple as that. No different in some respects than shutting down an unsuccessful video store or greeting card shop. But we as broadcasters know that it is very different. The Darwinian theory argues that the stations which survive this shaking out will be those destined to survive by virtue of their superior facilities and locations. The companies which own these stations will also be the fittest.

Still, every station, no matter how ill-fated, ill-conceived, underpowered or mismanaged was once somebody's dream...often the station was an actual extension of an individual's voice. And while it may be a thrill to drive a competitor past the brink of extinction, each station's death diminishes us all.

HAMMETT & EDISON, INC. CONSULTING ENGINEERS

Founded in 1952, Hammett & Edison is an internationally recognized leader providing complete engineering services to the radio broadcasting industry. We focus on coverage: obtaining, measuring, predicting and improving coverage for our clients.

Hammett & Edison's experienced professionals are experts at solving the practical technical problems affecting every radio broadcaster. Our clients range from major group owners to ten-watt, non-profit FM stations.

Services include:

- Terrain-based coverage studies
- Due diligence technical evaluations
- AM/FM directional antenna design
- Design of antennas to combine two or more AM or FM stations
- FM booster and translator design to improve coverage
- Radio-frequency radiation exposure studies by computer and measurement
- Airborne and ground measurements of coverage and antenna performance

1994 FCC Overview

by Gregg Skall

Gregg Skall is a communications lawyer with the firm of Pepper & Corazzini in Washington, DC. He frequently represents parties before the Commission and the Congress to obtain desired policy objectives. In 1984, the National Journal recognized him as one of the leading radio spectrum lobbyists in Washington. He writes and speaks on topics of Federal Communications Commission administrative process, electronic mass media, and telecommunications. He may be reached at (202) 296-0600.

Although the 1993-94 broadcasting year saw relatively few major substantive changes to broadcasting regulation for radio, several events occurred which have major significance and which require the attention of broadcasters.

EEO ENFORCEMENT POLICIES

On February 1, 1994 the Commission announced and implemented a new equal employment opportunity enforcement procedure accompanied by 15 EEO decisions to which the new procedures were applied. The new policy statement toughened a series of EEO standards. Previously, the Commission focused its primary attention upon comparing the station's full-time employment profile with minority representation in the station's recruitment area. The Commission has now relegated that comparison to a mitigating factor, focusing instead upon recruitment and relative presence of minorities in interview and applicant pools.

Although the policy has been suspended pending reconsideration, pursuant to action of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia (see below), it is important to review the standards, as they will likely reappear in some form. The policy established a base forfeiture amount of $12,500 plus reporting conditions triggered by a licensee's failure to demonstrate that it has recruited so as to attract an adequate pool of minorities or female candidates for at least two-thirds (66%) of its staff vacancies during the previous license term. It is the licensee's burden to demonstrate that it has met this threshold. The base forfeiture can be triggered by inadequate performance or by a failure to document activities with adequate records.

The Commission then applies certain "upward adjustment criteria" which it considers evidence of egregious misconduct. The upward adjustment criteria include a failure to attract minority or female candidates for at least one-third (33%) of the license term vacancies, a large number of hiring opportunities relative to staff size, a large pool of minorities in the relevant labor force, a history of previous EEO shortfalls, and EEO lapses with respect to minorities and women. The Commission's actions include increasing the fine, short-term renewals and reporting conditions.

The policy also contains "downward adjustment criteria." These would result in either a lower fine or a full-time (rather than a short-term) renewal. Included are hiring of minorities above half or full parity levels on a consistent basis, a low number of hiring opportunities, and a low percentage of minorities in the relevant population. The Commission also holds out financial inability to pay as a possible downward adjustment. Finally, the Commission will permit a downward adjustment for a stand-alone station in an Arbitron 200+ market.

In reviewing the cases released by the Commission, it is worthy to note that the staff rejected most of the equitable claims licensees presented to mitigate the shortfalls in their EEO performance. These included an absence of local minority-specific referral organizations or sources, ineffectiveness of local sources, inadequate skill levels among the minority population, proximity to better paying stations in larger markets, a need for specialized knowledge and expertise to work with a given format, and reliance upon students from an affiliated school having a low minority population in order to save staffing costs. As a result of these rulings, it is now more important than ever to maintain extensive records of hiring activities for each broadcast station. Special records should be maintained with respect to efforts to attract minorities and the sources used for this purpose. Records should also be maintained as to the number of minorities in job applicant and interview pools.

Pepper & Corazzini has developed an EEO primer responsive to the Commission's new EEO program. That pamphlet is available upon request to the author of this article.

REGULATORY FEES

Pursuant to a new statutory authority, the Commission adopted new rules to collect annual regulatory fees. There follows an overview of the Commission's decision:

Amount of Fees

The Commission adopted a schedule of fees proposed by Congress. Radio station fees range from $250 for Class D daytimers to $900 for a Class C, C1, C2 or B FM station. Fees must be filed with the FCC's new Form 159. The date for filing radio station fees in 1994 was August 10 for FM stations and September 2 for AM and international stations or for AM/FM station combinations.

Application Fees

The Commission also announced an increase in its application processing fees. A schedule of the new fees is available from the Commission or from the author of this article.

SBA CHANGES THE "OPINION MOLDER RULE"

The Small Business Administration, at the urging of the National Association of Broadcasters, the National Association of Media Brokers and others, this year repealed its "Opinion Molder Rule," which had prohibited the SBA from guaranteeing loans to broadcasters and other media outlets. The rationale for the rule was that the government, by deciding whether to guarantee such a loan, would infringe on First Amendment rights if it refused the loan guarantee. This concern over free speech resulted in preventing many smaller broadcasters from obtaining lines of credit necessary to expand their businesses.

In response to a Notice of Proposed Rule Making, the SBA received 145 comments, all but two in favor of repealing the rule. The rule had not previously been applied to small business investment companies ("SBICs"), which are licensed by the SBA. The rule change, however, will now permit banks and other lending institutions to make SBA guaranteed loans to broadcasters and other media outlets.

COURT OF APPEALS OVERTURNED FCC FORFEITURE SCHEDULE

In July, 1994, the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia held that the schedule of forfeitures the FCC adopted in 1991 and modified in 1993 was not a "policy statement" as the Commission had characterized it, but a rule that should have been subject to public comment procedures pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act. The Court directed the Commission to put the schedule of forfeitures out for comment and "be prepared to justify whatever rule it fashions to the public and, if necessary, to the judiciary."

The United States Telephone Association (USTA) had challenged the FCC's forfeiture schedule contending that the Commission should have sought public comment as required by the Administrative Procedures Act and that the FCC discriminated against common carriers by assessing higher forfeitures against that class of licensees than others for the same offense. The Court agreed with the USTA that public comment was required.

COMPARATIVE HEARING CRITERIA

In June of 1994, the Commission solicited further comments on the modification of criteria used in comparative hearings to award construction permits for new broadcast facilities. The rule making proceeding is required as a result of the decision Bechtel v. FCC, decided by the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals in 1993 which ruled that the Commission had not properly justified the comparative criteria that it has used since 1965 in comparative broadcast hearings. The Court noted that the criteria had not been comprehensively examined for 27 years and that changes in the broadcast marketplace, in broadcast technology, and in the Commission's regulatory policies for broadcasting now warranted re-examination of the criteria. The Commission asked commenters to address the question how the Commission can comply with the Bechtel case. They asked the public to suggest what objective and rational criteria can be used to evaluate applicants' comparative qualifications in light of Bechtel. In response to the problems of Bechtel, the Commission has frozen all application proceedings at the point at which they become mutually exclusive.

NRSC-2 STANDARD

On July 1, 1994, licensees of all AM radio stations were required to take measurements demonstrating compliance with NRSC-2 standards showing an absence of spurious emissions. In 1990, the Commission had begun requiring AM stations to comply with what is known as the NRSC-1 guidelines for spurious emissions. Since 1990, an AM station was considered to be in compliance with the Rules if it used certain approved equipment in the audio chain.

By July 1, 1994, however, all AM stations had to take measurements in order to demonstrate compliance with the emission limits contained in Section 73.44 of the Commission's Rules. After July 1, 1994, the measurements must be taken annually, with no more than 14 months elapsing between measurements.

Once the measurements are taken, the measurement data must be accompanied by description of the equipment and procedures used in taking the measurements, and must be signed and dated by the qualified person or persons taking the measurements. The measurements must be kept on file at the transmitter or remote control point of the station for a period of two years, and on request must be made available to representatives of the FCC.

Recognizing potentially burdensome costs, the FCC does not require AM broadcasters to purchase all necessary equipment. Although the FCC suggests using a radio frequency spectrum analyzer calibrated in accordance with Section 73.44(a) of the Rules, a licensee may use "other specialized receivers or monitors with appropriate characteristics." However, any disputes about the accuracy of the measurements will be resolved in favor of measurements obtained by a properly calibrated spectrum analyzer.

AM STEREO TRANSMISSION STANDARD

The Commission adopted the Motorola C-Quam system as the standard for AM stereo transmission. The Commission had been required by Congress in its 1992 Appropriation Act to choose a single stereo transmission standard. The FCC endorsed the Motorola system largely on the basis of its market dominance. It rejected the Kahn system contention that such dominance was achieved through anti-competitive practices, noting that such allegations are being litigated through civil suits. The Commission also rejected the premise that its decision on an AM stereo standard should be based solely on technical performance, concluding that the Motorola system represented an adequate balance of cost and quality.

The Commission rejected the proposal of several parties to permit incompatible systems to continue to operate, instead requiring full compliance with the C-Quam standard. However, stations transmitting stereophonic programs with other systems prior to March 21, 1994, may continue to do so until March 21, 1995, as long as they continue to comply with the Rules in effect prior to March 21, 1994. Some degree of relief was afforded to operators using the Kahn POWER-side AM single-side band system. That system involves modulating an AM transmitter with two independent side bands containing identical program material, but with intentional level and frequency response differences. The Commission found that the Kahn POWER-side system did not fall within its stereo standard ruling and may continue to be used.

The Commission largely adopted the Motorola-based specifications for stereophonic transmission, but with two changes. First, it agreed to specify a tolerance of plus or minus one percent for the nominal injection level of five percent for the pilot tone indicating the presence of stereophonic information. Second, it increased from one percent to three percent the maximum total harmonic distortion of the pilot tone.

Finally, Motorola is required to license its patents to other parties under fair and reasonable terms.

Actual Radio Measurement

by Karl Baehr

Publisher's note: The following article is provided by Karl Baehr, who is President/CEO of Actual Radio Measurement Inc., and President of KBE "Broadcasting By Design," the consultancy that first introduced ARM to the industry. Actual Radio Measurement, Inc. is one of the least known of the audience measurement firms, with a radically different approach to analyzing ratings. As such, we thought you might like to hear his story. We're always open to your opinions or information regarding new audience measurement technologies. Contact us at (212) 473-4668.

Karl Baehr holds a BA in Radio, Television and Film and is currently pursuing a Masters degree in Mass Communication Research. He can be reached directly at (505) 828-0488.

"Actual Radio Measurement is the kind of information broadcasters would love to get their hands on. A survey of thousands of radios that shows exactly what stations people are listening to and when they're listening, without a diary or telephone call." Broadcasting Magazine

If you really believe that the listening trends of several hundred thousand, or several million people can be accurately determined by several hundred returned diaries or phone calls, you should probably skip over the next couple of pages. If you're like many of the people in our industry who are fed up with Mesozoic methodology, empty promises and new covers on the same old book, then I would like to introduce you to the future of radio ratings.

ARM measures AM and FM in-car radio listenership. Using Department of Transportation traffic flow data, U.S. Census information combined with intelligence gathered from the market, the company selects individual survey locations throughout the metro-county. Surveys are designed to provide an accurate market profile. ARM surveys average two locations per-daypart, per-day 6am to midnight, for a total of 56 individual survey locations contained in the seven day survey. Surveys average nearly 15,000 samples in-tab. Survey books are broken out by location, day and daypart. Totals are provided for the survey (all dayparts) and by daypart as well.

Information at the individual survey sites is gathered electronically using the ARM Traffic Survey Unit or TSU. The TSU employs digital frequency monitoring, a computer and an antenna system to detect the frequency a car's radio is tuned to. The TSU can monitor up to 25 station frequencies per second.

ARM has conducted surveys commercially since 1992 in Houston, Dallas/Fort Worth, Albuquerque and in smaller markets such as Lubbock and Abilene, Texas. In addition to the broadcast market reports, another aspect of ARM's business has developed around non-broadcast applications of the technology. This "custom" application has become of increasing interest to advertising agencies who can now pinpoint media buys for individual client locations such as restaurant and retail chains, shopping malls, car dealerships and other retail applications. Due to this depth in applications, "ARM has caused some diary-dependent media buyers to turn their dials," says ADWEEK Magazine.

ARM excels in areas where other systems simply break down.

- * ARM is a look at reality, not an estimate of perceived reality based on the recall of a few specific individuals.
- * ARM does not weight its sample base. One sample gathered in the field represents one sample contained in the survey.

- * Sample size is the largest available in the industry, and you don't pay extra for it!
- * ARM is technology driven, not a labor intensive process. As technology improves, so will ARM's capabilities.
- * ARM is fast. ARM affiliates currently receive detailed survey data within 72 hours of a survey's completion. That's three days, not thirty days. This means simply that the information you receive is timely and usable.
- * ARM is truly passive and does not require a radio station to purchase anything, nor a listener to remember to wear something in order to produce accurate surveys.
- * ARM can remove doubt and concern regarding historically low survey returns from specific demographic, ethnic and listening groups.
- * Beyond the numbers, ARM provides perhaps the most powerful tool for the direct selling of airtime that the radio industry has ever seen. In fact Dickie Rosenfeld formerly of KILT and KJJK, Houston has said, "I've already made enough money with ARM to pay for it forever."

According to the Radio Advertising Bureau, over 75% of all adult Americans are reached in their car by radio every week. In-car listening is critical to radio stations. Drive times are prime times for radio stations and buyers, and as stated in a recently published article, "When you take a look at listening locations in either (Arbitron or AccuRatings) you can see that in-car listening contributes significantly to come and quarter hours. Some stations have a majority of their coming and average quarter hours coming from in-car listening!" ARM is not stopping at in-car listening though, and the future of the company holds even more exciting innovations.

Research and development of an enhanced Traffic Survey Unit continues. These new TSU's can be remotely operated and polled. This will enable ARM to establish a large number of fixed survey locations in any given market. This new system will incorporate the use of U.S. Census "Centroids," or specific locations within a census block or block group that represents the profile of that location. An in-home version, or Interior Survey Unit, will allow for remote polling of specific profile households and businesses. The international applications of ARM are also being developed. The first international survey will be published in 1995.

Perhaps the most immediate change in the ARM survey process will be the demise of the book as the primary source for provision of survey information. Replacing the books is ARM On-line, a computer network that will allow affiliates to instantly and directly download standard survey information into an on-site software application that will provide them with a fully functional database as well as the ability for geo-demographic plotting and overlays, comparisons by location, station, format, daypart, trending and other functions specifically addressing media buying applications among them.

The Actual Radio Measurement Advisory Council was formed earlier this year in an effort to provide the industry with "What it needs the way it needs it." ARMAC lists among its members; George Stokes, VP/GM KRTS FM and KRTK FM Houston, Dr. Everett Rogers, Chairman of the Department of Communication & Journalism at The University of New Mexico and former Annenberg Chair, and Brian Robinson, VP/Regional Manager of Eastman Radio. The ARMAC will help to maintain the research and implementation of the survey process, future product developments, policies and practices of Actual Radio Measurement.

As A-R-M only does in-car listening and does not track demographics, a true comparison with Arbitron is not possible. We did think you would enjoy a fast look at how stations did in each survey for the Houston market. Arbitron measured from January 6 to March 20, 1994 with 3,055 diaries. A-R-M measured from March 7 to March 13 with 9,980 detects. The numbers are reprinted from the M Street Journal article in Vol. 11, #19 (May 11, 1994).

Radio Data ON-LINE

from M Street. . .

Although the directory is not available on diskette, M Street provides data services to many major broadcast companies on hard copy, on-line, or in-house.

Each week we post more than five hundred updates to our radio database. If you're in need of accurate information on addresses, phone numbers, formats, or anything else, then you need to be on-line with M Street.

Accurate.
 Dependable.

The M Street Directory, as well as the M Street Journal and the M Street databases, are edited by broadcasters, for broadcasters. The staff at M Street has done it all...from engineering to station ownership, small markets to networks. We understand the data we provide. We carefully and meticulously analyze every piece of information. In short, we care.

Because of this dedication, hundreds of broadcast companies, government agencies, networks, and stations across the country count on us every day for the most accurate, up-to-date radio station information available.

Call us anytime.

MStreet

The Journal

Each week, the M Street Journal tracks over 500 changes. We keep on top of the latest developments in program formats, network affiliations, station trading, duopolies, LMAs, facility modifications, station start-ups, translators, call letters, construction permits, allocations, programs and products, industry news and the latest from Washington (FCC and regulatory-related news).

The Directory

You are holding it right now. The M Street Radio Directory lists the addresses, phone numbers, formats, facilities, owners, managers, selected personnel, and ratings for all stations in the U.S. and Canada. The annual directory summarizes a year's worth of M Street Journal station information.

The Database

M Street's data services are simply the best in the business. We provide custom mailing labels, reports and databases that enable you to reach the multi-billion dollar radio industry. By sorting our data by station format, market size or dozens of other criteria, we can create packages that meet your specific needs. Our turnaround is remarkably fast, too. Custom orders are in your hands within one week.

The Facts

M Street offers one-to-one consulting on a wide variety of industry topics.
Call us when you need to know more about radio.

Radio Data ON-LINE

from M Street. . .

Although the directory is not available on diskette, M Street provides data services to many major broadcast companies on hard copy, on-line, or in-house.

Each week we post more than five hundred updates to our radio database. If you're in need of accurate information on addresses, phone numbers, formats, or anything else, then you need to be on-line with M Street.

Label Me.

Hey! You with the new release! I know. . . it's the hottest thing since sliced-bread and the stations will play it a hundred times a day once they get it. But you're not sure which stations will accept your not-quite-rock-and-or-country-or-alternative-hard-core-singing-ballad-in-Swahili. Why try? Call us one week before the demos get into your hands and we'll have the address labels for the stations who are probably just Dyin' to hear your demo. Labels and telemarketing reports made your way... (800) 248-4242.

Just in case that "perfect" station just happens to be up for sale and they SWEAR it makes the Chicago market. Let the M Street Map Service create custom maps of your stations or stations you want to know about.
 We can even fax your map the same day. (800) 248-4242.

Psst. Hey Buddy. Wanna Buy A Station?

MStreet

The Journal

Each week, the M Street Journal tracks over 500 changes. We keep on top of the latest developments in program formats, network affiliations, station trading, duopolies, LMAs, facility modifications, station start-ups, translators, call letters, construction permits, allocations, programs and products, industry news and the latest from Washington (FCC and regulatory-related news).

The Directory

You are holding it right now. The M Street Radio Directory lists the addresses, phone numbers, formats, facilities, owners, managers, selected personnel, and ratings for all stations in the U.S. and Canada. The annual directory summarizes a year's worth of M Street Journal station information.

The Database

M Street's data services are simply the best in the business. We provide custom mailing labels, reports and databases that enable you to reach the multi-billion dollar radio industry. By sorting our data by station format, market size or dozens of other criteria, we can create packages that meet your specific needs. Our turnaround is remarkably fast, too. Custom orders are in your hands within one week.

The Facts

M Street offers one-to-one consulting on a wide variety of industry topics.
Call us when you need to know more about radio.

Accurate. Dependable.

The M Street Directory, as well as the M Street Journal and the M Street databases, are edited by broadcasters, for broadcasters. The staff at M Street has done it all...from engineering to station ownership, small markets to networks. We understand the data we provide. We carefully and meticulously analyze every piece of information. In short, we care.

Because of this dedication, hundreds of broadcast companies, government agencies, networks, and stations across the country count on us every day for the most accurate, up-to-date radio station information available.

Call us anytime.

ARBITRON

This section lists the M Street RADIO MARKETS in the United States. In general, a station is included in a market if it is licensed to a city in that market or if the market is a primary focus of its marketing activities.

For each listing, the market name is followed by all states served, Metro and Total Survey Area populations (TSA), the M Street 1994 market rank (MST), the Arbitron 1994 market rank (ARB), the Willhight survey dates (if any), followed by AM and FM stations, in dial order.

Metro and Total Survey Area population figures are based on the 12+ population estimates of Arbitron, if an Arbitron-rated market; Willhight, if the market is rated by Willhight but not Arbitron; or M Street, if the market is not rated. M Street rank is based on population estimates for the M Street-defined market area, which is defined by postal zip codes, rather than counties. The market definitions of Arbitron and Willhight are influenced by stations purchasing each company's ratings services, and do not necessarily coincide with each other or with M Street.

Audience estimates are for persons 12+ Monday-Sunday, 6 a.m. to midnight, average quarter hour shares and persons from the Metro Survey Area. Ratings for each Arbitron market are from Spring 1994, which was surveyed from March 31 to June 22, 1994. Willhight survey dates are given separately for each market.

This year's directory includes ratings trend information for many markets. The column headers indicate the rating period, or "book", from which the numbers came. Here are our abbreviations, as well as the survey dates for each book:

"W94"	Winter '94 Arbitron	Jan. 6 - Mar. 30, 1994
"F93" or "Fall 93"	Fall '93 Arbitron	Sept. 23 - Dec. 15, 1993
"S93"	Summer '93 Arbitron	Jun. 24 - Sep. 15, 1993
"Sp 93" or "Spring 93"	Spring '93 Arbitron	Apr. 1 - Jun. 23, 1993

If the market is measured by both Willhight and Arbitron, the Willhight share is listed in the last column as "Will". Trend data may not be available for all stations. Arbitron does not release rating information for non-commercial stations.

For more information on ratings and copyright information, see the ABOUT RATINGS section at the front of the book. Estimates are Copyrighted and may not be quoted or reproduced without prior written permission of the Copyright owner. For more information on the format descriptions for each station, see the FORMAT CLASSIFICATIONS section at the front of the book.

As with other sections of the book, M Street RADIO MARKETS are a condensation of data collected and are revised on an ongoing basis by M Street. Please call or write us with updates, corrections, or inquiries for customized applications of our market data.

Key to markets section:

For each listing, the market name is followed by Metro and Total Survey Area populations (TSA), the M Street 1994 market rank (MST), the Arbitron 1994 market rank (ARB), the Willlight survey dates (if any), followed by AM and FM stations in dial order. All current Arbitron ratings are from the Spring, 1994 survey period.

Estimates are for persons 12+ Monday-Sunday, 6 am to midnight, average quarter hour shares from the Metro Survey area. From our exclusive, spending-focused Retail Spending Power to the invaluable qualitative information in QualiTAP, stations across the United States are using TAPSCAN's exclusive Business Intelligence feature to make a tremendous impact on their station's revenue...

TAPSCAN'S BUSINESS
AN IMPACT
ACROSS THE U.S.!

Just take a look at how these clients have successfully used TAPSCAN's Business Intelligence to positively impact their sales. For more information, contact your TAPSCAN sales representative. Find out why TAPSCAN is a major profit center for more than a thousand stations.

Joseph Losi, KPLU, Seattle, WA, landed a long-pursued account who's initial buy was enough to pay for KPLU's TAPSCAN system for the entire year.

Trocey Smith, KSFI/KDYL/KRSP, Salt Lake City, UT, used QualiTAP to sell a client a $10,000 promotion.

Joe Ferguson, KINK, Portland, OR, presented a prospect with QualiTAP information showing that KINK's listenership was the ideal target for the prospect, and closed a $30,000 sale.

Micki Johnson, WAOR, South Bend, IN, used RSP to secure a $28,000 grocery store buy.

Andrew Feit, WWWE, Cleveland, OH, let Prospector uncover a prospect that led to an $8000 sale.

Chris Stolfo, WDAF, Kansas City, MO, used Retail Spending Power to close a $25,000 automobile dealership sale.

Ron Stone, WZZU, Raleigh, NC, skillfully used Prospector to uncover a prospect that turned into a $50,000 client.

Judy Usher, WMJJ, Birmingham, AL, used RSP to land a $40,000 employment agency sale.

Gene McCoy, WYAY, Atlanta, GA, uncovered two qualified prospects with Prospector and then closed orders totalling $42,000, utilizing the qualitative reports from QualiTAP.

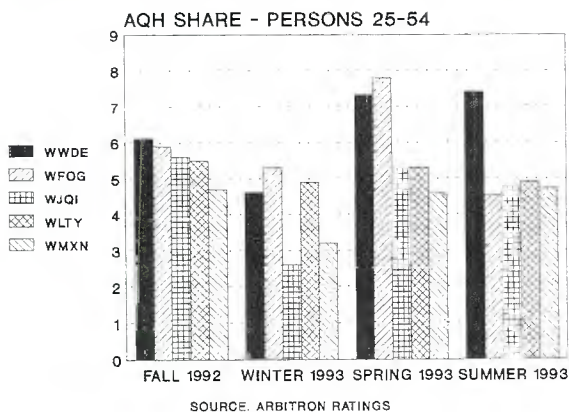

MEDIA PERSPECTIVES RESEARCH GETS RESULTS

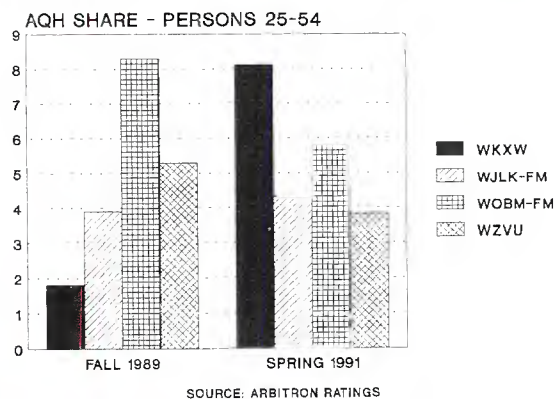

RadiographicSM Segmentation from MEDIA PERSPECTIVES provides radio broadcasters with actionable information that gives them a competitive edge.

When you understand how listeners think about radio, when you identify their tastes and interests, when you learn their attitudes, when you discover the factors that motivate people to listen to radio and report listening in ratings diaries, you are able to develop strategies which lead to decisive ratings victories.

IS YOUR RADIO RATINGS COMPANY ADDING MORE TO THEIR BOTTOM LINE THAN YOURS?

If you just answered yes to this question, now is the time to do something about it. Why not buy from a radio ratings company that does radio ratings right?

Willhight Research features our own in-depth "8 point Station Identification Probe". This means that your station is credited correctly. Willhights' qualitative data is respondent based and market specific, so you have the information you need to sell smart.

Change the way you buy radio ratings. Call

Is your company looking to hire...

...its next SUPER SELLING MACHINE?

...the hot GM who'll take your station to the next step?

...the PD with great numbers who's ready for the chance to program in the majors?

Need a Job?

- Been displaced by Duopoly?
- Are YOU the fallout from the latest corporate merger?
- Is your turnaround project complete, and it's time to move on to the next challenge?

Wouldn't it be great if there was a publication that printed a list of radio jobs every day?

There is.

PROSPECT EFFECTIVELY

Effective marketing to radio stations requires accurate data. Companies wrestling with the mammoth task of maintaining an accurate station database can attest to this. Just keeping addresses and phone numbers up-to-date takes hours of verification every week.

At M Street, accurate data is our business. We keep track of over 100 pieces of information on every station in the U.S. and Canada, not just addresses and phone numbers. We spend the time and money to keep the listings up to date--so you don't have to.

Since 1984, we've been providing telemarketing lists, mailing labels, and custom reports to hundreds of companies, large and small. We now provide on-line data services, too, so that your prospect database is as clean as possible, at a price you can afford.

We'll design a plan that best meets your special needs, whether its an occasional mailing list, or an on-going marketing campaign. Call us.

RadioSoft brings the Database to LIFE

Tired of working with a slow, dull database?

If so, it's time to take a good look at the new RadioSoft FMR Database. . .

FMR contains more information about more broadcast stations than any competitive product, including the one used by the FCC! And it's all current and very accurate. Equally important, it is incredibly fast. Even on a slow, 286 computer, requested information that once took hours or days from other sources can be viewed on your computer screen in a matter of seconds. No more phone calls to data services; no more tedious searches of printed source books that are almost always out of date. Need hard copy? No problem. FMR will let your printer make attractive, legible copies of all displayed information, including maps and charts. Above all, FMR is very simple and easy to use. You won't need a training course, as offered by most database companies, and you won't have to read a 500-page manual. A brief and concise operator's guide, and easy to follow on-line help make FMR easy enough for a beginner, and flexible enough for the professional. Our technical assistance specialists will quickly answer any questions, or even add new features to your program with a simple phone call.

The data we possess about Canadian stations has been a challenge to acquire simply because of a lack of sources. For instance, Canada has authorized several one watt “community stations.” As you can imagine, this information is acquired with the same degree of difficulty as collecting Chilean baseball cards. We’ve provided data when we have it, but you’ll still find it sketchy in some areas. As always, please call us if you can help us fill in the holes. We’d love to hear from you.

Another challenge we face with Canadian information stems from differences between American and Canadian regulatory licensing requirements. In Canada, low power repeating stations are licensed under the same requirements as a full power station. We have listed these only where we consider them to have a significant service area. Even then, you may still find missing information because of the difficulty faced in trying to collect it.

In the United States, if a station repeats another station (as in a local marketing agreement), we will generally replace the repeating station’s address and phone number with the one that it repeats. In Canada, the repeating station’s address is left blank to save space, because there are so many stations that repeat other stations. To find the address for one of these stations look under the station that it repeats.

For more information on the format descriptions for each station, see the FORMAT CLASSIFICATIONS section at the front of the book.

Records must be complete and self-explanatory. Numerical or shorthand codes are not allowed! Generally, material in the file must be retained for the longer of the license term, or until the FCC grants the first license renewal after the materials were put in the file.

Other items that must be kept in the public file include, with some exceptions, all FCC applications and all correspondence about them between the FCC and the applicant, FCC decisions about the station, and a statement about any petitions to deny which might have been filed against the station. The station must also keep the engineering portion of any application as long as it reflects the current technical operation of the station, and for three years after it becomes obsolete.

The file must also include every ownership report or supplemental ownership report filed after May 13, 1965 for the longer of the usual retention period, or as long as they reflect current ownership. All control, management or programming agreements associated with ownership reports must be filed. For example, network affiliation (television only), citizen group programming agreements, stock pledges, oppositions and proxy statements. While the file does not require agreements with the station personnel and professionals, copies of them must be kept available for inspection by authorized FCC officials.

EEO has been a hot topic in recent years and the public file is a place where some licensees get in EEO trouble. The station must maintain in the file a copy of every Annual Employment Report with all associated documents and a copy of the station's EEO Program submitted with the last renewal.

The file must include sponsor identification materials for political or "controversial issues of public importance" programming, the FCC publication The Public and Broadcasting - A Procedure Manual, letters from the public that do not request anonymity, a certification of compliance with public notice of renewal applications, and all other matters which have a "substantial bearing" on a claim or complaint against the licensee or permittee or which relate to a Commission investigation.

SATELLITE DIGITAL AUDIO BROADCASTING (DAB)

The Commission issued a rulemaking proceeding looking toward the establishment of satellite DAB in the "S" band. In that same notice, the Commission asked for an update on the technical development of other DAB systems, such as in-band, on-channel systems. On a parallel track, the Commission has accepted six applications proposing satellite DAB service, with those applications proposing everything from all subscription radio to a full commercial service using 28 separate satellites spot beams to major metropolitan areas with each spot beam carrying 16 channels of service, in addition to 16 channels of service covering the entire continental United States. The proceeding remains open.

In the meanwhile, the National Radio Systems Committee, a joint effort of the National Association of Broadcasters and the Electronic Industries Association, has convened a committee for exploring various options for in-band, on-channel systems. The committee is continuing to meet regularly in an effort to develop a standard satisfactory to all parties.

RADIO BROADCAST DATA SYSTEMS (RBDS)

The National Radio Systems Committee, the joint venture of the National Association of Broadcasters and the Electronic Industries Association, has adopted a Standard for Radio Broadcast Data Systems, known as RBDS. The system incorporates the Radio Data Systems (RDS) Standard employed by the European Broadcasting Union and additional U.S. enhancements, such as the In-Receiver Database System (IRDS) and MBS/MMBS, the system used by CUE Nationwide Network for FM subcarrier paging and other users of subcarrier data capability. The IRDS system is an in-receiver ROM database that is updated by a subcarrier data stream. It will be used primarily to make some RBDS benefits available to AM broadcasters.

RBDS provides radio broadcasters with the opportunity to have a display on the face of the receiver which provides the information identifying the station, its location, and the format in which it is broadcasting at the time. The codes are broadcaster controlled and can be displayed on character screens located in the new RBDS radios. They are especially useful to allow the receiver to scan by format. In addition, RBDS can be employed to provide some of the following services: alternate frequencies to have a receiver retune itself to a broadcaster-designated alternate frequency when the one to which it is tuned becomes weak; emergency broadcasts which may replace the existing EBS system; paging services; navigational services for utilization in automobiles and other mobile vehicles, and transparent data channels which can be used for any purpose.

NEW PROPOSED RF RADIATION STANDARD

The Commission is seeking to implement more restrictive guidelines for the exposure of workers and the public to radio frequency (RF) radiation. This would conform the Commission's rules to the November, 1992, American National Standard Institute (ANSI) Standards which more severely restrict the amount of environmental RF exposure permitted, cover a broader range of frequencies, set different limits for workers and the general public, and narrow the range of accepted devices. Where there is any question of possible exposure of the general public (including non-technical employees) to RF radiation, the Commission proposes to apply a more conservative guideline.

DISCLOSURES OF COMMERCIAL INTEREST

The Communications Act requires that any announcement or promotion aired by a broadcast station for which money or anything else of value is paid to the station must include an announcement that the matter being broadcast is a paid promotion or advertisement. Moreover, an employee of the licensee who accepts something of value for broadcasting any information or announcement must disclose that payment, in advance of the broadcast, to the station's management. Failure to make such disclosures could result in the violation of the FCC's "payola" and "plugola" rules and federal statutes.

Payola is defined as the undisclosed payment of something of value to a station employee for the on-air promotion of goods, services, or events. Payment to a station employee for broadcast of a particular recording is a classic form of payola. Plugola is the promotion by a station of an item or event in which the licensee or one of its employees has an undisclosed financial interest. An example of this would be an on-air promotion or discussion of a concert in which a station employee has a commercial interest. Such a promotion is permissible if the management of the station is aware of the interest and when appropriate sponsorship information is announced. If disclosure is not made, federal law is violated, which can lead to the loss of a license.

CONTESTS AND LOTTERY RULES

The Commission's rules restrict the broadcast of lottery information and impose forfeitures upon stations found to have done so. A determination that a lottery exists requires a finding that the elements of prize, consideration and chance all exist. The Commission will also fine or sanction a station for broadcasting lotteries that were provided to it in the context of syndicated programs that are carried on a barter or cash basis.

The question of whether there is "consideration" is tricky, and what a licensee and the contest promoter may perceive as a free, alternate means of entry could be viewed by the Commission as onerous enough to constitute "consideration," thus making the contest an illegal lottery. It is also important to bear in mind that recent revisions to the laws on lottery permit the broadcast of information about contests that have the element of a lottery so long as the lottery is either authorized or otherwise not prohibited by state law and conducted as a promotional activity by a commercial organization that is clearly "occasional and ancillary" to the main business of the sponsoring organization. Special rules apply to advertising pertaining to Indian gaming.

If the contest has the elements of a lottery, you must check with the appropriate official in your state to determine whether it is permissible under state law. If the state law prohibits the lottery, it is a violation of the Commission's Rules to broadcast information about it.

To provide protection against liability, a licensee should have in place procedures for systematic review of every program, and indemnification provisions in its syndication contracts.

BROADCAST HOAXES

The FCC prohibits the broadcast of hoaxes containing false information concerning a crime or catastrophe. It defines a "crime" as any act or omission subject to criminal punishment and a "catastrophe" as a disaster involving violent or sudden events affecting the public. Thus, the rule does not cover a broadcast that might upset some listeners but does not pose a substantial threat to public health or safety.

A violation of the hoax rule requires a finding of the following three elements:

1. Licensee knowledge of falsity -- the licensee must have known that the broadcast concerning the crime or catastrophe was false. A licensee will be held accountable for the actions of its employees and, therefore, must monitor their actions.
2. Foreseeability of substantial public harm -- the FCC deems public harm to have been foreseeable if the licensee could expect with a reasonable degree of certainty that substantial harm would occur.
3. Direct causation of substantial public harm -- the FCC defines public harm as damage to the health or safety of the general public, diversion of law enforcement or other public health or safety authorities from their duties, and damage to property. The public harm must begin immediately after the broadcast and result in actual damage, rather than a mere threat of harm.

PUBLIC INSPECTION FILES

All broadcasting stations are required to maintain a station file open to public inspection. The file must be kept in the station's community of license at an accessible location. If the main studio is in the community, then it must be kept there. If not, it must be kept somewhere else in the community, and a toll free telephone number must be maintained to provide the public access to station management. The file must be available upon request, without further inquiry except for name and address, during normal business hours, and the inquiring party must be allowed to copy any portion of it.

The public file must contain a variety of station information. Two of the most important items are the station's annual "Issues/Program List," a list of community issues and the station's most significant programming responding to them, and the Political File.

The "Issues/Programs" List must be prepared every three months and placed in the public file on the tenth day of each calendar quarter. The Political File must include a complete record of all requests for broadcast time made by or on behalf of candidates for public office, along with information about disposition and charges. Requests for a specific class or length of time must be recorded even if time is not actually sold.

The Communications Act imposes two limitations on the rates that may be charged for political advertisements. They are known as Lowest Unit Charge and the Comparable Use Rules. The Lowest Unit Charge applies for 45 days preceding primary elections and 60 days preceding a general election. It requires that a station determine the lowest advertising rate it is charging its advertisers, including all potential discounts. This rate then becomes the maximum rate that may be charged to bona fide candidates in an election for the same length spot during the same part of the day, even if they do not otherwise meet the criteria normally required to qualify for a preferred rate.

The following discussion, although not intended to be exhaustive or complete, highlights some of the most important features of the political rules.

Reasonable Access -- The Communications Act itself mandates access only for federal candidates. The Commission has decided that since the statute mentions only federal access, reasonable access applies only to federal candidates and need not be extended to local elections. Thus, the station may, if it chooses, deny access to non-federal candidates. However, if a station chooses to afford access to non-federal candidates, it must also afford equal access to each of that candidate's legally qualified opponents.

Sales of Political Time Within News Programming -- A station may adopt policies to exclude candidates from purchasing advertising within news broadcasts.

Sale of Time On the Weekend Before Election -- A station must have staff available to sell, produce and/or program candidate spots on the weekend before the election, if it has provided such weekend services to any commercial advertiser at any time during the year preceding the election.

Definition of a "Use" -- The Commission defines a "use" as any recognizable appearance by a legally qualified candidate in a non-exempt program (exempt programs include bona fide newscasts, bona fide news interviews, news documentaries, and on the spot coverage of bona fide news events). Thus, an "oldies" radio station playing an old Sonny and Cher recording while Sonny Bono is running for political office, could find itself liable to give away massive amounts of time to Sonny's political opponents.

Disclosure -- You must treat a candidate as if he or she does not know the first thing about advertising on your station. This is true even if a candidate works through an advertising agency, political consultant, or some other sophisticated and experienced intermediary. Every factor that could reasonably bear upon a candidate's advertising strategy must be disclosed. In other words, a station must treat a political advertiser as it would treat its most favored advertiser, but assume that they know nothing about advertising on radio or television. Although it cannot be required, it is strongly advised that a station obtain written confirmation from candidates that they have received a full disclosure of sales practices before any political spots are aired.

Classes of Time -- The FCC permits a station to establish as many separate classes of time as it wishes, so long as there is a genuine, demonstrable difference between them, not based upon price or quantity.

Rebates -- The FCC emphasizes that inadvertent overcharges to a candidate must be discovered and refunded promptly, generally in time to be used in connection with the political campaign.

Improper Sponsor Identification -- It is the licensee's responsibility to assure that an adequate sponsorship identification is connected with the advertisement. If reasonable assurances cannot be obtained from the candidate, the station may insert the required sponsorship identification into a deficient spot without providing additional broadcast time, even if it means obliterating some of the candidate's message.

Personal Attack Rules -- The Personal Attack Rules requires that if, and only if, in the context of a program concerning a controversial issue of public importance, an attack occurs on the honesty, character, integrity or other personal qualities of an identified or easily identifiable person or group, then the station must take the following steps within one week of the attack: (1) notify the person or group attacked of the date and time, and identify the broadcast; (2) send a tape or transcript or, if none are available, as accurate a summary as possible to the attacked party; and (3) offer a reasonable opportunity for response.

Political Editorials -- When a licensee airs an editorial, either for or against a legally qualified candidate, it is required to provide notification, a transcript, and an opportunity to reply. If an editorial endorses a candidate, then the notice and the offer to reply must be given to the other legally qualified candidates in the same race. If the editorial opposes the candidate, then that candidate must receive the notice and the reply offer. A station is not obligated to allow the candidate to personally appear in a reply, however, as long as there is an opportunity for someone to air a response. There are specific rules regarding the timing of the notice and reply offer.

OBSCENE AND INDECENT PROGRAMMING

A major regulatory concern is the area of obscenity and indecency. While this area is also regulated by the states, the FCC relies upon a Congressional Act which states that "whoever utters any obscene, indecent, or profane language by means of radio communication shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than 2 years or both." In 1988, the Commission adopted the following benchmark to determine indecency: "language or material that depicts or describes, in terms patently offensive as measured by contemporary community standards for the broadcast medium, sexual or excretory activities or organs."

Although it qualifies as protected speech under the First Amendment, indecent programming may be required to be channeled to certain hours of the day. However, both a 24 hour ban on such programming was overturned and a midnight to 6 AM safe harbor period was stayed by the court of appeals. The Commission is now enforcing a ban from 6 AM to 8 PM pursuant to a court order. The matter of safe harbor periods remains under appeal at this writing. Obscenity, on the other hand, is not protected speech and may be entirely proscribed. The FCC has no authority to impose criminal sanctions for obscene or indecent broadcasts. Only the Justice Department may bring criminal actions under this statute. However, the FCC may bring administrative sanctions and monetary forfeitures. The Commission has attempted to bring actions to further define indecent programming and the "safe harbor" time period in which it may be presented, and many of those cases are still in litigation. Any broadcaster venturing into this area of speech is well advised to pay close attention to the Commission's litigation over such programming.

FCC PROCEDURES

The FCC's forfeiture authority is limited by law to $25,000 for each violation for each day of a continuing violation, up to a maximum of $250,000. In 1991, the Commission adopted a new approach to assessing forfeitures. This new approach assigns a "base amount" for each category of infraction, expressed as a percentage of the maximum daily amount of $25,000, ranked according to the severity of each offense. The Commission also has established a range of upward and downward "adjustment criteria," which are to be used in increasing or decreasing the base amount according to the surrounding circumstances. In its policy statement, the Commission also warned broadcasters that it "remains free . . . to respond to violations with other or additional action, for example, admonishment, revocation or non-renewal." This new approach was challenged in the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia where it was determined to have been improperly adopted under the Administrative Procedures Act. It has, therefore, been suspended and the FCC is considering its future course of action.

In cases involving more serious violations, the FCC may skip the issuance of a Notice of Violation and issue a Notice of Apparent Liability immediately. In fact, in many cases a field inspection will result in the immediate issuance of both kinds of notices, a Notice of Violation for minor infractions and a Notice of Apparent Liability for more serious violations. Field inspectors have now been granted delegated authority to assess a forfeiture on the spot when conducting an inspection.

In any event, if a Notice of Apparent Liability is issued, the licensee has 30 days to challenge either the amount of the fine or the FCC's findings of a violation. It can also pay the forfeiture, which ends the proceeding. If the Notice is appealed, the FCC then makes a final decision as to whether a forfeiture is necessary and, if so, the amount.

FCC Misconduct Reports The FCC requires licensees to report "relevant non-FCC misconduct."

Under this requirement, only adverse adjudications of relevant, non-FCC misconduct must be reported. Pending claims such as pending libel suits or employment discrimination complaints, which have not yet been adjudicated, do not have to be reported. Pending litigation is presumed by the FCC to be irrelevant to a broadcaster's character qualifications.

"Relevant non-FCC misconduct" is defined as including: (a) all felonies; (b) fraudulent representations to governmental units; (c) mass media-related violations of antitrust or other laws dealing with unfair competition; and (d) a pattern of adjudicated non-FCC related employment discrimination. Under this policy, an adverse adjudication of a libel claim would not have to be reported, but the same result in a discrimination case would. The libel suit does not fall into one of the above categories, but the employment discrimination case does. Thus, even a single adverse decision of discrimination must be reported, since it might indicate a possible pattern of conduct warranting FCC examination.

The Commission also interprets Section 1.65 of its rules to require report of adjudications of relevant non-FCC misconduct on an annual basis. The report should be filed on either the licensee's renewal application or, like ownership reports, on the anniversary of the date that the renewal application is required to be filed.

The FCC's policy on reportable misconduct also extends to non-licensee entities which share an officer, director or shareholder/partner with the broadcast licensee, if a principal of the licensee was in control of the other entity or was directly involved in its misconduct. The reporting policy also applies to non-FCC misconduct of a parent or subsidiary corporation if there are principals common to the licensee and the related company was involved in the misconduct. The policy extends only to misconduct of all persons with attributable interest in the relevant entity. It does not apply to employees.

CONTENT REGULATION

The FCC has adopted programming regulations which address policies affecting the selection of material that stations broadcast, especially political material. They also address the promotion of contests or events in which the station or its employees hold private commercial interests. Political broadcasting is exceedingly complex and should not be addressed without extensive explanation and considerable study, not available in the space allowed here. A detailed political broadcasting manual by this author and firm, Pepper and Corazzini, is available upon request at (202) 296-0600.

POLITICAL AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS PROGRAMMING

There are two basic groups of rules and policies in the area of political and public affairs programming. The first is the largest, and includes the FCC's regulations affecting political campaigns. These regulations include political advertising rules, regulations requiring that political candidates receive equal air time, laws mandating reasonable access for federal candidates, and regulations requiring every licensee to maintain a political file. The second group of rules concerns the FCC's regulation of commercial practices, including contests and promotions, disclosure of commercial interests, and obscene and indecent programming.

Campaign Programming

A broadcast licensee must provide reasonable access to certain legally qualified political candidates. When a legally qualified candidate makes use of the broadcast facility during a non-exempt program, then an opposing candidate is entitled to request equal opportunities. The four categories of exempt programs are: bona fide newscasts, bona fide news interviews, bona fide news documentaries, and on-the-spot coverage of bona fide news events. Independently produced bona fide news interview programs also qualify for the equal opportunities exemption. Thus, syndicated and bartered news interview programs qualify for exemption, provided that their carriage by the licensee is a reflection of "its bona fide news judgement and not for the political advantage of the candidate for public office." Certain uses may qualify for the station's Lowest Unit Charge. All uses must be free from censorship, and must bear proper sponsorship identification. Each request for use of the station's facilities, and the disposition of that use must be recorded in the station's political file.

RENEWAL EXPECTANCY

If a licensee's application for renewal of license is challenged by an applicant who files a competing application for the station, the Commission will consider a factor it calls "renewal expectancy". The licensee renewal expectancy is based upon the policy that broadcast consumers would be hurt if the Commission did not recognize an existing licensee's meritorious performance and that comparison to a challenger without such a history would lead to conceivably inferior service and a haphazard restructuring of the industry. In upholding the renewal expectancy, courts have reasoned that comparative renewal proceedings cannot function as a "competitive spur" to licensees if their dedication to the community is not rewarded. In a recent interpretation of this factor in a case involving KTTV(TV), Los Angeles, the FCC Review Board listed five criteria by which an incumbent licensee's performance would be judged to determine the degree of "renewal expectancy" which should be awarded.

- Criterion 1 The licensee's efforts to ascertain the needs, problems and interests of its community,
- Criterion 2 The licensee's programming responses to those ascertained needs,
- Criterion 3 The licensee's reputation in the community for servicing its needs, problems and interests,
- Criterion 4 The licensee's record of compliance with the Communications Act and FCC rules and policies, and
- Criterion 5 The presence or absence of any special effort at community outreach or toward providing a form for local self-expression.

FCC COMPLAINT AND ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURES

There are several types of special procedures and rules which require broadcaster attention with respect to FCC enforcement procedures. They include procedures for FCC field inspections, for public complaints and objections, for station forfeitures or fines, for rule making, for ex-parte contacts by members of the public with the FCC and for required misconduct reports.

Informal Complaints Anyone may file a complaint with the FCC concerning the operation of the station. If such complaints contain significant allegations, the FCC customarily forwards the complaint to the licensee for comment and explanation. Under this procedure, the licensee is given a specific amount of time to respond. The FCC then evaluates whether any action is necessary and issues a letter informing both the complainant and the licensee of its decision.

Formal Complaints The FCC also considers more formal complaints against the licensee. These complaints often take the form of a legal petition requesting that the FCC take specific action. Among the most common of these are petitions to deny an application pending before the FCC. Petitions may also be filed independently of the application process. Consequently, a licensee should be wary of such filings at all times.

Petitions often allege that the licensee has violated a federal law or policy. The FCC requires petitions to contain specific facts to support their allegations. Once a petition is filed, a licensee has a limited period of time to submit a response or "opposition" to the petition. This is important to remember since, unlike informal complaint procedures, the FCC does not inform a licensee when its opposition is due. Unless the licensee submits an opposition on its own initiative, it may be completely precluded from responding to the petition at all.

If a licensee submits an opposition to a petition, FCC procedures generally allow the party filing the petition to submit a reply to the opposition. Thereafter, no further pleadings are allowed. The FCC will then make a decision about whether further action is warranted. If it decides no action is necessary, it will either dismiss or deny the petition. If it believes further inquiry is required, it will usually designate the matter for a formal evidentiary hearing or initiate an investigation.

Field Inspections As a result of a complaint, a petition to deny, a licensee's failure to file some required information, or a random decision by FCC staff, a station can receive an unannounced field inspection by the agency. Such investigations or inspections may include anything from a review of the station's public inspection file to an evaluation of the performance of a station's transmitter. Such inspections are frequently held after a station has completed significant new construction, to determine whether it is operating as authorized.

Most inspections are simply a routine investigation by FCC staff to make sure a licensee is operating its station in conformance with FCC rules. Every licensee must eventually endure such an inspection, so they should not be viewed with alarm. Generally, an FCC field inspector has a right to inspect every aspect of a broadcast station's operation and can review all documents related to the operation. Remember, however, that FCC rules specify only certain documents must be made available to the field inspector.

While a member of the public has a right to see the station's public inspection file, only an FCC field inspector has a right to see anything more. Consequently, before providing documents or information not contained in the public inspection file, the licensee has a right to see positive identification indicating that the person requesting the information is an FCC official.

Forfeiture Proceedings If as a result of a field inspection or a complaint, a violation of FCC rules is found, the licensee involved may be subject to a forfeiture proceeding. A forfeiture is a monetary fine. A "forfeiture proceeding" determines how serious the violation is and how large a fine, if any, should be imposed. In a forfeiture proceeding, an official Notice of Violation (FCC Form 793) is mailed to the station. This notice indicates the particulars of the violation. The licensee has 10 days from the receipt of this notice to respond. Failure to respond may result in the FCC finding that a violation has occurred. After the licensee is given the chance to respond, the FCC considers how serious the violation is or whether one has occurred at all. If it decides further action is warranted, it can issue a Notice of Apparent Liability, which indicates what violations have been found and how much of a forfeiture is due.

FCC PROCEDURES

The Commission has outstanding a further notice of proposed rule making to explore a broadcast ownership "incubator" program designed to ease entry barriers and provide assistance to small businesses or individuals seeking to enter the radio field. The purpose of the program is to encourage broadcast groups to apply their knowledge and financial resources to help overcome entry barriers for others. Under the program, a group owner could acquire a controlling or attributable interest in stations above the national ownership limit upon a prior demonstration that it has in place "small business investment incentives program."

Local Ownership Rules

The local ownership rule consists of two tiers of market sizes defined strictly by contour overlap.

The first tier consists of markets with fewer than 15 stations. For these markets, the Commission permits a single entity to own up to three stations, no more than two of which may be in the same service, provided that the owners' stations represent less than 50% of the total number of stations in the market.

The other tier involves markets having 15 or more radio stations. In these larger markets, a single entity is permitted to own up to two AM and two FM stations, provided that the combined audience share of those stations will not exceed 25%. The 25% test applies at the time of acquisition, and divestiture is generally not required should the 25% threshold be exceeded at some point in the future. In addition, the stations generally may be transferred as a group at a later date even if the combined audience share at that time exceeds 25%.

To determine the tier under which an acquisition will be analyzed, the Commission defines a radio market as the area encompassed by the principal community contours of the overlapping stations proposing to have common ownership. The principal community contours are the predicted or measured 5 mV/m daytime contour for AM stations and the predicted 3.16 mV/m contours for FM stations. The number of stations in the market are determined by counting all commercial stations whose principal community contours overlap or intersect the principal community contours of the commonly-owned stations. Included in the count are all operating commercial full-power stations including daytimers and foreign stations, but excluding non-commercial stations, translators, construction permits which are not yet on the air, and stations which have been silent for more than six months.

Two Fine Points: First, where the overlap area of a proposed AM/AM station contours will also overlap a commonly-owned AM station (or where a proposed AM/AM combination will overlap a commonly-owned FM station), then the number of stations in the market will include all which overlap the contours of the three which will be commonly owned. Second, where there will be a chain of commonly-owned stations, the Commission will consider each overlap separately.

Joint Ventures and Simulcasting

A "time brokerage arrangement" for more than 15% of the brokered stations' broadcast hours per week is an attributable ownership interest. Further, stations in the same service whose overlap area constitutes more than 50% of either station's principal community contour may not simulcast for more than 25% of either stations' broadcast time.

The FCC defines time brokerage as the sale of discreet blocks of time to a party who both supplies the programming to fill that time and sells the commercial spot announcements in it. It has been suggested that time brokerage agreements may provide for liquidated damages upon termination, but that excessive liquidated damages or an unreasonably lengthy term could raise questions concerning a licensee's meaningful control over its station. By its "main studio rule", brokered stations are required to maintain the presence of at least one full-time managerial and one staff person at the brokered station's main studio during regular business hours. (See Following Section on Main Studio Staffing.)

All time brokerage agreements, sometimes also called Local Marketing Agreements (LMAs), must be reduced to writing and included in the public inspection files of both the brokering and brokered stations for the term of the contract, although confidential or proprietary information may be redacted. Time brokerage agreements which qualify as an attributable interest must both be filed with the FCC within 30 days of execution and be included by the brokering station in its annual ownership report. The FCC filing must include a certification that the arrangement complies with the Commission's ownership rules. Should a brokering station purchase the brokered station, the 25% audience share limit will be tested at the time of acquisition, not when the time brokerage agreement began.

MAIN STUDIO STAFFING

In 1991, the Commission held in Jones Eastern of the Outer Banks, Inc. that, where a station located its primary studio outside the 3.16 mV/m contour, it must nevertheless maintain a main studio within that contour staffed by two full-time employees, one of whom must be supervisory (or managerial).

The FCC considers positions that will constitute a "meaningful managerial presence" at the main studio to include: president or other corporate officer; general manager; station manager; program director; sales manager; chief engineer with managerial duties; news director; personnel manager; facilities manager; operations manager; production manager; promotion manager; research director; controller and chief accountant. It is job duties rather than titles that are considered.

The FCC does not require these management persons to be "chained to their desks" during all business hours. However, they must report to work at the main studio on a daily basis and spend a substantial amount of time there, using the main studio as a "home base."

Non-managerial main studio staff may take on responsibilities for another business outside the studio so long as the main studio is attended by some station employee during all normal business hours. Caution: While this is a possibility, such an arrangement should be reserved for situations where the parties agree to maintain EXTENSIVE records regarding the actual time and duties devoted to each employer by the employee.

He writes and speaks on topics of Federal Communications Commission administrative process, public mass media, and telecommunications. He may be reached at (202) 296-0600.

APPLICATIONS AND LICENSING PROCEDURES

The Communications Act of 1934 requires that a radio station be authorized by the FCC before it commences broadcasting. There are two methods to obtain such a license, both of which require submitting an application to the FCC. The first method is to apply for a construction permit to build a new station. Often, there is significant competition for the initial grant of such a permit, but once it has been issued and construction properly completed, the issuance of a license is usually automatic. The second method of obtaining a license is to purchase an existing station and seek authority from the FCC to assign the license to the purchaser. FCC authorization of the ownership change is required, and approval must be obtained before the purchase is consummated.

The Communications Act requires the FCC to observe certain procedures in these licensing activities. First, an application for authorization to build or buy a station must be filed. Then, the FCC must issue a public notice announcing the filing. The FCC cannot grant an application until 30 days have passed from the date this notice is published. The Act also requires that the party filing the application give public notice in the community where a station is proposed or, in the case of an existing station, where it is currently operating.

Before an application can be granted, the FCC must find that the grant will serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity. One of the matters it considers is formal petitions to deny, or informal objections challenging the grant of the application. These petitions and objections must be filed within the 30 day period following the FCC's public notice of the applications filing. If such petitions or objections are filed, the FCC must determine whether they raise a substantial and material question of fact of whether granting the application would serve the public interest. If such questions are raised, they must be resolved before an application can be granted.

If questions raised cannot be readily resolved, an evidentiary hearing, similar to a trial in a civil suit, is the procedure used to explore and finally resolve such questions. At such a hearing, evidence is collected and the burden is placed on the applicant to prove that the public interest would be served by grant of its application. If an applicant fails to produce sufficient evidence to meet this burden, its application will either be dismissed or denied.

In contrast, if no petitions or objections are filed, and the Commission finds no other problems, an application can be granted as soon as the 30-day public comment period has passed.

Similar procedures are also used when the FCC is asked to grant various other applications. Since a radio license is only granted for a limited seven year period, a licensee must apply for renewal of its license. Renewal applications, like initial licensing applications, are subject to public petitions and informal objections -- but for a period of several months rather than 30 days.

Another kind of application is one by which a licensee of an existing station seeks a construction permit to make a major change to its station. Among other things, the Commission considers the change in an AM station's community of license or frequency to be a major change. For AM stations, major changes can also include increases in power. For non-commercial FM stations, they include significant (over 50%) changes in the area covered by the station's signal. Whenever such a change is proposed, the same public notice procedures and 30-day public comment period required for initial applications must be observed.

Some applications are considered minor in nature and are therefore not subject to a 30 day public comment period before they can be granted. These include applications for insignificant modifications to existing facilities, primarily those that cannot affect the station's frequency or its community of license. Another example is pro-forma ownership changes, such as partnerships becoming corporations, or involuntary transfers of control in bankruptcy or situations involving the appointment of a receiver. Although an FCC public notice of the filing of such applications is still required, and informal objections from the public may still be filed, there is no required waiting period before these applications can be granted.

OWNERSHIP RULES

National Ownership Rules

The number of radio stations in which a single entity may have an attributable interest is 18 AM and 18 FM stations. In September, 1994, the limit will have increased to 20 AM and 20 FM stations.

An entity may also hold a non-controlling, attributable interest in an additional three stations per service if those stations are controlled by minorities or small businesses. The Commission has defined minority control as more than 50% ownership by one or more members of a minority group; minority groups include Blacks, Hispanic, American Indians, Alaskan Natives, Asians and Pacific Islanders. The Commission has defined a "small business" as an individual or business entity which, at the time of application to the Commission, had annual revenues of less than $500,000 and total assets of less than $1,000,000.
